England Regards Coming Meet Between Yale-Harvard and Oxford-Cambridge as an International Championship Affair, but It is Nothing More Than a Set of Games Between the Athletic Aristocrats of the College World.

COORLING to the English sporting papers, our cousins across the sea regard the coming athletic meet between Oxford-Cambridge and Yale-Harvard as a sort of an international championship.

Here in America we hold a slightly different opinion of the affair. It is merely a pleasant little meet between the athletic aristocrats of the college world here and in England. If the English are victorious it will signify nothing—or at least it will not show that England is athletically superior to America.

Oxford and Cambridge are the greatest athletic colleges in England, and they could represent their country quite legitimately in an international match. Since the recent American intercollegiate championship games showed plainly that Yale and Harvard can hardly claim a like right to represent America.

Of course this little jaunt by Harvard and Yale is purely a private matter between themselves and the English colleges, and they make no pretense of representing the whole of America. It will be a fine thing for college sport when some arrangement is made between the collegiate athletic associations of the two countries by which the winner of the intercollegiate championship here next year will meet the strongest college team in England.

With the advance in athletic sport that will come some day.

BATTING NELSON is having a hard time getting back into the fighting game. Bat recently tried to make his debut as a comeback artist at Vancouver, Wash., but they wouldn't stand for it. There at a meeting of people opposed to boxing, and Bat appeared to plead his own case.

"Give me a pair of six-ounce gloves, a twenty-four-foot ring, a canvas-covered floor," said Nelson, "and I'm right at home. When I was a boy I worked in a machine shop. I met with an accident and was unconscious seven days and nights, and when I came out I turned to a gentler game. I've been boxing ever since. In my career I've made a quarter of a million dollars, and I made it all honestly, and that is more than you can say of many of the business men of this town or any other town. If this sparring bout is pulled off and you can say that I had anything to do with it I'll donate $10,000 to build a church or any charitable institution you may suggest. As for brutality, there's nothing brutal about sparring. Why, look at football. I'm a fighter, but I wouldn't be in a game like that. I wouldn't be a center rush or a halfback or a quarterback. I would rather be away back where I wouldn't be in it."

One of the committee said that a fight would bring a tough element into the town.

"I'll tell you about that," said Bat, jumping up. "I'll answer that. Pretty soon over in London they are going to have a coronation of King George V. I will bet you that there will be from $200,000 to $300,000 in money, diamonds and jewelry stolen by pickpockets, but at that coronation there will be a coronation because there will be crooks working there. There are always pickpockets working there in a crowd, and they'd rather work where there are church people to work, because they are easy and unsophisticated. A man of the world is not so easily robbed. He has more experience and is broader minded."

"Now, see here," exclaimed a somewhat irritated questioner, "do you think there is anything elevating in boxing?"

PHILLIES' FINAL WITH DODGERS.

WASHINGTON PARK, BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 22.—The third and final game of the series between the Phillies and Bill Dahlers trolley prodgers was played today in the presence of 3,000 fans. Both managers were anxious to carry off the game and had out their entire corps of pitchers. Working them perform. Dahlers selected Bell to do the twirling for his team, while Dolin put in Soutipaw Burns to work for his club.

GIANTS GET THREE IN FIRST AT HUB

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Giants got three runs in the first inning at the Hub today, but they were unable to score more than one run in the rest of the game.

BATTING ORDER.

New York: Devore, rf.; Doyle, 2b.; Snodgrass, cf.; Murray, lf.; Merkle, 1b.; Crandall, ss.; Meyers, c.; Druce, p.

BOSTON.

BOSTON, Mass., June 22.—An overcast sky and a cool temperature made it a delightful day for the last of the present series between the Giants and Boston this afternoon. The Giants went after the final game of the series here with a spurt. During the next few days while the Giants are engaged with Brooklyn the Cubs will be at Pittsburgh, and Manager McGraw is still confident that the Pirates will be able to pull the leaders back a peg or two, in which case his own team will be able to start their long stretch on the home grounds at the head of the column.

HILLTOPS FIGHT FOR THIRD PLACE

NEW YORK, June 22.—Heavy clouds on the Hill Top just before the game between the Red Sox and the Highlanders frightened hundreds of fans away this afternoon. The Hill Top was still crowded by the absence of Wolter, but young Fitzgerald was holding down the job very acceptably. Warhop and Pape were the opposing pitchers, and as the game was to decide third place it was a hard fight from the start. With one down in the first inning, Larry Gardner singled for Boston, but was left on first base when Speaker and Lewis both were pegged out by Warhop. No runs.

LYNCH OVERRULED HIMSELF, SAY PITTSBURG PLAYERS.

CHICAGO, June 22.—According to the Pittsburgh players, when President Lynch overruled Pittsburgh's protest of the Boston game, he ruled against his own ruling. The protest was based on rule No. 41, which Lynch is said to have written, differentiating the rules of the chief field umpire. Pittsburgh claimed the wrong umpire made the decision on which the protest was based. In deciding the protest, Lynch naively pointed to Rule No. 41 as the one on which he based his ruling. Baseball rules are so complexly worded, Pittsburgh players declared, that they can be cited pro and con on any case imaginable.

BIG GOLF FIELD BEGINS TOURNEY AT APAWAMIS

Walter Travis's 75 Will Doubtless Be Low Card in First Round.

(Special to The Evening World.) RYE, N. Y., June 22.—Perfect weather and an enormous field of starters marked the start of the annual golf tournament of the Apawamis Club today. Up to noon more than 100 starters were on the ground with prospects of a score more. The crowd of this year was due to the fact that the national amateur championship, three months hence, is to be fought over this course, while the club itself has one of the longest established fixtures.

The first well known player away was James R. Hyde, Brooklyn, the former Yale player, who was one of the semi-finalists in the Metropolitan Championship. Hyde, paired with Walter J. Travis, started, paired with James D. Foot, the local veteran. Charles H. Seely, Metropolitan title holder, who has not participated in a tourney in nearly three years, was on hand with Ralph Carroll, Greenwich, as running mate. John M. Ward, Garden City, played with Fred Wheeler, President of the Apawamis Club. Harold Kirkby, Kirtland, N. Y., was paired with Walter J. Travis, his Englewood club mate, as partner. Other interesting pairs were Gardner White, Oakland, and Max Marston, Cranford; W. F. Morgan Jr., Hattuson, and F. H. McCann, Princeton; C. T. Eddy Jr., Princeton, and D. W. Houston Jr., Princeton, and Robert Hunter, Yale inter-collegiate champion, and G. C. Waldo Jr., Bridgeport. The qualifying round is in 36 holes.

The best early scores were made by Walter Travis, who finished with a score of 75 in the first round. John M. Ward, Garden City, was second with a score of 76. Charles H. Seely, Metropolitan title holder, was third with a score of 77. James D. Foot, Garden City, was fourth with a score of 78. Fred Wheeler, President of the Apawamis Club, was fifth with a score of 79. Walter J. Travis played better than can be recalled this season. Barring bad approach putts on the ninth and seventeenth greens, Kirkby made a hole-in-one on the fourth he made no real errors. His 75 will doubtless be low card in the first round.
