

AUGUSTUS' FESSES HIS POLICE STORY WAS A WHOPPER

Eight-Year-Old Finally Admits He Told a Lie in Fear of His Aunt.

SLEPT UNDER STAIRS.

Fooled Mayor and Kept Waldo, Inspector and Others Guessing for Hours.

Little Augustus Wilkerson 'feared up' today. Augustus is the eight-year-old boy who told Mayor Gaynor how he was arrested by a policeman, looked up in the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station all night without anything to eat...

MAID WATCHED ROBBER.

Window Cleaner Walked Out, His Pockets Bulging With Booty.

Through the urgent demand of Gov. Dix for police action, the news leaked out of Police Headquarters to-day that Mrs. Augustus Low, widow of the brother of former Mayor Seth Low, was robbed on Wednesday of jewelry to the value of $10,000.

WINDOW CLEANER LEFT WITH POCKETS BULGING.

The Low apartment is on the tenth story of the building. It overlooks Madison avenue and Fifty-fifth street. A man who wore the uniform of a cleaning company and who had the tools of that trade with him appeared at the door Wednesday morning and said he had been sent to clean the windows.

HAVE NAME OF CLEANER, BUT CAN'T FIND HIM.

According to members of the Low family, the name of the window cleaner firm by whom the man was employed is in the hands of the police.

CAT ATTACKS BLUECOAT WHO WENT TO RESCUE.

Ungrateful Thomas Claws Dawson, Bites His Finger and Then Gets Away.

If you happen to meet a lean, rickety-looking, gray Thomas, cat, lean and dandy and shifty-eyed, put him in a bag and take him to Policeman "Ho" Dawson of the East Fifty-first street station. Policeman Dawson will do the rest.

HOTEL MYSTERY SOLVED.

Lucy Cain, Found Dead in Syracuse, Was a Suicide.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 23.—The police called themselves to-day that Lucy Cain, the young woman who was registered in a hotel here as Mrs. James Sander of New York, committed suicide. The body was found in a gas-filled room. The cracks of the door were caulked with cotton.

Considerable mystery was attached at first to the fact that the woman was also known as Mrs. Frank Casey. Mrs. Nellie Coleman, a relative of the young woman, who lives at No. 119 East Twenty-second street, New York City, explained that Miss Cain, while visiting her, had worn a wedding ring and had a gold watch on her wrist.

DIX URGES WALDO TO GET THIEF WHO STOLE LOW JEWELS

Mayor's Relative Disclosed by Governor's Action.

MAID WATCHED ROBBER.

Window Cleaner Walked Out, His Pockets Bulging With Booty.

Through the urgent demand of Gov. Dix for police action, the news leaked out of Police Headquarters to-day that Mrs. Augustus Low, widow of the brother of former Mayor Seth Low, was robbed on Wednesday of jewelry to the value of $10,000.

WINDOW CLEANER LEFT WITH POCKETS BULGING.

The Low apartment is on the tenth story of the building. It overlooks Madison avenue and Fifty-fifth street. A man who wore the uniform of a cleaning company and who had the tools of that trade with him appeared at the door Wednesday morning and said he had been sent to clean the windows.

HAVE NAME OF CLEANER, BUT CAN'T FIND HIM.

According to members of the Low family, the name of the window cleaner firm by whom the man was employed is in the hands of the police.

CAT ATTACKS BLUECOAT WHO WENT TO RESCUE.

Ungrateful Thomas Claws Dawson, Bites His Finger and Then Gets Away.

If you happen to meet a lean, rickety-looking, gray Thomas, cat, lean and dandy and shifty-eyed, put him in a bag and take him to Policeman "Ho" Dawson of the East Fifty-first street station. Policeman Dawson will do the rest.

HOTEL MYSTERY SOLVED.

Lucy Cain, Found Dead in Syracuse, Was a Suicide.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 23.—The police called themselves to-day that Lucy Cain, the young woman who was registered in a hotel here as Mrs. James Sander of New York, committed suicide. The body was found in a gas-filled room. The cracks of the door were caulked with cotton.

MAID WATCHED ROBBER.

Window Cleaner Walked Out, His Pockets Bulging With Booty.

HAVE NAME OF CLEANER, BUT CAN'T FIND HIM.

According to members of the Low family, the name of the window cleaner firm by whom the man was employed is in the hands of the police.

