

HILTON DEFEATS TRAVERS IN GOLF MATCH

100 DOGS AT SOCIETY GIRL'S DOG FUNERAL

Weather—Fair To-night; Friday Cloudy; Warmer.

Weather—Fair To-night; Friday Cloudy; Warmer.

FINAL EDITION.

The World.

FINAL EDITION.

PRICE ONE CENT.

Copyright, 1911, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World).

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1911. 18 PAGES

18 PAGES

PRICE ONE CENT.

HILTON WINS FROM TRAVERS BY 3 UP IN NIP AND TUCK ROUND FOR THE GOLF TITLE

American Put Up Strong Defense, but His Brace Came Too Late.

HERRESHOFF WINS, TOO

Englishman Was Off His Game in First Round and Gallery Was Disappointed.

APAWAMIS RYE, Sept. 14.—

Hilton, the English champion, defeated Jerome D. Travers at the end of 36 holes by 3 up. The Englishman's strong finish overcame an early afternoon gain by the American.

Travers started on the second half with a remarkable improvement over his morning play. At the twenty-seventh hole he reduced Hilton's morning advantage of 2 up to 1 up, but from the twenty-eighth hole to the finish, the English champion recovered and finished with a lead of 3 up.

Resuming play this afternoon on the Apawamis Links, Jerome D. Travers displayed a wonderful reversal of form over his play in the morning when Hilton, the English champion, led him 4 up at the end of the first 18 holes. Travers brought the large gallery to its feet time and again by his brilliant driving and putting.

At the twenty-seventh hole Hilton beat him by 3 up and 2 to play at 36 holes, when he took Kirby 9 up and 2 to go, 36 holes.

Travers took the first three holes in part 4 to 2 for his rival, lost the fourth in 5 to 4 and halved the fifth in a fine 3. The sixth was Hilton's hole, like the fourth, in part 4 to 5, while the seventh was a poor half.

Travers won a 2 to Hilton's 3 and then cut par a stroke on the ninth, which gave him that hole and left Travers only 1 down at the turn. Cards:

First half—Hilton—Out. 5 4 4 4 4 5 5 6—40
Travers—Out. 4 4 4 5 5 5 5 5—37
In the afternoon, Hilton's hole was just off the green. Travers took the hole in 1 down, things began to look interesting. The tenth, eleventh, and twelfth were all halved in 1, the allowance, except on the twelfth, which is 2 strokes. Travers lost the fourteenth and fifteenth, Hilton cutting par a full stroke on the latter.

On the twentieth hole a bad approach by Hilton gave Travers another chance to pull Hilton back, and he holed out for a 4, which left the Englishman 2 up. Hilton's game seemed to be surprisingly uncertain in the afternoon, and especially his short iron shots.

On the twenty-first hole Hilton's second shot over the green into the rough, while Travers laid his dead and won his third successive hole. Hilton 1 up.

Twenty-second hole—Travers topped his drive, while Hilton's was perfect. Travers was unable to recover the error and Hilton won the hole 4 to 5. Hilton 2 up.

Twenty-third hole—Hilton's iron to the short hole was just off the green. Travers laid his on the sloping surface and the crowd shouted "Whoa" when it began to roll away from the hole. The hole was halved in three. Hilton 2 up.

At 3 P. M. Herreshoff was six up and eight to play; Whitmore was one up and seven to play; Evans was one up and fourteen to play; and Hilton was one up and nine to play.

The chances that the American amateur golfing title will cross the ocean to England were materially increased when Harold B. Hilton finished the first half of his match today with Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair with a lead of 4 up. The other three matches at the 18th green in third round of the tournament stood: W. W. Whitmore of Boston and C. W. Insley of New York, even up; F. Herreshoff of Swanton, Vt., 4 up on Oswald Kirby of Englewood; Albert

BOY FIREBUG GRINS AS HE CONFESSES KINDLING BLAZES

Father Asks That Eleven-Year-Old Tony Scalla Be Locked Up So He'll Be Good.

APAWAMIS RYE, Sept. 14.—

Eleven-year-old Tony Scalla, son of a Manhattan jeweler, stood up in the Children's Court in Brooklyn this afternoon, charged with arson. He didn't seem to care. He was even indifferent when his father told the justice that there was no possible excuse for Tony, and his parents would be pleased to have him locked up somewhere until he was of age.

