

SMART SET OF GARRISON'S HAD TO WALK HOME

Guide and Mentor Who Brought Them Here Left Them in the Lurch. HAD TRAIN STOP ORDER. Went Out of Theatre "To See a Friend" and Awoke in Jail.

About once a year the younger society set of Garrison's, this State, which is a station on the Hudson River division of the New York Central road, come down to the city for one of those regular big nights on the Great White Way, last night being the night for the current season.

There were thirty-five or forty in the party, which meant that Main street, Garrison's, would have more or less of a depleted, not to say deserted, look while they were gone, and they were in charge of Marshal Berkens, superintendent of the ferry that plies between Garrison's and West Point. Mr. Berkens was regarded as a highly competent guide because he had been to New York several times, often staying for as long as over night, and he had reached a point where he knew most of the crews of the "Swing New York" wagons by their first names.

Wanted to See a Friend. As the climax of an evening replete with incident, Mr. Berkens piloted his charges to the Gaiety Theatre, where a pleasant time was had by all. Between the third act and the last act Mr. Berkens excused himself from the others and went outside to speak to a friend in a white linen jacket.

There follows a long and prolix blarney which brings us up to an early hour of the new day, when Policeman Lavery found a gentleman who subsequently turned out to be Mr. Berkens, sitting on the curbstone in front of Mino Host J. Churchill's hospitable caravansary, at Broadway and Forty-sixth street, merrily carolling a very popular song hit that reached Garrison's this winter, entitled "My Bonnie Lies over the Ocean." At the West Side Police Court today Mr. Berkens, in support of his claim that he was connected with a prominent industry in his home city which might languish without his presence, thus trying up traffic between West Point and Garrison's, was drawing from an inner pocket certain documents when he came upon an envelope at the sight of which his face assumed a tragic expression above the whiskers and he staggered back, at the same time uttering a deep moan as if of despair.

Hates to Go Home. Recovering himself and speaking in an agitated tone of voice, he said to Magistrate Kerochian: "Judge, look at this," at the same time drawing an official looking letter from the envelope and placing it with a trembling hand upon the bench. Magistrate Kerochian continued to maintain an outward air of calm.

"It appears to be an order instructing the conductor on a certain train to stop at Garrison's and let a gentleman of persons off," he said without excitement, after glancing over the paper.

"And all this time I have been waiting here last night and was carried right on by Garrison's and had to walk back from the next station," moaned Mr. Berkens. "But you're just a shopping man."

"I wouldn't be a mite surprised," said Magistrate Kerochian. "I've seen many a man who has been shopping."

"I almost hate to go back home," said Mr. Berkens. "Nevertheless, you are going, by the next train," said Magistrate Kerochian, "and you're going to start right away."

Which he then did.

RICHES BROUGHT WOE TO FAHRENWALD

Wife Wanted to Fire House When He Asked for Property Transfers.

After nearly twenty years of it Herman Fahrenwald, declaring he could stand it no longer, sued his wife, Bridget, for a separation on the ground of her cruel and outrageous treatment of him, and the case came before Justice Blatchford today in the Supreme Court.

Herman is head waiter in Justice Dugro's Hotel Savoy, but it was not always so, for, he said in his complaint, when he married Bridget, who was not born so near the Rhine as Lublin, in 1888, he was getting only $2 a week.

"But by hard work, diligence and attention to business, advanced until now I receive $30 a month," said Herman, "and by economy and care" he has been enabled to purchase several choice bits of real estate. Apparently these bits brought about all the domestic woes of Justice Dugro's head waiter.

Property in Wife's Name. They include a $5,000 place at Liberty, Sullivan County, N. Y., No. 1343 Clay avenue, in the Bronx, which rents for $30 a month when Herman and Bridget are not making their home there, and another "piece" at No. 1531 Clay avenue.

The first two were recorded in Bridget's name and the last in their joint names, and all the trouble began when Herman wanted Bridget, for the furtherance of some enterprise of his own, to sign over her interest.

"It was in November, 1906," said Herman. "I found Bridget in a temper. I had to fight her and her sister. She broke a picture on the wall and other things to the extent of $300 damages, and when I would not transfer a lease to her she said I could go to — Yes, she did, just that, and she said: 'I feel like setting fire to the house.'"

