

MISS ALICE ROOSEVELT.

(Photographed To-Day by Curtis, of The Evening World Staff.)

WEATHER FORECAST.

Forecast for the thirty-six hours ending at 8 P. M. Tuesday, for New York City and vicinity.

HERE TO FINISH UP BRIDAL SHOPPING.

(Continued from First Page.)

host of feminine critics that fussed about the train shed and hovered in the neighborhood of the Congressman and his betrothed.

A slender reticule of baby blue leather carried by Miss Alice also attracted some attention, for it was the same color as the blanket and ribbons with which her microscopic pet Toodles was swathed.

There was the usual complement of newspaper men on the ferry-boat, and to them Mr. Longworth addressed himself at the direction of Miss Roosevelt.

"Miss Roosevelt has come to New York to sleep for two or three days. While in town she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould at their home, No. 22 East Seventy-second street. There will be a dinner party to-night which we shall attend. I am only setting as Miss Roosevelt's escort to New York. The chief purpose of my stay here will be to meet my sister, the Countess de Chamburn, who will arrive to-morrow from Europe. I will escort her back to Washington to-morrow night.

Arriving at Twenty-third street, the young people seemed much upset at not finding any of the Godels or other friends. They waited only a few minutes, however, before jumping into an electric hansom and driving to Sherry's, where they had intended to meet Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and have luncheon.

When their hansom arrived at Broadway and Twenty-fifth street a mounted policeman halted the driver and ordered him to obey the traffic regulations by driving up to Twenty-sixth street before approaching Fifth avenue.

A further disappointment awaited the young people at Sherry's, for none of their friends was there. Congressman Longworth spent a busy fifteen minutes on the telephone before he finally located Mrs. Vanderbilt. When she arrived vain efforts were still making to locate Mrs. Robert Gould and her husband. Finally the party drove to the St. Regis, where they had luncheon.

Miss Roosevelt dismissed her maid at the ferry terminal on Twenty-third street, kissing her "midnight nut," as she calls Toodles, affectionately. The tiny, hairy pup was one of her fiancé's engagement presents. He was purchased by Mr. Longworth in Japan after he had successfully pleaded his case. As long as the breath remains in his small body, he will serve as a souvenir of the hour of betrothal.

Longworth's Oriental Compliment. There were some of the floweriness of the Orient in Miss Alice Longworth's modest apology at a Philadelphia banquet for the fame that has been thrust upon her name by her engagement to the President's daughter.

"She is the shining sun," he said, with a serene smile that was also of the East, "and I only reflect her radiance." Then, seemingly inspired by that romantic symbolism that had played so important a part in his wooing and winning of the President's daughter, he spoke of the sun shining down the blue and purple hills of Nippon, the land of the twilight and dark violet arborescences that are the Japanese moonlight and its singular faculty of ennobling hearts.

"The moonlight and the chrysanthemum did it," said Gen. Grosvener, "Old Fingers" as his cronies know him—who was one of the party on the East-ern junket, "could see it coming as we journeyed along, but progress seemed slow until we got to the land of changing moonlight, long tasseled chrysanthemums and laughing babies."

"Then my wife whispered to me with all the solemnity of her feminine wisdom that it was a love match. Surely it was a love match. It took only the Japanese atmosphere to tell Longworth that he had a noble character."

"He is an all-fired lucky fellow, and I told him so, for Alice is a girl of noble character and splendid impulses. Her courtesy is untiring and I can wish nothing better for any bride than that she be as fine an example of true womanhood as Miss Roosevelt."

"If you have any more trying circumstances, and she has always borne herself nobly. While she is an object of great interest in this country, you can scarcely conceive of her position while abroad, especially among the aristocracy. Her family is of an old and distinguished name."

Miss Alice Roosevelt and Congressman Longworth will be the guests this evening at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. The dinner will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, and Miss Alice will be accompanied by her fiancé, who has been invited, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould.

