

NOT A TRACE OF MISSING STUDENT, VICTIM OF HAZERS

Belief Grows That, Gagged in Locked Car, He Is Dead of Starvation.

LAST SEEN BY BROTHER.

Police Following Clues at Two Points, but Little Promise Given in Either.

(Special to The Evening World.)

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 6.—The disappearance of Willis E. Smith, a freshman at the Kentucky State College, has given rise to many rumors that the college faculty and police are rigorously investigating.

Popular belief is that young Smith was the victim of hazing. Lound and gagged, so the rumor goes, he was thrown into an empty freight car and locked in. Leaving him there for what the sophomores considered an ample period of torture they went back to release him and found that the car had been drawn away from the siding.

Young Smith disappeared two weeks ago to-night. Not the slightest trace of him has been obtained. If he is still in the boxcar it is certain that he is dead from starvation and exposure.

Every phase of the case will be discussed before the Grand Jury which convenes next week. The entire sophomore and freshman classes of the college will be examined, as well as other witnesses who are said to have heard the college boys discussing the hazing orank of which the youth was a victim.

Letter Gives Little Hope. Ernest Smith, a brother of the missing student, received a letter from Mrs. Norma Randolph at Carlisle, Pa., enclosing a clipping stating that a man had been found in a half-starved condition in an empty freight car at Mahanoy City, Pa.

Ernest Smith, who turned the letter over to the police, who wired the description of the missing youth and asked for information. Little value is placed on this, however, as the man reported found in Mahanoy City has had at least three days to recuperate and declare his identity.

Nothing, however, was heard of him until the letter was written. The authorities did not even report the finding of the man. The detectives are investigating a report that came from Cynthia to the effect that Smith was seen at a station near that city several days ago by a former student in the university who knew his brother, L. E. Smith, and says the stranger bore a striking resemblance to him.

The boy, it is claimed, seemed to be in a dazed condition and when an attempt was made to detain him he made his escape. The Queen and Crescent Railroad people say that so far as they know all their box cars have been accounted for.

The missing boy is twenty years old. He arrived at the State College two days before he disappeared from his home at Hindman, Ky., where a brother, Prof. Albert Smith, is a teacher in the town school. Another brother, L. E. Smith, is a student at the college and has been in Lexington for two years. It was the intention of the younger brother to work his way through college as his kinsman has been doing for two years.

Both brothers boarded with Mrs. Francis E. Beauchamp, the well known suffragette, in her fine old homestead on the Versailles road. He was prepared for a "rough house" toward his college expenses. On the night he vanished he put on an old suit of clothes and turned his money and gold watch over to his brother. He said he was going out to see the fun. There was sure to be "rough house" between the freshmen and sophomores, therefore the old clothes.

There is no doubt in the brother's mind that Willis Smith went to the campus with the intention of taking part in the organization of the freshman class or anything else on the programme, including a ceremony that has been famous at Harvard for a century known as "Bloody Monday." This consists of clashes between the freshman and sophomore classes, kidnapping and other boisterous forms of hazing. Now and then the occasions are enlivened with broken limbs and collar bones, but, as a general thing, nothing ever more serious.

The use of box cars for hazing pens is not new, and is said to have been in vogue in more than one big institution. This is the first case in which a tragedy is believed to have resulted.

What a Small Boy Heard

So far no information has been drawn from the students. Both freshmen and sophomores, without exception, have maintained stoutly that Willis Smith did not appear among them on the night he dropped out of sight. The great majority of the students declared they had never seen him in their lives and would not know him if they saw him.

The hint of the freight car episode was not obtained from the students. The detectives say they got their information from a small boy who overheard several students discussing what had been done with Smith. The boy heard that the freshman had been caught at the university entrance early in the evening and taken across the burning dump in the Queen and Crescent Railroad yards. There he was securely bound and gagged, a knotted handkerchief being forced in his mouth and another handkerchief bound over his face and eyes, leaving him bare space to breathe.

The car he was put in had been sealed, but the seal was broken, the door flung open and he was picked up by a train and hauled away. The students engaged in this wretched prank it was said, had become greatly alarmed at finding the freight car gone. They hoped that when the car got to the dump it would be discovered and the prisoner released.

Only an inspection of the car could save him, if he was so bound and gagged that he was helpless. If he came to him it was accompanied by frightened friends.

Faculty Denies the Story. The college faculty assert there is no truth in this version of young Smith's disappearance. A member of the faculty said today: "There are those who take the trouble to get at the facts must be aware that every-thing is done in this university with extreme anxiety to solve this mystery. The publication of baseless rumors of this kind is not only disgraceful but also a reflection on the faculty and the university as a whole."