Tony slipped out of bed at his home, No. 31 Pine street, East New York, at midnight last night and went on a prowling party across the street from No. 38 Crescent avenue, looking out of their windows, saw the curtains in the window of the house blaze up. In the light they saw Tony running away. He dived into the basement entrance of a flat house at No. 31 Crescent avenue.

The neighbors sent hurry calls to Police Headquarters and Sgt. Benker was sent over from the Miller avenue station. When he arrived the curtains had been pulled down and the fire stamped out. Tony was coming up the street pushing ahead of him three babies' go-carts hitched tandem.

Benker arrested him. A moment later there was a shout of fire from No. 551. Tony had started a blaze in the coal bins of the apartment-house after removing the go-carts.

Mr. Marshall Kelly met Benker and his small prisoner at the station. To Kelly the youngster confessed setting both fires.

"Never do anything like that before," asked Kelly.

"Sure," grinned Tony, "when we lived in New York at No. 35 West Twenty-fifth street I set a lot of fires, but they never got on to me. I like to see the engines. But they caught me stealing some stuff and pop had them put me in the Catholic protector."

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO.

Trolley Strikes Limousine in Which Mrs. Repelow Is Riding.

Identifies Son, Killed by Train.

James Havens of No. 182 Forty-first street, Brooklyn, today identified the body of the young man who was killed last night by a Culver train at Gravesend avenue, near Lawrence street, as that of his son, Charles E. Havens, twenty-one years of age, a motorcycle salesman. It is believed that the young man stepped from a southbound train directly in the path of one northbound.

NOTED SURGEON GETS BLOOD POISON FROM ANOTHER

Dr. John A. Bodine Infected While Operating Upon Dr. E. H. Quinn.

BOTH IN GRAVE DANGER.

Dr. Quinn's Trouble a Result of Scratch Received While Attending Charity Patient.

Blood poisoning, contracted by a surgeon from a charity patient in a hospital during an operation by the first surgeon, and passed to the second surgeon in the course of an operation in the first, is the remarkable cause of the serious condition of Dr. E. H. Quinn of No. 108 West Seventy-first street, and Dr. John A. Bodine of No. 151 West Seventy-second street, one of the most noted surgeons in the United States. The lives of both surgeons hung in the balance yesterday, but they are better to-day and the medical men in attendance hope for the recovery of both.

Dr. Quinn is one of the visiting surgeons of St. John's Hospital in Long Island City. About ten days ago he performed an amputation in the operating room of the hospital on a charity patient. A trifling scratch on Dr. Quinn's hand, unnoticed at the time of the operation, served to admit to his blood a virulent germ from the blood of the patient.

As soon as he realized that he had contracted poison Dr. Quinn took steps to care for himself. But he was unable to stop the spread of the ailment, and owing from experience what the consequence might be unless heroic measures were taken, called in Dr. Bodine, who is Professor of Surgery at the Poly-clinic Hospital, for consultation.

The great specialist and the suffering surgeon agreed that a speedy operation was necessary. The operation was performed in a private hospital a few doors away from Dr. Quinn's residence.

Every hygienic precaution was taken. Dr. Bodine, experienced in such cases and warned by the condition of Dr. Quinn of the virulence of the poison he was about to remove, neglected no safeguard. Nevertheless, he, too, contracted septicaemia.

"I have the very first indication that the poison had affected him," Dr. Bodine called in eminent medical advisers. Prompt remedial measures were adopted, but it was a close race. For a time it was feared that both Dr. Bodine and Dr. Quinn would succumb.

36 MINISTERS TO SEE JACK JOHNSON FIGHT BRITON.

That Many Have Already Obtained Tickets for the London Battle.

NEW YORKER KILLED.

O. D. F. Lynch Crushed by Elevator in Hotel at Los Angeles.

Keene Horse Wins Stake.

Doncaster, Eng., Sept. 14.—The horse of the day was the two-year-old, distance three-quarters of a mile, run here to-day was won by James R. Keene's Outrun. St. Neots was second and Buckskin third. There were five starters.

Eloping Wife and Her Affinity as Choir Boy

MRS. W. L. SUYDAM JR.

BOY WHO ELOPED DEFIES PLEAS TO QUIT MRS. SUYDAM

Pair Are "Happy" in Furnished Flat on West Twelfth Street, He Says.

Harry M. Noble, the Brooklyn plumber whose young son, Fred, eloped from Blue Point with Mrs. Walter Lispenard Suydam Jr. on Sept. 5, declared this afternoon that he had learned from his boy that he and the eloping wife of the aristocratic young millionaire were very happy and that they loved each other with tremendous ardor.

