

ARBITRATION OFFERS TO AVERT COAL STRIKE

Operators Submit Plan and Miners' Leaders Will Accept.

MAY BE SOME CHANGES.

Differences Left to Arbitration Board of 1902 and Roosevelt to Fill Any Vacancies.

The anthracite coal strike has probably been averted. As expected, the operators have submitted to the arbitration board...

According to the terms submitted by the operators the field of examination is quite restricted, but the miners will probably make counter proposals...

Second—As to the adjustment of complaints through the Conciliation Board or otherwise.

In addition the operators demand that any new award made by the commission shall be binding for three years.

Full Committee to Act.

The United Mine Workers' Committee of Seven will submit the proposition to the full Shamokin Scale Committee...

The operators emphatically refuse to agree to the Mitchell plan of submitting all questions at issue to the Board of Conciliation.

Reject Mitchell's Offer.

"For the reason stated," the operators continue, "the proposition is not to be taken into consideration."

Then follows the proposition of the operators. Attached to the proposition is a copy of a report to the committee from a convention of independent anthracite operators held in Philadelphia...

Talk of "Anarchy."

"The independent operators, most of whom are residents of Pennsylvania, have that they are not prepared to accept the United Mine Workers' plan...

"If this is a late sample of a republican form of government, we will pray for a revolution."

In this cheerful state of mind the independent operators proved complacent that the bit of miners are now warlike men...

Make Consumer Pay.

The independent operators want an agreement binding for five years and that if the award shall add to the cost of the coal, the increased cost shall be borne by the consumer...

It is stated that the operators had received a letter from the miners' leaders...

The Board of Arbitration, which was organized in 1902, is composed of representatives of the operators and the miners...

TEWKSBURY IN TOMBS WAITING FOR A BODYSMAN

Former Millionaire and Bucket-Shop King Is Held in $7,500 Bail.

HE GAVE HIMSELF UP.

Came Here from Philadelphia and Surrendered to the District-Attorney.

The picture of Lewis G. Tewksbury, a few years ago the possessor of millions, and the bucket-shop king of New York, was placed in the Rotunda Gallery today.

Mrs. Grantham, then a widow married Tewksbury in 1892. Six months after the marriage, she charges, he secured from her $115,000 in bonds, the last remnant of a fortune her first husband had left her.

The grand smash in which Tewksbury failed for millions, according to his palace in West Seventy-second street and his stable of sensational horses, followed.

When Inspector McLaughlin's deathly grip was laid upon the grand old Tewksbury, he was led into the squad room. The order of being looked over by the detectives did not appear to disturb him.

When Inspector McLaughlin's deathly grip was laid upon the grand old Tewksbury, he was led into the squad room.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

At the Criminal Courts building, Tewksbury was joined by his counsel, William R. Weeks and G. Gordon Opperheimer.

TWO VIEWS OF TEWKSBURY, THE FORMER MILLIONAIRE.

As Tewksbury, who is accused by his former wife of grand larceny, posed while these pictures were being taken to-day by an Evening World staff photographer, he said: "How is this? If this does not suit you I will pose for some other pictures."

FREE SEA BATHS SECURED AT LAST FOR CITY'S POOR

Measure Advocated by The Evening World Is Passed by Assembly.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10.—Senator Saxe's bill to establish a seaside park for the convalescent poor of the City of New York, as proposed by The Evening World, was passed by the Assembly today.

The bill provides for a stretch of beach outside the city. Play grounds, bathing pavilions, hospitals and structures necessary for recreation purposes are to be provided.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

The bill provides that the Park Board shall have the management and control of the park.

Whenever the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall have appropriated a sufficient sum for the erection of hospitals the section of the park devoted to that purpose shall be taken out of the control of the Park Department.

200 KILLED IN NAPLES AFTER VESUVIUS HORROR

(Continued from First Page.)

Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

The Duke of Aosta hurried at once to the market place and directed and encouraged the rescuers.

The courtyard of Mount Oliveto market place covers 60 square feet and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and sellers.

RIDING MASTER'S WIFE SLAPPED WOMAN'S FACE

Husband Had Lost Position Because of Mrs. Taylor's Complaint.

PROVIDENCE

TEAM IS EASY FOR THE GIANTS.

