

DIVORCE SUIT IS SEQUEL TO BATTLE IN A RESTAURANT

John Pearce Manning Is to Sue Wife, After Chastising Alleged Rival.

CROCKERY FLEW WILD.

Unlucky Mr. Bowne Lost Wife, Got Whipping and Is Now to Be Named in Suit.

The aftermath of an elopement, resulting in a world-wide chase, a mix-up in the Hotel Martini, during which Walter Bowne of Flushing received a beating from John Pearce Manning of Flushing, came to-day in the announcement that Manning will sue his young wife for divorce, naming the unlucky Bowne, who seems to have things handed to him from every direction.

At the time of the sensational departure of Mrs. Bowne with young Mott on the British freighter Indrago, bound for China, Walter Bowne bewailed his fate and told how much he had done for his wife and how much he loved her. He told of houses he had built for her, of help away the craving for the lights, and was the all-round object of sympathy.

A month after the elopement Bowne was sitting in the Hotel Martini with Mrs. John Pearce Manning. The lights were bright at the time, but the couple sat in a secluded corner under a red shade. John Pearce Manning entered, and in a few seconds the air was filled with Bowne and flying crockery. It took three waters and the management to quiet Manning, who was arrested and fined $10 for assault.

Dyspepsia attacks were made to hush the matter up, it even being reported that the Mannings had patched up their differences, although no one could quite say where Mrs. Manning was living. She was Adele Taylor, daughter of John Henry Taylor, a Harvard man and member of the University Club. She was also a niece of Charles Taylor, owner of the Hotel Martini, and said after the affray between her husband and Bowne that she had entered her husband's name in telephone to her husband, and met Bowne by accident.

Mrs. Manning is twenty-three years old, a striking blonde, and has been married five years to John Pearce Manning, who is twenty-six, and a wealthy resident of Flushing. They have one child, a boy, eighteen months old.

Taylor and Knowles of No. 15 Broadway, to-day declared positively that suit will be filed against the wife, and the name of Walter Bowne would be used as co-respondent.

2,522 CROWD BIG LINER.

Many Musicians Arrive on the George Washington.

The George Washington of the North German Lloyd arrived with 2,522 passengers last night. This is the first time since the steamer has been in command of Capt. Polacz she has made port on a Sunday evening. She had so many on board extra tables had to be spread in the lounge. She brought many musicians.

Alison V. Armour, who had his yacht Utowana at Kiel and who was very friendly with the German Emperor, was a passenger. He is captain, secretary of Director Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan Opera House, said Geraldine Farrar was not as ill as reported. Owing to the great number of passengers and the short-handedness of the staff, the immigration boarding division skipped inspection of first class travelers.

BOHEMIAN MAYOR AND WIFE KILLED.
Aviator Carl Illner Fell Upon 'Crowd of Spectators While Performing Near Aussig.

CARLSBAD, Bohemia, Sept. 29.—The World correspondent has learned the particulars of the fatal aeroplane accident at Aussig on Saturday which was briefly and inaccurately reported in the press despatches without giving any name.

If Newport Takes to the New 'Seasick Step,' Why Not Try Out Few More of Same Kind?

A Ball Programme Could Be Made to Read Like a Pharmacopoeia.

Urie Davis of Washington, having satisfied the yearning of the members of the Newport summer colony for a new dance by introducing "The Seasick Step," it is suggested that it is only fair to give other malaises a show. Besides that, the "Seasick Step" is too tame. It is only a combination of dips.

What is more popular than dyspepsia among those who can afford to spend the season in Newport? Therefore, why not "The Dyspepsia Polka"? It should be a least seller—it is anything like that which it is represented to be in the artist's conception.

SNAG IN SUBWAY WORK.
Queens Borough Development Held Up by Lack of Support.

Developments to-day indicated that the construction of an important link in the great network of new transit lines planned for Queens Borough will be held up for a year at least. There is also a possibility of the actual signing of the forthcoming subway contracts with the Interborough will be also delayed a similar period.

MORE BABIES SURVIVE.
September closes with a report of 84 fewer baby deaths in New York City than last year.

October will find 12,990 babies enrolled at the milk stations, approximately 4,500 more than were attending at the beginning of June. Over 20,000 babies have received pure milk and other treatment from the milk stations in four months.

Mother of Little One Went After Work and—
Two well-dressed young women, one of whom carried a month-old baby boy, rented a room from Mrs. Mary Pawcett, No. 111 Nevins street, Brooklyn, on Saturday. The room was for the mother and the baby, the second woman having accompanied them in the capacity of friend and adviser. Mrs. Pawcett was given to understand.

sett took the baby to the Bergen street police station. The child was sent to the City Nursery and detectives were sent to look for the mother.

Raising the Price.
"What are you looking so grim about?" asked the candidate, who had just handed six crisp $1 bills to the campaign worker. "You said you'd change $6 to help me in my race, and there's the money!"
"I know it, Colonel," said the man, "but I've come to the conclusion that to elect such a man as you air is worth at least six dollars and a quarter."

New Styles—Now Ready
THE QUEEN QUALITY BOOT SHOP has just entered upon its second season. A number of changes have been made, including a beautiful new store front, for better displaying these famous shoes.

THE FALL AND WINTER MODELS are now on exhibition and include everything that good taste demands and that the largest women's shoe factory in the world can supply.

THE ASSORTMENT COMPRISES all the staple and novelty leathers and a large number of cloth-top models, which promise to be very popular this season, in high and low shoes, and slippers of every kind.

NOTHING IS LACKING to make this the most complete and attractive shoe display in New York this Autumn, and from the prettily shaped vamps to the trim heels every model is correct in line and perfect in finish.

AND THE WONDERFUL part of the whole story is the fact that such beautiful footwear can be sold at such moderate prices, $3.50 to $5.00 per pair—a few at $3.00.
