

FRIEDMANN ADDS 15 NEW PATIENTS FOR FEDERAL TEST

Tuberculosis Specialist Denies Private Treatment of Banker's Son-in-Law.

VISITS ALL HIS CASES.

Is Especially Concerned About Those at Hospital Where Scarlet Fever Appeared.

Dr. F. F. Friedmann spent to-day visiting all the hospitals where he has patients under treatment by inoculation with his anti-tuberculosis vaccine. He was especially concerned about those at Mount Sinai, because scarlet fever has appeared in a ward in which some of his patients are. He felt that he should take personal charge, in view of complications which might arise if patients under his treatment should be attacked with the fever.

Nearly two hundred frantically eager men, women and children were waiting for Dr. Friedmann in front of the hospital for Deformities and Joint Diseases when he arrived there. Five policemen had to keep the sidewalk clear until he slipped into the building. He selected fifteen cases for operation to-morrow, and he put under the constant observation of the United States Government physicians. Owing to the appearance of scarlet fever at Mount Sinai they will not be taken to the hospital, a danger of an epidemic has been stamped out.

Dr. Friedmann planned to visit Mount Sinai, the Montefiore Home (which has reported improvement in the condition of his patients treated there ten days ago) and to Bellevue. In all of the hospitals he is selecting patients for future clinics.

Through Dr. Sturm, his assistant, Dr. Friedmann issued an indignant denial that he had given a secret treatment to Rexford Lee Paris, son-in-law of Banker Charles E. Finlay, at the banker's home at Great Neck last night. Mr. Finlay gave a dinner to the physician and his assistants, which was attended by forty persons. Dr. Sturm said that Mr. Paris was not present and had not been treated anywhere else at any time.

It was the illness of Mr. Paris which impelled Mr. Finlay to offer Dr. Friedmann a million dollars if he could give a cure in ninety-five per cent. of the cases treated. Dr. Friedmann declined the offer.

'BRAINSTORM' DEFENSE OF FIANCEE'S SLAYER.

Momentary Insanity Is Claim at Second Trial of Corporal Spahr, Brought From Death House.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WHITE PLAINS, March 24.—After being eighteen months in a cell of the Sing Sing death house, Lawrence Spahr, formerly a corporal and leader of a band in the United States Artillery at Fort Monmouth, was placed on trial for his life for the second time before Supreme Court Justice Mills today.

He is charged with the murder of Miss O'Toole in this city on April 1, 1911. Spahr was sane, one minute before he fired the fatal shot; while he was firing he was insane, and one minute later he was sane.

The jury was secured in two hours. Assistant District Attorney Davis called a sister of Miss O'Toole as the first witness.

Dr. Carlos B. McDonald and Dr. William E. Ross, who have examined Spahr, were in court to testify that he is sane.

ARMED WOMAN THRASHES ATLANTIC CITY LAW OFFICER.

(Special to The Evening World.)
ATLANTIC CITY, March 24.—Following a sensational battle at her home, "The Idle Hour," in an exclusive section of Pacific avenue, to-day, Mrs. Amy Nuckols, divorced wife of W. Preston Nuckols, a wealthy sportsman and one-time racetrack owner, was taken to jail by a deputy sheriff, under order of Vice-Chancellor Leaming, who cited her in contempt.

Nuckols got a divorce two months ago from Vice-Chancellor Leaming after evidence that his wife depleted his wardrobe of silk shirts and expensive suits to the amount of $18,000. She had a child, an eighteen-year-old stable boy, who testified that he was employed about the house "to do heavy work." It was also charged that she fed an eighty-year-old man, who indulged in mixed orgies and once dragged her husband from bed and down a flight of steps by his ears.

Their four-year-old daughter, and Muriel, their four-year-old daughter, were placed in a convent at Merion, Pa., where Mrs. Nuckols kidnapped the girl Friday night and brought her here.

