General, Host After Minstrel Show, Falls with Paralysis.

CHENECTADY, April 11.—Gen. Eugene Griffin, First Vice-President and manager of the sales department of the General Electric Company, died early today at his apartments in the Mohawk Club without recovering consciousness from a stroke of apoplexy, with which he was stricken shortly before midnight.

Mr. Griffin, his wife and daughter came up from New York yesterday to attend an amateur minstrel show given here last evening by prominent men at the local works of the General Electric Company. Mr. Griffin's son took a prominent part, and following the performance the General gave an informal dinner at the Mohawk Club to the performers. While at the table he suddenly collapsed.

Gen. Griffin organized and commanded the First Regiment, United States Volunteer Engineers, during the Spanish-American war, and was with Gen. Miles in the Puerto Rican campaign. He has been First Vice-President and sales manager of the General Electric Company from its organization.
