

NORTH CAROLINA SALUTING PRESIDENT, AND WYOMING, BIGGEST OF DREADNOUGHTS

NORTH CAROLINA FIRING A SALUTE

THE WYOMING

GIGANTIC GUNS OF BIG FEET ROAR SALUTE TO PRESIDENT

Blasts From 123 Ships of War Shake Manhattan, as Chief Executive and Secretary of the Navy Sail Up the North River.

The gloomy splendor of embattled steel, thunders of saluting guns, crash of brass music, all that the psalmist includes in his "might, majesty, dominion and glory," prevailed to-day on North River. For there the President of the United States and the Secretary of the Navy were inspecting and proving the sea battle line of the nation.

Under their eyes, one hundred and twenty-three fighting machines stretched in double and triple lines of dun and gray from Twenty-third street nearly to Yonkers. From the Wyoming and Arkansas, greatest battleships afloat, to the little water asps that stab below the armor belt, floating like tethered swordfish off One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, the Chief Executive and his chief of the navy passed in circuit review.

The most humble "mother ship" of the torpedo fleet did herself as proud under the official eye as the greatest of the superdreadnoughts. The white thousands lined the Manhattan side of the river and the Jersey ramparts and swayed to the tremendous rhythm of the guns.

Fifteen thousand shots fired in salute to the flag of the President of the United States and the Secretary of the Navy set the air over the Hudson quivering for hours. From the dark gray floating machine shops, from which gray smoke drifted in slanting parallel columns all the way from Thirty-fourth street to Spuyten Duyvil, came succeeding angry red flashes and snoring, stinging report after report.

bed on masses of steel and cement. Before the Dolphin had started for the Connecticut's position off Seventy-sixth street, the whole river thereabouts had been kicked into foam by the busy barges from the division commanders' flagships, the commanders assembling on the quarter deck of Rear-Admiral Osterhaus's flagship. By divisions they came thus:

First, Florida, Rear-Admiral Bradley A. Fiske. Second, Louisiana, Rear-Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher. Third, New Jersey, Rear-Admiral Cameron Winslow. Fourth, Ohio, Rear-Admiral Frank F. Fletcher.

Reserve Fleet, Tennessee, Rear-Admiral Austin N. Knight. It was almost at the stroke of 9 when the Dolphin, approaching the flagship of the fleet commander, began the rigorous ceremonial of the day. A roll of bunting at the main broke out. It was the flag of the Secretary of the Navy—blue with a white star in each of the four corners and a white anchor in the center of the field.

Just at the instant of the flag's unfurling there was a quick red stab of light upon the superstructure of the big battleship, a wallowing ball of white smoke leaped straight out and the roar of a six-pounder smashed back against the Manhattan shore. The first gun of nineteen, the Connecticut's official Howdy-do.

Bing-bang! Bing-bang! sounded the guns and the echoes, while the flag of the Commander-in-Chief of the fleet dropped from the main, to reappear in miniature on the staff of the Commander's barge.

With Capt. Hill, his chief of staff, Flag-Lieutenant Anderson and the five division commanders, Rear-Admiral Osterhaus descended the port gangway to the barge. The glitter of the gold epaulets and heavy braid about chapeaus and arms showed against the drab blue of the ship as they descended in single file.

SECRETARY'S ARRIVAL BEGINS THE SALUTING. The little old Dolphin, first infant of our steel navy, yet almost capable of being lifted on the davits of the Arkansas, was anchored off West Twenty-sixth street. To her, Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer and his aides were conveyed in the Dolphin's steam barge, from the West Twenty-third street pier, promptly at 1:15 o'clock.

WOMAN IDENTIFIES 'DYNAMITE' CHECKS GIVEN M'NAMARA

All Marked, "Emergency Fund," Bookkeeper for Ironworkers' Union Testifies.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 14.—Checks by which the government charges, the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers allowed J. J. McNamara $1,000 a month to buy explosives were identified by Mrs. A. J. Hull of Omaha, at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial to-day.

Mrs. Hull, who was a bookkeeper for McNamara at the iron workers' headquarters in Indianapolis, when explosions about the country were frequent, testified the checks were signed by Frank M. Ryan, president, and by McNamara, as secretary-treasurer. All these checks, she said, were marked "emergency fund."