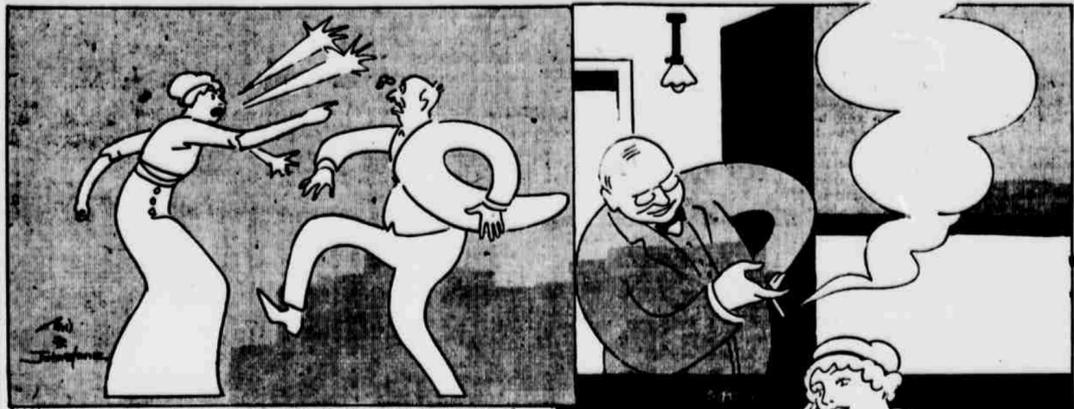

She barricaded the house to-day and aimed a gun at Deputy Sheriff Barber when he broke in the door, but was disarmed, though not before she had disarranged the officer.

Anti-Suffrage Prices.
WASHINGTON, March 24.—The National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage announced to-day that it will pay $100 to the city girl who in an essay of 600 words gives the best reason why women should not be given the right of suffrage, and $100 to the country girl who produces the best similar argument.

THE GIRL WHO WORKS AND WINS Eleventh Article of a Series.

One Wins by Attending to Business, Letting It Take Precedence Over Fun

Copyright, 1913, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World).

"It Is Impossible to Be a 'Butterfly' Outside of Business and to Be a Competent, Trustworthy Employee During the Day While at Work," Writes Juniata.

$100—IN PRIZES FOR LETTERS BY REAL WORKING GIRLS—$100

Cash prizes amounting to $100 will be given for the most helpful letters from REAL WORKING GIRLS on the subject dealt with in this series. The money will be divided as follows: Two prizes of $25 each. Five other prizes of $10 each. The seven letters which, in Nicola Greeley-Smith's judgment, are best and most helpful will receive these awards.

BY NIKOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

"While I am not earning an enormous salary, the success I do enjoy I attribute to the fact that I have been a BUSINESS woman—that is, one who places her employer's interests above her own and always lets business take precedence of amusement."

This extract from the letter of a young woman reader reaches, I think, the most frequent cause of the failure of the feminine employee, the fact that when she settles down to work she cannot divest herself of her femininity as a matter of fact and as completely as she removes her hat and coat and rubbers. There are gay little girls in every employment who do not seem to understand that it is not good business, to say nothing of ethics, to take a salary in exchange for an account of last night's theatre party or last Sunday's automobile ride, who do not realize that it is unfair to subordinate the things by which they live—more or less foolishly.

When I say that the business woman should divest herself of her femininity I don't mean that she should attire herself like Dr. Mary Walker or ape in any way the unfortunate garments of men. Nor that as she goes about her work she should preserve the stony glumness of the sphinx. I mean that if she does not expect other persons to endeavor to take advantage of the fact that she is a woman she must begin by forgetting it herself.

She must work as men work, not nodding or shirking with smiles and coy glances, taking her vacations modestly, her defects modestly. We have all known young women who use their femininity, their gift for flattery and deference, the lure of bright eyes and attractive costumes to keep from doing the work for which they are paid. One can always tell whether or not a girl of this type has a job by the sort of gown she has on, a studied indiscretion indicating clearly that her recent employer has realized at last that he can't afford to pay a salary for being flattered, and that the mistress is on the trail of a new signature. It always seems to me a pity that talents of this sort should be wasted on the sordid world of business.

EXCELLENT ADVICE ON MANAGEMENT OF MEN.

