

peculiar conditions," he said. "Although there is a spirit of unrest throughout the country, I think it is exaggerated. The people of the world are moving, and this means progress. In other words, we are progressing. Now, I am not going to talk politics, but the name progressive is not dangerous, because a man is called a progressive, it does not mean that he is a demagogue, or a socialist, or an Anarchist.

"We must not ignore the demands or criticism of the public, but must try to profit by what is said about us. I hope we can get along and beyond the mere making of money for ourselves and be real citizens of the country, eager to see the principles upon which the country was founded upheld and the laws of the country carried out."

The American Iron and Steel Institute is composed of steel men throughout the country. The members represent first in competition with the United States Steel Corporation, which is also a member. A formal meeting is held every year, ending with a banquet, and a tour of the various industries of the city.

Judge Gary, who is president of the institute, presided at the meeting today. Many prominent steel men took part in the discussion on trade conditions. Among them were Charles M. Schwab, Willis L. King, James A. Farrell, President of the United States Corporation; John A. Topping, head of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, who testified Wednesday and yesterday at the Government trust hearings, and many others.

To-night a banquet will be held at the Waldorf, and to-morrow the steel men will look around the city.

TOPPING PRAISES COMPETITION, BUT SCHWAB KNOCKS IT.
John A. Topping, Chairman of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, read a paper relating to competition.

"Competition should never be restrictive, but should be so clear and wholesome that only good can come of it," said Mr. Topping.

He declared competition stimulated business and did more good than monopoly to every one concerned.

"I supplied several of my competitors during the last year with my selling copy, and gave them general information," he said.

Mr. Topping said, in his opinion, this was a good practice, and if adopted by all the members of the institute a great benefit to competition would result.

Charles M. Schwab followed Mr. Topping.

"A state of affairs has grown up in the steel trade recently," he said, "that is so different from the restrictive competition of years ago that it shows the progress that is being made. We have advanced in manufacture, advanced in the way of doing business, and now we are getting advanced in the methods of selling goods, so that the old restrictive competition is going.

"I predict for every industry as great an advance in the future in the method of the disposition of their products as they have had in the past in the manufacture of their products."

James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, the next speaker, talked on contracts. Mr. Farrell said the contract price of steel should always correspond with the market price.

CAROLINA MAN SUICIDE IN BROADWAY CENTRAL.
Registering as W. Veys of Castle Hayne, Puts Bullet Through Head.

Shortly before noon today a man who registered as W. Veys of Castle Hayne, North Carolina, committed suicide in the Broad Street Central Hotel by shooting himself in the head with a twenty-two calibre revolver.

The suicide was discovered by a chambermaid who tried to enter his room on the seventh floor. The door was bolted and a hallway was sent over the room. The suicide was lying on the bed with a hole in his forehead and the revolver beside him.

Capt. Henry of the Mercer street station, who came to investigate, found a letter which showed the man had been a civil engineer and landowner, a gardener, and was out of employment. He had registered at the Broadway Central on May 6 and, according to the chambermaid, was fairly well supplied with money.

Castle Hayne is a small town in Hatteras County, North Carolina. The authorities there were notified.

Bits Uptown, Downtown and in Brooklyn Agreed on in Tuesday's Conference.

The Public Service Commission today formally approved a rapid transit routes three bits of subway which were included in the agreement reached at the conference last Tuesday between the commission and the special transit committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. One of these, officially known as Route 45, is in Broad street, from the northern side of Heaver street, south to the river front, connecting with the Whitehall tunnel to Brooklyn. This connects the line in Nassau and Broad streets, heretofore approved, and the Brooklyn tunnel, which have been allotted to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

Another, Route 46, is for a subway under Flatbush avenue and St. Felix street, Brooklyn, to form a connection between the Brighton Beach line and the Fourth avenue subway in Fulton street for the B. R. T.

OUTLAW ALLEN IS FOUND GUILTY; MUST DIE IN CHAIR

Jury Reaches a Verdict in Court House Massacre Case After All-Night Session.

SENT BACK BY JUDGE

Court Insists on an Agreement After Foreman Reports a Deadlock.

WYTHEVILLE, Va., May 17.—Floyd Allen, first of the Hillville mountain-hunters, was tried for the Carroll County court-house murders, was adjudged guilty here today and will pay the penalty of his crime in the electric chair at Richmond. The jury was out all night and it was not until after 10 o'clock this morning that the twelve men reached an agreement.

When court opened today the jurors told Judge Staples there were a number of points of difference and it was doubtful whether a verdict could be reached. Judge Staples declared the case was one of such magnitude he felt he must send the jury back with a few words of caution and advice. He said that when a number of men were thrown together in intimate isolation for a long period of time, with all their thoughts and attention centered upon one matter, it was but natural that there should be a tendency to different views and positions. Along with this tendency, he said, there was another tendency of the human mind to fix deep rooted in one's own mind unwarranted opinion in an earnest effort to convince others.

