

GAYNOR VETOES FIREWORKS FOR TAMMANY PICNICS

Sends a Resolution Suspending the Ordinance Back to the Aldermen.

RECALLS HEARST CASE.

Declares the City Might Again Be Held Liable for Heavy Damages.

Two Tammany district leaders seeking official sanction of the city, to have fireworks displays at their respective outings, received a set back today when the Mayor in a message to the Board of Aldermen, vetoed a resolution providing for a suspension of the ordinance.

The resolution suspended for dates in August, the prohibitive fireworks ordinance in favor of Senator Thomas J. Molanus, leader of the Eleventh Assembly District and William Shannon, leader of the Twentieth Assembly District. The Cherokee Club in Shannon's district and the Thomas J. Molanus Association are to hold their annual outings in August. It was their purpose to have fireworks displays on return of the outing parties, and the Board of Aldermen passed the necessary resolution.

When the Mayor received the resolution today he recalled that William R. Hearst had some years ago obtained a permit for a fireworks display in Madison Square. A premature explosion resulted in the loss of many lives and the maiming of many persons. In suits subsequently brought against Hearst the responsibility was shifted to the city, the courts deciding that, in granting the permit, the city made itself liable. Large money damages were recovered from the city.

WHAT GAYNOR SAID IN HIS VETO MESSAGE.

In his veto message, Mayor Gaynor said:

"The courts have repeatedly held that where fireworks are exploded under permission of resolutions like these the city is by the resolution itself made responsible in damages for personal injuries or death or injuries to property caused thereby. The courts hold such explosions of fireworks to be a public nuisance."

"I have put an end to all explosion of fireworks on Independence Day except at the fireworks exhibitions given by the city itself, but such explosions are had all over the city on other days of the year by political organizations, by games running for office, by church suppers and so on. Injuries and deaths are constantly occurring therefrom for which the city is made to pay heavy damages.

"It seems time to put a stop to all these explosions of fireworks throughout the city. They are just as objectionable and dangerous every day in the year as they are on Independence Day."

"These two resolutions, following those which your honorable board has adopted heretofore, require that the persons to whom you give the permission shall file a bond to indemnify the city against any loss or damage sustained by reason of the fireworks. But that amounts to little or nothing. It is only a false cover."

RECALLS THE HEARST FIREWORKS EXPLOSION.

"The giving of such a bond will not restore the lives lost or the limbs shattered or injured. However, the city has seldom, if ever, been able to recover on such a bond. You all remember how scores of persons were killed and maimed by the explosion of fireworks set off by a candidate running for office about ten years ago. For the deaths and injuries caused thereby the city has paid $200,000, but has not thus far been reimbursed to the extent of a dollar, and there seems little prospect that it ever will be."

"I cite that instance, as it is typical of the city's participation in the explosions by reason of the resolutions of your Honorable Board allowing them."

STABLE APARTMENT HOUSE WILL NOT BE TORN DOWN.

Judge Decides That Complaint of Rockaway Hunt Club Came Years Too Late.

The stable-apartment house of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Oakley on a lot adjoining the grounds of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, against the existence of which the club complained in court, will not be pulled down. Supreme Court Justice Crane decided today at Mineola that the complaint of the club came several years too late.

Mrs. Oakley purchased the lot on which the stable-apartment house is located from Samuel B. Hinkley in 1890. The deed given her by Hinkley provided that there never should be anything but a single private residence, with appropriate outbuildings, on the lot. Eight years later, however, Mrs. Oakley erected a stable, with two stories and a basement, clear across the front of the lot.

The hunting club purchased the property adjoining Mrs. Oakley's a little over a year ago. Some months ago the club complained that she had violated the provisions of her deed.

"Why," Mrs. Oakley told Justice Crane, "Mr. Hinkley, from whom I bought, has passed the property every day for years and has never complained. He is a member of the hunting club, too."

"I did put up the building as a stable at first. Then I used the two upper stories as my own residence, making coal bins of the stalls in the basement. Now I rent out the two upper stories as apartments. Some of the tenants have been members of the hunting club who took apartments for the summer."

TINY WOMAN BEATS BIG BURGLAR AND GETS HIM BY EAR

Finds Him in Apartment and Chases Him Across Five Roofs.

The spunk of Mrs. Lena Ringlieb, who has an apartment on the third floor of the house at No. 70 Carroll street, Brooklyn, landed Frank Russo of No. 54 Seventeenth street, Brooklyn, in the Butler street police court today charged with burglary.

Russo worked for a Flatbush avenue cleaning and dyeing establishment. Mrs. Ringlieb left some clothes there Tuesday, and happened to say to Russo that he needn't send them back yesterday afternoon because she wouldn't be at home.

Mrs. Ringlieb, who is an orderly person, was consequently surprised on reaching home at dusk last night to find her dining room door open. When she investigated she saw Russo on his knees before the buffet packing up the Ringlieb silver.

Mrs. Ringlieb admits she was provoked. She waded into Russo, who is twenty years old and athletic. Mrs. Ringlieb is all of forty and rather small. From the dining room they fought to the private hall and from the private hall to the main hall.

Seeing that the man was about to get away, Mrs. Ringlieb screamed. Tenants came running, so did Tony Fiska, a janitor. Then tenants stood round at and Reagan arrived from the Bergen street station. Mrs. Ringlieb and Fiska were leading their captive back across five roofs, and Mrs. Ringlieb had firm hold of Russo's ear.

On the prisoner the police say they found $2,000 worth of jewelry and an assortment of false keys.

Out of Sorts

THAT IS, something is wrong with baby, but we can't tell just what it is. All mothers recognize the term by the lassitude, weakness, loss of appetite, inclination to sleep, heavy breathing, and lack of interest shown by baby. These are the symptoms of sickness. It may be fever, congestion, worms, croup, diphtheria, or scarlatina. Do not lose a minute. Give the child Castoria. It will start the digestive organs into operation, open the pores of the skin, carry off the foetid matter, and drive away the threatened sickness.
