WHITE'S BID FOR $40,000,000 CITY BONDS REJECTED

No Money Forthcoming When His Check for $800,000 to Guarantee Performance of Contract Is Presented for Payment.

The bid of the Abraham White Bond Company for the entire issue of $40,000,000 of 4-1/2 per cent. city bonds was thrown out by Comptroller Metz this afternoon. This action followed the failure of White to show that the $800,000 certified check, drawn upon a private bank of which he is president, and deposited as a guaranty with his bid, had that amount of money behind it.

It is quite likely that White, through counsel, will proceed to get an injunction restraining the Comptroller from awarding any of the bonds to any of the bidders until his claim is settled.

On the other hand, if White had been allowed to take any part of the bonds Wall street banks that put in bids would have gone to the courts for a writ of mandamus to prevent the Comptroller from awarding him any of the bonds.

Comptroller Metz deposited White's $800,000 check in the Guardian Trust Company, Broadway and Maiden Lane, a city depository, this afternoon. That bank immediately sent the check to White for collection. He asked for time later on the Guardian Trust Company reported that the $800,000 was not forthcoming and Comptroller Metz decided that the check was not good security under the terms of the agreement by which bids were received.

The bid of the Abraham White Bond Company was accompanied by a certified check for $800,000, drawn by White upon the Greater New York Security Company and certified by R. H. Robbins, treasurer of that corporation.

The Greater New York Security Company is a well known in banking circles. It has an office at No. 42 Broadway in Room No. 1207. Mr. White's office is also at No. 42 Broadway, in Room No. 1207. The comitence also the fact that the Greater New York Security Company has a capital of only $5,000,000, Comptroller Metz to send for Mr. White and question him.

A Postage Stamp Financier.
Mr. White is a persistent bidder for national and municipal bonds put up at auction, and he has had great success in that line. He started in 1890 on a postage stamp investment of 47 cents by putting in a bid for $1,500,000 worth of Government bonds. It was not necessary to send security with the bid, but he had no money. He came to New York, borrowed $750,000 on the contract from Russell Sage, sold a lot of the bonds before they passed into his possession, and cleaned up $140,000 on the transaction.

About a year ago he purchased the magnificent John A. McCall place at Long Branch, N. J. Some of the stockholders are trying to take that property away from him on the ground that he bought it with funds of the corporation.

May Reduce Receipts.
With White's bid out of the receipts of the sale will be some what out of the $10,000,000 of the White bid was at 12 1/2 over. In case his bid would be thrown out, the average price of the bonds netted by the city would still be about 10 1/2.

The J. Pierpont Morgan syndicate, which bid for $10,000,000 of the entire issue was a way low, and will not be awarded any of the bonds. A big bunch will go to small bidders.

In the New Jersey legal proceedings against White it has been alleged that his real name is Abraham Schwartz. The English equivalent of the German name Schwartz is Black. It has been reported in Wall Street lately that White came from Texas some years ago, and that he is well known in that State.

Police Mix in the Shooting During Attack on Non-Union Men by Strikers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—Five men were shot in an attack made on non-union car men by a crowd of strike sympathizers early to-day.

The victims, who are all in St. Luke's Hospital, are: Morris Eisenberg, dangerously wounded; Roy Perkins, conductor; J. J. Cotter, motorman; Harry Cohers and Frank Smith, conductors.

The trouble occurred when a wrecking car of the United Railroad, on which were about fifteen men, was approaching the car barn at the corner of Utah and Twenty-fourth streets.

Three policemen appeared on the scene and ordered the men not to shoot, but this command was disregarded, whereupon the police used their revolvers, five of the car men being wounded.

Mrs. Mary Anderson, a sickly little woman, who has just been discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital, to-day appeared in Yorkville Court to prosecute Thomas Ryan, a stocky young Subway gateman, who knocked the woman down and blacked her eyes at Grand Central Subway station.

