

WEATHER—Fair and colder to-night and Tuesday.

WEATHER—Fair and colder to-night and Tuesday.

FINAL RESULTS EDITION

PRICE ONE CENT.

NEW YORK, MONDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1905.

PRICE ONE CENT.

FOR MORE REVEALS AT JAMAICA

WOMAN BEATS BURGLAR WITH HIS "JIMMY."

Dashes Downstairs and Jumps on Thief, Who Howls for Mercy. CATCHES HIM AT WORK. Returns to Apartment to Find Thief Busy Looting in Her Bedroom.

The burglar who attempted to loot the apartment of Mrs. Rae Oppenheimer, on the third floor of No. 6 West One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street, this afternoon, was glad when a policeman released him from that young woman's grasp and the beating she was administering with his own Jimmy.

Mrs. Oppenheimer had been shopping and returned at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. She found the door of her flat open, and saw a man in her bedroom rifling bureau drawers.

He turned quickly and said nervously: "Don't be alarmed, madam; I am the gas man and am making some repairs. I am just moving this bureau to get at a pipe connection."

"I don't believe you," cried Mrs. Oppenheimer; "you are a thief." Thereupon she began to scream.

The burglar dashed out of the room and brushed her aside. He raced for the stairway, but before he had reached it the plucky woman was after him. Three steps at a time they went down.

They turned the corner and the thief was seen. He was making a dash for the street, but the woman was after him. She seized him by the collar and, seizing it, she beat him over the head until he yelled for mercy.

Janitor Humphrey came to assist and took a hand in the punishment of the thief until his wife summoned Policeman Cohen, of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station.

When the prisoner was reached at the station house, a quantity of jewelry and twenty pawn tickets were found on his person. He identified part of the tickets as hers.

He declined to give a name, but his name was taken to Police Headquarters.

After having cut his throat in front of No. 230 Broadway at 2 o'clock this morning, Frank J. Shiels, of No. 12 Kensington place, East Orange, N. J., died today in Hudson Street Hospital.

Shiels, who was a painter and who was a member of Local No. 24, walked up to Policeman Cahill, of the Elizabeth Street Station, who was in Broadway, near Chambers street, and began jabbering in an incoherent way.

Shiels was questioned closely by the police after being taken to the hospital. He refused to tell who he was or anything about himself. His identity was established by cards found in his pocket. One card showed that he formerly was employed at No. 23 East Tenth street.

Explosion on No. 4 of the British Navy Reported as Vessel Is Towed to Port.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A news agency reports that submarine No. 4, which has been engaged in diving operations off Spithead, is being towed into Portsmouth. It is rumored that an explosion of gasolene has occurred on board of her.

WIFE OF RICH MAN LEFT HER GUESTS TO KILL HERSELF

Mrs. Carrie Buehler, of Staten Island, Excuses Herself to Luncheon Party and Warns Maid Not to Disturb Her, Telling of Suicide Plan.

Mrs. Carrie Buehler, forty-five years old, wife of Julius F. Buehler, a wealthy merchant of this city, committed suicide today at her late home, No. 17 Stayessant place, St. George, S. I. Mrs. Buehler put a bullet through her brain within ten minutes of leaving a number of guests who arrived at her house to attend a reception Mrs. Buehler had planned for this evening.

The Buehlers have a handsome home at St. George and the family moves in the best circles on Staten Island. When Mr. Buehler left home this morning his wife was in the best of spirits. She had been planning tonight's entertainment for some time and the last thing she said after kissing her husband good-by was not to be late getting home this evening.

Several of Mrs. Buehler's guests arrived in the forenoon and at 1 o'clock they all sat down to lunch. Mrs. Buehler was as merry as any one, but immediately after luncheon got up and asked to be excused, as she had a great deal to do. Out in the hall she called her maid, Lucy, and said to her: "I am going upstairs to kill myself. Lucy, please don't let anybody come up until I am all over."