But, of course, Bridget did not let her feelings get the better of her to the extent of setting fire to the house, for she alleged in her answer, besides denying Herman's insinuations, that she had not been harsh with him. She said she had worked as hard and economized as closely as he, and the possession of these bits of real estate was due as much to her as to him, for she had kept boarders, let furnished rooms and slaved with him to earn and save for twenty years.

Says He Condoned Offence. "Besides, even if all Herman charged was true, he has condoned it by coming to court today."

Magistrate Kerochian, after trying up traffic between West Point and Garrison's, was drawing from an inner pocket certain documents when he came upon an envelope at the sight of which his face assumed a tragic expression above the whiskers and he staggered back, at the same time uttering a deep moan as if of despair.

ing back and living with me since it happened," she said.

The trial progressed no further than the swearing of Herman as a witness, and a few preliminary questions when a halt was called. The lawyers got their heads together on a hint from Justice Blatchford.

Then they called first one, then the other, and finally both the litigious marital partners into the conference, and as a result announced that the case would be withdrawn, as it was believed Herman and Bridget could adjust their differences without further assistance from the Court. And this was done.

Wherever men gather their thoughts will turn to our States and to this spot which has been glorified by his life and death."

ITALY'S KING AGAIN THANKS AMERICANS FOR HELP.

Gives Audience to Celtic's Captain and Asks That His Gratitude Be Expressed Here.

ROME, Feb. 11.—King Victor Emmanuel today received in private audience Capt. H. McI. P. Huse, commander of the relief ship Celtic, with whom he talked for half an hour. The King said he was glad to express to him personally his gratitude for the splendid work done by the Celtic in Sicily and Calabria in distributing relief. He wished also that his thanks and those of the Italian people be conveyed to the American people and government for their generosity in helping the earthquake sufferers, which he characterized as really touching.

Puffing under the eyes, backache, headache and dizziness, burning of the eyes, blurred vision, extreme nervousness and insomnia all indicate urinary trouble. Many more symptoms could be named, but the reader will surely recognize them.

Tailored Suits that Were Up to $25 Priced for Tomorrow, $10

Rearrangement of stocks after inventory brought to our notice about 100 Suits from here and there in the lines that were up to $25—a few of a kind which should have been sold two weeks ago. Now we have got to rush them out, as Spring styles are demanding the room, so we will mark them all $10

They will be one of the great bargain events of Arrow Day, and they will not last longer, as the value is so entirely out of the ordinary, and there are only one hundred suits.

As we do not sell $10 Suits we did not want them to conflict with any other events in this department, and we do not want to create the impression that $10 Suits have any place in our business. We have waited for a favorable opportunity to clear them in a single day at a very low price.

We cannot emphasize too strongly the high character of the suits, as the sale price may lead you to think they are below our style standard. They are the very suits that have placed us foremost among ready-tailored suit stores, not only in value at regular prices, but in high class workmanship and correct modeling.

Every suit is this season's model, and is, of course, "Greenhut standard" in quality of material, high-class tailor work and distinctive fashion.

All-Wool Broadcloths, fancy stripe chevrons and mixtures, Skimmed, others strictly tailored effects; good assortment of colors and all sizes from 34 to 44; regularly up to $25, at $10

Every suit is this season's model, and is, of course, "Greenhut standard" in quality of material, high-class tailor work and distinctive fashion.

S.S.S. BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

S. S. S. is the best treatment for Catarrh because it is a perfect blood purifier. It is the only medicine that is able to get down into the circulation and entirely remove the catarrhal matter and impurities which produce the trouble. As long as the mucous membranes and tissues are kept inflamed and irritated by this impure and infected condition of the blood Catarrh will remain. Its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, of ringing noises in the ears, mucus dropping back into the throat, headaches, watery eyes, difficult breathing, and even stomach disorders and weakened health, cannot be permanently relieved until the blood is purified. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It goes down to the very root of the trouble, and removes every particle of the catarrhal matter from the blood and enriches this vital fluid so that all the mucous surfaces are supplied with nutritive, healthful qualities, instead of being constantly irritated and inflamed by impurities in the circulation. Then the symptoms begin to pass away and when S. S. S. has entirely purified the blood, Catarrh is permanently cured and the general health greatly built up. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.
