

JOHN ARBUCKLE, NOTED MILLIONAIRE, DIES IN BROOKLYN

Coffee Importer and Rival of Sugar Trust Had Been Ill Only Four Days.

BURIAL IN PITTSBURGH.

Nephew, Who Was His Partner, Says Great Business Will Be Continued.

John Arbuckle, the multi-millionaire coffee importer and sugar mill owner, died of pneumonia at his home, No. 215 Clinton street, Brooklyn, on Tuesday.

Mr. Arbuckle had been ill only four days and although his rugged health had shown signs of breaking his death was unexpected. He had had a nurse in constant attendance. At 1 o'clock on Tuesday he was found lying on his back and his relatives in Pittsburgh to come at once.

Dr. John McCookie, Mr. Arbuckle's physician, was also summoned. When the doctor arrived his patient was in such a condition that he failed to respond to the heart stimulus administered and, at 3:30 o'clock, Mr. Arbuckle died.

At his bedside were his two sisters, Mrs. Robert Jameson and Miss Christina Arbuckle; his niece, Miss Martha Jameson and Miss Margaret Jameson; his nephews, Charles A. Jameson and William A. Jameson, who was his partner, and Mrs. William A. Jameson.

THE BODY WILL BE TAKEN TO PITTSBURGH FOR BURIAL. The funeral services will be held at Mrs. Arbuckle's home at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Plymouth Church, conducting them.

The body will then be taken to Pittsburgh for interment in the family plot in Allegheny Cemetery. Mr. William A. Jameson said that in accordance with Mr. Arbuckle's wish, the business would be carried on just as if the senior member of the firm had not died.

It had always been John Arbuckle's desire to die in harness. He had several times said that he would do so, and so it happened. He was in his New York office, at Old Slip and Water street, as late as last Friday, and spent nearly two hours there, attending to his many interests. He said he did not feel very well, but no one to whom he spoke did he convey any idea that he was very ill.

To say that Mr. Arbuckle was worth many millions is the nearest one can come to an estimate of his vast riches. His nephew, William A. Jameson, said today he could make no statement of his uncle's estate. Mr. Arbuckle, as the head of the firm of Arbuckle Brothers, with extensive coffee and sugar mills at the water's edge in Williamsburg, had sufficient money to fight the Sugar Trust to a standstill—at least until it was willing to accept the Arbuckle Brothers as competitors it could not conquer. He even forced the trust into going into the coffee roasting business.

NOTED AS PHILANTHROPIST AS WELL AS MILLIONAIRE. John Arbuckle was as notable in his philanthropy as in his business affairs. That he was a philanthropist was spoken in his appearance, in the kindly face, the gentle gray eyes and the scrappy, venerable beard. He was a big man, heavy of frame, and his rough cloth tweeds, which he wore practically always, gave him a simplicity of appearance which was really his.

Anything in the nature of being of benefit to mankind appealed to him, and his charities were boundless. One of his notable philanthropies was the employment of three vessels—the full-rigged ship Jacob Stamler, the twin-screw ship John Wise, and the yacht Glitana, as floating hotels for those of slender means. They were anchored at the foot of West Twenty-first street and there the women were charged 40 cents a day for board and lodging. The charge for men was 50 cents, the women paying less because their wages were generally less. They were great success. Mr. Arbuckle had them fitted with steam heat and electric lights and they were as comfortable as many city hotels. Another good deed of his was the establishment of the "Mary and John Arbuckle Farm" at New Paltz, N. Y. This was for the accommodation of persons in reduced circumstances and gave them a temporary home away from the city where they might rest and recuperate from the wear and tear of the work-a-day world.

RAISED CRUISER YANKEE WHEN OTHERS FAILED. When the United States cruiser Yankee went ashore on the Hen and Chitons reef near the entrance to Buzzard's Bay, many attempts were made to float her. It was John Arbuckle who succeeded in the work through the use of compressed air. He also applied to the Government to raise the Maine by the same process, but the proposal was not accepted.

The sugar and coffee business under Mr. Arbuckle was for many years a warfare with the Sugar Trust, and there were many days of cut prices and other things which the trust probably calculated would send Mr. Arbuckle to the wall. But he gave the trust battle at every turn and eventually won out.