The maid gave little heed to the threat of her mistress, but a moment later met Mrs. Buehler's daughter Mabel in the hall and told her what her mother had said. Mabel laughed heartily at the idea and was still laughing when the sound of a pistol shot was heard upstairs.

The servants ran to Mrs. Buehler's room and found the door locked. They sent out for help and the door was smashed in. Mrs. Buehler was found dead on the bed, fully dressed, a 32 caliber pistol in her hand and a bullet hole in the side of her head. The bullet had gone clean through, emerging on the left side.

Neither Mr. Buehler, who was hastily summoned home, an elder daughter, Clara, who lives at Port Richmond, nor any of the friends or relatives of the family could give any explanation of Mrs. Buehler's act.

Princess Philip declined to avail himself of the royal privilege of a special tribunal, as provided for under the law of his own family.

The President of the Court, in the absence of the Prince, inquired of his attorneys if he desired to make any motion respecting the publicity of the proceedings. They replied that the Prince had no objection to the proceedings being public.

The attorneys of the Princess, who also appeared, declined to request privacy.

The President said that both parties being Catholics, a divorce was not admissible, but a separation from bed and board and a settlement of their financial relations were requested.

The Princess' bill of complaint, besides alleging the Prince's misconduct with the Austrian lieutenant, Kogevitch Matzagan, with whom she eloped, says that although the Princess received 120,000 crown pin money yearly, she had contracted debts which in 1903 amounted to 3,724,059 crowns, of which the Prince had paid 1,060,000.

In her wardrobe were found seventy-five pairs of silk shoes, 130 pairs of other shoes, sixty parasols and about 100 hats.

Just as the one thousand or more pupils of Public School No. 17, in West Forty-seventh street were about to be dismissed for the noon recess today a big mongrel dog, snapping and frothing at the mouth, ran up in front of the school building and began to bark and growl menacingly.

The teachers were afraid to let the pupils out, and the pupils were equally afraid to go, as the dog seemed to be mad. The janitor of the school ran to the West Forty-seventh street police station, only a few doors away, and notified the sergeant in charge. The sergeant sent Patrolman O'Connor and O'Houlihan to drive the dog away.

When they arrived at the school, the animal, still snapping and frothing, ran toward Eighth avenue, the policeman in pursuit. On Eighth avenue, being north on the avenue, O'Connor tried to shoot the animal, but was afraid on account of the people who thronged the street, and the last seen of the dog he was trying to beat the record for long distance running.

PRINCESS LOUISE, OF SAXE-COBURG.

EVENING WORLD RACING CHART AT JAMAICA.

First Day—Oct. 16, 1905. Track Fast.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

Table with columns: Index, Starters, Wts., Sts., Mts., Fin., Jockeys, Open, High, Close, Pl., Bk.

TWO FAVORITES TALENT'S SHARE AT JAMAICA

Just So, Backed by Drake, Second Choice to Win on First Day.

DELMORE AT GOOD PRICE. 20 to 1 Shot Catches Tiring Benevolent in Time to Win by Head.

WINNERS AT JAMAICA.

FIRST RACE—Disobedient (3 to 2) 1, Father Catchem (4 to 1 for place) 2, Jacobite 3.

SECOND RACE—Just So (2 to 1) 1, Oaraman (3 to 5 for place) 2, Athlone 3.

THIRD RACE—Rusk (6 to 1) 1, Consideration (10 to 1 for place) 2, Handarra 3.

FOURTH RACE—Eugenia (6 to 1) 1, Springi (4 to 1) 2, Santa Catalina 3.

FIFTH RACE—Delmare (20 to 1) 1, Benevolent (8 to 5) 2, Aviator 3.

SIXTH RACE—Lindale (11 to 20) 1, Nom de Plume (out for place) 2, Salt and Pepper 3.

BY FRANK W. THORP.

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, Oct. 16.—Jamaica began a fifteen-day meeting this afternoon, opening with a most attractive programme and weather of the most delightful sort.

