

IT'S GREAT TO HAVE A LITTLE BLACK MAN.

BY T. E. POWERS.

A man's not phony just because he talks to himself about the bundle of dub ponies in the Brooklyn Handicap. He's talking to the black man, unfixed to the little black man, even if he does put you on to a 100 to 1 bet! If you have any troubles blame them on the little black man. One-half of the population of this little town have little black men. Do not be afraid to punish those who hold out inducements to emigrate.

Beggar Was Host.

John Pearson, son of the general manager of the Great Western, England's largest railway, came to America to attend the international railroad conference here to discuss the matter of the Milwaukee interests. On his way to this city he lost $500. He arrived here with 75 cents. "That is the best fairy tale I ever heard" was what he usually got from the Milwaukee business men to whom he told his story. "But here is $1," they would say, handing him a bill. "It got enough to enable his father," the "governor" sent him $1,000. Then these business men were astonished by receiving invitations to a banquet at the Hotel Phelan. They went and were very entertained. Capt. Pearson today thanked them and told his story. He left for England, promising to write to all who had helped him.

TWINS BORN ON THE TEUTONIC, BUT THEY DIE

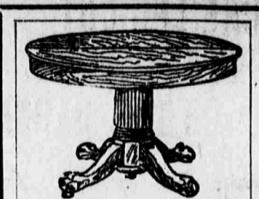

British Captain Boards Liner at Quarantine to Claim His Fiancee.

With a story of a tragedy and a romance on board, the White Star Liner Teutonic arrived in port today. The tragedy was the birth and death a few hours later of twins—a girl and a boy—to Mrs. Lillian Thiele, of Throg's Neck, Westchester County, a steamer passenger on the boat. The romance concerned a sturdy sea captain and a pretty British lass, who came over to meet and wed him. Fearing that the nuptial knot couldn't be tied in time for him to sail from New York to-day on his steamer, the British Prince, he went out to meet the Teutonic on the Revenue Cutter Calumet, and as soon as the liner had docked the happy couple raced away in a cab to find a pastor.

FEARS WIFE HAS MET FOUL PLAY

Husband Puzzled Over Mysterious Disappearance of Mrs. Annie Boylan and Three-Year-Old Child—Search Is Futile.

For two days the police have been trying to learn what strange fate has overtaken Mrs. Annie Boylan, of No. 408 East One Hundred and Eighteenth street, and her three-year-old daughter Loretta. The mother and child disappeared from their home Tuesday, and the search since made for them has been futile. Michael Boylan, the woman's husband, believes that she has met with foul play. "My only reason for thinking this," he said today, "is that my wife's absence has remained a mystery. She had no reason for deserting her home and her other children. We got along happily together and there was no quarrel or misunderstanding." Boylan is employed by the Mercury Van Co., in East One Hundred and Sixteenth street. When he left home Tuesday morning to go to his work his wife seemed in her usual good spirits. When he returned at night she was gone. A neighbor told him that she had been seen walking out of the house with little Loretta. Mrs. Boylan is twenty-nine years old and has dark hair and eyes. She has been seen in a black dress. She was 5 feet 3 inches in height and weighed 130 pounds.