President Patton, of the college, says that the matter will be laid immediately before the Fayette County sophomore class every member of which is connected with the university and questioned concerning the matter. He is deeply grieved over the matter, and says that the mystery will do great harm to the university if it is not properly cleared up.

L. E. Smith, the brother of the missing freshman, had this to say: "When my brother left the house he had on a suit of old clothes. He left his money and watch with me, which you may see that he is not willingly remaining away. I feel certain that he has either been killed or is a captive at the university."

The missing student was a delicate little chap, with light hair and eyes. He would have been about 17 years old, a hard student and had won several scholarships before entering college. MAHANAY CITY, Pa., Oct. 6.—The starving man found in a box freight car here several days ago is not Willis E. Smith, the Kentucky University student who is thought to have been locked in a freight car by hazers. The man found here is an Austrian, twenty-nine years old. He is in jail at Potsville.

FLAMES WIPE OUT OIL TRUST TANKS

Two Containing 13,000 Barrels Destroyed at Bayonne —Loss Is $15,000.

Two big oil tanks of the Standard Oil Company, containing 13,000 barrels of refined oil, were destroyed by fire at Bayonne, N. J., to-day.

The fire started shortly after 8 o'clock and burned until noon, when it was extinguished by the company's fire corps. There was no explosion, according to the officials of the company, and no other damage was done. The loss is estimated at $15,000.

"IT WAS COMING TO ROOSEVELT," SAYS PARKER

"Let Him Hit Back If He Wants to," Judge Adds on Standard Oil Contribution.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6.—"Well, it was coming to Roosevelt," said ex-Judge Alton B. Parker to-day, "and I gave it to him. Now let him reply." Judge Parker referred to his attack on the President made in his speech here last night, when he accused the President of having been tied up with E. H. Harriman and Standard Oil interests in the campaign of 1904, when he was the Democratic candidate for President.

What I had to say about the President I said in my speech last night," he declared, "and I do not know that I care to add to it just now. I stand by it all. Let him come back if he wants to. I gave the facts, and they speak for themselves."

Judge Parker returned to New York to-day.

VALUE OF THE VOTE, AS TOLD BY BRYAN

PERRY, Ia., Oct. 6.—William J. Bryan got a rousing reception on the occasion of his arrival here to-day, where he delivered the first of three scheduled speeches from the library steps to an immense crowd. During the day he also spoke at Tama and Cedar Rapids.

In his remarks he attacked the Republican party for failing to make public its campaign contributions, and reiterated his charge that this was because they feared the light. Mr. Bryan's speech here, delivered from a stand erected on a lot adjoining the engine house, was listened to with great attention. He spoke of the duties of citizenship and obligations and blessings it conferred on the people of the world, he declared, where citizenship meant so much as it did in the United States, but he had wondered whether the people who vote in the United States realized what a vote meant. A single vote, he said, had cost the nation $100,000,000 in the election of 1904.

This remark had reference to the vote cast by the Vice-President in breaking a tie in the Senate further his question of Philippine independence in 1898. He declared that the obligation of a man to serve his country is not a matter of dollars, "not to speak of the continuing appropriations that that vote has entailed upon us."

He closed by calling attention to the platform, which he said pledged the party to remedy legislation in behalf of the workman.

TRANSFERS ON THIRD AVE. TO BE CUT OFF; RIOTING IS FEARED.

is contemplated was made plain in the meeting of the Board of Aldermen this afternoon by Alderman Mulligan, of the Third.

It appears that the abolition of transfers will impose an extra fare upon many persons living in sections of Washington which is within the limits of Greater New York. Alderman Mulligan, with reference to this, presented the following resolutions: "Resolved, that the Board of Transportation Company receive valuable privileges from the authorities governing said territories in consideration of the explicit understanding that in return for such valuable privileges the people of said section would be compensated by cheap and comfortable transit; and

"Whereas, said company has never lived up to the promise made; and whereas, the service rendered has been a crying shame, therefore be it

Resolved, that we, the Honorable Board of Aldermen here assembled, do protest against the proposed change being inflicted upon the people of this section by the imposing of an extra fare; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded forthwith to Receiver Whitridge and General Manager Mayor and the Public Service Commission."

The Giants are playing the best baseball that New York has witnessed in years. They are out for the pennant, and from now until the close of the season the struggle promises to be the most exciting in the history of the league.

WOMAN TAKES MAD LEAP INTO NIAGARA AS POLICE PURSUE

Watched by Office as She Wandered About Before Jumping to Death.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 6.—A woman about 6 feet in height, wearing a black hat, long black coat, black shoes and spectacles and of sallow complexion, appeared in the reservation here at 7 A. M. to-day. She said she came from Saginaw. The police watched her for an hour.

About 8 o'clock she walked toward Prospect Point. Officers started after her, but before they reached her she passed under the railing, leaped from the bank into the American Falls, and nothing more was seen of her. This is the twelfth suicide here since July 1.