The stake feature today was the Pierpont Handicap, at a mile and a furlong, which brought out a splendidly matched field of high-class horses.

Disobedient Still Winning. Father Catchem raced to the front at the start and made the running followed by Jacobite and Disobedient.

Rusk Led All the Way. Rusk went to the front soon after the start of the mile, made all the running and won in a drive by a length from Consideration.

Spring Had Speed To-Day. Spring, who could not raise a gallop in the first race, showed his speed in the fourth today and made the running with Rusk King and Coy Maid close behind.

Disobedient Tired. Benevolent went to the front at the start of the fifth and made the running, followed by Delmare, Athlone and Disobedient.

Non-de Plume Easy Winner. Non-de Plume made the running to the far turn, where Lindale went to the front and won cleverly by two lengths.

THE ZEELAND COMES TO PORT. The steamer Zealand, from Antwerp, and Dover for New York, was in communication with the Signal-Office (Mass) wireless station at 2:15 o'clock this morning.

M'ADOO REMOVES EGGERS AS CHIEF OF VICE RAIDERS

Head of the Vice Squad Feels the Weight of the Commissioner's Displeasure—Patrolman Costigan Promoted to the Place by Rapid Steps.

Police Commissioner McAdoe chopped off the head of Acting Captain William Eggers, chief of his vice squad, this afternoon.

The turning down of Eggers came as a complete surprise, even to the wise men, who profess to know all of the ins and outs of No. 300 Mulberry street. It comes, it seems, from a chance remark let drop when McAdoe was on his long vacation last summer.

When McAdoe was away his vice squad, and especially his chief and pet, Eggers, was expected to be unusually active. Either Eggers got tired during the "dog days" or else his men and he failed to find horses and places where raids were in order.

It is said to-day that a lot of politicians got busy during the absence of the Chief, and that these same politicians got busy with Eggers. They told him how he was making a mistake in making raids that would bring down political wrath on his head, and Eggers got thoughtful, so the story goes.

At any rate McAdoe was told by some faithful servant when he had recovered health and spirits after his long rest that Eggers had said in an unguarded moment:

"Well, anyhow, I will continue to be a sergeant of police and Mr. McAdoe might not always be a Commissioner of Police."

After this remark it was noted that there was less activity on the part of the Vice Squad. Eggers was not a household word in the home of vice, and the men under him grew fat and lazy.

The Commissioner to-day called the vice squad before him. He looked them over, and he liked Costigan's appearance.

Costigan was made a detective-sergeant without any more delay than it takes to sign the name of the Commissioner. Then he was made an acting captain and Eggers—the man who will always be sergeant, no matter what will become of McAdoe—became a white elephant on the hands of the Commissioner.

When Eggers will be sent is now interesting to the police from the Battery to the furthest end of the Bronx and from North River way down to Rockaway. Eggers will, so it is believed, be holding down the latter far from Mulberry street by to-morrow morning.

After making the change McAdoe talked about the change.

"This vice squad is the most powerful engine against vice," he said. "Men in this squad are subject to temptations of the worst sort. Once let a man in this squad get under suspicion and his usefulness is gone. It is no place for weak men. The weak men must be weeded out and the strongest men must be left. I think I can do this."

Then the Commissioner began his talks with the members of his vice squad. He talked to each and every one of them in private. After those talks the men stalked down the Commissioner's office and reported to their new chief, Acting Captain Costigan.

THREE KILLED BY TRAIN WRECKERS. BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Oct. 15.—A northbound train on the Southern Pacific Railway was wrecked at this yard entrance at Fresno to-day.

PRINCESS WHO ELOPED NOW IN DIVORCE COURT

Big Debts and Wonderful Wardrobe of Louise Told in Husband's Complaint.

POINTS AGAINST PRINCESS. She owed 3,724,059 crowns.

Had luxurious wardrobe in which were: 195 pairs of shoes, 100 hats, 60 parasols.

