ROOSEVELT CALLS PARKER AND SHERMAN TO TESTIFY AS TO CAMPAIGN LETTERS

Presents Their Names in Letter to Senator Clapp With Copies of Notes Answering Charges About Contributions.

T. R. WILL ALSO ANSWER COMMENT FROM KNOX

Parker: Epistle Written in 1904 When the Judge Was Standard Bearer of His Party.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 27.—Col. Roosevelt desires to bring the names of Alton B. Parker, Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1904, and James Sherman, Vice-President of the United States, into the inquiry into campaign contributions authorized yesterday by the Senate by the adoption of the Penrose resolution.

He said today that he will place their names before the Senate committee in his letter to Senator Clapp. This letter, upon which Col. Roosevelt is now at work, will embody some of the things to which he would have testified yesterday before the committee had it granted him a hearing.

"I shall include in my letter to Senator Clapp," the Colonel said, "the letter which I wrote to Judge Parker in 1904 and my letter to Jim Sherman on the Harriman contribution. I think they are pertinent to the inquiry and I want to see them on the record."

The letter to Judge Parker, to which Col. Roosevelt has made reference several times recently, was in reply to Judge Parker's charge that Roosevelt's campaign fund had been enriched by a contribution of $100,000 from the Standard Oil Company. The charge was made and the reply written in the height of the campaign of 1904, at the time when Judge Parker was the standard bearer of his party. The letter to Mr. Sherman was the Roosevelt version of the Harriman-Roosevelt controversy over a contribution by the late H. Harriman of $250,000 to the Republican campaign fund of 1904.

CAN'T TEACH BOYS OBEDIENCE IN U. S. A. SENDS SON ABROAD

Dr. Tolman, Back From Visiting Him in Europe, Declares German Schools Best.

Dozens of new and interesting exhibits for the American Museum of Natural History, at No. 20 West Thirty-ninth street, were brought to New York today by the museum director, William H. Tolman, Ph. D., who returned on the Nordland from the Holland-America Line. Dr. Tolman is a delegate to the recent International Congress of Accident Prevention and Industrial Hygiene at Milan.

Among the articles he brought back are forty-two of the latest marine life-saving devices, boats, rafts and other contrivances. They were purchased with a fund donated by Judge E. H. Gary, after the Titanic disaster. Dr. Tolman also represented the United States navy.

Sixty wax models of parts of the human body, showing how various "workmen's" diseases affect those parts, are another feature of the collection made by the doctor abroad. These models show the diseases contracted by lead workers, workers with furs, glass workers and others. Among the models is a pair of knock knees, known as "baker's knees."

Dr. Tolman also brought pieces of certain African woods, among them rosewood, which are used in cabinet work and for veneers, and which have recently been found to cause disease. Some of the woods contain strychnine and other powerful poisons.

"I consider the safeguarding of health in industries of higher importance than the mechanical prevention of accidents," said Dr. Tolman, "and the importance of this field is now obtaining world-wide recognition. There is a movement on foot to establish an international association to further this object."

"I visited my son George who is going to school in Germany, said the Doctor. "He is seventeen years old and has been over there since he was twelve. I sent him abroad to be educated because there are three things he can learn there that he can't learn here—to study, to be respectful and to be obedient. Respect and obedience, particularly, are unknown to the American youth."

HURLS SELF UNDER SUBWAY TRAIN; HAS MARVELOUS ESCAPE

Two Cars of Express Pass Over Girl at Seventy-second Street Station.

TOUCHES THIRD RAIL.

She Declares She Fell From Platform, but Is Held for Attempted Suicide.

Elizabeth Netterville, eighteen years old, who lives at No. 230 Waverley place, and is employed as a bookbinder, fell from the island platform of the Seventy-second street subway station, directly in the path of a northbound West Farms express, to-day, and although two cars ran over her, she escaped with only slight injuries. Whether the girl plunged under the train was accidental or intentional is a matter of divided opinion, but the police took the word of Station Chief Torpen, who witnessed the accident, that the girl deliberately jumped from the platform, and a charge of attempted suicide was entered against her.

The girl's escape from death was remarkable. While two cars passed over her and the shock of her fall rendered her unconscious, the cushioned flowers Hospital say she will speedily recover. As soon as she is discharged from the hospital she will be arraigned on a charge of attempted suicide. She says a sudden attack of vertigo caused her fall and her mother declared after the accident that she had suffered from several such attacks within the last year. The mother also said she had been away from home for three weeks, living at the home of a sister, Mrs. William Ostelho. She said she did not know where Mrs. Ostelho lived.

The girl's identity was not established until she recovered consciousness at the hospital.