The government charges that just prior to the payment of regular sums to McNamara, for which he was required to give no accounting, the executive board suspended the rules requiring publication of accounts and the $1,000 a month went to McNamara until after the explosions at Los Angeles, enabling him to pay the expenses of the "dynamiting crew."

Eugene A. Clancy, San Francisco, Herbert S. Hookin, formerly of Detroit, Philip A. Cooley, New Orleans, and Moulton H. Davis, Westchester, Pa., who are among the forty-five men on trial, are alleged to have voted the money to McNamara.

Questioned by Senator J. W. Kern, for the defense, Mrs. Hull said President Ryan often was out of the city and blank checks were sent him to sign.

Mrs. Hull testified she never had heard the Executive Board discuss to what use the money was put. She said McNamara wrote the minutes of the Executive Board meetings, attended to correspondence and edited the union magazine.

WILSON CAMPAIGN FOR NOMINATION COST $208,183

McCombs said, A. I. Elkins, who gave $2,500, is an associate of Morgenthau. "I first obtained information through Rabbi Wise of New York," said McCombs, "that Mr. Morgenthau was a strong supporter of Gov. Wilson. Cyrus McCormick is in the Harvester business. Mr. Dodge called on his friends for money. I think he first told me he could raise $17,500 if I could raise a like sum, which we did. That was last fall. Once I was $20,000 or $30,000 in debt personally last February. Again, after the Illinois campaign, I was in debt, and Mr. Dodge would help me out. Mr. McCormick was a lifelong friend and classmate of Gov. Wilson. So was Mr. Dodge."

Thomas and David B. Jones were also classmates of Gov. Wilson," said McCombs. "They gave $10,000 each to Mr. Dodge. The dentist of $1,000 I will have to meet."

"I sent to many Princeton men for contributions myself," the witness declared. "The largest of a large way was the way the Wilson campaign was financed. There is not a dollar of that statement that reflects a promise, expressed or implied," McCombs continued, emphatically. "Mr. McCormick contributed as he would to Gov. Wilson as President of Princeton University."

"There are no strings or pledges to any of these contributions," added Senator Pomeroy.

"Not to you," McCombs answered vigorously. "In Pennsylvania," continued McCombs, "they took care of the campaign themselves—the Wilson men. We sent only $250 to Chicago for organization purposes and only $5,000 more to the State for our ordinary fight, because we had no hope of carrying it by Gov. Wilson. Speaker Clark got it by $20,000."

Mr. McCombs said that the greater part of his funds were expended for publicity.

WALL STREET

The weakened condition of European markets was reflected in the local exchange to-day when a flood of selling orders accompanied the start of business. Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Copper and Canadian Pacific were all heavily sold.

The volume of business decreased toward the finish, although the list was near the highest range for the season at closing time.

ITCHING HUMORS THERE IS NOW A WAY TO ERADICATE THESE SKIN TORMENTS.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk. People sometimes say, "Well, that new remedy of yours, Saxo Salve, may cure recent cases of eczema, but I doubt if it will help me, for I have had eczema a long time."

The fact is, Saxo Salve was devised as a cure for chronic skin troubles as for acute cases, and it is equally effective, though usually the chronic cases are more stubborn.

Numbers of cases right around here could be cited showing that Saxo Salve is exactly the remarkable soothing and curative remedy for skin diseases that we claim.

REPORTERS ON NASHVILLE GET A THRILL. There was some excitement on the Nashville side of the company of two hundred and fifty landlubbers newspaper reporters, photographers and artists, when the strong tide sent her strutting over toward the minelaying ship, San Francisco. Somebody yelled that the San Francisco was full of nitro-cellulose, a wicked high explosive, used in mines, and that a collision would spritz the skies with all the people on both ships.

SMOKE OF GUNS DRIVES VISITORS BELOW. The Dolphin passed on the shore side until the big Utah's sides loomed ahead; then it cut across the stern of the dreadnought and out to the middle of the river again, to receive the double salutes of the monsters on the left and the battleships of the reserve line—Iowa, Massachusetts, Indiana and Kentucky—on the right.

SECRETARY'S ARRIVAL BEGINS VISITING OFFICERS. The large world across the water to the Dolphin, and the officers, in stiff regalia, were met by the Secretary on the quarterdeck. The Commander-in-Chief, Osterhaus, descended the port gangway to the barge. The glitter of the gold epaulets and heavy braid about chapeaus and arms showed against the drab blue of the ship as they descended in single file.