In 1909 the Arbuckles had to pay the Government $200,572 in back duties on sugar. This was in settlement of discrepancies between the actual weights of the sugar they had imported since 1888 and the weights on which they paid duty. This was following the lead of the trust, which paid $2,000,000 in addition—a fine of $15,000.

Mr. Arbuckle died childless. His wife, to whom he was greatly attached, and whose death was a terrible blow to who died four years ago. Among his great friends was Andrew Carnegie, who started life as a boy in the cotton mill of Mr. Arbuckle's father.

ASCH BUILDING FIRE CHARGES ALL VACATED.

Untried Manslaughter Indictments Against Harris and Blanck Dismissed With Whitman's Sanction.

Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court to-day dismissed the six indictments charging manslaughter in the first and second degrees against Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, proprietors of the Triangle Shirtwaist factory, in which factory, in the Asch Building, Greene street and Washington Square, 146 persons were burned to death a year ago.

The application was not opposed by District-Attorney Whitman, Justice Seabury having decided that Harris and Blanck, having been tried and acquitted on one charge, could not be retried on any of the remaining indictments. No one in the District-Attorney's office would say if either of the men would be prosecuted on the charge of violating the State factory laws. At a meeting of the relatives of those killed in the fire, held March 25, the anniversary of the fire, it was decided to request District-Attorney Whitman to prosecute Harris and Blanck on this charge.

Red Thatch Over Napoli's Black Locks Proves Fallure.

Detectives looking for Charles Napoli of No. 731 Liberty avenue, East New York, who is accused of shooting Enrico Giugliano of No. 731 Liberty avenue after a card game on the night of March 5, went to Atlantic avenue and Ashford street, where a gang of laborers is doing excavation work. Giugliano, whose life was saved because two of the three bullets fired at him lodged in his money belt, filled with gold coins, was not with them and they had only a description of Napoli. They could not see anybody who looked like him. As they were about to go away they noticed that a red headed man on the far side of the excavation was watching them furtively and turned his face away hurriedly every time he saw them glance in his direction. They went to him and pulled off his cap. The red hair went with it. Napoli had sought to conceal his Italian raven locks with a wig. Magistrate Oetmar held him in $1,000 bail in New Jersey Avenue Court for examination.

"Usin' Tiz, Gramma?"

"Yes, Harold, it makes Gramma's feet feel just like yours, free from tiredness, aches and pains!" "Your papa and mamma, your grandpa and your grandma all use TIZ, Harold. And you'll use it, too, when you get to be a man. Then your feet will never hurt or get tired. That's why we all use TIZ."

Most of us get old, feet first. The bunions get stale, more wearisome and painful. Corns get harder and more stubborn as the feet become more tender. At a time when old people need their feet most, they can use them less—unless they use TIZ. If you have never used TIZ before, your first use of it will bring back some of your girlish days. TIZ will make your feet feel young, strong and vigorous. They'll never be tender, never chafe or ache, never get blistered or swollen, and your corns, bunions and calluses will be no more. Nothing will do it or ease it like TIZ. Don't experiment with other things; other people have done that for you and they are all now using TIZ. TIZ acts on a new principle—draws out all the poisonous exudations that make foot troubles. TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Luther Dozier & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.

PAUL REVERE SHEFFIELD SILVER

Recently on Exhibition at the Woman's Industrial Exhibit, Grand Central Palace

This silverware has been bought by R. H. Macy & Co., and will be placed on sale in this store on Thursday.

At One-Third Less Than Prices Quoted at the Exhibition

The high quality of "Paul Revere" Sheffield Silverware is a matter of general knowledge. Upon the very finest of copper that possesses a ringing quality denoting unusual hardness are deposited heavy layers of pure silver—the result is a ware that will retain its brilliant silvery finish unimpaired year after year.

Many people prefer Paul Revere Sheffield to solid silver because it looks exactly the same and is more substantial for regular use. These designs are exclusive and artistic.

The assortment consists of Meat Dishes—Serving Trays—Platters—Tea Sets—Sandwich Trays—Vegetable Dishes, etc.