Judge Staples declared the jury had not been sworn to do other than to reach one conclusion—the guilt or innocence of the accused. He said if the jurors lost sight of that issue in any private individual opinion they would do wrong to themselves, an unintended violence to their solemn obligation and grave injustice either to the commonwealth or to the accused.

The jury was retired, and it was only a short time before announcement was made an agreement had been reached. When court reassembled the foreman read the verdict of "guilty as charged in the indictment."

Judge Staples held that was not the proper form. The foreman then explained that the verdict was one of guilty in the first degree, the penalty being electrocution.

Floyd Allen was charged specifically at this time with the murder of Commonwealth's Attorney William M. Foster, prosecutor in the Carroll County Court at Hillville, last March, when the fatal shooting occurred. Judge Staples, Judge Thornton I. Mass, William M. Foster, Sheriff L. P. Webb, Miss Elizabeth Ayres and Juror Augustus Fowler. The news of the shooting up of the court created a pronounced sensation and sent a thrill of horror throughout the country.

The tragedy occurred a mile in the little mountain town of Hillville, where the inhabitants always held the Allen clanmen in deadly terror. Arrests of several of the Allens followed the shooting, but five of the principals escaped to the mountains. Rewards for their arrest resulted in three of them being taken, except Floyd Allen, leader of the clan, and Wesley Edwards, his nephew, who are still at large.

The other prisoners, it is expected, will be tried immediately.

Sentence was not pronounced on Allen today, as he may be called to testify in the other cases.

Allen had been cheerful in expectation that a mistrial would result. When the verdict was announced he relapsed into despair.

There were barely a handful of people in court. Whether this was because of fear that the Allens might attempt to repeat the scene enacted at Hillville is not known, but there were no spectators for such fear. Armed detectives searched persons entering the courtroom.

SUBMARINE CREW SAVE VESSEL BY ALL NIGHT FIGHT

Stranded Tuna's Disabled Engine Repaired While Seas Pound Hull.

STILL FAST UPON BAR.

Two Revenue Cutters Speed to Relieve Diver, Which Reports All Safe.

(Special to The Evening World.)
ATLANTIC CITY, May 17.—The peril of Capt. Dannebauer and the four men who remained aboard the stranded craft all last night while heavy seas pounded her on the sandbar off Longport where she struck yesterday, was greatly minimized today when the wind died down and the sea fell to a comparative calm.

This afternoon's low tide put the Tuna almost high and dry on the quakeland bar. The craft was plainly visible from the Longport walk, and thousands of persons gathered to get glimpses of the first submarine ever seen from this shore.

A high wind blowing off shore is expected to be big help when revenue cutters arrive to get the stranded diver off. Latest reports, flashed ashore by wireless, declare the five aboard to be in good shape. It has been discovered that one of her propellers is bent, but otherwise she appears to be intact.

When the brisk westerly wind had cleared the film of mist which had shut off view of the submarine from shore, the life savers saw that the waves that had been breaking over the "diver" throughout the afternoon and night were running along her length and it looked as if the revenue cutter that had been sent out from Norfolk would have little difficulty in hauling her off the sands.

DIVING SHIP SURVIVES TERRIFIC POUNDING.
Talking through a megaphone to an Evening World correspondent who went out in a lifeboat, Capt. Dannebauer said that he expected no trouble in getting into deep water with the aid of the cutter. He added that, notwithstanding the pounding of the breakers, the submarine had suffered no material damage.

The Tuna, which will be officially labeled as G2 when she is accepted by the Navy Department, was lying with her nose aimed directly at the shore, there being a hard miller ahead. She was resting in a bed of sand and her bow taken in a drop of water. Some of her trimming tanks had been ballasted to hold her steady on the bar. Four life saving crews had remained on duty all night, ready to go out to the submarine and take off the five men who were taken off with a rearranged signal. The fourteen members of the crew who were taken off yesterday afternoon were also ready on call to respond for rescue duty.

A great crowd collected along the shore early today to watch the lifeboats go out to the stranded craft. Only one boat put out, however, and the crew of this boat was assured by Captain Dannebauer that he did not need assistance. Speaking from the conning tower through his megaphone he said:

"I had thoroughly examined the Tuna when the tide was out and found her intact so far as I could see. During the night my engineers succeeded in repairing the engine which was jammed when we struck. I expect to be on my way again as soon as the cutter comes along and the tide lifts us off this afternoon."

The fourteen members of the crew who were taken off will be put aboard again when a revenue cutter arrives.

COLLIER SENT FROM BROOKLYN TO AID TUNA.
The Navy Department this morning ordered the collier Tuna to go to the assistance of the submarine Tuna. The collier sailed from the yard at 8 o'clock, expecting to arrive at the scene of the wreck before daylight. Efforts are being made also to reach the cutter Itasca, which is cruising somewhere between Norfolk and Montauk Point.