GOTHA, Duchy of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Oct. 15.—The suit brought by Prince Philip, of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, for a separation from his wife, the Princess Louise, and an adjustment of their joint property interests began here to-day before the usual court for the trial of divorce cases.

The President of the Court, in the absence of the Prince, inquired of his attorneys if he desired to make any motion respecting the publicity of the proceedings.

The Princess' bill of complaint, besides alleging the Prince's misconduct with the Austrian lieutenant, Kogevitch Matzagan, with whom she eloped, says that although the Princess received 120,000 crown pin money yearly, she had contracted debts which in 1903 amounted to 3,724,059 crowns, of which the Prince had paid 1,060,000.

In her wardrobe were found seventy-five pairs of silk shoes, 130 pairs of other shoes, sixty parasols and about 100 hats.

Just as the one thousand or more pupils of Public School No. 17, in West Forty-seventh street were about to be dismissed for the noon recess today a big mongrel dog, snapping and frothing at the mouth, ran up in front of the school building and began to bark and growl menacingly.

The teachers were afraid to let the pupils out, and the pupils were equally afraid to go, as the dog seemed to be mad. The janitor of the school ran to the West Forty-seventh street police station, only a few doors away, and notified the sergeant in charge.

When they arrived at the school, the animal, still snapping and frothing, ran toward Eighth avenue, the policeman in pursuit. On Eighth avenue, being north on the avenue, O'Connor tried to shoot the animal, but was afraid on account of the people who thronged the street, and the last seen of the dog he was trying to beat the record for long distance running.

PRINCESS WHO ELOPED NOW IN DIVORCE COURT

Big Debts and Wonderful Wardrobe of Louise Told in Husband's Complaint.

POINTS AGAINST PRINCESS. She owed 3,724,059 crowns.

Had luxurious wardrobe in which were: 195 pairs of shoes, 100 hats, 60 parasols.

GOTHA, Duchy of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Oct. 15.—The suit brought by Prince Philip, of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, for a separation from his wife, the Princess Louise, and an adjustment of their joint property interests began here to-day before the usual court for the trial of divorce cases.

The President of the Court, in the absence of the Prince, inquired of his attorneys if he desired to make any motion respecting the publicity of the proceedings.

The Princess' bill of complaint, besides alleging the Prince's misconduct with the Austrian lieutenant, Kogevitch Matzagan, with whom she eloped, says that although the Princess received 120,000 crown pin money yearly, she had contracted debts which in 1903 amounted to 3,724,059 crowns, of which the Prince had paid 1,060,000.

In her wardrobe were found seventy-five pairs of silk shoes, 130 pairs of other shoes, sixty parasols and about 100 hats.

Just as the one thousand or more pupils of Public School No. 17, in West Forty-seventh street were about to be dismissed for the noon recess today a big mongrel dog, snapping and frothing at the mouth, ran up in front of the school building and began to bark and growl menacingly.

The teachers were afraid to let the pupils out, and the pupils were equally afraid to go, as the dog seemed to be mad. The janitor of the school ran to the West Forty-seventh street police station, only a few doors away, and notified the sergeant in charge.

When they arrived at the school, the animal, still snapping and frothing, ran toward Eighth avenue, the policeman in pursuit. On Eighth avenue, being north on the avenue, O'Connor tried to shoot the animal, but was afraid on account of the people who thronged the street, and the last seen of the dog he was trying to beat the record for long distance running.

QUICK ACTION FOR ALLEGED NEW POOLROOM

Opened at Noon, Raided with Axe and Ladder Four Hours Later.

A "social club" that Capt. Hodgins alleges was a pool-room, opened for business at noon to-day on the second floor of No. 12 Madison street and got quick action. It was raided at 4 o'clock, and large quantities of entry shoes, betting slips and other pool-room appointments were seized.

Chris England, of No. 143 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, and John Murphy, of No. 127 Madison street, were arrested as the proprietors and held by Magistrate Adams at Centre Street Police Court, in $500 bail for examination to-morrow.