CAT ATTACKS BLUECOAT WHO WENT TO RESCUE.

Ungrateful Thomas Claws Dawson, Bites His Finger and Then Gets Away.

If you happen to meet a lean, rickety-looking, gray Thomas, cat, lean and dandy and shifty-eyed, put him in a bag and take him to Policeman "Ho" Dawson of the East Fifty-first street station. Policeman Dawson will do the rest.

HOTEL MYSTERY SOLVED.

BELMONT'S SHOW GIRL BRIDE, TO WHOM DAD REFUSES A BLESSING.

He Leaps in Front of Express to Warn Laborers and Is Hurred Fifty Feet.

ARMY MEDAL OF HONOR AWARDED FIVE OFFICERS.

President Taft Presents Highest Award for Bravery—Ceremony at White House.

WON BRIDE THE DAY HE SELECTED WIFE TO INHERIT RICHES

Senior Cortez, at Seventy-Eight, Sails Home to Start Life Anew.

MUSICAL COOK'S "HIGH D" SOUNDS ALARM OF FIRE.

Chef in Pantry Sings "Trovatore" While Fat Boils Over in Kitchen—Result, Fire Engines.

JULIUS GETS A LETTER! SHERIFF HARBURGER IS WARNED TO BE CAREFUL OF GUNMEN.

Sheriff Harburger received the following communication in his mail, this morning:

"New York, Nov. 22. 'Honorable Julius Harburger, 'Dear Sir:—Just a few lines of warning. When you take those four men up to Sing Sing on next Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1912, be very careful on your way.

FIRE NEARBY STIRS TOMBS.

A fire which started shortly after 1 o'clock this morning on the top floor of the five-story brick loft building No. 42 Franklin street, awakened most of the prisoners in the Tombs prison just across Lafayette street. They viewed the fire from their barred windows—Plucky Phone Girls.

The force of night telephone girls working in the Franklin and Worth exchange, directly across the street from the fire, stuck to their posts despite the dense smoke that swept into their quarters.

The blaze was finally extinguished after half an hour's work. The Corporation's office in the Abner Building adjoining on the corner of Lafayette, was slightly damaged. The total damage is estimated at $3,000.

Maaspath Man Killed by Wagon. James Dunleavy, thirty-four years old, a plumber of No. 35 Transom avenue, Manhett, Long Island, was run over and killed by a wagon as he alighted from a Second Avenue car at Fifty-seventh street, Manhattan, to-day.

FOREMAN GIVES UP LIFE TO SAVE MEN FROM FAST TRAIN

He Leaps in Front of Express to Warn Laborers and Is Hurred Fifty Feet.

James Hogan, section boss on the Pennsylvania Railroad, died a hero today at Metuchen, N. J., sacrificing his own life in saving the lives of the workmen in his gang, who were in the path of an approaching train. The locomotive of the train struck him, tossed him fifty feet and deposited his crushed body on a signal bridge on the side of the station platform away from the tracks.

There are four tracks in front of the station at Metuchen and the movement of trains is so constant that extreme vigilance is necessary on the part of the trackmen. It happened to-day that a passenger train and a freight train on adjoining tracks, east bound, passed through Metuchen together. Hogan's men were working on the west bound express track.

The section boss was on the station platform as the eastbound train passed. He stepped out on the tracks and saw the Washington express coming on at fifty miles an hour. A cloud of steam ascending from the whistle of the engine was to be heard his approach to the section men on the track, but the noise of the eastbound train drowned the sound of the whistle.

Hogan was between the train and his gang. He rushed to the track and ran at top speed toward the men, shouting. They couldn't hear the whistle of the express train, but they heard Hogan, shouting to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

FIREBUG BY TRADE READS 'TO CONFESS SECRETS OF GANG

"Izzy the Painter," Facing 25 Years in Prison, May Solve Mysteries.

Assistant District Attorney Roy Welles in charge of the prosecution of arson cases, and Fire Marshal Prial, have gathered evidence that another gang of firebugs, organized as was the gang which was broken up in 1885, are at work in this city. One of the members of the new gang, Isidore Steinkreuzer, alias "Izzy the Painter," was convicted before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions to-day of arson in the second degree, and was remanded for sentence. He has made, it is stated, statements to Mr. Welles revealing that he knows of the workings of the gang in order that he might escape the full penalty on his conviction, twenty-five years at hard labor in Sing Sing.