"I have heard from Fred," said Mr. Noble, "through his brothers. He hasn't come to me yet, and I guess he won't. Oh, yes, I want to see him—very, very badly, and he knows it. That's why he stays away. But I know where he is, in a furnished flat on West Twelfth street, and that Mrs. Suydam is with him.

"While I can't very well forgive the boy, I realize that he was more or less led into the thing. It isn't difficult for a boy to fall in love with a beautiful and talented young woman who is disappointed in and tired of her husband. She got out, but he undoubtedly got in love so deep that he didn't know if he was standing on his head or his feet.

SMALL HOPE OF PARTING INFATUATED PAIR, HE SAYS.

Walter Lispenard Suydam Jr., the father-in-law of the young woman, came to my home, No. 38 Decatur street, Brooklyn, last night, and we had a conference. I felt sorry for him and I felt sorry for his son, also I felt sorry for myself. I told Mr. Suydam that I would do all in my power to straighten out the young woman. He has a strong hope of being able to do anything. Fred is of age and his own boss. I am only his father. He didn't dare to consult me in this thing. I knew something of his going about with this young woman, and I warned him that he was walking on dangerous ground. I never imagined it would go to the limit that it has.

"My oldest boy, Harry, saw Fred yesterday, and Fred told him that he and Mrs. Suydam were very happy. He didn't know just what his plans were, but he was going to do his best to report the young woman. He has a job with the Distless Duster Company, and I believe he has gone back to work.

"He thinks he can stick it out, and when Mr. Suydam gets a divorce, he may stick it out. I have my doubts. It's a ten times harder than just running off and getting married.

"Fred told his brothers that Mrs. Suydam led such a lonely life with her

FRED NOBLE AT 17

POOR WIDOW SUES RICH JOHN GERKEN, CHARGING FRAUD

Mrs. Roche Declares Banker Wrongly Invested Savings Entrusted to Him.

Charging that she has been swindled of a life's savings by John Gerken, millionaire banker and clubman, for whose family she once worked as a servant, Mrs. Margaret Roche, a widow of Hempstead, L. I., brought suit to-day in the Supreme Court for the recovery of the money, amounting to $100,000 and interest from October, 1910.

According to Samuel I. Ferguson, a lawyer, Mrs. Roche is destitute and living in a hut. To provide a meagre livelihood for herself and a son, who is dying of consumption and dependent upon her, she has been doing odd jobs scrubbing and washing for wealthy persons in and around Hempstead.

Mrs. Roche and her husband, now dead, worked for the Gerken family as household and coachman. Mr. Ferguson told Justice Penderleton, in opposing a motion to dismiss the suit, that Gerken persuaded Mrs. Roche to take the $100,000 she and her husband had placed in a savings bank—and entrust it to him to deposit in the United National Bank, of which Gerken was then president. Instead, it is alleged Gerken invested the money in a company which conducts a number of liquor saloons and gave her a certificate representing $1,000 of stock.

Mrs. Roche says she asked Gerken to return the $1,000. She wants the court to force Gerken to give her her money.

The Gerkens are well known. Mrs. Gerken is one of the most noted women whips in the country, and is a conspicuous figure at the horse shows held at Madison Square Garden.

KEENE HORSE WINS STAKE.

DONCASTER, Eng., Sept. 14.—The horse of the day was the two-year-old, distance three-quarters of a mile, run here to-day was won by James R. Keene's Outrun. St. Neots was second and Buckskin third. There were five starters.

(Continued on Second Page.)

BURIES HER TWO DOGS WITH 100 OTHERS IN FUNERAL PROCESSION

Miss Jennie Crocker Puts Crepe Bows on Their Collars and Makes Attending Valets Wear Mourning Bands.

SOCIETY, PRESENT IN FORCE, NEVER CRACKED A SMILE

Harry Lehr's Freak Monkey Dinner and C. K. G. Billings's Famous Horse Dinner Eclipsed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—The latest freak stunt of Miss Jennie Crocker has made the jaded sensation inventors of Fifth avenue and Newport—to whom Miss Crocker is by no means a stranger—shudder and moan with envy. Miss Crocker pulled off a double dog funeral at San Mateo, the great Crocker ranch, yesterday that made a mockery of Harry Lehr's monkey luncheon, C. K. G. Billings's horse dinner and all the chained chameleon wearers of the fashionable world.

The deceased dogs were Boston terriers, valued at $5,000 each. They were the pride of Miss Crocker's great kennels. They were blue ribbon winners and were believed to be as near the perfect Boston terrier type as any pup the world has ever known.

