

CONVICTS SHIELD MEN WHO LYNCHED NEGRO IN PRISON

Wyoming Penitentiary Warden Can't Isolate Avengers of Aged Jail Angel.

RAWLINS, Wyo., Oct. 2.—Convicts in the State Penitentiary, who yesterday lynched Frank Wiegall, a negro, after his boasts of how he had assassinated Mrs. Esther Higgins, the jail angel, have so far thwarted every effort of the Warden to discover the leaders in the plot.

Guards and suspected prisoners were summoned to the office today and put on the grill, but the Warden got no more than the Coroner's jury got late yesterday. The leaders are mum, and those who were only inspectors are respecting the word that has passed around.

It is reported that a State inquiry will follow the unprecedented occurrence. Wiegall was captured in the mountains after Mrs. Higgins had crawled to the house of a neighbor and told her story. He was taken to Fort Steele, but a mob became so threatening that for safety he was put in the penitentiary.

Sexton Had Entered Cemetery to Fit New Key to a Vault Door.

Horrid thoughts of ghouls rushed to the mind of Walter Taylor of No. 25 Romaine avenue, Jersey City, when he saw a faint light flickering in aristocratic old Bergen Cemetery, Bergen avenue and Broom street, as he passed early this morning. He peered through the iron fence and between the trees. The light flickered again.
