

CONFESSION OF NEGRO A WEAPON AGAINST HARTJE

District-Attorney Has It Ready at Conspiracy Charge Hearing.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 14.—There was a throng present this afternoon when Augustus Hartje, the millionaire libelist in the Hartje divorce case, John L. Welshons, his former and Clifford Hoop, the negro coachman, were arraigned before Alderman Festus M. King on the charge of conspiracy to defame Mrs. Hartje.

It is probable the divorce case will not be resumed Monday as the forty famous letters are still in the custody of Mr. Hartje's counsel, and Attorney Freeman, counsel for Mrs. Hartje, says she was not ready to proceed with the trial at that time unless he gets the letters.

HANNAH ELIAS, BY LAWYER, DENIES IT.

Does Not Own Houses from Which Whites Were Evicted—Not Forming Negro Colony.

Andrew P. Murray, of No. 312 Broadway, attorney for Hannah Elias, denies that his client is the owner of the houses in West One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, from which white tenants have been evicted to make way for negroes.

Dear Sir: On Monday, July 9, an article was published in the Evening World to the effect that Hannah Elias had purchased the two apartment houses, Nos. 108 and 110 West One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, that she had evicted the white tenants therefrom and substituted colored families.

The article further stated that Philip A. Paton, a colored real-estate dealer, is the agent of Hannah Elias in this matter, and that she will make a colored colony in the vicinity of One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street.

"Hannah Elias does not own the real estate mentioned, and never has. His name never been and is not now interested, directly or indirectly, in said property. She does not know Mr. Paton and he is not and never was her agent.

SAVAGE BOARS MAKE A FERCE ATTACK ON OWNER

Former Assemblyman Chanler Fights Them Till Help Comes.

(Special to The Evening World.) FOUJIKERPSIE, July 14.—After a desperate fight with a half dozen white boars with huge tusks former Assemblyman Robert W. Chanler was today rescued by laborers at "Rokoby," the Chanler estate, by J. Lewis Daly, who manages the Chanler baseball team.

BOURKE COCKRAN TO MARRY MISS IDE

Young Woman Is the Daughter of the Governor of the Philippines.

MANILA, July 14.—Announcement was made here today of an engagement to marry between Miss Annie Ide, daughter of Gov. Gen. Henry Clay Ide, and Congressman Bourke Cockran, of New York. The wedding will occur in Washington next fall.

Although the engagement has been more or less an open secret among Miss Ide's intimates for some time past, she preferred to have the official announcement come from the Executive Mansion in Manila, and would neither confirm nor deny the rumor.

The marriage of Miss Ide and Mr. Cockran will mark the fourth matrimonial romance resulting from the voyage of Secretary Taft's party to the Philippines, the most notable of which was Miss Roosevelt's marriage to Congressman Longworth.

Miss Ide is said to be a remarkably beautiful and accomplished young woman. Her father is a native of Vermont. In 1891 he became United States Consul in Long Island recuperating from a severe illness that attacked him at the close of the Congressional session.

Mr. Cockran has been a widower for many years. He is now at his country house on Long Island recuperating from a severe illness that attacked him at the close of the Congressional session.

ROOSEVELT WILL RUN, SAYS J. SHARP WILLIAMS

Minority Leader Declares President Is Shaping Matters, but Loeb Says No.

John Sharp Williams, the minority leader of the House, and Congressman T. E. Burton, called today on the American line steamship St. Paul. They go abroad to attend the Inter-Parliamentary Congress in London July 27.

Mr. Williams, before sailing, gave it as his opinion that President Roosevelt would consent to run again. "I rather think that President Roosevelt will be forced to run again," said Mr. Williams in response to a question.

"I think the President is planning it so that he will be forced to make the running. He rather reminds me of the old lady who said, 'I don't care about asking the gentlemen whether they were going to be the ass-kiss, as she went to be there.'"

Mr. Williams was told, it was reported, that he had refused to serve on the Bryan Reception Committee. He became indignant.

"I never refused to go on the Reception Committee," he said. Then he added: "Bryan is the logical candidate of the Democratic party. The minority leader did not say whether he intended to meet Mr. Bryan on the other side."