Spot Hodgins has not been able to spot a pool-room in his precinct for a long time, and he says he accumulated rust in the station-house when he heard of the new place to-day. With twelve of his precinct men and two from the staff of Inspector Hogan he planned a raid.

The alleged pool-room is at the corner of New Bowery. Capt. Hodgins and his men arrived simultaneously from many directions and attacked the front floor with axes, while Inspector Hogan's men went at the rear windows with scaling ladders.

There were 20 men in the place when the first alarm was given, but not one escaped without giving his name and address.

Quick Promotion for Costigan. Costigan was made a detective-sergeant without any more delay than it takes to sign the name of the Commissioner. Then he was made an acting captain and Eggers—the man who will always be sergeant, no matter what will become of McAdoe—became a white elephant on the hands of the Commissioner.

When Eggers will be sent is now interesting to the police from the Battery to the furthest end of the Bronx and from North River way down to Rockaway. Eggers will, so it is believed, be holding down the latter far from Mulberry street by to-morrow morning.

After making the change McAdoe talked about the change.

"This vice squad is the most powerful engine against vice," he said. "Men in this squad are subject to temptations of the worst sort. Once let a man in this squad get under suspicion and his usefulness is gone. It is no place for weak men. The weak men must be weeded out and the strongest men must be left. I think I can do this."

QUICK ACTION FOR ALLEGED NEW POOLROOM

Opened at Noon, Raided with Axe and Ladder Four Hours Later.

A "social club" that Capt. Hodgins alleges was a pool-room, opened for business at noon to-day on the second floor of No. 12 Madison street and got quick action. It was raided at 4 o'clock, and large quantities of entry shoes, betting slips and other pool-room appointments were seized.

Chris England, of No. 143 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, and John Murphy, of No. 127 Madison street, were arrested as the proprietors and held by Magistrate Adams at Centre Street Police Court, in $500 bail for examination to-morrow.

Spot Hodgins has not been able to spot a pool-room in his precinct for a long time, and he says he accumulated rust in the station-house when he heard of the new place to-day. With twelve of his precinct men and two from the staff of Inspector Hogan he planned a raid.

The alleged pool-room is at the corner of New Bowery. Capt. Hodgins and his men arrived simultaneously from many directions and attacked the front floor with axes, while Inspector Hogan's men went at the rear windows with scaling ladders.

There were 20 men in the place when the first alarm was given, but not one escaped without giving his name and address.

Quick Promotion for Costigan. Costigan was made a detective-sergeant without any more delay than it takes to sign the name of the Commissioner. Then he was made an acting captain and Eggers—the man who will always be sergeant, no matter what will become of McAdoe—became a white elephant on the hands of the Commissioner.

When Eggers will be sent is now interesting to the police from the Battery to the furthest end of the Bronx and from North River way down to Rockaway. Eggers will, so it is believed, be holding down the latter far from Mulberry street by to-morrow morning.

After making the change McAdoe talked about the change.

"This vice squad is the most powerful engine against vice," he said. "Men in this squad are subject to temptations of the worst sort. Once let a man in this squad get under suspicion and his usefulness is gone. It is no place for weak men. The weak men must be weeded out and the strongest men must be left. I think I can do this."

WEATHER FORECAST. Forecast for the thirty-six hours ending at 8 P. M. Tuesday for New York City and vicinity: Fair and colder to-night and Tuesday; fresh westerly winds.

FIVE INJURED BY A BLAST. Five laborers were injured late this afternoon by a blast at one hundred and twenty-second street and Amsterdam avenue while excavating for a new building. None of them will die.

ANCHOR LINER COLUMBIA SAFE. Steamer Reports at Glasgow After Being Delayed One Day by a Mishap or Storm. GLASGOW, Oct. 15.—The Anchor Liner Columbia arrived at Lin's Head at 3 p. m. to-day. She was due yesterday and has a full cabin.