

ICEMEN'S STRIKE CALLED OFF BY UNION LEADERS

Men Were Deserting in Such Numbers That There Was Nothing Else to Do.

The strike of the American Ice Company's drivers and helpers in the district below Thirty-fourth street has been called off by the strikers themselves.

The leaders called a meeting at noon today at their headquarters at No. 116 East Twenty-eighth street, and voted unanimously to recommend the termination of the strike. They were confronted by the fact that few of their men were willing to stand out and many were deserting.

The men were informed that all could return to work at the old terms, and President Oler, of the ice company, said that he would hear any grievances that the men might have if they came to him as individuals and not as representing a union.

Officials of the American Ice Company announced early that the strike of several hundred drivers in the district below Thirty-fourth street had been broken and that practically all of the wagon routes were being covered. They said that there was no longer any danger of a shortage of the ice supply at any point in Manhattan, but admitted that the situation in Brooklyn was more serious.

All of the wagons from the East Ninth street depot, the most important of the company's distributing points in the lower part of Manhattan, are on their routes as usual. The old drivers and their helpers are in their places, they having deserted the strikers' ranks because they thought there was "too much walking delegate."

At the Franklin street depot, also, all of the old men reported for work early in the day, and the trouble there is apparently at an end. At the West Twentieth and West Twenty-sixth street depots half of the regular force of wagons are in commission, and the company's officials said that many more would be manned and sent out during the day. They expect to deliver ice to all of the regular customers before night.

At the latter two stations some of the wagons were manned by strike-breakers, and in every case the wagons were guarded by special policemen. The officials said that the old men were rapidly coming back with requests to be put on their wagons on the old terms.

The company is turning its attention now to Brooklyn, where many of the old men are still out, and the service badly crippled. The officials say that the strike will be broken there within twenty-four hours.

SUB-TREASURY CASH GONE.

No Trace of $3,000 Lost by Boston Institution a Month Ago.

BOSTON, July 5.—It became known today that $3,000 disappeared from the United States Sub-Treasury here early in June. The shortage was discovered by the Treasury officials in Washington in checking up a package of $370,000 in bills sent from Boston June 7. A much larger sum might as easily have been found.

J. H. Vassar, of Lynn, the specie clerk, who is officially responsible for all shortages, has reimbursed the Government from his own bank account. He is more than sixty years old and has been counting the Government's gold for a score of years.

SINN FEIN CHIEF UPHELD.

DUBLIN, July 5.—The Irish Master of the Rolls, Richard E. Meredith, decided yesterday that the expulsion of Edward Martyn, President of the Sinn Fein National Council, from the Kildare Street Club, the leading Irish landlords club, was illegal.

Mr. Martyn had said that any Irishman joining the British Army deserved to be flogged. The Executive Committee of the club, including ex-Master of the Rolls, Sir Andrew M. Porter, moved that Mr. Martyn be expelled, and the motion was carried by 4 to 7 votes.

PISTOL FIRERS PAY HEAVILY FOR JOY OF FOURTH

Magistrate Wahle Fines Them $10-a Head and Says He Is Easy.

A motley assemblage of Fourth of July celebrants sought clemency from Magistrate Wahle in Yorkville Court today, on the plea that overexuberance should be charged to the nation's birthday and not to the individual who sought to observe its anniversary. Just 140 prisoners, of all ages, nationalities and sizes, kept the dispenser of justice engaged in the hardest morning's labor he has had in years.

Of the 140, sixty-five persons were charged with firing revolvers. All pleaded that a revolver made the most noise and gave full vent to the expression of Fourth of July jubilation, which other weapons and explosives failed to do.

Magistrate Wahle, however, tacked a fine of $10 on each of the first twenty who came before him.

"How many more of these fellows are there?" he asked.

"Maybe fifty more, Your Honor; the cells and corridors are full of 'em," came the reply from one of the policemen.

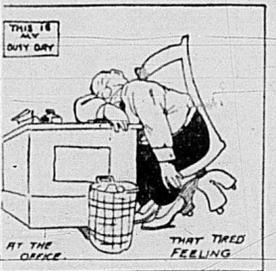

"If it weren't for being held incommunicado I start taking the whole mob $50 each," declared the Magistrate.

Wish I had to start over again." From persons charged with carrying revolvers $50 were realized. The Magistrate's ruling followed quickly the two questions: "Name?" "Where you live?"

"Firearms on the Fourth are as bad as carrying concealed weapons," said the Magistrate, when the last of the prisoners was fined. "Instead of being a sane and happy celebration of the anniversary of the dawn of liberty to our forefathers, the Fourth of July has become a day of death and injuries. It's got to stop. There will be a different ruling for this offense if I am here next year."

