MAURETANIA, HELD BACK BY HEAVY FOG, REACHES HER DOCK

Big Turbine Anchored Off the Hook Six Hours—Mist Causes Train Collisions and Grounding of Government Steamer.

After being held by the fog off Sandy Hook from 9.50 o'clock this morning until 3.20 this afternoon, the great turbine Cunarder Mauretania docked at 5.30 this evening.

Her maiden voyage was completed in five days and something less than six hours, which record was surpassed on the maiden trip of the Lusitania. But the Mauretania brought the record for a single day's run—624 miles. The best record for a day of the Lusitania is 618 miles.

The fog that delayed the Mauretania outside Sandy Hook was responsible for other embarrassments to ships and for mishaps to trains on land. The Government steamer Gen. Meigs, bound out to the Mauretania, ran aground off Sandy Hook and must remain on a mud bank until the tide changes.

So thick was the blanket of mist on the rivers and bay to-day that many ferry boats were suspended during the rush hours. All water traffic was seriously hampered and there were many narrow escapes from collision. No boats ran to Liberty Island or Ellis Island and the big railroad ferries ran on one-boat schedules.

Land traffic in Brooklyn was as usual, partially crippled by the fog, and there were two "L" smash-ups, in which, luckily, no one was seriously injured.

The new Cunarder was in communication with land for the last twenty-four hours.

No Noise Welcome.
The small tugs and other craft in the lower bay failed to accord her the welcome given her "little sister," the Lusitania, when the latter lowered a record on account of the heavy fog which shrouded the bay and kept the sight of the big vessel blanked behind the mist.

From Captain Pritchard, however, came tidings yesterday which give the Cunard officials here a reason to believe that the Mauretania will eclipse the best all-around work of the Lusitania. The Mauretania's was 624 knots in twenty-four hours, the Lusitania's was 618 knots in twenty-four hours. The Mauretania's was 624 knots in twenty-four hours, the Lusitania's was 618 knots in twenty-four hours.

"L" Trains Collide.
Ashore the fog was responsible for two crashes on the Kinz County "L" lines. In one of which two trains were nearly demolished and several persons injured. This was a rear-end collision at the Saratoga avenue station.

A train of five cars had been halted

BOROUGH BANK'S PRESIDENT STILL KEPT IN A CELL

Maxwell, Unable to Furnish $30,000 Bail, Locked Up Alongside Negro.

GRAND JURY IS AT WORK

Investigates Further Into the Affairs of the Closed Brooklyn Institutions.

Despite the efforts of his attorneys, Howard Maxwell, former President of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn, failed to secure release from confinement in Raymond Street Jail to-day. His bail of $30,000 appears to be too heavy for his friends to negotiate, although he has not lost hope.

Maxwell is in a cell next to that occupied by William Morse, the negro burglar, who killed Policeman Kavanaugh a week ago. The indicted banker was allowed to sleep between sheets and blankets brought from his home and to have his meals brought from a restaurant. Otherwise he is treated like an ordinary prisoner, and confinement is called him.

The Grand Jury continued its investigation into the affairs of the Borough Bank and other Brooklyn financial institutions to-day. It is expected that other indictments will be forthcoming in connection with the investigation of the Borough Bank, but Assistant District Attorney Elder says that they will not be handed down this week.

The Borough Bank, the Williamsburg Trust Company, and the Jenkins Trust Company are also under the Grand Jury probe.

In all ten indictments for forgery in the third degree, grand larceny and the misdemeanor were found against Gow, Campbell and Maxwell. Gow was freed in $25,000 bail, and Campbell, who from the first has claimed he was only a tool of Gow and Maxwell, in $20,000.

The indictment returned are twenty charges against Campbell, which carry with them fifteen years' imprisonment, three felony charges against Maxwell, which carry with them twenty-five years' imprisonment, and two felonies and three misdemeanors against Gow, which could carry twenty-six months' imprisonment. The fines might equal the number of years they could be imprisoned.

