NEW CARDINALS CHEERED BY THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN AS THEY START FOR ROME

8,000 Sing in Cathedral, 5,000 Wig-Wag Farewell From Staten Island.

THROUGH IN STREETS.

Shipping Gives Deafening Salute to Archbishop Farley and Mgr. Falconio.

Cardinal Designate John M. Farley and the Pope's personal representative at Washington, Mgr. Diomedo Falconio, also designate as a Prince of the Church, took their departure to-day for Rome to attend the consistory that is formally to elevate them to their exalted stations. No nation's heroes of secular achievement ever set forth upon a triumphal journey under more impressive auspices than marked the Godspeed given these noted prelates by the great gathering of thirty thousand sons and daughters of the church, stretching in an unbroken line from the channel rail in St. Patrick's Cathedral to the pier at the foot of West Fifth street.

Solemn ecclesiastic ceremony was followed by unrestrained enthusiasm of the laity. The Stars and Stripes waved beside the yellow and gold Papal colors and the progress of the cardinal-designate from the cathedral to the waiting steamer, was a continuous and mighty ovation.

The sun had barely lifted above the eastern horizon when the streets near the cathedral began to fill with thousands gathering to do honor to their future cardinal. High above the heads of the devoted, a huge American flag and a Papal flag flung their folds to the chilling wind from between the lofty spires of the cathedral.

8,000 CHILDREN FILL NAVE OF CATHEDRAL.

In long double lines, guarded by black frocked priests and hooded sisters, the children of the parochial schools of the archdiocese began filing into the cathedral at 7 o'clock. Each child carried two small flags, American and Papal. The whole great nave of the cathedral was reserved for the little ones, no adults being admitted until all the 8,000 children had been seated.

At 8 o'clock the cathedral was filled to overflowing and the Rev. John J. Keen, pastor of the church and of the Holy Name, entered to take charge of the exercises. A little after 8 the two Cardinal-Designate, followed by their retinue of monsignors, vicars, councilors, movable rectors and priests of the cathedral, filed into the channel and took their places before the altar.

The magnificent organ boomed forth the strains of "Blest Be The Faith," and this wonderful hymn never rang out with greater impressiveness than as it was sung by the chorus of thousands of youthful voices lifted in honor of their Cardinal-to-be. Mgr. Lavelle then read the itinerary. This was followed by the singing of the "Tantum Ergo Sacramentum."

"GOD SAVE OUR CARDINAL!" SAID THE CHILDREN CRY.

The two honored prelates, followed by their train of lesser dignitaries, then marched slowly down the aisle. Led by Father Keen, the great concourse of children rose and shouted "God save our Cardinal!" Three times in quick succession their voices united in this tribute, and again, as the Cardinal-designate stepped to the altar, the same salute reached the open ears of the cathedral.

On the steps of the cathedral the white-robed choir boys formed a passage in the crowd as the prelates walked to the waiting automobiles. The police, in charge of Inspector McCluskey, held back the surging throng. The archbishop and Mgr. Falconio entered the first automobile, accompanied by the inspector. Smilingly the two noted churchmen lifted their silk hats to the crowds, displaying their little caps of archbishop's purple, while a battery of photographers pressed around. The cardinal-designate ascended to the platform of twenty-five motor cars with filing with their clerical escort.

STOLEN $422,000 MAY BE TRACED BY ROTHSCHILD WILL.

Country-Wide Search for Big Loot From Federal Bank Made Among Surrogates.

$500,000 HAS VANISHED.

Attorney Glaze Certain Story of Former Wife on Hidden Hoard Is True.

George W. Glaze, attorney for the receiver of the wrecked Federal Bank, left today for St. Louis to interview Mrs. E. C. Batten, whose first husband was David Rothschild. The attorney is firmly convinced that Mrs. Batten's statement that Rothschild "planted" $422,000 of the funds taken from the Federal Bank by him when he wrecked it is correct, and that an effort is now being made somewhere in this country to probate a will made by Rothschild under which some interested persons hope to get the fortune.

The trip to St. Louis was made after a second telegram came to-day from E. C. Batten, husband of the former wife of Rothschild. In the telegram it was made plain that somebody was offering to probate a will and it was intimated that Mrs. Batten would be glad to see the attorney for the bank. Rothschild died in Sing Sing, after serving two years of a nine-year sentence. The Federal Bank closed on April 14, 1904.

