"PROOFS" ROUSE IRE OF M'ADOO

Storms Over Sworn Evidence of Policeman Murtha that Gambling Flourishes in "Model Captain's" Precinct.

HIS FAITH IN HUSSEY IS STILL UNSHAKEN.

Will Not Accept Any Evidence or Visit the Precinct to See for Himself—Murtha Corroborated Evening World.

Police Commissioner McAdoo, sponsor for that model officer, Capt. Hussey, of the West Forty-seventh street station, was thrown into a state of mind this afternoon by having his attention called to the sworn testimony of Detective Murtha, of the West Forty-seventh street station, given to District-Attorney Jerome yesterday, that he knows of twenty gambling-houses now operating in the precinct.

Mr. McAdoo has persistently refused to heed any criticism of his "model officer," Hussey. The Evening World has repeatedly given him proofs that Hussey's precinct contains every manner of dive from the fashionable gambling-house to the cheap "creeper" joint, and has offered to personally conduct him to such places, if nothing else will convince him of their existence but he has persistently refused to accept the proofs.

To-day The Evening World again sent a reporter to see Mr. McAdoo, believing that as a policeman regularly attached to the precinct had admitted the entire truth of The Evening World's charges, the Commissioner might have taken steps to clean up the precinct, where a real tonic is needed.

McAdoo in Deep Gloom. Instead of finding Commissioner McAdoo satisfied at having had his eyes opened, the reporter found him buried in an awful gloom. It looked ominous, but the reporter asked the Commissioner if he had perchance seen the account of Murtha's testimony.

"I have seen it, and I have nothing to say," was the snappy reply. "Do you think Murtha is a good detective and an honest man, worthy of belief?" "I won't discuss Murtha," said the Commissioner.

"Has Capt. Hussey applied for a vacation?" "I don't know," snapped the Commissioner, "but he is entitled to one. He gave up his vacation to take up that precinct at my request. He didn't want the precinct, but he took it because I asked him to, as I wanted an honest, efficient man that I could trust to get it started the right way."

"Isn't it true that Dan McMahon wanted Hussey in that precinct?" "It is not," roared the Commissioner, banging the table before him six times with his clenched fist. "No living soul asked me to put Hussey there. I put him there myself, and I think he is an honest and capable officer. He undertook a grave responsibility, but he said he would do his best, and he has done his best."

"Will you accompany me to Capt. Hussey's precinct and allow me to show you dives that are operating?" "The desk shivered under the eight thumps which the Commissioner gave before he could make an answer. Then he said:

"Suppose I take you out and show you dives that have been running for twenty years and are still running." The Commissioner didn't make it clear just what he meant, and as his color was at the breaking point the matter was not pressed. The Commissioner said, however, he would not go out with the reporter, because he couldn't bother with newspaper men, who were trying to embarrass him.

"Will you go with me as a private citizen, or as a taxpayer?" asked the reporter. "I will not," said the Commissioner. "I will not go looking for these places with anybody, and what's more I will not abdicate as Police Commissioner for any one in New York. I will not allow myself to be placed in a position where secrets known only to the police are to be publicly discussed."

Hussey "O. K." Still Holds Good. "I want to tell you that Hussey is an honest man, a faithful man and has done his work well. He is hampered by no man, he is absolutely free and no man's hand can be put on him. He can go ahead and run his precinct his own way and he will not be interfered with."

RACE TRACK, BENNINGS, Nov. 18.

An ordinary card drew out a good-sized crowd of Washingtonians to the course this afternoon. The race for two-year-old fillies served as a feature, bringing together a fair field.

Brooklynite in Front. The first race was a victory for Jack McGinnis's Brooklynite, who got home a head in front of Briarthorpe in a driving finish. Panique was a head away. Eagle, the favorite, was far back.

Sufferance by a Head. Queen Rose led to the stretch in the second, followed by Bravery and Calmness. Sufferance then came through and won by a head from Queen Rose, who beat Bravery three lengths.

Elwood Only Third. Chas. Elwood, backed from 20 to 5 to 1, made the running to well into the stretch, where he tired. Coppella then overhauled by Andrew Mack, who got up in time to win by a head. Elwood was third.

Judges Off Again! Preen, Foxy and Little Woods raced in close order in the fourth to the stretch, when Gold Fleur closed and won by three-quarters of a length from Monocolor, who beat Preen a length. Judge McDowell placed Monocolor first and Gold Fleur second.

Ben Crockett by a Nose. Titmouse made the pace to the stretch and then stopped to nothing. One-eighth of a mile from home Nuit Blanche drew away from the field and looked an easy winner. Ben Crockett dropped from the clouds, however, and in a second from the old race, which was five lengths in front of Chierpe.

Jane Holly Wins Sixth. Jane Holly made all the running and won easily by a length from Nait Blanche, who was five lengths in front of Chierpe.