JOE GANS AND NELSON SIGN TO BATTLE AGAIN

"Batling Dane" Guarantees Champion $35,000 Purse for the Fight.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 22.—Joe Gans and Battling Nelson have signed articles of agreement for another fight before one of the Nevada clubs. Nelson is to guarantee a $35,000 purse. Of this 75 per cent goes to the winner and 25 per cent to the loser.

Nelson has been after Gans for another match ever since their famous battle at Goldfield, where Gans was given the decision on a foul. It is understood that one of the Nevada clubs will offer a purse of $35,000, though a fight of the nature here is not given any information as to who will put up the money.

EIGHT TO DRAW PLANS FOR NEW POST-OFFICE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Assistant Treasury Winthrop, of the Treasury Department, in charge of public buildings, has designated eight leading architects of New York to submit competitive plans under the Act of February 1, 1890, for the new post-office building in New York. The plans to be opened Monday.

Prisoner's Affection for Ex-Senator Dominated Every Other Emotion, Swears Lawyer Who Had Ad- vised the Two in Their Affairs.

WILL FORM BASIS OF 13,000 WORD QUESTION TO EXPERTS.

Another Witness Declares Her Love Was Idol- trous, and Her One Desire Was to Become Wife of Man She Shot to Death— Crown's Love Letters Read.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Insane in her love for ex-Senator Brown, is the way one of the leading witnesses for Mrs. Annie M. Bradley to-day described the mental condition of the prisoner.

Albert H. Barnes, Assistant Attorney-General of Utah, was the person who gave the testimony. Questioned as to the sanity of Mrs. Bradley, he said that she seemed to be absolutely under the influence of Brown, and that while he could not say that she was insane she had an insane love for Arthur Brown.

BOY TURNS IN FALSE ALARM AT A SCHOOL

Four Engines, Hook and Ladder Truck and Police Reserves Called Out

There's something more than an ordinary spanking waiting for the boy who this afternoon turned in an alarm from Public School No. 14, at Hubert and Collier streets. Four engines and a hook and ladder truck were called out. No one was hurt.

Youngsters were just preparing to go home when the alarm was turned in. Because the alarm came from a school the reserves of the Leonard and Charles street stations were hurried out. Inspector Russell also went around.

There was no excitement among the children in the school, as only a few of them knew the engines were in the street. The police have been unable to find any clue to the youngster who turned in the alarm.

CHILD KILLED AT PLAY.

Caught Between Gate and Fence and Strangled to Death.
George Meyer, the three-year-old adopted son of Frank Russell, of No. 48-Madison avenue, Jersey City, was killed while at play to-day.

The child had been swinging on a gate at the side of the house and it was there that Mr. Russell found him dead. The boy had apparently fallen from the gate as it swung to and, being caught by the neck between the gate and the fence, had been strangled to death.

High Prices Here Lead to Importation of 1,827 Cases.
The White Star liner Maestri, which arrived here yesterday, brought 1,827 cases of eggs, the first importation from England in modern shipping history. The eggs were brought here because of the present high prices in New York.

FIRE PRIESTESS VANISHES; DEAD, DAUGHTERS FEAR

herself with her strange custom of worshiping the greater part of the day trudging up her tiny shrine and burning sacrifices upon it. Often she would offer up her daughter's fine lingerie and silk stockings on her altar fires.

After her daughters went away she burned up many odds and ends of her own clothing and some small pieces of clothing. On Saturday last she sent for an expressman and sent all her treasured belongings away to the Twenty-second Regiment among them busts of the Presidents and pictures of famous generals and statesmen. She directed the man to come back on Monday for the remainder of her furniture. But she did not wait for his return. Monday, leaving the house early and alone, she went to the bank, from the landlady, good by she said that she was going to the fire.

When the daughters were notified of the disappearance and went to their drawing, all their money ($80) and the following note addressed to them, was found—There is one life and one death. Fire is life and death.

NEW MAYOR OF ROME IS ANTI-CLERICALS' PLAN.
ROME, Nov. 22.—It has been decided by the Anti-Clericals, who won overwhelmingly the municipal election on Nov. 16, to elect Ernest Nathan, a Jew, Mayor of Rome. He will be the first Jew to hold such an office in the city. Nathan is an Englishman, though a few years ago he became a naturalized Italian.