Mr. Glaze said before he left the city to-day: "The receiver for the bank, Leo Schlessinger, collected all the money he could get track of and this was distributed to the depositors, to the extent of thirty-five cents on the dollar. In addition he assessed the stockholders and obtained a judgment for $200,000 against them, of which we were only able to collect sufficient to pay 11 per cent. more to the depositors—a total of 46 per cent."

"The capital stock and surplus of the Federal Bank was $200,000. This was entirely wiped out and the depositors' money was used to the extent of $100,000. Assuming that only $200,000 was accounted for by legitimate losses of the bank, the balance would represent what was abstracted—a total of $500,000."

MANY CORROBORATIONS OF CONCEALED HOARD.

On the day that David Rothschild resigned as president, early in April, 1904 there was obtained from the bank by Mrs. Batten a large property, perfectly good security, a large proportion of which was his father-in-law's—Kressel's paper.

"In its place was substituted an equal amount of 'dummy' paper. This was the only sum taken out in a block just before Rothschild resigned and was arrested. In my opinion, if all of this supposed fund is obtained without too much expensive litigation, it would go far to pay the creditors of the bank in full. My purpose as attorney for the receiver is to exert every effort to bring about that result."

"We have already obtained the cooperation of the banking departments of New York and New Jersey, and of District Attorney Whitman."

It is presumed that the brothers of Rothschild, in Cincinnati, the heirs of his brother, Louis, now dead, and Rothschild's own child, would be most interested in the existence and probating of a will and inquiry concerning the will is being made in the sections where they reside.

MAYOR'S GREETING TO WOMEN A SLAP AT SUFFRAGETTES

"I Suppose Your Husbands Know You're Here," He Says, and One Proves He Does by Calling Wife.

"You May Want the Vote, But We Very Often Want Things We Shouldn't Have," Gaynor Declares

Mayor Gaynor, in peevish humor, opened the convention of the New York State Federation of Woman's Clubs at the Hotel Astor to-day. He gave the suffragettes an unexpected shock when he said at the beginning of his address that his "head was so full of ash cans he could hardly think of anything else."

Then he handed a slap to the suffragettes which pleased the "anti" faction, though he tempered his remarks to please the vote-wanters by declaring that the men couldn't keep the ballot from them. The convention is about half and half on the suffrage question.

The Mayor said: "I do not know really what you are driving at. I am not well enough acquainted with the work of the women's clubs in the State—although my sister belongs to the one at Utica—to know just what you are doing; and it is the easiest thing in the world, therefore, for me to put my foot in it, as the saying is, if I go to advising you."

APPLAUSE WHEN HE FIRST MENTIONS SUFFRAGE.

"I suppose some of you want the suffrage; some of you want to vote. (Applause.) That looks as though practically all of you want a vote. Yet we very often want things we should not be allowed to have—from infancy up. My principal trouble this morning is to empty the ash cans and garbage cans."

"I can only say that when the women of this nation want the suffrage they will get it. The men are not going to keep it away from you. But there are a whole lot of women who do not want the suffrage."

"You want to break up the old notion of the unity of man and wife, mental, spiritual and physical. But do not break it up altogether; leave us a little of it when you get through."

"I have talked with some people that want to destroy everything, and they want to do it in twenty-four hours, which is the worst part of it. You reformers must not try to do too much in a day. Even the bad things have got to be removed gradually."

RADICAL REFORMERS A NUISANCE, SAYS GAYNOR.

"The reformers to-day, men and women, who go around quietly declaiming against everything, calling themselves radicals, are more of a nuisance in this world than anything else, to my way of thinking. As a certain passage in the Bible says, you have to teach 'line upon line, line upon line; precept upon precept, precept upon precept; here a little and there a little.' Just fasten that inside the crown of your hats with a long stickpin, and read it once a day and it will do you an awful lot of good."

"We assume that your husbands know where you all are, and that, strong minded as some of you are, we have no doubt you are here with your husbands' permission, and that makes it all the more easy for me to say that in behalf of all the men of the city, we welcome you here and are glad to see you."

Mrs. William Tod Heimuth, speaking later and referring to the Mayor's remarks, said:

"We have worked for forty years and haven't broken down yet. We don't expect to do anything in twenty-four hours, but when we do it will amaze even His Honor the Mayor."

DIX DISAPPOINTS ELEGATES BY NON-APPEARANCE.

The convention promises to be one of the most successful ever held by the New York Women's Clubs. The delegates were disappointed in the non-appearance of Gov. Dix, but the Mayor's remarks provided them with enough.