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 14.—When the interview of John Sharp Williams was shown to Mr. Loeb, Secretary of the President, to-day, Mr. Loeb said: "The President meant exactly what he said on the night of his election, that he would not be a candidate again for the office. That statement is irrevocable."

States Work to Date. Garvan has secured the statements of forty-three witnesses, eleven of them women and girls, the rest men. In addition he has personally examined a great number of persons, who, it was found, knew nothing of interest to the prosecution.

In a number of instances Mr. Garvan has gone to hotels or private houses to interview persons whom he did not care to bring to his rooms in the Criminal Court Building. He said others were taken to Mr. Garvan's home and interviewed there. In this way the names of many witnesses have been kept out of print altogether, and save to a very few persons their connection with the case is not known at all.

Evelyn Nesbit and Roso Marston When They Were Artists' Models.

ROSO MARSTON. EVELYN NESBIT.

ELDER MRS. THAW CANNOT SEE SON TILL MONDAY

unless she gets the much-coveted pass. Thaw is said to have set his heart upon seeing his mother at the earliest possible moment.

An illustration of the strictness with which Warden Flynn is enforcing the regulations as they affect his high young prisoner occurred today. In the forenoon Evelyn Nesbit Thaw telephoned to Warden Flynn asking if she might bring her actress friend, May McKenzic, with her when she came down town on her daily visit to her husband. The Warden told her that he would have to refuse Miss McKenzic admission unless she brought a properly signed pass along. Nevertheless, the McKenzic woman was sitting by Mrs. Thaw's side in the familiar electric brougham when it drove up to the Tombs.

Miss McKenzic pointed in the reception room, while Mrs. Thaw went up stairs alone. She sat there for nearly an hour until Mrs. Thaw came down, and then they drove away together.

They returned in an hour. Again Miss McKenzic was sitting by Mrs. Thaw's side in the electric brougham, which was driven by a new driver, a woman, named Mrs. Thaw. She pointed in the reception room, while Mrs. Thaw went up stairs alone. She sat there for nearly an hour until Mrs. Thaw came down, and then they drove away together.

Mr. Williams was told, it was reported, that he had refused to serve on the Bryan Reception Committee. He became indignant.

Beat Girl with Whip. The suit of Ethel Thomas against Thaw, which was settled out of court, was charged that on one occasion he struck her in a room and with a whip whirled her until her clothes hung about her. It had previously been charged that once at the Hotel Cecil in London Thaw tied a bellboy to a bedpost and lashed him almost to death with a whip. It is not believed, however, that the defense will set up Thaw's alleged mania for whipping others as a part of the insanity plea.

In any event, the future of the tenacious Thaw depends very much upon the counsel given to the lawyers who will defend him by his mother, who is due to reach New York late this afternoon on the steamer from Europe.

Mr. Garvan's representatives of the common types of the Tenderloin-walkers, chorus girls, cabaret drivers, concertina, private detectives and legitimate hangers-on, in order to trace the steps of certain episodes he went in person to Striber's and to a number of other places where he had sold stacks of waste and clean-out employes through the city.

TRAIN DOESN'T HURT BABY ON A TRESTLE

Kills Its Father and One Sister and Injures Mother and Three Other Children.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 14.—After a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train had buried its father and one sister to death from a trestle near here last night and fearfully injured the mother and three other children, a nine-month-old baby of Elijah Norris, of Uniontown, Pa., was found between the ties unhurt.

Norris, his wife and five children had been visiting at Jacksonburg, near here, and were on their way home. While walking on a Baltimore and Ohio trestle they were run down by a train about half way across. Norris and one little girl, five years old, were almost instantly killed. Mrs. Norris was carrying the baby when she saw that she could not reach the end of the trestle in time to escape the train, which placed the child between two ties and the next instant was thrown to the ground below by the engine. Every member of the family except the baby was either killed or injured. The mother and three of the children were brought to the hospital here. It is believed they will recover.

PRETTY HOTEL MAID BRIDE OF CHARLES ENGEL.

Mrs. Charles Engel.

