

FIVE LIVES SAVED BY FIREMEN WITH INTERPRETER'S AID

Women and Children Clinging to Ledge Couldn't Understand English.

Quick work on the part of firemen and warnings in Italian shouted from the street saved the lives of five persons perched on the ledge of a window outside of a burning tenement house at No. 229 Hamburg avenue, Brooklyn, early this morning.

Flames and smoke filled the room behind them and they were preparing to jump when firemen ordered an Italian in the street to tell them to stay at the window until a ladder could be raised. This was done and all were brought safely to the street down a ladder.

Policeman Edward Buchanan and Patrolman Anthony Mayer saw flames bursting from an upper window of the house about 1 o'clock and at the same time heard several muffled explosions. Buchanan ran to a store on the ground floor of the double tenement and Mayer turned in an alarm. The residents on the upper floors were asleep and Buchanan broke in the door and attempted to go up the stairs. Smoke drove him back and then he tried to enter by the door of No. 131, but was unsuccessful.

The noise soon awakened the tenants, however, but they found escape by the stairway cut off.

Those on the top floor were able to escape by the roof, but the second floor tenants ran into the front apartment of Mrs. Nellie Azarra. Their cries for help were heard in the street, but no one could get into the building to aid them. In the room were Mrs. Azarra, her brother, Alphonse, Mrs. Rosa Marino, her daughter Josephine, aged fifteen, and her son Joseph, aged three. When the flames got through the door, into the room, they climbed out of the window to a coping above the drug store. The fire is supposed to have started from an explosion of drugs.

MARRIAGE A LOTTERY.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—Under an opinion by Justice White of the Suffolk Divorce Court, "beaus and belles who marrying must run their chances of false teeth, imported hair and cork legs." Harry Zukow had sued for annulment of his marriage on the ground that his wife concealed a deformity from her prospective husband until after the ceremony. "Such defects," concluding the judge, "are common to humanity and must be chanced in contemplating connubial bliss."

Died on a Street Car.

James J. Cook, a hose plumber, with an office at No. 81 East Fifty-second street, died suddenly on a Lexington Avenue car at Forty-fourth street early today. His home was in Stamford, Conn., but during the week he lived in a furnished room at No. 228 East Forty-eighth street. He was identified by an Elk button and cards in his pocket.