It is the girl who capitalizes her femininity that creates the too enterprising employer of whom so many young women have complained. The letter of the girl who attributes her success to the fact that she has always been a business woman contains some excellent advice on the management of men who are not discriminating. She remarks that "there is nothing men seem to fear so much as being made to appear cheap," and that "a good tongue lashing" is all that is necessary to tame the volunteer villain. I agree with her. Undoubtedly there are men so lacking in the instinct of self-preservation that they would leer requisitely in the face of Medusa herself, but only for the half second before the swiftness of the Gorgan wrath has turned them into stone images of humiliation. So long as a woman remembers that in dealing with villains ridicule goes a great deal further than rectitude she will never be seriously annoyed by them. The letter from which I have quoted follows:

ATTEND TO BUSINESS AND BE SENSIBLE.
Dear Madam: After more than twelve years' service in the army of working women, the writer believes she is qualified to say some-

"I'M PREFERRED TO HAVE SOME ONE WITH WHOM HE COULD FLIRT AND JOKE" WRITES N.O.C.

terial that had good wearing quality, early realizing that I could not afford to indulge in cheap cloth, which in the end was far from cheap. Whether one be king or slave, ultimately each is in pursuit of happiness, but too many persons have the wrong view point of happiness, searching for it in every conceivable place. As soon as they can understand that it comes from within themselves, they will be happy and contented and radiate these feelings to every one with whom they come in contact. When I was earning $7 a week I could not afford many amusements, so employed my spare moments by reading good, wholesome literature obtained at the public library. Many long evenings were spent in this manner, and the result is that I am not only benefited intellectually but enjoy better health than if I had used my energy seeking other amusements with the consequent loss of sleep. Girls, let us use every opportunity to improve our intellect, enlarge our stock of common sense, be conscientious, willing and patient, garnishing these qualities with a cheerful countenance, and success will be ours. JUNIATA.

ANOTHER GIRL WHO ACCUSES THE EMPLOYER.

Dear Madam: I left school at the age of fourteen years and for a year and a half worked in department stores and factories on the higher salary I received being $10. This amount I turned over to my mother each week and out of it she had to pay sixty cents car fare every week and fifteen cents a day for dinner money. Sometimes I brought a little lunch with me, so you can see I was not a very rich girl. I was the eldest of nine children, so you can see how much I was able to help toward their support. I was also kept clothed out of the wonderful salary I handed in. At last I saw that I was getting into a rut and had no prospect of getting out of it. It was then that I decided to go to night school. I would leave the factory at 6 o'clock after being in it from 7 in the morning and from there would go and have a cup of coffee and a sandwich in a restaurant and then go to night school. This extra sixty cents had to come out of my salary, but through the encouragement of a good mother in the face of ridicule from others who should have helped me, I finally finished my course and was able to obtain my first stenographic position at $2 a week. At last my long hours and self-sacrifice appeared to be rewarded. But this was not to last. I soon found that my employer was not satisfied with the services of a good stenographer. Instead he preferred to have some one with whom he could flirt and joke, and it soon got so that it did not make any difference whether the work would be finished or not so long as I could smile at his empty complimentary remarks and appear not to be offended at his double meaning jokes. Finally I found it necessary to look for another position. Of course, it is unnecessary to say that I could not give his name as a reference, as he was very much provoked when I resigned. I had to start all over again and say that I was just a beginner in stenography and he belittled with small wages for awhile until I got a fresh start. Now, thanks to energy and patience, I have reached a salary where I can dress respectably and see my way clear. Although I will say right here, that if it were not for the fact that I had my own home where

MUSICA STRICKEN IN PRISON CELL; DAUGHTERS FREED

New Yorker Accused With Sons of Big Frauds Suffers Bad Heart Attack.

NEW ORLEANS, March 24.—Antonio Musica of New York, who was placed in jail here last week with his three sons charged with defrauding New York banks of a large sum of money, suffered a severe heart attack in the jail to-day, and the doctor attending him says he may die.

Musica's two daughters, Louise and Grace, who have been held in jail as witnesses, were released from custody this forenoon, but decided to remain in jail to nurse their father. The $75,000 in cash, which was taken from the Musica family, was seized to-day by the United States Marshal and will be turned over to the receiver of the Musica firm appointed by the Federal court.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR MUSICA BROTHERS IN BANKRUPTCY MOVE.