There is a new maid stationed to take meals at the dining room of the Hotel Manhattan. Her predecessor took a queer, heart-broken name. The plump, golden-haired, brown-eyed little maid has gone to officiate over a handsome home in Conestoga, Mich., as the bride of Charles Engel, brother of Marie Engel, the opera singer.

T. P. O'CONNOR WINS FIGHT FOR MUSICAL COPYRIGHT. LONDON, July 14.—The British Government has consented to father T. P. O'Connor's musical copyright bill, which insures its passage. It is believed that the enactment of the measure will end the extensive and long-established piracy of music, and insure the protection of foreign composers. American composers and publishers are concerned in the measure because of recent years much American music has been stolen and republished here. The agitation for Parliamentary action lasted eight years and heretofore failed.

FAIR HOTEL MAID TOOK HIS HEART ALONG WITH HAT

Romance at the Manhattan Ends with Charles Engel as a Bridegroom.

There is a new maid stationed to take meals at the dining room of the Hotel Manhattan. Her predecessor took a queer, heart-broken name. The plump, golden-haired, brown-eyed little maid has gone to officiate over a handsome home in Conestoga, Mich., as the bride of Charles Engel, brother of Marie Engel, the opera singer.

Three times a day for two years Engel passed into the dining-room of the Manhattan, relinquishing his hat and gloves to the pretty maid at the door. Nobody else knew when he began noticing that she was more than ordinarily pretty and demure. Nobody ever saw him openly pay any undue attention to her. After Engel had been handling his hat for some time he noticed that she and she acknowledged it with a smile.

She was Bridget Johnson, who came to this country two years ago with her sister Clara from Sweden. Just eighteen and pretty as a picture, the little blonde maid in public continued to be but the servant to wait on Mr. Engel as he passed long after they had plighted their troth and while he was lavishing gifts upon her.

And while the date of the wedding approached Miss Johnson still stood at the door of the Manhattan dining-room and took the hats and gloves of the guest, Mr. Engel, and so one about the place was the rumor. Mr. Engel had said he wanted secrecy maintained until they had started West on their honeymoon, and then it could be public property. So the maid with grave courtesy waited on her affianced husband with never a flutter of betraying emotion.

They were married by Rev. Dr. Lubeck in the Protestant Episcopal Church, 112 West 11th street, on June 1. The day before the ceremony the dining-room of the hotel was a scene of confusion. Mrs. Engel would have to leave as she was going to be married. After the congratulations had been offered she was asked whom the happy man was and the announcement of her betrothal was in the air. They learned that their guest, Mr. Engel, was the bridegroom.

Miss Clara Johnson, a friend of Mr. Engel who acted as best man, and in the evening of the Manhattan were the sole attendants at the wedding. The church filled with the happy throng of the valley. Hyacinths and violets immediately after the wedding were received congratulatory notes by cable from his sister.

Miss Clara Johnson, sister of Mr. Engel, who had been in the hotel for some time, was the first to tell the news. She had been told to-day that she soon would visit the bride in Michigan. She said Mr. Engel had been in the hotel for some time, and she had demanded a large share of his time, but that he would continue to make few visits to the hotel, as he was in the year, as he is interested in stocks. Miss Johnson said that the bride would return to New York in the fall.

FELL INTO MORTAR BED MAY LOSE EYESIGHT.

Covered by Fiery Mixture While Working on Roof of Sherry's and Nearly Smothers to Death.

William McKay, a mortar mixer, employed by the Greaves Contracting Company, which is making repairs at Sherry's restaurant, fell head foremost into a mortar bed on the roof of the building to-day and was all but smothered to death before fellow workmen rescued him.

McKay had filled a bucket of mortar and was walking away with it when he slipped. His head was beneath the mortar before he could make an outcry and it was several seconds before other workmen came along and saw his predicament. His head was encased with the fiery mixture when he was pulled out by Foreman Henry Mitchell. An ambulance surgeon from Flower Hospital did the best he could to clean the mortar out of McKay's features and then took him to the hospital for treatment for his eyes. It is not unlikely that McKay may lose his eyesight. He was hurried to the Polytechnic in an effort to save his eye at last.