Motorman Italo Graham, who drove the express train, stated afterward that it looked to him as if the girl was suddenly stricken with dizziness and toppled from the platform. Two women who were standing near the girl swooned when she fell, and when they revived could not give any accurate description of what happened. She was standing at the southern end of the station platform when the train approached. Graham saw her distinctly even before she fell. His car was not one hundred feet away when he saw her totter, throw up her hands and plunge forward. She fell out sideways across the tracks.

She then twisted around until she lay parallel with the rails and between them. Two cars had passed over the young girl's body before the emergency brakes brought the train to a grinding stop that threw many strap hangers off their balance. Graham immediately reversed the power and backed the train. The senseless white-clad figure lay almost where it had fallen. The clothing was slightly torn and one arm had some momentary contact with the third rail. There was a slight scar to show this but no other cuts or bruises. Even the young girl's frock was only slightly torn.

The girl had not recovered consciousness when Dr. Markham arrived from Flower Hospital. After a brief examination he said that she had had a miraculous escape and that she would undoubtedly recover. Only yesterday Mrs. Pauline Gutheim, twenty-two years old, wife of a waiter employed in the Manhattan Hotel, threw herself in front of a subway train at the Astor Place station and escaped with little damage after two cars had passed over her body. Her collar bone was dislocated and she was slightly bruised, but there were no dangerous injuries. She was removed to Bellevue, a prisoner, charged with attempted suicide.

BOUND TO DIE.

After Jumping From Window, Man Stabs Himself in Hospital.

Andrew Larsen died in the Norwegian Hospital in Brooklyn, to-day as the result of his second effort at suicide. On Sunday he was found lying on the sidewalk in front of the hotel where he lived, at No. 207 Fifty-eighth street. He had jumped from a third-story window and was seriously injured internally. He was put in a room in the hospital with another patient. While the nurse was out he took a penknife from his writing table and stabbed himself over the heart. It was of these sounds that he died this morning.

KAISER SUFFERS THROAT TROUBLE; GERMANY ANXIOUS

Engagements Cancelled and People Fear Grave Condition May Be Hidden.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Anxiety last Chief Marshal Count Eulenberg of the Imperial household was preparing the public mind for grave news when he announced that the Kaiser "must take a complete rest for some time" was widely expressed to-day.

His Majesty's symptoms, as described by his physicians and by Count Eulenberg, suggest quinsy, but it is quinsy from which he is suffering nobody can understand why the announcement is so grave. The Imperial patient's subjects.

Instincts as the Kaiser's father died of cancer of the throat, any indication of a throat complaint in His Majesty's own case naturally gives rise to serious anxiety. If the ruler has been stricken by a malignant disorder it is considered extremely probable that no attendants will conceal the fact as long as possible, and for this reason the official announcements are carefully studied by the public before being fully accepted.

According to reports of the physicians, the patient shows improvement to-day, but a still in considerable pain, somewhat weak and feverish. It was stated, however, that the swell-ings of the glands and muscles of His Majesty's neck have almost disappeared. He rose from bed where he had been lying suffering since Friday. The Swiss Government has been informed through the German Legation at Bern that the Emperor's visit is doubtful, but that he will go if his health permits.

The deep regret of the Swiss Federal Council in connection with the Emperor's illness was expressed by the Swiss Legation here to the German Legation to-day. At the same time the Swiss Minister hoped that His Majesty would still be able to carry out his visit.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 27.—The German Emperor will probably be unable to attend the Swiss army manoeuvres in September owing to his illness, according to an official communication made through the German Legation to the Swiss Federal Council.

The Emperor was taken sick with cold and muscular rheumatism at Castle Wilhelmshofen, near Cassel, on Friday last.

NIGHT TO HIM WAS DAY.

Rochester Doctors Passed by Allment That Killed Man.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Michael M. Loughlin, fifty years old, died in the Hasbrouck Hospital to-day, and his case is a puzzle to the physicians. He declared that night to him was day and that all was dark at day. He was picked up by a policeman on the street last night, when he stated that he was on his way to work, under the belief that it was morning. He had frequent spells of unconsciousness, and the physicians were unable to diagnose his ailment.

Stinson in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 27.—Secretary of War Stinson arrived here to-day and inspected Fort Benjamin Harrison, looking carefully into the possibility of enlarging and improving the post. He is on a tour of inspection, and plans to leave to-morrow for Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming.

INVESTIGATE COURTS AND THE PROSECUTOR, IS WALDO'S DEMAND

Insists on Deep Probe Into Methods of Local Courts and District-Attorney's Office by Legislature.

GIVES WHITMAN LIST OF VICE DEN OWNERS

Two Suspects Held at Fonda Prove Not to Be "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood."