There was so much whispering at the start of the meeting that the proceedings had to be stopped while the chair-

INVALID GIRL SAVES LIFE OF WOMAN ABLAZE

Uses Bed Blanket to Smother Flames, When Aroused by Knock at Door.

Confined to her bed by illness, and all alone in the flat on the ground floor of No. 157 Harrison street, Brooklyn, Miss Mary Quick, eighteen years old, heard the screams of a woman in the hallway, followed by violent pounding on the door to-day. Weak and dizzy, Miss Quick struggled from bed, made her way to the door and opened it.

She was confronted by a woman, ablaze from her feet to her hair. The instant of self-preservation called upon Miss Quick to slam the door in the face of the terrifying apparition. The instinct of humanity dominated the girl, however, and at the risk of her own life she rushed back to her bed, grabbed a blanket and quilt and wrapped them around the unfortunate woman who still stood, screaming in agony, at the doorway.

Just as Miss Quick applied the bed clothing her brother, Edward, came running in from the street. With his assistance the fire was put out and then the woman was recognized as Bridget Gough, fifty years old, a servant employed by Mrs. Staddock, who occupies the apartment in the house.

The injured woman was removed to Long Island College hospital. It is not believed that she can recover.

Bridget Gough accidentally set fire to her clothing in the cellar of the house, where she was hunting in a storeroom with a lighted candle for something wanted by Mrs. Staddock. With her dress ablaze and the flames spreading to her hair she ran upstairs and pounded on the door of the Quick apartment until Miss Quick appeared.

TAFT MESSAGE WILL DEAL WITH HIGH FOOD PRICES.

President Plans to Show Congress That Middleman, Not the Tariff, Is to Blame.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—President Taft is planning to take up the high cost of living in a special message to Congress when he transmits the report of the Tariff Board's investigation of the wool and cotton schedules. The Tariff Board's findings will show, it is declared, that much of the high cost of living is due to the middleman rather than the tariff.

It is also said the President will renew his recommendations for a parcels post. The first Cabinet meeting in three months was held to-day.

WALDO TO STICK IT OUT.

Mayor Denies Rumor That the Commissioner Is to Resign.

"Foolish and unfounded," said Mayor Gaynor to-day when asked regarding a report that Police Commissioner Waldo is about to resign.

It was stated at the office of the Mayor that most cordial relations exist between the City's Executive and the Police Commissioner.

"There is no friction at Police Headquarters," said an official there in reply to a report that Commissioner Waldo does not get along with one of his aides.

GAYNOR MAY TAKE A FLIGHT.

Promises to Go With Gans If He Sails Across Atlantic.

Dr. Paul F. Gans, a German aeronaut, who says he will attempt a flight across the Atlantic Ocean in a dirigible balloon early next year, called on the Mayor at the City Hall to-day.

BURGLAR KILLS SELF AS POLICE PLAN A SIEGE

Long-Hunted Jersey Fugitive Said He Was Tired of Chase and Fired Shot.

By putting a bullet through his head and thus ending his career, Frank Kusky lifted a big load from the police mind of Bayonne, N. J., to-day. Policemen were closing in on him when he killed himself at the home of Annie Malaga, No. 312 Avenue E.

Kusky was a burglar and holdup man; a pal of "Dutch" Ide, who was shot to death by a posse of policemen in Newark two years ago. On that occasion Kusky escaped. He has since been learned that he joined the navy, but deserted at the first opportunity.

Recent burglaries and holdups in towns along the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey bore all the marks of Kusky's work. Detectives found that he had been seen in various places. Warrants were sworn out for him, but Kusky managed to keep himself under cover.

He appeared in Bayonne, his home town, for the first time in two years last night and went to the home of Annie Malaga. Through some mysterious means word of his presence there reached Police Headquarters. Conspicuous as to the best method of getting him was under way when word reached the police that he had killed himself.

The Malaga woman says that Kusky told her he was tired of being a fugitive. He shot himself in her presence after taking all the cartridges but one from his revolver and handing them to her.

WHITE WINGS BEG CITY TO TAKE THEM BACK IN OLD JOBS

Mayor and Commissioner Confident That Full Force of Drivers Will Be at Work in Streets by Saturday.

GAYNOR TELLS ALDERMEN HE CANNOT ARBITRATE.

Quiet Restored in All Districts as Strike Breakers and Old Men Begin to Clean Up City.