Mrs. Evelyn Taylor, a fair-haired young woman, of great beauty, living in the fashionable Chester Hill section of Mount Vernon, appeared in the West Side Court today as complainant against Mrs. Augusta French, wife of a former riding instructor at Durland's Academy, in Sixty-sixth street.

Some time ago Mrs. Taylor purchased a horse for $300 on the advice of Mr. French. She refused to give him any commission on the purchase, and there was a quarrel. Mrs. Taylor refused to ride with French and he lost his job.

While walking through Sixty-sixth street toward Columbus avenue today Mrs. Taylor encountered Mrs. French, who slapped her face and scratched her. Both women were paving each other. When Policeman White interceded, Magistrate Barlow placed Mrs. French under $500 bonds not to slap Mrs. Taylor again.

Mr. Gould was present when court opened at 10 o'clock, and remained until he was called to the stand at 2:30 this afternoon. He was neatly dressed in a blue serge suit and pearl gray Alpine hat, with a large red and black striped bow tie. He appeared restless while waiting, but was perfectly at ease during his half hour's testimony.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it. A year later a man in Baltimore wrote more in detail of the chance, and Mr. Gould referred him to E. T. Jeffrey, president of the Ito Grande. Mr. Jeffrey's report led Mr. Gould to again refuse to loan.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland. One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

GOULD CALLED AS WITNESS IN $1,000,000 SUIT

Swears He Never Heard of Mengis in Western Maryland Deal.

PROVIDENCE

TEAM IS EASY FOR THE GIANTS.

George J. Gould appeared as a witness late this afternoon in the $1,000,000 suit of Morris Mengis, the Sheepshead Bay race-track promoter, against Gen. Louis Fitzgerald before Justice Sutherland in Part II. of the Supreme Court, of Brooklyn. Mr. Gould was called by the defense, for whom he was a member. The witness, denying that he ever heard of Mengis.

Mengis seeks $1,000,000 from Gen. Fitzgerald on the ground that he furnished to him information that resulted in the purchase, at a bargain, of the Western Maryland. Mr. Gould was a syndicate of which Mr. Gould was a member. The Western Maryland is a part of the Gould Washburn system, forming a seaboard outlet. It is the value of this that is set forth by the plaintiff as making his information worth the money.

Mr. Gould was present when court opened at 10 o'clock, and remained until he was called to the stand at 2:30 this afternoon. He was neatly dressed in a blue serge suit and pearl gray Alpine hat, with a large red and black striped bow tie. He appeared restless while waiting, but was perfectly at ease during his half hour's testimony.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

Mr. Gould said he never heard of Baker's agreement with Pierce, but a percentage was to be paid him for information. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

Prof. Shaler Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., APRIL 10.—Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, the eminent geologist and dean of the Lawrence Scientific School, died this afternoon from pneumonia.

Mr. Gould said he was approached in 1901 by Edward Lasterbach, who wanted to know if he would like to get a seaboard outlet for the Washburn tie-spike of the Western Maryland, but Mr. Gould would not consider it.

At least six months later, Mr. Gould testified Winslow Pierce a friend, came to him in trouble. Pierce said he was a member of the Edward L. Fuller syndicate, pooling $200,000 to buy the Western Maryland.

One of the syndicate members, B. C. Baker, had dropped out, and this made the assessment on the others a burden. Mr. Gould agreed to help Pierce, but when the hearing and the B. C. Baker began to spread stories as to his part in the deal, he decided to take the Western Maryland over for the Washburn.

"New York's Finest Cash and Credit Store."

Clothes of Quality ON CREDIT.

Great Easter Sale of Women's Suits, Gowns, Coats, Waists, Skirts and Millinery.

$5.00

Paul Misch, "Corset Dress for Men and Women," 17 West 34th Street.

Opposite Waldorf-Astoria. Bet. 34th and 35th Sts. Elevator.

PAUL MISCH, "Corset Dress for Men and Women,"

17 West 34th Street.

Opposite Waldorf-Astoria. Bet. 34th and 35th Sts. Elevator.

All good dealers sell Armour's Extract of Beef

There are a few who will offer you "Just as good, without the label." But, remember, there isn't any.

Armour's—no any "just as good"—without the Armour label.

Sold