Steinkreuzer was convicted of setting fire to the apartment of Samuel Gold in the Bronx, East One Hundred and Eighty-fourth street June 20 '12. Twenty-four families, aggregating 100 persons, lived in the tenement at the time. Gold carried a policy for $1,000 on his furniture and clothing, the total value of which was $250. He had insured the policy increased from $500 to $1,000 three weeks before the fire.

"IZZY" SEEN AT MANY MYSTERIOUS FIRES.

Fire Marshal Prial and his deputies had been watching Steinkreuzer for many mysterious fires in Harlem, the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

Marshall Prial, through spies, had an inkling that Gold's apartment was in the Bronx and Brooklyn, and once, when about to be arrested, had been allowed to go, on his plea that he desired to turn in a fire alarm.

USED HYDE'S NAME, PROMISED CITY DEPOSITS

ing between the Comptroller and other city officials, Hyde was not present, nor was he in the city when the Northern Bank failed.

Q. Did you, the day before the Northern Bank closed, withdraw more city money than usual? A. Yes.

Q. After a conversation with some person? A. Yes, the Comptroller.

Q. What was said at that time by Mr. Cummins with regard to city deposits? The defense objected to this question.

WHAT STATE HOPED TO SHOW AGAINST HYDE.

"We propose," said Assistant District Attorney Clarke, explaining, "to show that Cummins told the City of New York that the National Reserve Bank made this loan to the Carnegie Trust Company (Cummins would see that his friend, city Chamberlain Hyde, would make the National Reserve Bank a city depositary. We propose to show that the National Reserve Bank, acting on this promise of Cummins, did make the loan to the Carnegie Trust, and that just as soon as the loan was made Hyde did designate the National Reserve Bank as a city depositary just as his friend Cummins had promised. We propose to show that there were several similar transactions, and that whenever the Carnegie Trust desired to borrow money it could do so by promising to make a city depositary of the money from which it borrowed the money."

"In this way, Your Honor, we propose to show that the Carnegie Trust, the City of New York were always at the command of Reichmann and Cummins, and that Hyde was always ready to go to their rescue with New York's money, depositing the money in a large account already promised to lend it to the Carnegie Trust Company, and Reichmann and Cummins."

John B. Marchfield, opposing the question, declared there was no proof that Cummins made these representations on the knowledge of Hyde. Justice Goff permitted the question to be answered.

WHAT CUMMINS PROMISED IN NAME OF HYDE.

"When Mr. Cummins applied for the loan for the Trust Company and for himself," Mr. Jones, the witness, said, "he told me that he had $100,000 on five notes of $20,000 each, and was thinking of sending to us large accounts from other banks through the country."

Q. Did you make that loan because you thought it was safe? A. Of course, I thought the loan was safe, but I was perhaps influenced by the representations of Cummins that we would get valuable business as a result of making it.

Q. (By Mr. Clarke) Were you influenced in part by the hope of getting a larger city deposit? A. I was.

GOT MORE DEPOSITS, BUT DIDN'T SEE HYDE.

William E. Holloway, formerly president of the Hunkarian-American Bank, Q. In May, 1910, did Mr. Cummins apply to you for a loan? A. Yes, several times.

Q. Who made the application for the loan? A. Mr. Jones of the National Reserve Bank, for the officers of the Carnegie Trust Company.

Q. Immediately after the loan was made you received a deposit of $125,000 of the city's money immediately.

OTHER 'K'S MADE LOANS OTHER TALKS ABOUT HYDE.

When H. Ross Appleton of the Fourteenth street bank was called he declined to take the oath, declaring he preferred merely to affirm. He testified to a talk with Cummins in 1910 about having the Fourteenth Street Bank made a city depositary.

Q. And on June 1, three days later, did not your bank receive a city deposit of $125,000?

Q. What was the loan made? A. Yes, to the Tennessee Packing and Stock Yards Company, per Mr. Cummins.

Q. Did you get deposits from either the American Snuff or the American Tobacco Company, Mr. Cummins?

Q. Was any city money deposited, instead? A. Yes, sir. One hundred thousand dollars, a very few days after the loan was made to the Carnegie Trust Company.

