

ALL FAT WOMEN IN TOWN HELP TO TIE UP "L" ROAD

Refuse to Move From Stalled Train Because They Feared Third Rail.

HAD TO BE CARRIED OUT

Crew Has Hard Job While Thousands of Delayed Passengers Fume.

According to the members of the wrecking crew, every woman in New York whose weight averages 200 pounds or over as crowded into the cars of the Third Avenue "L" train whose defective brake rigging caused a block of half an hour on that line today.

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning the train leaving One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street for South Ferry over the Third Avenue line came to a full stop at the intersection of Second street after a series of painful jerks and tortured bumps.

The task of transferring the women passengers on the marooned train was an arduous one. Apparently every woman on the train stood in mortal dread of the third rail, and with few exceptions they positively declined to set foot on the elevated structure.

Finally, adopting heroic tactics, the two members of the train crew seized a woman who, they say, weighed in the neighborhood of 300 pounds, and carried her to the waiting train. A start made, the rest was easy, for one after another the women were bundled into the arms of the train crew and carried to the train.

After it was all over the motorman of the wrecked train came to the conclusion that had his train been pushed all the way to the platform of the Ninety-ninth street station the passengers could have been comfortably transferred and the block ended twenty minutes before it did.

OLD HOME FOLKS SAID HE LOCKED HEARTY AS EVER.

Motorman on L Road Thinks Many Persons are Missing Chance of Lifetime.

G. W. Stormes, a motorman on the L road, living at 994 Trinity avenue, Bronx, says: "It is the fear of spending good money for something worthless that keeps many persons from buying a really meritorious article. Some time ago a fellow workman on the L suggested that I try the Cooper remedies.

I had for some years been suffering from stomach trouble, which I attributed to eating my meals in a hurry, and to the further fact that my food was often cold. Frequently after eating I would become sick at the stomach and would vomit all I had eaten.

My stomach was nearly always sour and I was troubled with gas, which caused belching and palpitation of the heart.

"My appetite became poor and I did not relish my food. I ate my meals in a mechanical sort of way, felt bad most of the time and lost strength. It was after a vomiting spell that my friend spoke to me about the Cooper medicine. I laughed at him. I had seen numerous advertisements in the papers about these remedies, but did not believe them.

"However, my friend was so enthusiastic over the results he had obtained from the Cooper medicine that I bought a treatment of the New Discovery and started taking it, with the result that I now enjoy better health than I have had for six years. When meal time comes now I am always ready for it, and never have the slightest discomfort after eating. During my vacation, a short time ago, I went to my old home in Indiana, down on the farm, where my relatives and old friends remarked how well I looked and thought city life certainly agreed with me. I told them I had Cooper's New Discovery to thank for my present state of health.

"My wife also took some of the New Discovery and was greatly strengthened and improved by its use. We keep a supply on hand now, and would not be without it. Stomach sufferers are missing the chance of their lives when they fail to give Cooper's New Discovery a trial.

Titled Dancer in Poses She Will Present To-Day At Restricted Exhibition of Twinkling Bare Feet

Lady Constance's Bare Feet in Farewell Exhibit To-Day

Proceeds of Dance Will Be Divided Between Charity Funds in This City and in Scotland.

The farewell twinkle of Lady Constance Stewart Richardson's shapely feet at Sherry's this afternoon in classic dances will be in the nature of an international benefit.

Those who can get tickets at all are paying $5 for them, but if you are not at the very top of the social ladder you can't get in at any price. It is Lady Constance's good-by appearance in her bare feet in New York, because to-morrow she leaves for a visit to Canada.

There were enough willing to pay $5 to make tickets greatly in demand among the persons considered eligible. The proceeds will be equally divided between the Milk Fund of the New York Society for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor and the School Fund for Poor Children in Scotland.

Lady Constance declares that her dances, while in bare feet, are extremely modest, and that the thick crepe de chine robe she wears is more modest than the extreme décolleté fashion now the mode. She believes in the beauty of nature above all things, but nevertheless shows little except her nice, pink little toes. All her costumes are Greek, caught at the bust and above the knee, to allow greater freedom of dancing.

Shocked Lady Constance. It was quite a shock to Lady Constance, she said today, to find Americans regard her topknot as an exhibition of immolates and then tolerating "Salome." That is, with one exception, Lady Constance had danced at the home of a prominent New York society woman a few nights ago. She heard one woman say:

"Why, this is not so bad. I had so hoped it was going to be dreadful."

Lady Constance believes in teaching children to admire and study the beauties of nature before they learn to read and write, and is educating her own son that way. He does not yet know how to read or write, but his powers of observation and sense of beauty are greatly developed.

After her dance to-day Lady Constance will leave for Montreal to be the guest of the Hon. Mrs. Lionel Guest before going to San Francisco to give matinee performances for the benefit of her school. In her dances to-day Basco, with a large section of the Metropolitan Opera-house orchestra, will furnish the music. Willie Collier, an old friend of the noble danseuse, will act as stage manager.

ACTOR DIES ON THE STAGE. CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 23.—William F. Muldoon, known on the stage as Billy Carroll, died suddenly behind the scenes at the Broadway Theatre here last night. He was manager of a new playlet called "June," which was part of last night's programme at the theatre. The curtain had gone up for the act and Muldoon was standing behind the scenes to direct the movements of the actors when he suddenly collapsed and fell to the floor. He died before a physician could reach him.

Muldoon had been before the public as comedian and manager for forty years. Efforts are being made to locate his relatives. His death is ascribed to heart disease.

