TRADE WITH DEMOCRATS' HIGHLANDERS LOSE IN IS STILL HEARST'S HOPE FINAL GAME AT HOME

Political Managers Trying to So Shape Action of Convention To-Night as to Satisfy Radicals and Also Pave Way for Dicker.

HEARST HIMSELF MAY HAVE TO SETTLE TROUBLE.

Latest Plan Seems to Be to Name Candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General and Leave Rest of the Ticket Open.

William Randolph Hearst's convention at Carnegie Hall to-night bids fair to line up to a combination of riot and boiler explosion. Despite the bowl of the 1,611 delegates for a straight ticket, the Hearst managers want to fuse with the Democrats.

These managers are comparatively inexperienced in handling big political situations and to say that they have been perceiving blood all day is not an exaggeration. They realize that unless William Randolph Hearst gets the Democratic endorsement at Buffalo week after next or is strong enough there to split the convention and the Democratic party, his chances of success are mighty slim.

The situation confronting Mr. Hearst and his managers is not calling for delicate treatment. Mr. Hearst has in his possession a communication signed by seventy-five delegates to the Democratic convention, asking the Independent League Convention to postpone action on nominations until after the meeting at Buffalo. If, as Mr. Hearst believes, Charles F. Murphy can swing the primary with his assistance and control the Tammany delegation the chances of his endorsement by the Democratic Convention will be bright.

All day long the Hearst managers conferred and did missionary work. It is a pretty safe bet that the managers will win out to-night over the radical element that wants to nominate a full ticket. Many of the men from up-State who howled loudest last night for an independent campaign have seen a great light.

Max Ihmsen, Mr. Hearst's direct manager, and Clarence Shears, his lawyer, were discreet and circumspect in discussing the situation to-day. Mr. Shears gave it as his individual opinion that to take the position of absolutely refusing to fuse with the Democrats would be the height of foolishness. He said that if the Democratic convention is free from corruption control he is in favor of having Mr. Hearst make a fight for the Democratic nomination.

Hearst May Take a Hand. It is quite probable that Mr. Hearst himself will essay to swing the convention to-night. None of his close advisers feels equal to the task. Some sort of a coup has been framed up and the session will certainly be better than the weather.

It is believed that the scheme is to nominate Hearst for Governor, a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor—probably Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler—and a candidate for Attorney-General—probably John Ford, of this city. Then, if the radicals can be overcome, the convention will have the question of fusion or the completion of a full ticket to a committee.

They plan will not suit the up-State radicals at all. Mr. Hearst lives in this city. Mr. Chanler lives here, too, although he says he lives in Dutchess County, and Mr. Ford lives here. A ticket composed of Hearst, Chanler and Ford would be distinctly a New York ticket.

Quite a number of the delegates left for their homes to-day. Others—and among them the loudest howlers for a straight Independent ticket—have been tenderly taken care of since they got out of bed by employees of Mr. Hearst, who have been instructed to see that they don't miss anything. But many of them are going to stay the convention.

2,000 GIRLS IN PANIC CAUSED BY LIGHTNING

Bolt Shatters Flagpole on 'Sixteen-Story But-terick Building.

WILD RUSH TO ESCAPE.

Frightened Young Women Restrained by the Foremen and Superintendents.

At the height of the black thunder storm that swept over New York today lightning struck the sixty-six-foot flagpole on the top of the sixteen-story Butterick Building, at Mardougal and Spring streets, with a report like the discharge of a cannon. The 2,000 girls employed in the immense plant went into a wild panic, and it was all the while do to restrain them.

The top floor is given over to the art and engraving departments of the Butterick publishing concern, and many women are employed there. They made a dash for the elevators and stairways. The same line of action was pursued by the girls on the lower floor.

Foremen and superintendents of departments arose to the emergency and succeeded in allaying the panic. Many of the girls were hysterical and wanted to run out in the rain. They were restrained because it was feared that if a few of the employees were allowed to go home the whole plant would have to be shut down.

The great pole was splintered from top to bottom and smashed into pieces ranging in size from that of a railroad tie to a toothpick. Thousands picked up the pieces of timber from the street and carried them away for souvenirs.

Bolt Strikes in Brooklyn.

Precisely similar to the Butterick accident was one in Brooklyn at the same time. A bolt of lightning struck the flagpole on the roof of the five-story shirt factory of Brown & Newman, at No. 125 Thirteenth street, knocking two of the employees and utterly disorganizing the working force.

