

SCORES HURT, SNOW AND FOG TIE UP TRAFFIC

Ambulances Kept Busy, While Slush Impedes Work of Firemen.

THE FORECAST.

Clearing and slightly colder tonight; temperature about 25 degrees Friday morning. Friday fair and colder, brisk to high west and northwest winds.

Within the span of twenty-four hours New York has had a sample of about fifty-seven varieties of weather. From bitter cold to temperate, from temperate to temperate, or untemperate—at least disagreeable, from a light powdery snow to a heavy, sticky blanket-ing white, and then to a drizzling rain, and finally a fog that during the rush ferry service of the morning caused delays and collisions on both rivers and in the bay.

The fog was so thick on the Sound that the big boats made through the channels at a snail's pace or put in at Connecticut points as in the case of the Plymouth, of the Fall River line. The Plymouth encountered both rough weather and fog on her way to Fall River and was compelled to land her 200 passengers at New London, whence they were carried east by special train.
Delay on Ferry Lines.

The New Jersey and Long Island ferries not only had fog to contend with, but ice that stretched in layers across both rivers; there being no wind to drive it toward either shore. When a western breeze sprang up out of the Western Hudson ice was crowded over to the Manhattan shore and the East River ferry to the Brooklyn shore. Then the fog lifted and going was easier.

Although the weather was mild, there were many accidents due to the slippery pavements and the early morning fog. found the hospital surgeons rushing busily about in their ambulances.

Dr. Slocum was called from Bellevue early in the day to No. 43 Second avenue, where he found Mrs. Roumania Galicia, twenty-two years old, in the hallway. She had given birth to a child. It had frozen to death. The mother was chilled and nearly unconscious. She was taken to the Emergency Hospital and the baby's body was sent to the morgue.

Other Victims of Storm.
Sallie Randall, twenty-two, No. 205 West Twenty-ninth street, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital suffering from exposure. She had been out in the weather and at her restless home fell insensible.
George Bent, thirty-seven, No. 15 Main street, Yonkers, was found in the snow at Lenox avenue and Ofie Hundred and Tenth street almost frozen. He was taken to Harlem Hospital.

Michael Tulley, fifty-six, of No. 134 Graham avenue, Brooklyn, was re-humbled by the cold and blinded by the snow and fell from a road trolley at Twenty-sixth street and the East River. He went to Bellevue with a broken leg and internal hemorrhage.
John Barrett, of No. 267 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn, fell through a skylight on the roof of Albert's boiler shop at No. 256 South street. His skull was fractured and he soon died.

Besides the large number of persons injured because of the weather who were taken to hospitals, many only slightly hurt were treated by ambulance surgeons and sent home. Most of the accidents were caused by falls.
For a time it was nearly impossible to stand up. Scores of horses fell and were helped up with great difficulty.
John Manning, fifty-eight, of No. 18 Beverly, fell down the elevated road steps at the Hanover Square Station and broke his leg. He was sent to Hudson Street Hospital.

MANY BLAZES AND FALSE ALARMS KEEP FIREMEN ON JUMP.

Chief Croker sent extra horses to different engine and hook and ladder houses early to-day and it was well he did, for the regular drawers of the fire apparatus of the city were worn out with a great number of hard runs over the slushy streets. The firemen were worked as seldom before. Calls seemed to pour in from everywhere.

Automatic alarms, influenced by rapidly changing weather conditions, went off, and there were plenty of real fires, most of them small. Hundreds of families in various tenements were hustled out in the rain and snow.
At No. 118 Lewis street twenty families were routed from their beds in a five-story house. They were soon permitted to return, as the firemen quickly stopped the blaze. A lamp in her rooms at No. 187 Eleventh avenue, Seventeen-year-old Stephen Morris jumped through a window to escape the smoke-filled tenement and cut his hand on the glass. Mrs. See ran a rooming house. Her roomers were sent to the streets. The loss was light.
A fire in the corner of a tenement at No. 334 East Sixty-third street sent smoke throughout the house and threw the tenants into a panic. Mrs. Grogan's Ten families were routed out at No. 21 East Eighty-fifth street, where a little fire got a start in Mrs. Grogan's apartment.
Twenty-two families ran to the wet streets from a blaze at No. 231 Men-street which the firemen soon conquered.

CROWELL HELD BACK ARMY OF SNOW REMOVERS.

Not until 7:30 o'clock to-day did Street Cleaning Commissioner Foster Crowell send out word to the snow contractors to get busy. Although at midnight it was evident that New York City was to be snowed, Commissioner Crowell delayed the command ordering the contractors to begin work. The Commissioner had waited, in the hope that the rain would come and wash away the snow. That explanation he made to several contractors.

As early as four o'clock contractor Shaughnessy was trying to ascertain what the Street Cleaning Commissioner proposed doing. Other contractors also and their forces marshalled at daybreak. But hours elapsed while the contractors waited impatiently for the word to begin work.

Broadway, Fifth avenue, Park Row, the Bowery and all the ferry streets witnessed the operations of the snow shovelers. Contractor Shaughnessy sent out forty-three gangs of fifty men in the lower section of this city, and stationed 120 men at the dumping places.
"In getting the vehicles we could use to cart away the snow, we did not get the order to get to work until 7:30 o'clock, but we were ready the day break for the start. The best we could do under the circumstances was to send out the shovelers as soon as they had trucks. I had 200 men started out within half an hour after getting the order. We started out a few hundred trucks where we should have had several hundred."

Commissioner Crowell admitted to a reporter for The Evening World that the contractors did not begin the work of snow removal until half past seven o'clock and in many instances eight o'clock.
"But we told them at five o'clock to prepare for the work," said the Commissioner. "This is a pretty big storm.
Nearly seven inches of snow have fallen and the contractors and this department are busy."
"We are not a delay in giving the order to the contractors to start the work."
"There was no delay. The contractors are in good shape now—better equipped now than they were during the last snow fall. They may get the snow removed in two days and that will be good work."

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

One of the unchangeable laws of nature is that "like shall beget like." Parents who are related by the ties of blood, or who have a consumptive tendency, or other family blood taint are sure to transmit it to their children in the form of Scrofula. Swollen glands, brittle bones, weak eyes, hip disease, pale, waxy complexions, sickly bodies, running sores and ulcers, etc., are the usual manifestations of the disease. Those who have inherited a scrofulous tendency may succeed in holding it in check during young, vigorous life, but after a spell of sickness, or when the system begins to weaken and lose its vitality from other causes the ravages of the trouble will become manifest and sometimes run into Consumption. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and forces out the scrofulous deposits, kills the germs and completely cures the disease. It changes the quality of the blood by removing all impurities and poisons, and supplying this vital fluid with rich, health-sustaining qualities. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable medicine, and is especially adapted to systems which have been weakened and poorly nourished by scrofulous blood. Literature on Scrofula and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

3 1/2 lbs. Granulated Sugar 17c

At All the James Butler Inc. Stores.

This week for less than its present wholesale cost by the carload at the refineries—and granulated Sugar is the same wherever it is bought. There is but one quality and source of supply.

This forcibly illustrates the JAMES BUTLER plan of always selling at the lowest possible price. Our immense purchasing power enables us to buy before every advance and we are continually forcing big price reductions. No other retailer can give his patrons such advantages.

It is the same with everything we sell, with teas and coffees, with wines and liquors, with every household necessary, luxury or delicacy. When you trade at the nearest JAMES BUTLER Store you are sure of the best quality and the lowest possible price. Here are a few more striking proofs of JAMES BUTLER supremacy in underselling all other retailers:—
