

THIEF HAD GUNS, BUT HIS BAD AIM FOILED A MURDER

Desperate Fugitive Turned on Mob and Fired During Wild Chase.

WOMAN VICTIM PLUCKY.

Jewelry Clerk Held One of Pair Who Dashed Off with Diamonds.

Two desperate robbers who were captured after a long chase were held in the Police Court at Paterson, N. J., today for the action of the Grand Jury. The feeling against them is very bitter and a large crowd was present when they were arraigned. Chief of Police Rimson, fearing an attempt at violence, had an extra force about the court. That one of the robbers is not charged with murder is due to his poor marksmanship. He shot at one of a posse that pursued him near evening, but the bullet went wide. The prisoner asked if the man had been shot, and when told he had not said: "I—ghad of that."

Was Walking Arsenal. The prisoners gave their names as John Bartlett, homeless, but recently of the Bowery, and Clarence Brown, of Newark. When searched Bartlett was found to be a "walking arsenal." Two wicked looking pistols were in a double holster about his waist. There was also a cartridge belt with 100 cartridges. In his pocket were 100 more cartridges. He also carried a murderous looking dirk.

Brown had a 4-calibre revolver and a number of cartridges. The revolver was over a foot long. The pair entered the jewelry store of Leon Friedman, on Market street. Miss Marian Drew, the saleswoman, was alone in the front part of the store at the time. The men asked to see some diamond rings, and she showed them some on a tray. They questioned her for awhile, and each picked up a ring and started to leave. Bartlett got out, and Brown was about to follow, when Miss Drew grabbed him. He whipped out his revolver and threatened to shoot the young woman if she made any outcry, but she still clung to him, crying for help.

Plucky Woman Followed. Brown shook her off and ran from the store, after dropping the ring on the floor. Miss Drew followed him into the street and seeing Bartlett disappearing shouted: "Stop that man." Immediately a chase began. Bartlett was followed half a dozen blocks and the crowd was gaining on him when he drew one of his revolvers, wheeled about and fired, falling to hit a pursuer. He was finally knocked down, and the crowd jumped on him and were pummeling and kicking him when a policeman took him. Still clasped in his hand was the stolen ring. Brown ran into the French Hotel by the rear door, yelling "Hide me! Hide me!" They're after me. Don't let them take me." Not knowing who was chasing him, an attendant told him to go to the attic. Policeman Bastie got him out in a hurry at the point of a revolver.

ANOTHER NAVY MISHAP.

Big Hole Torn in the Blakeley by the Destroyer Whipple.

NORFOLK, Va., June 14.—The torpedo-boat Blakeley was rammed by the destroyer Whipple at the Norfolk Navy Yard yesterday and put out of commission. The Blakeley is now in dry dock with a hole in her side big enough for a man to walk in. The boats had just arrived at the yard with the flotilla to which they are attached and were maneuvering to enter the dry dock for thorough repairs when the collision occurred. Just how it happened no one knows, but it will say and a board of inquiry is likely to be called. The Whipple's sharp stem sliced its way far into the Blakeley's midship. The latter was prevented from sinking by the instant closing of her water tight compartments.

VILATTE IS COMING HERE.

PARIS, June 14.—"Archbishop" Vilatte, who has gained considerable notoriety here of late by schismatic work, including the opening of the short-lived New Catholic Apostolic French Church, has intimated to the press that he was going to the United States.

YOUNG BURGLARS BATTER VICTIMS TO ROB LAUNDRY

Two Chinese Sent to Hospital and One Has Fractured Skull.

When William Morris and William Brown were to-day lined up at Headquarters a few hours after a masked attack on a Chinese laundry, the detectives discovered on Morris a picture button of himself and a girl. Although the young fellow had been recognized as a desperate crook out on bail for a similar offense, he refused to give the name of the woman, saying, with a little pride: "She's me girl, but I won't tell you who she is."

After Manly for Her.

It is supposed that it was to get money with which to shine before this young girl that this strippling, with his pal, broke into the laundry of Wong Wah, No. 46 West Forty-fourth street, this morning at platoon-relieving time. But for the fact that Thomas Conroy is a brand-new cop and hadn't learned the game of working up toward the station-house before his relief arrived, he would not have arrived in time to see the two young thugs beating Wong Wah and his partner, Tom Sing. Wong Wah, asleep in the rear of his laundry, was awakened by the crashing in of the door leading into the place. In the dim light he saw two masked figures, and jumping out of bed made towards them only to fall senseless under a blow from a blackjack.