ENGINEERS DISMISSED BY PRESIDENT COLER.

Holds Them Responsible for Alleged Faulty Work Done by Contractors at Bensonhurst.

After an investigation of the condition of the Bensonhurst sewer, completed last April by Contractor Cary, Borough President Coler, of Brooklyn, this afternoon dismissed Assistant Engineer George W. Martin and Inspector John J. Martin on charges of having accepted work which they should have known to be faulty.

TO SPEND MILLIONS ON WATER SUPPLY

Lively Fight Against Proposal that $5,640,000 Is Needed at Once.

There were a few unpleasant surprises spread on the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen this afternoon when it met to hear arguments for and against the plan to spend $5,640,000 to improve the water-supply system of Greater New York.

The crowd which hangs around the corridors of the City Hall were still at work trying to discover just what Mr. Murphy meant when the Aldermanic Committee went into session. The crowd is still guessing.

The chairman announced that it was proposed to appropriate the $5,640,000 in this manner: Two million one hundred

CHASED LITTLE GIRL, AND BOYS STONED HIM.

Prisoner, Battered in Fight with Policeman, Is Sent Up for Six Months in Morrisania.

Daniel Nadel, a swarthy and unprosperous-looking Italian, who gave his address as One Hundred and Eighty-fourth street and Bagin's Avenue, Bronx, was held in 609 cell to keep the peace for six months in the Morrisania Prison to-day by the District Attorney.

Little Eva Bruscaro, who lives at One Hundred and Eighty-fifth street and Washington Avenue, was standing at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Park Avenue yesterday afternoon when an Italian named her by the name of the Italian.

The girl became frightened and ran. The man followed her for several blocks until she met two of her schoolmates, Willie Collins and Richard Wilson. When they heard the story they gathered around and began to jeer the man as the Italian.

BEEF PACKERS WIN POINT AS TRIAL BEGINS

Witness Allowed to Answer as to Agreement with Garfield.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—All efforts by the attorneys in the packers' case to reach an agreement upon the facts of some having failed, the case was returned to-day and the taking of evidence was commenced.

The first witness was Louis C. Krauthoff, of New York, formerly general counsel for Armour & Co. He was placed on the stand to narrate his interview with Commissioner of Corporations Garfield at the Chicago Club April 12, 1907, when the packers alleged, Mr. Garfield said certain things, the import of which was that if he secured the information for which he asked the packers should never be prosecuted criminally.

Mr. Remondin was asked by John E. Miller, attorney for Armour & Co., if he had advised his clients with respect to their attitude during the investigation called for by the Martin resolution passed by Congress, and under which the Commissioner of Corporations commenced his inquiry into the packing industry.

JOHN DOE NET IS SPREAD FOR TOWN TOPICS

Colliers to Press Criminal Prosecutions Against Mann Et Al.

Robert Collier, speaking to-day of the prosecution that was to grow out of the recent trial of Norman Haggood, editor of Collier's Weekly, for criminal libel, made this significant statement to a reporter for The Evening World:

"The acquittal of Mr. Haggood was simply the first chapter of a very thick book which we hope to add to the criminal records of this county. Mr. Collier's statements followed two important moves to punish persons connected with Town Topics, 'Feds and Fancies' and the other publications in which Justice Joseph H. Deuel, of the Court of Special Sessions, was associated with Col. William C. Mann, Mann, twelve blank subpoenas for use in John Doe proceedings were secured by James Osborne, counsel for Mr. Collier, to be used in fresh prosecutions, which may or may not have a bearing upon the arrest of Col. Mann for alleged perjury.

Second, a conference was held by Mr. Osborne, Mr. Robert Collier and Assistant District Attorney Hart at the Criminal Courts building with two hand-writing experts. These experts were invited to examine the letters 'O. H. W. D. M.' which appeared on the now famous Reginald Ward letter, and which form the basis of the perjury charge against Mann.

SAYS LOVE COOLED AS WEALTH GREW.