Q. Had Cummins said anything to you about city deposits? A. He had merely asked me if we had any city deposits.

Q. Did you have any conversation with Cummins relative to any deposit to be made with you? A. Yes, he said that he had a deposit of $100,000 in the Holland House. He asked me how much city money we had and I said $75,000. "Well," he said, "can you get you a lot more?" "That was all that was said."

TOOK LOVING MAN AWAY FROM COUNTER WHERE HE STOLE WAISTS FOR LOVE.

Sharp Store Girl Who Didn't Love Loving, Spotted His Labor of Love.

He is Loving. In fact, he is Louis Lovins. Also he is loving. And he went to Brooklyn to-day, still loving. He went to pick out a shirtwaist for his sweetheart, so loving is Loving.

He took a green carpetbag along with him in which to carry the shirtwaist. He went into Looser's department store and added up against the fancy shirtwaist counter in a typically Loving manner.

Phon Miss Margaret McEntee, who is a store detective, saw Loving take three shirtwaists from the counter and put them in his green carpetbag—at least so she testified later when the shirtwaists were found in the bag at the Adams street station.

But Loving had not paid for the three shirtwaists.

Hence his arrest at the instance of Miss McEntee.

"I am Louis Loving. I live at No. 125 East Fifty-fifth street, Manhattan. I took the shirtwaists to give to my sweetheart."

"Show the gentleman the best room in the house," Lieut. McCormick said to the doorman.

CONFESSED SLAYER PLEADS. "Not Guilty," Says Prince to Charge of Killing Bentley.

WARSAW, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Altho Prince, confessed slayer of Frank Bentley, when arraigned before Justice of Peace Addison Fisher to-day, charged with murder in the first degree entered a plea of not guilty and demanded an examination. He asked that counsel be assigned to defend him. The hearing was set for next Wednesday.

Found Loose Diamond in Malls. WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—An unaccounted diamond was held at the dead letter office last night, Dec. 16. The little gem was found loose in a mail bag.

Two Killed in Train Wreck. SEASIDE, N.J., Nov. 23.—Passenger train No. 14, Pacific express, crashed today when the train crashed into two locomotives pushing Southern Pacific freight near here. Two trainmen were killed and two other were hurt. Railway officials began an investigation to fix responsibility for failure to flag the passenger train.

The choicest and purest of tobaccos—a wholesomeness most attractive! Fatima, the Turkish blend.

Loyal Agent Tobacco Co. 20 for 15¢

RESTAURANTS.

A Good Dinner A lively and entertaining cabaret; A jolly crowd and an evening of fun; All these you will always find at the

CAFÉ BOULEVARD

Second Ave. and Tenth Street Tel. 4010 Orchard.

LADIES RESTAURANT

33rd St. & 7 Ave. 11:30 to 1:30 PM. A NEW DELIGHT AWAITS YOU! BABER'S

FOCIES BERGERE

BROADWAY AT 48TH ST. DINNER, $1.00 10—VAUDEVILLE ACTS—10 A la Carte All Hours

FAUST

"The Show Place of New York" Excellent cuisine and perfect service. A Cabaret that leads into real entertainment by real entertainers. Continues from 8 P. M. Our famous all-day, every-day Thursday "Jolly Night" LITE—PROLOGUE—GATSBY

HOTEL MARSEILLES

BROADWAY, AT 103D ST. Special T. & H. Dinner—Daily and Sunday. 50c $1 Extra Musical Programs Afternoon and Evening Sat. and Sun.

ARCHAMBAULT'S

102D ST. AND BROADWAY. THE HIGH CLASS. UPTOWN RESTAURANT. A LA CARTE. PROF. MARTINELLI.

Beefsteak Dinners

BOOKINGS NOW FOR THE BEST EQUIPPED HALL IN THE CITY. BRYANT HALL, 725 SIXTH AVENUE. Everything That Goes with a Beefsteak Dinner, including dancing. F. N. ANDERSON, Proprietor.

LOST, FOUND AND REWARDS.

Stern Brothers have in preparation for Monday, November 25th. Their Annual Sale of Women's Fur and Fur-lined Garments, Muffs and Neckpieces of the most reliable and fashionable furs, at prices rarely quoted for corresponding qualities. This Sale will be of Unusual Importance. West 23d and 22d Streets.