

J. V. RHOADES'S MIND UNHINGED OVER THE PANIC

Member of Union League Club Sent to an Infirmary in London.

HAD BECOME EGOTRIC Displayed Revolvers in Music Hall and Had Trouble in Restaurant.

John V. Rhoades, a member of the Union League Club, who has been mentioned in various papers for several months, as a London barrister to-day, according to a cablegram, suffering from a temporary nervous breakdown, and to be sent to an infirmary in London. He was removed from the Hotel Cecil last night and had been staying there for a week.

Mr. Rhoades' father is a retired army surgeon of this city, like his son a member of the Union League, and both are well known in society. It was said at the club to-day by an official that reports from abroad had some news of the younger Rhoades's sudden eccentricities.

Rhoades was arrested twice in London in two days, the first time for displaying a pair of revolvers, which he took in a belt at the Palace Music Hall. He was accompanied by a woman. A man sitting near was seized by the New Yorker of making eyes at his companion, and the gun came to the front in the row which followed. At the Vice street police station Rhoades was held for a time and released. His clothes were torn and his features disarranged.

Next night at the Trocadero restaurant he was in another scrap and was taken up by the police. About the same time a waiter of the Savoy restaurant showed him to the "Red and Blue" and he walked out of the Savoy leaving a $10 dinner bill unpaid. He settled.

Rhoades wired for rooms at the Hotel Carlton on Oct. 11 and occupied them with his sister the following day. He left the Carlton in a week, carefully packing up six revolvers and a supply of ammunition, and went to Liverpool, where he resided on the Liverpool for New York. But at Queenstown he left the ship and went to a small hotel in Canada. He was arrested there, and taken to the London despatch office to buy different stocks. U. S. Hotel and Canadian Pacific arrested them. He told the clerks at the Queen's Hotel he was going to Liverpool and start for America again, but he returned to London and registered at the Cecil.

The day before yesterday he was so nervous, it is said, that a hotel manager had to guard him in his room. Rhoades described himself in London as a financial operator of No. 11, "Thirty-ninth street, New York, and said he also made Arizona his home at times.

EX-GOV. ODELL BETTER. Temperature Normal and Early Convalescence Expected.

Reports from the home of ex-Gov. Odell at Newburg were very encouraging yesterday. It was said his temperature was about normal and that an early convalescence was expected.

In spite of these reports, Mr. Odell's friends are much alarmed and fear it will be a long time before he can resume his former activities. His ailment is a combination of pure influenza, pleurisy, pneumonia and pleurisy, the last named of which has necessitated tapping the lungs.

WOMAN'S CRIES CAUSE CAPTURE OF SNEAK THIEF

Threatened to Kill Mrs. Tobin, Then Fleed With Jewels From Her Room.

Mrs. Nellie Tobin, of No. 148 Madison avenue, was in the Harlem Court to-day to prosecute a man who gave her a fearful scare and is accused of robbing her of diamonds and jewelry.

She was in her apartment on the fourth floor last evening, lying on the bed but awake, when the door from the public hall was gently opened and a man stepped in. He went over to a dresser and opened a drawer.

Mrs. Tobin pretended to be asleep, but in her suppressed excitement made a little noise and the fellow opened to her side. Shaking his ribs in her face he whispered:

"I'll beat your brains out if you open your mouth."

Then he went back to the bureau and helped himself until he was satisfied and then ran into the hall and downstairs. Mrs. Tobin followed, yelling for help. Four men were standing near the entrance on the street and tried to stop the man, but he knocked them over and went on.

Policeman Kooser saw him and followed. Bring his revolver in the air. This had the desired effect and the thief stopped at Park avenue and One Hundred and Fourth street. At the station-house the prisoner said he was Sam F. Sainburg and lived at No. 222 Henry street. He is thirty-three years old.

The police reported finding two diamond rings, a pair of diamond earrings, two pocketbooks and a gold watch and chain on him.

PROUD OF HIS BABY, FELL DOWN CELLAR STAIRS. Fractured Skull and Was Picked Up Dead—His Family Left Destitute.

Archibald Newcomb, forty-six years old, was found dead in the cellar of No. 188 Webster avenue, the Bronx, to-day, having tumbled down a flight of stairs and fracturing his skull.

Newcomb lived on the ground floor of the house with his wife and two children, one a baby boy named Sunday. He had been celebrating the new arrival in the family during the week, which accounted for his blundering down the cellar stairs. His family is left in destitute circumstances, with no one to aid them.

ATLANTA, Oct. 24.—"How's the baby?" was the first question asked Lieut.-Gov. Chanler, of New York, when he stopped off the train in Atlanta last night. Atlantians tried to get him to name the little one Atlanta, but the Lieutenant-Governor said Alice was the name chosen.

Mr. Chanler was banqueted at the Capitol City Club last night. To-day he will make a speech, be received by Gov. Smith and be banqueted at a dollar dinner.

ROUSE ESTATE WINS. The Government's suit to recover a war tax of $2,000 from Peter V. Rouse, an executor of the estate of Charles Broadway Rouse, was dismissed by Judge LaCombe in the United States Circuit Court yesterday. The issue was purely one of law and not of fact. Rouse died on July 16, 1902, leaving an estate valued at $1,800,000, but the war tax was repealed before a demand for payment was made.

TOO LATE TO NAME CHANLER'S BABY

"Atlanta" Suggested by Southern City, but "Alice" Already Chosen.

Queen Quality BOOTS

It is unqualifiedly true that no better fitting boots were ever produced than the "Queen Quality". Their maker is a genius in combining Fit with Style. That "they fit where others fail," and "give ease the first day worn" are proverbial with every shoe man.

But you know yourself they must have some merits superior to other shoes. A factory output of 10,000 pairs per day—the largest in the world, tells you that.

IN THESE TIMES BUY DIAMONDS AT LAMBERT'S

The panic this week emphasizes the wisdom of investment in diamonds. Unlike stocks and bonds, they don't depreciate in value. On the contrary, the tenacity of diamonds has been upward for many years, and continues to be so in all countries and under all conditions. Diamonds are quickly convertible into cash. There is no red tape, no delay, no uncertainty, as to the actual value of the property.

The people who have investments in diamonds are not worrying about the closed trust companies, not standing in the gloomy crowds before the doors.

When to these general advantages you add the special economy of buying at LAMBERT'S, the good sense of an investment in diamonds shows like the diamonds themselves.

Splendid Diamond Rings

If you intend giving somebody a diamond ring, bear in mind that we enjoy exceptional advantages in the European markets and import direct all the stones in our stock. We make the mountings, which are solid 14-karat gold. We have no dealings with middlemen. All this spells ECONOMY for our customers.