Chinese Had Crowbar.

Behind Wong Wah came Tim Sing, who had armed himself with a crowbar. But before he could raise a hand the second of the two men had swung round, and he, to tell under a shower of blows from blackjacks. The burglars emptied the till of $25, gathered some silk garments and a watch and chain, and ran out, only to meet Policeman Harsberg, who sprang upon Morris, while Brown, turning, found himself in the grasp of Patrolman Conroy, who had approached from Tenth avenue. Then for ten minutes burglars and police struggled, according to the latter, until at last Morris and Brown, limp and exhausted, surrendered, still wearing their masks the pair were led to the station, and there was astonishment, as their masks being removed, their youth was revealed. In their pockets were found two blackjacks, two sectional blinies, two loaded revolvers, two daggers, a dark center and a bunch of skeleton keys. Morris is eighteen and Brown seventeen years old. Brown said he lived at No. 46 West Twenty-second street, while Morris gave No. 33 West Twenty-sixth.

POLICE-LAWYER 'CHANGE BROKEN UP BY WHITMAN

Corridor Rendezvous Ceases to Flourish in Yorkville Court "Pen."

The lawyers and plain-clothes men whom we have seen in the habit of holding socials, not wholly without a material side, in the corridor leading to the prisoners' pens in the Yorkville Court, received a rude jolt in the region of the wallet to-day, when Magistrate Whitman ordered Lieut. Bingham, in charge of the court squad, to get them out and get them out quickly.

The corridor of the Yorkville Court has long been a gathering place for plain-clothes men and policemen, who thought they had gathered in a good thing for their lawyer friends, and several Magistrates have tried to break up the custom, but until Magistrate Whitman's peremptory order to-day, none had succeeded.

Whitman was going on briskly in the corridor at the court's morning session, when the judge looked up with a frown. "What's all that noise in the corridor?" he demanded. "Just officers talking," explained Lieut. Bingham. "There seems to be a scarcity of lawyers to-day," commented the Court. "Go in there and see if you can find any."

Lieut. Bingham's visit to the corridor resulted in scolding up a covey of lawyers and policemen. "Now, lieutenant, I have cautioned you about this before. Don't let it occur again. That corridor is for officers only and, anyway, it doesn't look well to see counselors consorting with the police. Don't let it occur again." "Aw, what's de business comin' to," waddy commented the Yorkville Bar Association, in convention assembled at the old Five-Mile House.

The buying of a serge suit is largely a lottery, unless you know the maker. All serges look good—but few of them stand the test of wear. Vogel Brothers, as the makers of these serge suits, stand behind every one of them, guaranteeing them in the broadest sense—not to fade, not to cooie, not to wear shabby. The price—$16.50—is marvellously low, for these suits are $20 value in every respect. Single and double-breasted sack models are shown—conservative and ultra—each one embodying the very newest style points. A great value at $16.50.

You may count on getting a suit at this price that knows no equal under $22. They are garments that will appeal to all men, for in fit, grace and style they know no superior. The shape y shoulder, the long graceful lapel, the various new cuff trimmings and other striking features place them on a level with the higher priced custom-made garments. Worsteds of the purest texture are used in the making, those elegant light gray mottled effects that are ideal for summer suits. A rare value at $18.

Men's Suits of Dark, Medium and Light Gray Worsteds, Special, $20

The distinctive style touches that mark a Vogel Brothers suit different from the usual ready-made kind, and the superb tailoring that assures the permanent retaining of the shape, make these suits at $20 by far the greatest value of the season. We doubt if you can duplicate them at $25 outside of our establishment. Various mod. is are shown—suits of a conservative nature or extreme in style, embracing every size. A $25 suit at $20.

Men's Suits of Tropical Weight Worsteds & Elegant Blue Serges, $25

These suits attain a standard that is far above the level of the usual in ready-made apparel. In truth, there are but few custom tailors that can equal them, and then at about double our price. They have been made with an eye for comfort—being reduced to the lightest possible weight. The coats are 1/2, 3/4 or 1 1/2 lined, with serge, mohair or alpaca linings. You will find more satisfaction in these suits than you ever found in a $25 suit before.