Another "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood" have proved an alibi. Although the admission gave him pain, the Sheriff of Montgomery County, N. Y., admitted over the long distance telephone to the Evening World this afternoon that the two prisoners he has been holding since last night, under suspicion of being the fugitive gunmen accused of killing Herman Rosenthal, are probably more or less innocent dealers in cast off clothing.

"We picked up two men last night," said the Sheriff, talking in his office in Fonda, the county seat of Montgomery County, "on a charge of violating a city ordinance. They were peddling pants without a license."

"Then the rumor got around that we had arrested 'Lefty Louie' and 'Gyp the Blood.' But they don't look like the description of the fugitives from New York."

"I saw by the New York morning papers that two Burns detectives named Kennedy and Dorney made the arrests. If Kennedy and Dorney are in Fonda they are in hiding. They haven't shown themselves to me and they haven't made any arrests."

"I understand a detective started from New York this morning who knows 'Lefty' and 'Gyp.' He must have got lost on the road, for he isn't here yet."

"I have questioned the two men. They gave a pretty straight account of themselves. I hope they are the men wanted by the New York authorities, but my hope is not strong enough to make me figure in spending any of that $2,000 reward. I never thought about them being 'Lefty Louie' and 'Gyp the Blood.'"

The Evening World's information is the only one on the Fonda suspects that has come to New York to-day. Neither District-Attorney, the police nor William J. Burns—who said he sent a man up to Fonda on the Empire State Express—had anything from Fonda up to a late hour this afternoon.

WALDO DEMANDS PROBE OF COURTS AND WHITMAN.

Police Commissioner Waldo completed, late this afternoon, his list of gambling and disorderly houses in Manhattan and the Bronx, with the addresses of the premises, and the names of the owners of the property. The list was turned over to the District-Attorney. This is only part of the evidence Mr. Waldo is preparing for the use of the District-Attorney and the Grand Jury, and eventually he hopes to furnish enough to warrant a widespread legislative investigation into the entire system of the administration of justice in New York City.

Commissioner Waldo is writing that the Police Department be investigated by the Grand Jury, but he does not think the investigation should stop there. The criminal courts cannot investigate themselves, the District-Attorney cannot satisfactorily investigate himself, and the Commissioner believes the job is up to the Legislature.

He favors a legislative probe that will touch the whole procedure of handling a criminal from the time of his arrest to the time he is sentenced. Included in such an investigation would be the Police Department, the District-Attorney's office, the courts and the jury system.

Commissioner Waldo does not admit that the police are entirely at fault, if there is anything wrong about the administration of justice in criminal matters. He has repeatedly stated his opinion that the courts, from the lowest jurisdiction to the highest, do not properly co-operate with the Police Department. The criminal code, in his judgment, has been amended, altered and applied until it is, in many instances, a protection to crooks rather than to the community.

The Police Commissioner believes that a fair and thorough legislative investigation would uncover defects in the District-Attorney's office, in the system of drawing juries and in the courts as well as in the Police Department. He is prepared to advocate the investigation outlined and looks for the co-operation of the District-Attorney, the judges and other officials interested in the matter.

Lieut. Charles Becker was arraigned before Judge Mulqueen in the Court of General Sessions to-day to plead to the indictment charging him, jointly with 'Lefty Louie,' 'Gyp the Blood,' 'Dago Frank' Crofetti, 'Whites' Lewis, 'Jack Sullivan' and William Sharkey, with the murder of Herman Rosenthal. As Becker did not plead when arraigned last week he was alone when he was called to the bar of justice to-day.

John F. McIntyre, counsel for the accused policeman, sprung a surprise on the prosecution by producing a stay of proceedings until Sept. 3, granted yesterday afternoon by Justice Amend of the Supreme Court. 3 McIntyre said:

"This stay was granted on affidavits signed by my associate, Mr. Hart, and myself. I herewith serve copies upon the Court and the District-Attorney." Judge Mulqueen arched his eyebrows as he read the stay, which is a voluminous document. Assistant District-Attorney Rubin received the District-Attorney's copy.

"I don't think there is anything to do but remand the prisoner," suggested McIntyre blandly.

"The order is mandatory," said Judge Mulqueen. "The prisoner is remanded until Sept. 3."

RAIDER'S TRIAL TO BE SENT BEFORE JUSTICE GOFF.

The stay was granted on the ground that Becker's attorneys have not had sufficient time in which to prepare motions for permission to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury and for dismissal of the indictment on the ground that the evidence upon which it was found to be insufficient, contradictory and illegal. In the application for a stay Mr. McIntyre incorporated a request for an order transferring the trial of Becker from the Court of General Sessions to the Supreme Court. This will not be wasted by the District-Attorney, who wrote Becker tried before