HIGHLANDERS AND BOSTON IN GAME

New York Tries a New Pitcher in Effort to Down the Beaneaters.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 6.—The Highlanders took their last shy at the Red Sox here this afternoon and a small crowd was on hand to witness the sport, although it was a fine afternoon for the game. Having lost yesterday's game, the visitors felt that they were at least entitled to an even break, and Jack Chesbro warmed up before the game, believing he had enough on the local outfit to pull down a victory even at this late day. But when time was called it was decided to give O'Connor a chance on the slab. Manager Lake started McMahon, a new recruit, for his team.

BROOKLYN SCORES EARLY ON QUAKERS

Ritchie and Bell in Hot Duel for Last Game at Philadelphia.

Brooklyn, Philadelphia. Grant, 2b. Knabe, 3b. Hummel, 2b. Magee, cf. Bransfield, 1b. Johnson, cf. Sweeney, 3b. Doolin, c. Bell, p.

(Special to The Evening World.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 6.—Another small attendance was present when the Phillies and Brooklyn began their final game of the series this afternoon. Manager Murray was anxious to take the last game from the Superbas, and sent "Lou" Ritchie to the mound, with Charles Doolin to receive him. Bell and Dunn were depended upon to do the trick for Brooklyn. Both pitchers were pounded right at the jump. A walk, a sacrifice and Lumley's single scored a run for the Trolley Dodgers in the opening inning. The Phillies, however, went them one better on Knabe's double, Titus's triple and another three-bagger by Bransfield.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMER RUNS ASHORE IN FOG.

ALBANY, Oct. 6.—Owing to the heavy fog which prevailed early to-day the steamer Frank Jones, of the New York and Albany Transportation Company, grounded in the Hudson River about fifteen miles below this city. The steamer A. J. Phillips, which arrived in Albany and New Baltimore, attempted to use of the Jones's passengers, but was unable to do so, owing to the low water level. The steamer Frank Jones would be floated at high tide. The steamer C. W. Morse, of the People's line, did not reach her dock in this city until 10:15 A. M., and the Dean Richmond, of the Citizens' line, passed up the river, bound for Troy, about fifteen minutes later.

Efforts to float the steamer Frank Jones at high tide this afternoon were unsuccessful. A number of the passengers were brought here by the steamer Frank Jones, while a number remained aboard the grounded vessel.

BABY SUFFOCATED IN BED.

Mrs. Mary Seldmore, of No. 83 First avenue, awoke to-day to find her daughter Margaret, who slept with her, dead at her side. The child was one month old and, according to the police, had been suffocated with the bedclothes. Mrs. Seldmore was exonerated from blame.

CROWD SAW HIM KILLED.

NEWTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—William Kimble, an employee of the Lackawanna Railroad, was run down and almost instantly killed to-day at the station here in the presence of a number of people waiting to take a train.

SULTAN CALLS ON POWERS TO SETTLE WITH BULGARIA

Means to Have All the Rights Guaranteed Him by the Treaty of Berlin.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 6.—The Council of Ministers held a long session to-day to consider the action of Bulgaria in declaring her independence from Turkey at Tirnovo yesterday. It was decided that it was impossible to accept any proceedings that violated existing treaties, and that Turkey should address a circular note to the powers pointing out the necessity of taking measures to enforce respect for the treaty of Berlin.

Replying to the telegram sent to the Turkish Government by Prince Ferdinand, in which he said that in declaring the independence of Bulgaria he had been compelled to respect the voice of the nation and expressed the hope that the friendly relations between the two countries would continue, Turkey says she has invited the powers to confer on the situation, and as her rights are guaranteed by the Powers she will look to them for their aid.

The Yenal Gazette, the organ of the Grand Vicer, says to-day: "We are ready to defend our rights with all our strength. As the action of Bulgaria is not only directed against us, but against all the powers, we should ask the powers to defend their interests and protect the provisions of the Treaty of Berlin."

According to this same journal Austria-Hungary has informed the powers of her intention of withdrawing her troops from the Sanjak of Novi-pazar.

Young Turks Act. SALONIKI, European Turkey, Oct. 6.—The Committee of Union and Progress, which organized and carried out the recent successful revolution in Turkey on the part of the "Young Turks," has issued a proclamation, in which it has set forth that the committee regards the declaration of Bulgarian independence and the intention of Austria-Hungary to annex the occupied provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina as a violation of the rights of Turkey.

It therefore solemnly protests in the name of humanity against the unfavorable action of Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria toward a people which is progressing in the direction of liberty. In conclusion, the committee appeals to Europe against "these attempts on the most sacred rights of the nation."