Margaret O'Connor Asks for $100 a Month Alimony Based on Common Law Marriage.

Margaret O'Connor, once in distress, claims only a common law marriage in an action for a separation and an allowance of $100 a month from Joseph P. O'Connor, part owner of "The New Minister," which she says cost an income of $6,000 a year for him.

She says she was married to O'Connor's common-law wife for thirteen years. He is believed to be two years ago, leaving with a promise to send her $100 a month. She says she was married to him for his early days, keeping a big electrical boarding-house and earning the money to start him in business, only to be turned aside when her party came his way. M. J. Walsh will ask Justice Hendon for alimony and criminal fees for Mrs. O'Connor in a sum of $6,000 a year for him.

O'Connor denies that Margaret was ever his wife, and got permission to-day to file an answer to her complaint.

DR. BELL'S TOOTH POWDER

THE SELECTION OF A DENTIFRICE should be made with great care. Many tooth powders are advertised as being on the market for twenty or thirty years. The science of manufacturing tooth powders has undergone many changes, and to-day we know just what causes tooth decay.

Dr. Bell's Tooth Powder is made with a full knowledge of the causes and prevention of decay. It is not only a tooth powder, but a cleanser and whitener of the teeth. It destroys germs. Why not use it every day? Try it before you buy. For sale by druggists generally, or sent upon receipt of price, in sealed packages. AMERICAN DENTIFRICE CO., Dept. E, 49 Park Place, New York.

"LOOK FIRST TO THE EYES." Dr. Gould says: "Absorption of the morbid symptoms to general disease will not end in cure if they are due to neglected eye-strain." Eyes examined by Oculists who are Registered Physicians of experience. Glasses Only if needed—often as low as one dollar—always of moderate price.

FOUR DAYS IN AN OPEN BOAT

Two Men Without Food or Water, One Crazy by Suffering.

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—The last two men who were lost last by the sinking of the Quannapowitt, on the Great Banks, early last week, were brought here to-day, both being in a critical condition from experiences more terrible than any recently reported from the fishing grounds.

The men were Charles Matheson, of the city, and Charles Hemen, of Shelburne, N. S., and they were brought in by the fishing schooner Flora S. Nicholson, which had picked them up last Saturday.

They had been adrift in their dory for four days without food or drink. When the Nicholson came up with the dory Hemen was lying in the bottom of the boat, apparently dead, and Matheson was so nearly in a state of unconsciousness that he could not speak.

SAVED FROM CHOKING, DIED OF HEMORRHAGES.

George Fisher Just Escaped One Form of Death to Meet Another.

After being saved to-day from death by choking on a piece of steak lodged in his throat, George Fisher, of No. 41 East Fourth street, died of internal hemorrhages following the removal of the meat.

Fisher, who was a bronze fisher, met his friend, Fred Hayes, who invited him to his home, No. 22 East Fifth street, to dinner. While lunching at a table Fisher commenced choking violently. All efforts to dislodge the steak failed. Fisher was taken to the hospital, where Dr. Lawrence, the surgeon in charge, the steak, but four minutes later Fisher died of the hemorrhages that followed.

CITY PARK ENTRIES.

Table listing various horse races and entries at City Park, including names of horses and jockeys.

CANDY

Specials and pure candy. Assorted fruits and nuts. Special for Tuesday. Boxes of candy. Chocolate cream. Peppermint.

Immense Fur Sacrifice

The unprecedented weather of this season has sent prices tumbling. We must move our stock at all hazards. Prices a profitable investment event.

Suede Fur Co.

Furriers exclusively for 25 years. 42 WEST 34TH ST., Between E-way and Fifth Av.

DIAMONDS

WEAR DIAMONDS AND Look Prosperous. You can have them on CREDIT. From us, you can buy your diamonds on credit.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE. WANTED—Private "Gals" for "Gals" in "Gals" position. WANTED—Washing Machine. WANTED—Laundry.