Mrs. Anderson had come down from her home, No. 116 Woodworth avenue, Yonkers, on a Kingsbridge express and had alighted at Grand Central to change to a local, intending to go to Thirty-third street station. She was on her way to a doctor's office at Thirty-fourth street and Park avenue.

She hasn't been travelling around much of late, owing to her illness, and she wandered upstairs on flight, looking for the local train, instead of stepping to the other side of the same platform. In doing so she was stepping out of the exit gate when she realized her mistake, and, turning faced Thomas Ryan, the subway gateman.

GATEMAN KNOCKED HER DOWN.
"Which way do I go for a downtown local?" she asked, to which he replied that she would have to get another ticket.

"I was confused and wandered out by mistake," explained Mrs. Anderson. "Takes another fare to get in."

"Other people are allowed to transfer at night," said Mrs. Anderson, attempting to start back.

At this, she said, Ryan pushed her back, and as she continued to press forward, struck her a blow which knocked her down and blacked her eyes.

Many persons coming into the subway station saw the woman knocked down. Some of them were out-of-control, but they had grabbed him, and the men went for Ryan. He slammed the gate, but they had grabbed him, and the men went for Ryan. He slammed the gate, but they had grabbed him, and the men went for Ryan.

BIG LUSITANIA IS SMASHING RECORDS AT 26-KNOT GAIT

Giant Turbine Liner Plowing the Atlantic at a Clip Which Will Bring Her Into Port Early Friday Morning.

Ploughing the seas at a speed never before attained by a steamship the giant turbine Lusitania, of the Cunard line, is sweeping along at a twenty-six-knot clip on her maiden voyage to New York. A wireless message received from Cape Race, N. F., early to-day shows that the Lusitania has broken all records for a transatlantic steamer. If she maintains her speed through the last thousand miles of her trip the hope of a four-day trip across the Atlantic will have been realized.

The Lusitania came into the wireless zone of Cape Race at 6.30 o'clock to-day and telegraphed that she was then 22 miles southeast of the cape at the time, or 112 miles from the Sandy Hook lightship.

The despatch to-day showed that the big ship had covered 1,855 miles of the voyage in approximately seventy hours through awful seas and murky fogs, which hindered her progress, and that she had averaged a trifle better than 23 1/2 knots an hour, a speed record never before reached by a transatlantic steamer.

Cunard officials are waiting to hear from the ship, which will enter the wireless zone near Cape Sable. The Lusitania is expected to flash by the red-lit lightship off Sandy Hook between midnight and 5 o'clock Friday morning, which would make the time of the voyage about four days and thirteen hours, more than thirteen hours better than the record trip between Queenstown and New York of five days, seven hours and twenty-five minutes, made by the Luconia, of the Cunard line, in 1904.

The Lusitania's maiden voyage promises also to wear the title of the Queen of the Seas from the Deutschland, of the Hamburg-American line.

Deutschland made a voyage from Cherbourg to New York, in 1903, in 5 days, 11 hours, and 54 minutes over a course 3,044 miles in length at an average speed of 23 1/2 knots. With the Lusitania, the big Cunard steamer would take the last stretch of her voyage at top speed and officials of the company state to-day that when the Lusitania edges her way through the New York Narrows all transatlantic steamship records will be broken and that a new era in the maritime world will have commenced.

Averaging 26 Knots.
A despatch from the Lusitania, by Marconi wireless, reads as follows: "On board steamship Lusitania, via Cape Race, N. F., Sept. 11, 1907. At 11 o'clock noon, eleven hundred and thirty-six miles from Queenstown; fog, rain, northerly wind. Lusitania marvel construction, comfort, luxury, standard; no seasickness; all enthusiastic."

The distance covered by the Lusitania between Tuesday noon, when the above despatch was sent, and the point at which she was reported to the Cunard line at 5 o'clock this morning, is about 45 miles, which distance the new vessel covered in seventeen hours, indicating that she was making a little better than twenty-six knots per hour at that time.