Julius Hicks, a driver for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, did not get off as lightly as some of the others. He was seen by Detective Conlin four times with a revolver. He admitted that he always carried the weapon. Magistrate Wahle thought that his case should be investigated and held him in $500 bonds. He lives at No. 111 East Twenty-eighth street.

Held for Fatal Shooting. Magistrate Wahle remanded to the custody of the Coroner four men arrested early today in connection with the death from a bullet wound of William Glendinning, twenty-seven years old, of No. 109 Ninth avenue. Glendinning was shot in the abdomen, in Niece Returns to Her Home to Find Aunt Had Hanged Herself.

Mrs. Johanna Evert, a widow, fifty years old, was found dead early this morning. She had hanged herself in her home, No. 37 Wales avenue, Jersey City. Her niece, Miss Evert, returned shortly after midnight, having been spending the Fourth with friends, and discovered her aunt hanging dead from a post in her room. Mrs. Evert had fastened one end of a rope to the top of the high bedpost and tied the other end around her neck and, throwing the weight of her body upon the rope had strangled to death.

While not an invalid Mrs. Evert had not been in very good health and suffered somewhat from nervousness. The day had been celebrated in the usual noisy fashion in the neighborhood of her home and she had complained during the day of the disturbance.

RIOTING IN THE AZORES. LISBON, Portugal, July 5.—The newspapers report trouble at Angra de Heroismo, in the Azores. The troops were called out, but refused to march against the manifestants. The local authorities had to request reinforcements from Ponta Delgada.

EXTRA CARTS TO REMOVE REFUSE FROM STREETS

Work of Cleaning Up the East Side Is Satisfactorily Progressing.

Some progress is being made in cleaning up the densely populated districts of the lower east side. Fifty extra carts were sent out to-day by the Street-Cleaning Department—thirty from Siabla A, at Avenue C and Seventeenth street, and twenty from the Hamilton street stable—in addition to the 100 carts usually assigned to these districts. It is expected that conditions will be put into fairly satisfactory shape by Sunday.

Almost the entire energies of the drivers were exerted today in the districts extending from Clinton street to Twelfth street, known as the fourth district, and in the sixth district, from Twelfth street north to Forty-second street, both on the east side. The cleaning of such places as Orchard street, Ludlow street, Orchard and East Houston streets occupied a great many of the carts.

Streets in Good Shape.

Both Second and Third avenues above Twenty-third street are seemingly as clean as they usually are at this time of the year. But many of the side streets yet remain choked to a considerable extent with garbage, much of which is piled high in barrels ranged along the sidewalks.

All reports reaching foremen at the East Side stables today showed a willingness on the part of the drivers to do their work. A few of the drivers complain bitterly because their grievances have not yet been settled, but the majority seem content to do their work first and discuss matters afterward.

Negroes Still On Boat.

At the foot of Seventeenth street, between Broadway and Third street, a still lying with 200 negroes on board. They were brought here a week ago from Baltimore to take the place of the striking drivers, but the settlement of the strike threw them out of the place which they had come here to fill. It is said the men will soon be taken back to Baltimore.

FELL ON SWIFT SAW, CUT ALMOST IN TWAIN.

Workman Mangled in Cabinet Plant, Yet Taken Still Alive to a Hospital.

Albert Pettman, fifty-two years old, of No. 162 Second avenue, was cut almost in twain by circular saw today while at work in the plant of the Marshall Woodworking Company, at No. 11 East Ninth street. He was a member of many civic leagues, was one of the organizers of the Board of Trade and Transportation and was a trustee of the East River Bridge under Mayor Strong.

As a laborer Mr. Thurber won considerable fame. He defended corporations in a rousing speech at the Chicago Trust Conference in 1899. While generally a Republican, he went into reform movements against that party at times. The funeral will be held Monday.

F. B. THURBER DIES SUDDENLY

Was Prominent in Business and Law and as a Writer and Reformer.

Francis B. Thurber, wholesale grocer, lawyer, reformer and writer, whose fortune was swept away in the panic of 1893, is dead at his home, No. 49 West Twenty-fifth street. Mr. Thurber was sixty-five years old.

He came to this city from his home in Delaware County nearly fifty years ago and worked as an office boy at 1 a week. He later became a clerk and advanced himself till he was President of the American Grocery Company. At the age of fifty-seven he was admitted to the bar as a lawyer, he having been forced into bankruptcy with liabilities of $250,000.

He wrote several books, was interested in his palmy days in the advancement of American opera and organized the State Anti-Monopoly League, which was instrumental in creating the State Railroad Commission. He was a member of many civic leagues, was one of the organizers of the Board of Trade and Transportation and was a trustee of the East River Bridge under Mayor Strong.