Mayor Gaynor received a committee from the Board of Aldermen this afternoon and informed them that he could not take any action looking toward the reinstatement of the striking street-cleaning drivers. The committee had been appointed at this afternoon's meeting of the Board of Aldermen for the purpose of suggesting to the Mayor that he arbitrate the situation.

PAUL BEATTIE RETRACTS STORY AT MURDER TRIAL?

Cousin of Condemned Wife Slayer Said to Have Sworn His Testimony Was False.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Attorney Walter C. Balderson admitted this afternoon that Paul Beattie made affidavit in his office last week repudiating the main features of his testimony on which Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., was convicted of wife murder. This affidavit was presented to Governor Mann at Richmond to-day, and it was for this reason that the Governor postponed his decision on Beattie's appeal for commutation.

Paul gave as his reason for the testimony which he now says was false that he was in bad physical condition at the time, was in great fear as the result of suspicions directed toward him and was affected by confinement in jail.

In the affidavit Paul denied that he gave the shotgun to Henry Beattie on the Saturday night preceding the Tuesday last July when Mrs. Beattie was killed. He also positively denied that Henry Beattie had ever made a confession to him. These were two of the most important features in the trial.

It is understood that Paul Beattie came here to make the affidavit in order not to attract attention and that it was immediately forwarded to Richmond to Henry Beattie's counsel. Since his return to Richmond Paul had refused stories to the effect that he was drugged and taken to Washington by three men.

When he was told a few days ago of the report that he had made an affidavit, he denied it, saying if he had signed anything in Washington it was while he was under the influence of a drug.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 14.—Gov. Mann did not make known to-day his attitude in the case of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., sentenced to be electrocuted Nov. 21 for the murder of his young wife. The Governor conferred with Beattie's lawyers, who presented a petition that a reprieve of at least thirty days be granted for spiritual preparation. It is expected the Governor will issue a statement to-morrow.

Paul Beattie's alleged repudiation of some of his testimony is said to have been discussed also.

The Mayor said that the men who had walked out had forfeited their jobs, and that new men from the Civil Service list were taking their places. These men could not be thrown out once they had gone to work. The strikers who had quit would have to face charges, according to the law, and their fate would be decided by Commissioner Edwards of the Street Cleaning Department.

Alderman Finley of the Bronx, who is President of the State Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Gasfitters, offered a resolution that a committee of five be appointed to wait on the Mayor and request him to arbitrate the strike.

Aldermen Finley, Casberry, Brush, Kennedy and McLean were appointed to the committee by the aldermanic committee on rules.

Nothing was said by Alderman Finley of the Mayor's declaration that the subject of the strike was not in any way open to arbitration, having resolved their case into a simple case of insubordination on the part of Civil Service employees of the city.

Earlier in the day Mayor Gaynor and Commissioner Edwards had announced that the strike had proved a fizzle and that they considered the threat of the strike leaders to call out the 2,000 drivers affiliated with the National Brotherhood of Teamsters an empty bluff.

That the strikers themselves acknowledge that they are beaten and are desperately anxious to get their jobs back was manifest when thirty-eight of the old force of fifty-five drivers reported at stable R on Sullivan street this morning and begged to be taken back. Supt. Donovan was able to accept the services of only six of the thirty-eight, as they were the only ones who had reported for duty on Saturday, and therefore had not overstayed the period of five days, an offense which automatically loses them their jobs.

The thirty-two men who were turned down raised their voices in lamentation and several colored drivers got down on their knees and implored Donovan to take them back for the sake of their families. They were unanimous in denouncing General Organizer Ashton of the Brotherhood of Teamsters for calling the strike, and declared that they had been drawn into it against their wills. The stable superintendent informed the men that they would have to make a personal appeal to Commissioner Edwards for reinstatement.

REGULAR DRIVERS AND STRIKE BREAKERS IN MIXED CREW.

Donovan sent out thirty carts with the six regular drivers and twenty-four strike-breaking crews. They left Stable R in squads of ten accompanied by the same heavy police guard of patrolmen and mounted men that was established yesterday. Before noon Donovan expects to have out the full complement of fifty-four carts and to keep them out until his district west of Broadway, between Canal and Tenth streets, has been thoroughly cleaned. At 9 o'clock fifty-five strikebreakers arrived at Stable R in three closed vans.

Commissioner Edwards reported after heading from all his stables in Manhattan and the Bronx that the strike was absolutely broken and that normal