A flagpole fifty feet high, reached from the roof of the fifth story of the building, where it was anchored, up through the roof. Lightning struck the top of the flagpole and ran down the staff to its base.

There were seventy-five women and twenty-five men loafing about their machines when the lightning entered the building in the shape of a ball of blue fire. It struck the top of the flagpole, and a foreman, a forewoman, and a dozen girls fainted from fright. Neither Yellin nor Miss Whalen was badly injured.

Sewers Were Flooded.

The tremendous downpour of rain flooded the sewers in the business district of Brooklyn and caused a great deal of damage. The water backing up from the sewers overflowed in the Court-house and almost put the machinery of justice out of commission.

Curb Business Tied Up.

For the first time in years, the curb brokers in Broad street were forced to quit business by untoward weather conditions. The downpour was so severe that all but three of them were driven to cover. Tommy Watkins, George Winchell and Frank Shole stuck the shower out.

ROOSEVELT RUSHES WARSHIPS TO CUBA; MARINES ARE READY

Wireless Flash Catches Denver at Sea and Hurries Her Off, While Des Moines and Marietta Are Dispatched to Act with Her.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—President Roosevelt's policy of preparedness for an emergency in Cuba, so far as the immediate operation of war vessels is concerned, was announced at the State Department to-day.

It includes the arrival at Havana to-night of the protected cruiser Denver and the gunboat Marietta at Cienfuegos some time to-morrow. The cruiser Des Moines will remain at Key West until further orders.

In making public these facts Acting Secretary of State Bacon said that there was no disposition on the part of this Government to make a demonstration in Cuban waters, but that the insurance had attained such proportions it had become necessary to take steps for the protection of American interests in Cuba.

The department believes that for the present the Denver will be sufficient for all needs along the northern coast of Cuba and the Marietta for the southern coast.

In this connection there was an important incident concerning the orders to the Denver. After the maneuvering in Long Island Sound the Denver proceeded to New London, Conn., for coal, sailing on Saturday for Norfolk, Va. In the mean time conditions in Cuba seemed to demand that a war vessel immediately proceed to Havana, and the Denver was the only one available.

Under orders from Oyster Bay she was reached at sea by a wireless cipher despatch and, changing her course, headed directly for Norfolk, Va. Nothing was made public concerning this order until to-day.

In spite of the sudden activity of this Government it is declared that there is no intention to take any part in the conflict beyond that demanded by the critical situation in which Americans have been placed in the island. That the President has considered the ultimate possibility of intervention or at least the use of force in safeguarding the interests of this Government there can be no doubt.

This is shown by the fact that the

BY FRANK W. THORP.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK.

Sept. 12.—Nealon won the September stakes, making his third stake win within a week. He was second choice in the betting, being 4 to 1. Running Water was a bit favorite, but Miller fouled the race away trying to beat Tangle.

Over on the far turn Tangle closed on Running Water and Miller promptly carried him wide. This left Nealon slip up on the rail into the lead and set an advantage which Running Water could never overcome. Tangle stopped entirely in the final quarter.

Kentucky Beau won the Waldorf Stakes. This horse has been racing poorly of late, but nevertheless he was plucked on to win this stake. McCarter, the opening favorite, steadily receded in the setting, and the war ones went to committee as the proper horse. Conville could not raise a gallop, and McCarter was not much better; so all Kentucky Beau had to do was to breeze home in front all the way.

Two-year-olds ran first and second in the opening dash. Frank Lord was favorite, but They're Off ran with him to the stretch, and after roughing him a bit came away victor. Mintia was third.

The Belle Stakes was an open affair, with Kenneyetto the public choice, while the club-house was down on Cirre Russell for chunks. These two ran head and head all the way, Kenneyetto bearing out all the way and interfering with Cirre Russell. The former won by a scant length. Cirre Russell was half a dozen lengths in front of Glamor.

AMERICAN LEAGUE PARK NEW YORK, SEPT. 12.—The New York Americans wound up their 1906 season at home to-day by suffering defeat at the hands of Boston before a rainy day crowd of 5,600. The score was 4 to 2. All was well until two Boston men were out in the ninth inning. Then the worm turned and with the bases full Freeman smashed a three-bagger down the left field line, scoring three men and taking the game from the struggling leaders.

At midnight the Highlanders leave on their long trip which takes in every city in the American League circuit. They will return to New York October 8.