TWO "WILD MEN" IN "ALTOGETHER" STIR HARLEM FLAT

Actor and Electrician Marathon Up and Down Hallways of the Carriage.

WILD CALL FOR POLICE.

First Patrolman Sees Nothing, but Second Expedition Gets Ample Evidence.

Two young men describing themselves as Joseph Burns, twenty-five, an actor, and Joseph Mulholland, twenty-one, an electrician, were arraigned early today in the Night Court on a charge of creating a near-riot by marionetting through the halls of the Carriage, an apartment house at No. 220 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, in the neighborhood.

Early last evening a woman's voice told Patrolman Farrell in the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street police station to hurry around the reserves to the house and catch the "wild men."

When Patrolman Farrell got there he found the occupants chattering outside their apartments.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Every young woman blushed and looked askance at her neighbor, as if imploring her to furnish the details. Latest reports, flashed ashore by wireless, declare the five aboard to be in good shape. It has been discovered that one of her propellers is bent, but otherwise she appears to be intact."

VIRGINIA OUTLAW WHO WAS CONVICTED OF MURDER IN COURT

Dr. Joseph I. McLaughlin, prison physician.

Warden Bridges of the Charlestown prison.

The Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, spiritual adviser.

Associated Press representative.

Five prison guards.

Two other persons to be selected by the warden.

Sheriff John Quinn may be present if he desires. District Attorney Joseph C. Pelester of Suffolk County may also be present or appoint a substitute.

Despatches from Lynchburg, Va., state that in all probability Richeson saved father will not come to Boston to bid his son goodby before he is electrocuted.

Other members of the family will visit the condemned man at the State Prison and say farewell to him. These include his sister, Miss L. V. Richeson of Saratoga Lake, N. Y., who came to Boston about ten days ago and made a personal appeal to Gov. Fox to spare her brother's life. Douglas L. Richeson of Chicago, a brother of the murderer, will probably come to Boston to see the condemned man also.

A report that Richeson had repudiated his confession of murdering Avis Linnell was circulated here today, but it was immediately denied by Charles Street Jail and Charlestown prison officials, and by Rev. Herbert S. Johnson and Attorney Morse.

The condemned man was reported to be last night unsteady on his feet, but reached in his case. The report submitted to the Governor by the stenographer states that Richeson was not legally insane when he committed the crime and is not legally insane now.

Richeson is condemned to die the week of May 19. The hour is to be decided by Warden Bridges, who usually does not wait later than Tuesday to carry out the law's sentence.

It is understood that the stenographer proclaimed his love for Miss Violet Edmunds and said her father was the best friend he had. He said he wanted to go to trial, but his lawyers overruled him.

ASKS BAIL FOR BRANDT PENDING HIS APPEAL.
"No Use for Prisons," Is Appellate Justice's Comment on Counsel Towns's Point.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court heard arguments today on the application of Mirabeau L. Towns, counsel for Pauline E. Brandt, to have Brandt released on bail pending arguments before the Court of Appeals on the appeal from the decision of the Appellate Division respecting Brandt's writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Towns based his application for bail on a provision of the code which reads: "Where a prisoner who stands charged with an offense has perfected an appeal to the Court of Appeals from a final order of the Supreme Court affirming an order refusing his discharge, the court from whose order the appeal is taken or a judge thereof must, upon his application, admit him to bail."

Assistant District Attorney Johnstone answered: "The action applies to a prisoner charged with an offense. The prisoner in this instance has been convicted and sent to prison. If the contention holds good all prisoners in all prisons of the State can be released by the State's dislodgment. He said he was not on the top floor at the time of the accident and knew nothing about the fall until many minutes after it occurred.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Has No Equal as a Blood Medicine.

"I think there is no other blood medicine equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have a family of five little ones, and have used it every spring for twelve years. There is something about Hood's Sarsaparilla which other medicines lack. My husband was bothered with boils. He was so bad he could scarcely get around. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured him."

Charged With Criminal Violation of the Meat Inspection Law.

GOV. WILSON ASKED TO EXTRADITE ARMOUR.
Jersey Prosecutor Says He and Morris Are Fugitives From Justice.

TRENTON, N. J., May 17.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson gave hearing this afternoon on the application of Prosecutor Garvan of Hudson county for the extradition from Illinois of J. Gaden Armour and Edward Morris. The Governor took the matter under advisement and will announce his decision later.

Indictments were secured against the accused in Hudson county in 1910 for conspiracy to artificially raise the price of beef and poultry. They are also charged with being fugitives from justice.

Counsel for the packers contended today that they were not in the State at the time of the alleged offenses, which cover a period from March 1, 1910, to Feb. 29, 1911, except to take passage on a ship sailing for Europe. Prosecutor Garvan claimed that their presence in New Jersey at that time warranted their extradition and that they were fugitives from justice.

SHOOTS RUNAWAY PRISONER.