Policeman Reid of the West Twentieth Street Station, who was on duty near the pier, noticed the woman and thinking she was acting strangely, followed her.

Here she was arraigned on the charge of attempting suicide, and Magistrate Corrigan, for her own good, he said, sentenced her to the workhouse for a short term.

Forced Price on Blue Book From 25 to 1 to 12 to 1 and Hit the Ring Hard When the Horse Won.

FOUNTAINBLUE SECOND IN SEPTEMBER STAKE EVENT
Miller Sent Kentucky Beau Out and Held the Lead for a Mile, When Lowe Moved Up and Got the Race Easily.

(Special to The Evening Book)
SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, Sept. 11.—Joe Yeager, the "Boy Plunger," had one of the biggest days of the year at the track to-day. He cashed heavily on Whipton in the second race, Ben Fleet to win in the Waldorf Stakes and Blue Book, a 25 to 1 shot, across the board in the September Stakes.

The Yeager money knocked the price from 25 to 1 down to 12 to 1, but even at the latter figure Blue Book was played. A lot of money followed the Yeager coin, and although the bookies took in thousands on Montgomery, Fountainblue and Kentucky Beau, they paid out considerable to Blue Book.

Joe Yeager alone is credited with a $200,000 cleanup.
The race was run in a rain storm, the clouds darkening the whole course as the horses paraded to the start. There was a wild dash for cover as the rain began to come down, and in a jiffy, the lawn was cleared as if the course had been deserted.

The September Stakes was a peculiarly hard race. Miller sent Kentucky Beau out in front and for a mile he far surpassed Lowe moved up with Blue Book and began a drive for the lead. By the time the stretch was reached Blue Book had enough. Fountainblue down the road here and all the way across the field. Lowe paid a ding done great fine, and as his mount was a same he won by a head. Montgomery was third.

The Bowles brothers, bookmakers, also won a bundle on Blue Book, Favorite Won the Jumps.
Caller, a well-backed favorite, ridden by Tim Donahue, galloped home in the Waldorf Stakes, handsily in front of Gus Straus, a long shot. Grandstand was the early pace, until Donahue was ready to go to the front, and after that there was nothing to tell. Grandstand stuck it out long enough to be third.

Explosion Won Belles Stake.
Miller and Explosion was a winning combination in the Belles Stakes for two-year-old fillies. Lady Winfred, Bouquet, Miss Norfolk and Masquerade were scratched, leaving Desirable the favorite.

There was a big play across the board on Whipton and Fond Heart was the early pace. Grandstand, when brought some money to the bookies, as might have been expected as heavily as it was played. Whipton won by a half a length in front of Fond Heart and Whipton, who fought it out for the place, at Belmont did not get it by half a length.

Ben Fleet won Waldorf.
Neither Spooner nor Nimbus can go in the mud. That was proven in the racing of the Waldorf Stakes, when both, after running well to the stretch, third and finished in the rack. Ben Fleet made all the running and was never headed.

Falanda was away bad and had to be sent up a lot of ground. He came through at the stretch, but he could not catch the money and at the good price of 10 to 1, he was a loser. Acrobot led practically all the way only to give way to Blue Book in the drive through the stretch. Lord Lovell was heavily played but ran a poor race.

RYE AT A GOOD PRICE.
The Rowley liffie Rye severely alone to-day, but the little gelding came home with the money and at the good price of 10 to 1, he was a winner. Acrobot led practically all the way only to give way to Blue Book in the drive through the stretch. Lord Lovell was heavily played but ran a poor race.

MONTEAL RESULTS.

BROOKLYN GAMES OFF.
Condition of Grounds and Rain Make Play Impossible.
Two games scheduled between Boston and Brooklyn at Brooklyn to-day were not played. The first was called off on account of the condition of the grounds and the second was stopped by rain in the last half of the second inning when Brooklyn had one man down and the score 2 to 1 in favor of Boston.
