

MONKEY, PARROT AND GUINEA PIG IN HER STATEROOM

Young Wife of Aged Mr. Proctor Also Brings 95 Cats and Dogs.

A very much annoyed young woman, wearing a flaming red hat on which nodded huge artificial poppies, and a long black cape, trimmed in red, over the shoulders which she shrugged frequently, wrangled for two hours to-day with customs inspectors when the President Lincoln of the Hamburg-American line arrived from Hamburg.

She was "Frau" Percy Proctor, twenty-eight-year-old wife of the sixty-eight-year-old head of the soap making firm of Procter & Gamble, Mrs. Proctor's baggage was almost enough to cause two inspectors to resign on the spot. She brought like the United States:

One parrot. One white Guinea pig. One pet monkey. Ninety-five dogs and cats, each in a cage. One Italian harp. Thousands of dollars worth of diamonds. One trunk full of valuable furs and pelts. Several trunks of wearing apparel.

The parrot, guinea pig and monkey came over in her stateroom. Likewise the Italian harp. On the voyage she soothed her spirits by chrumming the harp while the parrot, guinea pig and monkey danced in rapture.

Mrs. Proctor—"Frau" Proctor she was on the passenger list—said she had been travelling in Germany and was on her way to Dayton, O., to spend seven months. She would not state whether that was for the purpose of establishing a residence as a preliminary to the institution of a divorce suit. Her aged and rich husband lives at Ivoryville, a small place near Dayton.

"Why should there be such a stir over my cats and dogs?" the young woman demanded. "I have friends over here whom I wish to remember. I am bringing them presents. To some I will give cats, to some dogs."

On the trip over Mrs. Proctor's presence on the boat was not by any means a secret. She frequently left the door of her stateroom open as she fingered the strings of the harp. The parrot, the guinea pig and the monkey were seen by many passengers and it was not long before the whole ship knew of the ninety-five dogs and cats in the hold.

Last Thursday she furnished much material for animated conversation on deck by declaring in a voice that had considerable carrying power, "My six thousand dollar bracelet has been stolen. I want this ship searched."

Officers endeavored to pacify the excited woman, but she wouldn't be quieted until the relief of all on board a sailor found the missing gems in the scuppers of the upper deck.

Before her marriage to the soap maker she was the Baroness Klifuss, a native of Russia. Once she was in prison in her own country on a political charge. She confided to women acquaintances aboard the President Lincoln that one of the things about which she and her husband disagreed was her desire to do washing and scrub floors.

"I don't think," she said, "a woman is ever too rich to be above work like that, but my husband wouldn't let me do it."

Rear Admiral Marx, U. S. N., retired, and his wife, Grace Filkins Marx, were also passengers on the President Lincoln. Mr. Marx said she had been in England trying to get a new play, but that the English dramas did not appeal to her.

"I have an American play now," she said, but would not tell anything about it.

YOUNG WOMAN WHO HUNT BIG GAME IN WESTERN WILDS.

PRETTY GIRL SHOOT BIG GAME, ALSO HITS HEARTS AT PIER

Arrives for Western Hunting Trip and Young Men Surround Her Luggage.

The arrival of the Carons at the Cunard pier to-day was enlivened by the frantic efforts of numerous young men to push each other away from the "A" post where the baggage of Miss C. Jean Archer of Broadstairs, England, was being looked over by the customs inspectors.

Miss Archer is young, gay, brilliant of speech and very rich—not to say exceedingly good to look at.

Papa Archer is the United States, Canadian and Mexican representative of a number of English capitalists who own or control mines and ranches in this country. He travels in this country for half the year and spends the rest of his time in Broadstairs and Paris with his daughter.

The young woman has come to the United States this time to hunt big game in the Rocky Mountains. She has hunted the gau, the springbok, the elephant and the rhinoceros in Africa and the tiger in India and she wants to slay a grizzly bear. If there is anything about the grizzly bear to inspire the dance named after the species as she has seen it exhibited in Paris she thinks it ought to be killed.