AFFINITY HELPS HUSBAND CLUB HIS WIFE FROM DOORS

Discarded Woman With Three Babies, Beaten When Last Appeal Is Made.

THROWN OUT OF COURT

Justice Turned Deaf Ear to Story of Woman Left in Russia

Denied a hearing in the lowest court, put into the street again and again, by the orders of a city Magistrate, who was impatient because the court interpreter couldn't understand her dialect, Jane Tentzer, of No. 415 West Fifth street, made her own appeal to her recreant husband for herself and her three hungry babies to-day.

Her husband beat her with a club. So did his alleged affinity, Bertha. And when they were through Jane Tentzer lay insensible on the sidewalk. She was aroused and taken to the West Forty-seventh street station.

The woman's story was finally learned to-day, though she had been vainly trying to tell it for many weeks.

Abraham J. Tentzer, according to his wife left her and their four children, one boy and three girls, in Russia, five years ago. He has a store at Tenth avenue and Fifty-first street. But he sent no money home after the first few months.

Two months ago she scraped together enough money to come to America with the four children. She found a tenement at No. 415 West Fifth street. He found Abraham three weeks ago. He was living at No. 468 West Fifty-first street, she says, with another woman, who calls herself Bertha Tentzer. He told Jane that she must go away and leave him alone. United States laws were very severe, he said, against wives who came around bothering their husbands after their husbands had married a second time.

Jane Tentzer brooded over this, and at last decided to go to a Judge and find out about it. She asked for the "Court of the Penitentiary" and was sent to the West Side Court, where, trembling and confused, she was conducted before Magistrate Cornell. Mrs. Tentzer tried to tell her story to the interpreter. He confused her still more by telling her to be brief, that what was annoying the Judge and taking up valuable time and asking why she didn't hire a lawyer to find out what she wanted.

"Get that woman out of here!" commanded the Magistrate, according to Mrs. Tentzer. "What does she want?" "Some sort of a hard luck story about her husband in Russia," said the interpreter.

Thereupon Jane Tentzer and her children were hustled out to the Fifty-fourth street sidewalk.

The woman, after a week of advice-seeking, got a summons for her husband. This time the Magistrate tried once more to restrain his impatience with her ignorance and confusion. But Abraham Tentzer spoke quite good English. He said he had divorced his woman and had come to this country to make a new start and now here she was, trying to blackmail him.

Jane Tentzer was brushed out of court, vainly protesting that she knew nothing of any divorce and that she had never seen any papers of the kind.

But she made such lamentation at the front door of the court that Abraham Tentzer promised to give her $5 a week if she would leave him alone and stop making such a fuss. She went away, weeping.

Abraham Tentzer did not keep his promise. His wife went to his house yesterday to remind him of it. Abraham and Bertha set upon her with a rolling pin and a mop handle and beat her until the police, who had heard her screams from the street, came in.

Jane Tentzer had a bottle of vitriol in her pocket. She said afterward that she had intended to drink it and kill herself if her husband was still hard-hearted. But in the light the bottle was broken and both Abraham Tentzer and Bertha were burned about the hands.

They were all taken to Roosevelt Hospital and attended by Dr. Worthington. Then, in bandages, they were sent to the West Side Court, where Magistrate Cornell will have an opportunity to decide on whom the blame for the sordid tragedy rests.

CHANGE OF AIR GOOD FOR CITY HALL PARK.

It Was Administered to Old Force by Transfer and New One Sweeps Clean.

"I think a little salt air will do the City Hall Park force considerable benefit. Better send all hands down to the Battery Park and let us have a new management at City Hall" was a recent command of Park Commissioner Henry Smith. He had found the City Hall Park with papers scattered everywhere, paths un-swept and railings down in several places.

To-day the Commissioner passed through the park. Fences were up and plumb, waste paper and fruit peelings had disappeared. The plots were neatly roused and the edges and grasses in places. Paths were clean and tidiness prevailed. He summoned the foreman. "Keep up this work and you will have no need for a change of air," he said.

PLAN FOR OPENING BRIDGE. The members of the committee appointed by Mayor McClellan to formulate plans for a suitable celebration at the opening of the Queensboro Bridge are working indefatigably.

This Recipe Conquers Deep-Seated Coughs Quickly.

This simple, home-made remedy, made by the recipe below, usually conquers a stubborn cough in twenty-four hours. Although inexpensive, nothing more effective could be bought for ten times the cost. It is a splendid thing to have in the house, for if taken when the first symptoms of a cold or cough appear it will enable you to avoid the usual annoyance and suffering. This recipe is worth saving:

Granulated Sugar Syrup.....1 1/2 oz. Pinex.....2 1/2 oz. Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add half cup of water, stir and let boil for a short moment. Put the Pinex (50 cents) worth in a pint bottle and add the Syrup. Shake well and take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours, as required.

This simple remedy is also excellent for whooping cough, chest pains, hoarseness and similar ailments. Children take it without the usual howl, because the taste is so pleasant. The total cost of a full pint of the mixture is about 54 cents, and will last a whole family a long time.

Use the ingredients as here given. Pinex being the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, is vastly superior to any of the weaker pine oil or pine tar preparations. It is rich in the natural elements of the pine which give the very air of the pine forests its remarkable curative power in tuberculosis and other membrane diseases.

If your druggist does not have the real Pinex in stock he can easily order it for you if you ask him.

Granulated Sugar makes the best syrup, and is a simple, excellent sedative.