They died. A mysterious disease to which only dogs of the bluest blood are subject, known as "Little Johnny flea," got into their aristocratic systems and they could not be cured.

They died. A mysterious disease to which only dogs of the bluest blood are subject, known as "Little Johnny flea," got into their aristocratic systems and they could not be cured.

Miss Crocker had two Egyptian saraphs modelled out of cement. She dressed in deepest mourning. For the funeral every one of the remaining hundred dogs in the kennels was brought out of his box and decorated with a large crepe bow in the loop of his collar. The uniformed menials who help Miss Crocker attend her charges each had wide mourning bands on the sleeves of their brown liveries, and solemnly led the dogs in procession to the place of burial. There were dogs worth $100,000 in the sad procession.

All the Burlingame Club millionaires and many from San Francisco came to see the affecting spectacle. There was never a smile during the ceremonies. Some persons even wept. For the Crockers are very, very rich.

Miss Jennie Crocker, who came into a fortune some years ago variously estimated at between $1,000,000 and $7,000,000, has long been known as an original young woman. Her name has frequently appeared in print in connection with stories of bizarre "stunts" which she has either personally performed or arranged for.

Two years ago she created a sensation at the Burlingame (Cal.) Country Club by appearing in men's attire during the progress of a polo match and demanding permission to play a game. Shortly after coming into her fortune, she gave a ball at San Mateo which is said to have cost $500,000. A specially constructed building was erected for the affair on her country place and was torn down the next day.

Her dog kennels cost $100,000 to construct. For several years she has fed her prize canines on eggs with ice cream as an occasional dainty.

Two years ago she lost a $20,000 pearl necklace while attending a ball at the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco. It was never recovered.

Miss Crocker is a niece of Mrs. Jackson Gouraud, who gave a snake dance which attracted some attention three years ago, and very lately took a part temporarily in a flashy Broadway show.

Ends Life Feasting in Face Wife. Giovanni Nocoli killed himself with gas at Carlo Polla's Hotel at New Lots road and Vest avenue, East New York, this afternoon rather than face an angry and disappointed wife. Ill and unsuccessful ever since he came to this country, Nocoli had been sending back to his wife glowing stories of his property. The other day his wife wrote that she was starting for this country to share his wealth with him.

SCORES TO-DAY

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

AT BOSTON.

GIANTS—0 2 0 5 0 0 0 0 —
BOSTON—0 0 1 0 0 1 0 2 —

Batteries—Wiltse and Meyers; Matten and Hardin.

AT PITTSBURGH.

FIRST GAME.

CHICAGO—0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 — 2
PITTSBURGH—0 0 0 0 1 0 2 — 3

Batteries—Brown and Archer; Camnitz and Simon.

SECOND GAME.

CHICAGO—0 0 0 0 0 0 0 —
PITTSBURGH—0 1 0 1 0 1 1 —

Batteries—Riehe and Archer; Liffield and Gibson.

AT ST. LOUIS.

FIRST GAME.

CINCINNATI—0 1 0 2 0 1 0 —
ST. LOUIS—0 1 0 0 2 0 2 —

Batteries—Suggs and McLean; Harmon and Bliss.

SUES FOR FIRE DAMAGES.

Survivor of Triangle Disaster Alleges Negligence and Asks $5,000.

Sarah Friedman, one of the survivors of the Triangle shirt Waist Company fire, in which 146 lives were lost, filed suit in the Supreme Court to-day, through lawyer I. Ganshorst, against Joseph J. Auld, owner of the building, for $5,000 damages.

In her complaint she tells of the doors being locked and bolted at the time the fire occurred, and adds that she slid down the cable attached to the elevator and in this way had an almost miraculous escape from death. She said she became unconscious in the elevator shaft and was severely injured by a fall. She attributes her injuries to the negligence of the defendants.

New Vatican Road for Pope.

ROME, Sept. 14.—The engineers of the Vatican have planned a new road leading from the Apostolic Palace to the Gardens and which will enable the Pope to stop from his own apartment immediately into the fresh air. At present the Pontiff must pass through Raphaela Leoni and the Lapioarian Museum before reaching the gate of the gardens.

Lawyer Elected Bank President.

John V. Irwin, counsel of the American Savings Bank, No. 115 West Forty-second street, was elected president of the bank at the September meeting of the board of Trustees, held to-day.

FOR BASEBALL AND RACING REPORTS SEE PAGE 13.