Close upon the enforced dissolution of the firm of Mitchell & Co. by the Stock Exchange, following the disappearance and subsequent arrest of members of the firm of A. Musica & Son, the hair dealer, came an involuntary petition in bankruptcy, which was filed to-day. J. Murray Mitchell, his father-in-law, Thomas B. McGovern, and Frederick H. Alexander are named as members of the stock brokerage firm whose interests were to smash with the discovery of Musica's business methods and the flight of the family.

William C. de Millie, of No. 20 West One Hundred and Seventh street, the playwright; Thomas A. O'Keefe, of No. 66 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, and William R. Gray, of No. 50 Monroe avenue, Elizabeth, N. J., signed the petition. They placed the amount of their claims at $125,750 and noted a preferential payment of $49,810 to L. L. Pease, a creditor, alleged to have been made during insolvency. Judge Mayer named Edward G. Benedict as receiver.

Just about the time the involuntary petition was being filed, announcement was made on the floor of the Cotton Exchange that the firm had suspended because of inability to meet its obligations. Mr. Mitchell announced the firm owed nothing either on the stock or cotton exchange and that its only obligations were to customers. He said the firm's seat on the stock exchange had just been sold for $40,000, and that the seat on the Cotton Exchange would bring about $17,000, while outstanding debts would add several thousands more. He asserted this would be sufficient to cover all claims.

Mitchell & Co. came into existence about three weeks ago, following the dissolution of Alexander & Co., after it was reported they had been caught in the curb market manipulation of United States Hair, the Musica company. Alexander is a son of J. W. Alexander, former managing director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

CHURCH WANTS ATTORNEY TO ACCOUNT FOR $14,000.

Trustees of Third Reformed Presbyterian Take Action in Supreme Court Against Donald McLean.

The Board of Trustees of the Third Reformed Presbyterian Church of New York began an action in the Supreme Court to-day to compel Donald McLean, an attorney, of No. 27 William street, to account for $14,000, which the trustees declare, they placed in his hands for investment in bonds and mortgages, which were a first lien on real estate. They admit he has from time to time paid them interest on the investment, but allege they have asked him frequently where and in what manner the money was invested and he has persistently refused to give them any information or to return the money or deliver the securities.

The churchmen assert they do not know, in fact, whether Mr. McLean ever invested the money as directed. They ask the Court to direct the attorney, first, to account to them for all of the $14,000 and then to hand over to them any balance that should stand in their name.

WOMAN BURNED AT STOVE.

MT. HOLLY, March 24.—There was buried in the Baptist Cemetery at Medford to-day the body of Mrs. William Misner of Indian Mills, who was burned to death in her home yesterday. Mrs. Misner started a wood fire to prepare breakfast. While at work she was attacked with vertigo and fell over the hot stove, the lids of which were off. The flames quickly enveloped her.

MAY ABOLISH HUMAN BOARD.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The Human Pure Food Board, which has been charged with hampering the former chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, soon may be abolished as the result of conferences held by President Wilson, Dr. Henssen, President of the board, and Secretary of Agriculture Houston.

CHILDS DIDN'T SIGN WILL, WIDOW SAYS, SEEKING FORTUNE

Millionaire Spender's Alleged Signature Not Genuine, Is Her Contention.

A surprise was sprung during the contest of the will of Irving W. Childs to-day when attorneys for Mrs. Gertrude E. Childs, the millionaire's widow, in whose behalf the contest is conducted, informed Surrogate Cochran that Mrs. Childs declines to admit the signature attached to the mooted will as that of her late husband.

The will in question, among other bequests, leaves $75,000 to Frederick H. Clarke, of Millburn, N. J., who was Childs's attorney and will be a trustee of the estate if the will is admitted to probate. On the other hand, Mrs. Childs and her little daughter, Marjorie E. Childs, are acutely provided for. In her contesting papers Mrs. Childs contended Mr. Clark had exercised undue influence in inducing Childs to make a will discriminating against his wife and child.

In view of this development, Mr. Clarke's attorney placed on the stand in succession the three witnesses to the will. They were Major Moses Pease, a lawyer of Philadelphia; William C. Steever, another attorney, who has an office adjoining Major Beale's, and Miss Anna M. Muns, a clerk in Mr. Steever's office.