Ferdinand Accepts Crown. TIRNOVO, Bulgaria, Oct. 6.—Immediately after the proclamation of Bulgarian independence at the Cathedral of day morning, Prince Ferdinand assumed the sovereignty of Bulgaria. The President of the Sobranje, representing the National Assembly, and the Prime Minister, representing the Government, then addressed Ferdinand as "Your Majesty," and begged him to accept the laurel of glory which the Bulgarian King had bestowed on him. Ferdinand accepted the title of Bulgarian King offered me by the nation and the Government.

KEPT FROM COURT BY STORK.

Mrs. Ingrassi Could Not Answer a Charge of Arson. Mrs. Charlotte Ingrassi, whom the police accused of having set fire to her apartment at No. 33 East Seventy-fifth street, on Sept. 25, did not respond to her name when she was called in Yorkville Court to-day to answer to the charge of arson in the first degree.

Washed out an infant in prison, told the Magistrate that the woman had been removed to Bellevue Hospital, where she had given birth to a boy. The case was adjourned for two weeks, the woman's bail being fixed at $500.

COLLEGE YOUTH TAKES COURSE IN REAL POLITICS

Challenges a Voter and Later Congers Has a Lovely Fight on the Bowery.

John G. Congers, student at New York University, and member of the football squad, was desirous of learning practical politics, so he applied to the Republican County Committee for opportunity to get into the game. He was assigned as a watcher at the registration booth, No. 282 Bowery, in the heart of Sullivanville.

Young Mr. Congers was all attention when a husky Boweryite answered the usual questions—age twenty-nine, voted last in Pennsylvania in 1894. The disparity in years in these two statements impressed the watcher to such a degree, that, in polite language, he challenged the would-be voter.

The flow of picturesque language that followed is not capable of reproduction, but it wound up with the statement: "I'll lay for you, young fellow, and there'll be something doing later." At midnight, after a day filled with learning things about political economy that are not taught in New York University, Mr. Congers started homeward.

When a short distance up the Bowery he hit him behind the ear and he went to the pavement. But football skirmishes and centre rush tackles hardened the college boy, and in a second he was on his feet, a bit dazed, but ready for business. For the next five minutes there was the prettiest fight the Bowery has witnessed in many a night. The youngster kept cool, and dodging the heavyweights' rushes, waited for an opening. He got it, and the next two minutes were passed in pounding Republican principles into a Bowery head that lay on the cobblestones.

Young Mr. Congers was on his job again to-day, with a somewhat battered face, but full of enthusiasm about practical politics.

PUTTING A LIMIT ON SKYSCRAPERS IN THIS CITY

Aldermen Asked to Pass Ordinance Drawing Line at 350 Feet.

If you want to build a skyscraper 1,000 feet high, now is the time to prepare the plans, for the Building Code Revision Commission has tentatively approved a resolution limiting the height of buildings in New York City to 350 feet.

The resolution was to-day presented to the Board of Aldermen and was referred to the Committee on Buildings, which will accept public hearings on the proposed ordinance. Before the resolution can become a law the Board of Estimate must pass upon it and the Mayor must affix his signature.

Until the ordinance is finally legalized, all plans for buildings taller than the Singer sky piercer or even taller than the proposed 800-foot Equitable Building may be accepted by the Building Department and such buildings may be erected. But with the suggested law in force New York's sky line may no longer be punctured by structures of steel towers.

The proposed ordinance regulates building heights in general accordance with the width of streets on which they face. Where the width of a street is less than forty-five feet the height of buildings may be 135 feet only. When buildings face a park, square or plaza, or similar public place, the height shall not exceed 225 feet. That is the limit. It is required that in "Class B" buildings such as lofts, stores, warehouses, restaurants, markets, refrigerator plants, stables, factories, workshops, printing houses, slaughter houses, rendering plants, breweries and sugar refineries erected more than fifty-nine feet high, shall be of fire-proof construction.

It is provided also that in "Class B" buildings, light and power plants, car barns, garages, smoke houses, oil refineries, foundries and coal pockets shall be of fire proof construction. Observatories and office buildings are included in the limit height class of 350 feet.

ARNOLD HEADS DEMOCRATIC TICKET IN RHODE ISLAND.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 6.—Only Arnold of Providence, was nominated for Governor of Rhode Island by announcement at the Democratic State Convention held in this city to-day. The nominees for other State offices, also chosen unanimously are as follows: Lieutenant-Governor, Arthur A. Smith; Attorney-General, Joseph A. State; Robert Groves, Providence; Attorney-General, Thomas H. Corcoran; Pawtucket, General Treasurer, Frank D. Babcock, Westerly.

The platform adopted endorsed the national Democratic platform and also stated, in substance, that the candidates, advocated the publication of campaign contributions before election and State contributions to come to give equal representation to towns and cities in the Legislature.