S. P. C. A. GETS LEGACY OF $75,790.88 FROM ACTOR DALY'S WIDOW

St. Luke's Hospital Also Receives $10,000, Which Is Balance of Large Estate.

According to the report of Michael J. Garvin, Transfer Tax Appraiser, filed this afternoon in the Surrogate's Court, Catharine E. Daly, widow of Henry F. Daly, an actor, left a net estate valued at $85,790.88. Mrs. Daly died April 17, 1911, at her home, No. 501 West One Hundred and Forty-seventh street.

Under the terms of her will St. Luke's Hospital receives $10,000 and the remainder of the estate goes to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Alfred Wagstaff, President of the society, was appointed executor of the estate under the provisions of the will.

The gross estate was shown to aggregate $90,313.72 from which was deducted funeral expenses, administration expenses, debts and commissions amounting to $4,522.84. The bulk of the estate consists of cash in savings banks and corporate stock of the City of New York. The cash in banks totalled about $12,000. Her furniture was valued at $3,250.

The Brooklyn Club to-day announced the release of Pitcher Madden, purchased from South Bend, to the Chicago National League Club. It has purchased Pitcher Williams from Nashville. Williams has been pitching for the Morristown Club of the Appalachian League.

KILLED BY A DIVE.

(Special to The Evening World.) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—John McCartney, fifty years old, employed on the new pier being built by a company headed by Alfred E. Burke, a Philadelphia capitalist at New Jersey avenue, was almost instantly killed this morning when he dove from the outer end of a partly completed structure. He landed in shallow water, breaking his neck. Thomas Haley of Philadelphia, another member of the gang of workmen, saw McCartney sink from the boardwalk when Haley shouted for the rescue and fractured both legs. There was great excitement among the others employed there and hundreds on the boardwalk when Haley shouted for help and was carried away by the strong offset from the piling which supports the pier. Ropes were hastily lowered and three men brought the injured man ashore.

MAGISTRATE HOLDS COURT ON SIDEWALK; COP ACTS AS A DESK

Stenographer Makes Court Record on His Back, While Big Crowd Looks On

It looked for a while, to-day, as if the chief witness for Mrs. Margaret Bremer against Charles Heymann had failed to appear in the New Jersey Avenue Court, East New York.

"Joseph Lanner! Joseph Lanner!" called the clerk. "Is Joseph Lanner in court?"

There was no answer and Magistrate Miller frowned impatiently on his desk. "Well if the witness—" he began.

"The witness, Joseph Lanner, is as near the courtroom as he is able to get," interrupted Mrs. Bremer's attorney. "He is paralyzed from the waist down and at this minute he is sitting outside on the sidewalk in his rolling chair."

When the Magistrate learned the case against Heymann, whom Mrs. Bremer accused of having stolen articles of clothing from her rooming house at No. 14 Wyona street, Brooklyn, hinged upon the cripple's testimony, he moved his court, bag and baggage, out to the sidewalk.

A small, curious crowd had gathered around the rolling chair, and the additional attraction of a Magistrate in his big crowd. Men and women jostled each other and small boys wiggled their way through to points of vantage in the front row. The confusion became so rest Magistrate Miller was forced to establish police lines. Then, with a warning "order in the court!" he reopened the hearing.

Lanner testified that on July 16, the day the clothing was taken from Mrs. Bremer's house, Heymann had borrowed a nickel from him, remarking that once he reached a pawn shop, he would have plenty of money. Pawn tickets found in Heymann's possession bore that date.

Without leaving the sidewalk, Magistrate Miller had Heymann over to Special Sessions in 200 hall. Late this afternoon, the official stenographer was still trying to decipher his notes. In the sidewalk session, a policeman's back had been his desk. He cop had the "biggest," he said.

You Couldn't Hire Me to Wear Dress Shields Again!

I Use That Marvel, PERSPI-NO!