Major Beale told how Mr. Clarke had come to his office one day with a young man whom he introduced as Irving W.

Childs and asked the Major to witness the will. "I had never met the young man introduced to me as Mr. Childs," Major Beale continued. "He was a very nice looking man, under thirty years of age, neatly dressed. I did not see any one try to influence him or impose any restraint upon him."

Major Beale was recalled to the stand to see if he could identify a photograph of Childs, and the Surrogate adjourned court to permit Mr. Clarke to produce one.

ASKS MAGISTRATE TO TRY HIM AT HOSPITAL BEDSIDE.

"Honey" Melody, Prize Fighter, Wants Police Guard Removed From His Elbow.

With a record for being afraid of no kind or amount of punishment, William Melody, known in the prize ring as "Honey" Melody, to-day sent a lawyer to Magistrate Murphy in the Harlem Police Court asking the Magistrate to come to his bedside in the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Infirmary and hold court there so he could get rid of the policeman on duty at his elbow.

"Honey" is under arrest charged with being a fugitive from justice, which he really isn't—except in a technical way. He is due in Boston to pay two fines of $50 each, one for assault and one for carrying a pistol, but he can't get there, as he is under treatment for cataract of the eye.

Magistrate Murphy was perfectly willing to meet the request of the fighter but found his counsel could get ball for Melody without having him appear before a Magistrate, by asking the Court of General Sessions. The lawyer hustled off with a bondaman to get the policeman removed just as quickly as he could.

Unrivalled Beauty of Styles in These
Smart Suit Models
To-Morrow, Tuesday

Russian Blouses
Bulgarian Models
Customary $25 Value
$16.98

The aim of the Bedell organization is to offer those higher elements of style which appeal to women who will not accept the substitution of mediocre apparel—at any price. In these we show Smart Vigoreux Splendid Serges Worthy New Worsteds Stunning Novelties Comparison must instantly convince you of the impossibility of obtaining elsewhere the equal of these clever creations, either in style, individuality or distinctiveness of design. A vast variety of Effective Blues Novelty Grays Spice Browns Black and Navy To this we add immitably smart effects in trimming and excellence of cut, making these suits truly supreme at the price.

Special—$3 Waists, $4.98
A number of exquisite new models just received from the designers on sale to-morrow. A singularly exceptional special value

Alterations FREE
SALE AT ALL FOUR STORES

Bedell

14-16 West 14th Street—New York
Market and 12th Sts.—Philadelphia
460-462 Fulton Street—Brooklyn
645-651 Broad St.—Newark, N. J.

Registered Trade Mark Established Half a Century

Washable Dress Fabrics
Spring and Summer 1913

Additional shipments just arrived from abroad complete our collection for the coming season. Particular attention is directed to the following lines:

French Crepes, in all white, with embroidered dots, self stripes or white grounds with colored stripes, also solid colors, 75c to $1.50 a yard.

"Ratines," a most unusual assortment of this popular fabric, in white and plain shades, two-toned mixtures and a most comprehensive assortment of black and white effects. 40 to 46 inches wide, at $1.00 to $2.25 a yard.

The assortment also includes the newest weaves and designs in Dress Linens, Shirtings, Ginghams, Repps, Poplins, Ottoman Cords, Piques, Voiles, Dimities, Crepes, Embroidered Swiss and Batiste, Oxford Percalés and washable Silk Galatea and Kindergarten Cloth.

James McCutcheon & Co.
5th Ave., 33d & 34th Sts.

Save Your Doctor's Bills
And Reduce the Cost of Living
By Always Keeping on Hand a Box of

EX-LAX
The Delicious Family Stomach Remedy

The new 50c size of Ex-Lax is enough to guard the health of the whole family for months against constipation, lazy liver, indigestion, sick headaches and all other ailments that come from bad or disordered stomach.

The 50c box of Ex-Lax is very economical. It contains 40 Ex-Lax chocolates besides a coupon worth 12½c.

One Box will prove its value; at all druggists, 10c, 25c, 50c.