Up out the dress shields from your blouse, girl! Rip them out! You don't need them any more, absolutely never more! Never again will your gown get stained, fade, get stiff and be ruined because of a big sappy perspiration spot at the arm-pits.

It doesn't matter how light or heavy your clothing, or how stuffy and hot it may be indoors, in the theatre, ball-room or concert-hall, PERSPI-NO will keep your armpits just as fresh and dry as the back of your hand,—just glorious!

There'll be no more running of colors in colored gowns, at the arm-pits. No more misery from rolled up dress shields that form a rosy web under the arms. No more humiliation! Just a little PERSPI-NO will do it all. It's a powder, applied with a pad. A pad in each box. It's done in a minute. Never injures or stains the fabric, absolutely safe. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back. PERSPI-NO is for sale at your druggist's at 25c a box, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by the Perspa Co., 718 Lincoln Ave., Chicago.

DIVORCE FOR ANNA HELD FROM FLORENCE ZIEGFELD.

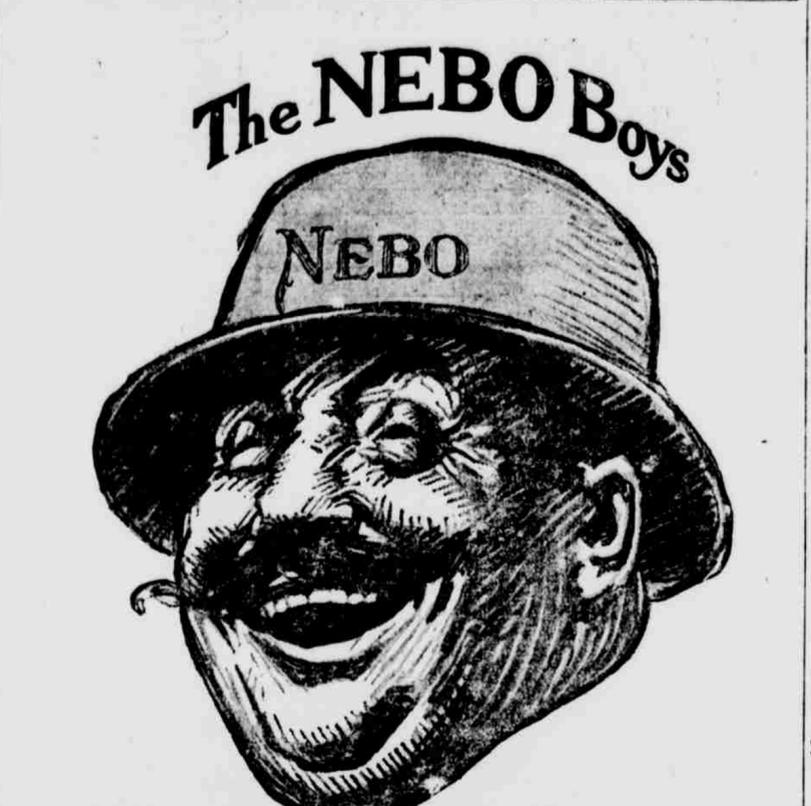

Actress Named Several Young Women in Testimony Heard by Referee.

Anna Held, the musical comedy star, was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Florence Ziegfeld, Jr., by an order signed in the Supreme Court by Justice Amend this afternoon. Several young women were named as correspondents by Miss Held. Ziegfeld was Miss Held's manager when she first toured America in 1906. There was a romantic courtship, after which the couple went to Paris and were married. They have a daughter, who is now in school abroad.

MONKEY CHASES POLICE.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 21.—A monkey used by side-show fakirs demoralized the police, and had the western part of the city in an uproar yesterday when it escaped from its owner, John Gormley. It made a raid on a grocery store and clawed a college student who tried to capture it. The police were summoned, but the monkey charged them and they fled. Then it got into a back yard, where it killed a cat. Finally a small boy coaxed it into a chicken coop, where it was captured.
