

"PADDY THE DIP" FACES LIFE TERM AS "SAMARITAN"

"Helps the Fallen" After 31 Years in Prison and Is Caught at It

SAW HOLD-UP, HE SAYS.

But Victim Identifies Aged Crook as One of Pair Who Robbed Him.

Patrick Crowley, with a record of fifty years, thirty-one of which have been spent behind prison bars, decided to play Samson to-day for the first time in his life. Result: "Paddy the Dip" is in jail charged with highway robbery. In justice to Paddy, because it will likely be the last time Gallery No. 12 will figure before a Court, it is fair to give his side of the incident.

Paddy left Sing Sing two weeks ago. He has been looking for work along the river front since, he says. After a long day's search he found himself in a doorway at Spring and West streets at 1 o'clock this-day. His pockets were empty and he was hungry and he was hanging out of sight of the police who know him so well.

SAW PAIR HOLD UP FIRM AND AIDED INJURED MAN.

Along staggered a soldier, Waldemar Frisk, a firm on the Gallery floor Jackson, who had slipped a full cargo of spirits and was steering a random course. As Paddy watched two figures dashed from a shadow. One knocked Frisk down, while the other extracted $50 from the firm's wallet. The two then, Paddy says, fled, leaving their victim unconscious.

The sight moved Paddy, he says, with a disgust for crime. He hurried to aid Frisk, picked him up, dusted his clothes and was supporting the victim on his shoulder when Lieut. Bobell of the MacDougal street station rushed up. "Ho, ho, Paddy; at it again, eh?" exclaimed the policeman.

From there on Paddy figures only as a prisoner. Lieut. Bobell told the Court to-day that he spied Paddy slicing the jeans of Frisk and saw another man hastening down the street. Bobell asked Frisk if he recognized Paddy, and the firmman swore Paddy was one of two men who beat him and took his money.

"PADDY THE DIP" BEGAN "DIP-PING" IN 1872.

At Police Headquarters they said this of Paddy: He has a criminal record reaching back to 1872. He has spent thirty-one years in jail, mostly in New York and Massachusetts penitentiaries. The only once he has escaped a prison sentence.

"I suppose it's up to me good and hard this trip," he told the Magistrate. "It's the first time in my life that I ever played the Good Samaritan and if they don't catch me at it! I've reform, but it won't go with the Judge. I've escaped the habitual criminal sloughing up, but the jig's up now. No one will believe me and I'm go to my grave in a prison yard with this black mark to my name."

The Magistrate held Paddy after Frisk said he could not doubt Paddy's identity as one of the two men who pounced on him.

LONDON, June 15—Lord Edward Fitz Gerald, the youngest brother of the Duke of Leinster, premier Duke of Ireland, showed that the reputation of his engagement to May Etheridge, the "Pajama Girl" of the Shaftesbury Theatre, made May 13, was not in accordance with his wishes by marrying the little musical comedy actress this week at Wandsworth Registry office.

NO TRACE YET FOUND OF FOUR INDICTED AS VICE TRUST HEADS

Two Men and Women Accomplices Supposed to Have Employed 1,600 Girls.

A blanket indictment was returned yesterday, charging two men and two women, said to be the heads of the vice trust in the Tenderloin, with keeping disorderly houses.

Bench warrants were immediately issued, but detectives who were sent out to serve them reported that they were unable to find the accused ones. It was reported that one man had fled to South America and others were outside the jurisdiction of New York State. As the offense charged is a misdemeanor there may be some difficulty in extraditing them.

The four are reported to have controlled at one time thirty disorderly houses in the Tenderloin. The indictments are the result of a year's effort on the part of District-Attorney Whitman and his assistant, James R. Smith, to run down the "big four" of the underworld.

A number of women have been convicted of running disorderly houses formerly controlled by the trust, but they have steadfastly refused to squeal. Finally Nellie and Josie Schaefer gave Mr. Whitman the information that led to the indictments.

The trail grew hot when it was learned that it was the custom of the "big four" to pay $5 a day to those of their hangers who were sent to prison. At the trial of the Schaefer women it was noticed that one was accompanied to court by a woman now indicted. It was this circumstance that led the District-Attorney to keep after the Schaefer women until they confessed.

The disorderly house combination was first brought into publicity last summer, although its existence had been suspected for several years. The District-Attorney's office learned that an understanding existed among the heads of the trust by which girls were sent from one house to another and the profits split up. It is said that at one time the trust had in its employ 1,600 girls operating between Eighteenth and Fortieth streets on the west side. It is said that practically every one of the houses is now closed.

FIRE SHIP'S SISTER IN DANGER IN STORM.

Curlyba Is Pounded by Huge Seas About Time Olinda Is Calling for Aid.

The Cuban steamship Curlyba of the Munson line, whose sister ship, the Olinda, took ashore at sea and struggled into Charleston, S. C., last Wednesday, was at the mercy of a storm, a broken down drumming pump and a useless rubber while the Olinda was sending out wireless calls for aid.

The story of the Curlyba's troubles was told yesterday when she reached here at half speed. It was narrated that she drifted, staggering in the trough of the sea, with big waves breaking over her, while the engineer's force below strove to make repairs and a sail was sent to the foremast to help steady her.

On Monday a northwesterly blow the waves up to a mountainous pitch. The circulating pump gave out, and for ten hours the Curlyba lay to for repairs, with the engines out of commission.

"In the cabin," said a woman from Philadelphia, "women and children dropped on their knees and prayed. They buckled on life preservers. I lashed my baby into my bunk. A sailor came into my room and said: 'Don't worry. Everything will be all right. We have the lifeboats all ready to launch.' Lifeboats? No lifeboat could have lived in these seas."

By Tuesday night the Curlyba was fairly on her way again.

Over the fertile wheat fields of the West these giant machines go, each one threshing up to 8,000 bushels of wheat in a single day.

From the finer grades we choose the wheat for "FORCE." Each flake of "FORCE" is a whole grain of wheat, cooked with barley malt, rolled, baked and toasted.

"Delicious" you'll vote to-morrow morning when you eat some.

You are missing a real opportunity if you do not take advantage of this co-operative piano sale

The pianos for this co-operative sale were personally selected at the factory by Mr. C. Alfred Wagner, President of the Lyceum and upon arrival are being tested and inspected by Mr. Nathan Franklin, for years Conductor and Concertmeister Metropolitan Opera.

WE have told you these pianos are worth 3 hundred and 50 dollars each—and so they are. Come and see them. You can see for yourself that they are worth it. "Seeing is believing." Don't let anyone switch you in your determination to see and examine these pianos. You may take our word for it that they will be a revelation to you. Take our word for it, you will consider them worth at least a hundred dollars more than you have to pay.

The pianos being distributed through this co-operative sale are worthy of being placed in any man's home. They are good pianos. You are missing a real opportunity if you don't look at them.

Don't judge these pianos by the price ($248.75). Judge them by what they are worth ($350).

If there wasn't a single other advantage to this associate plan; if there wasn't a single privilege given those who buy through it—other than is given with a regular piano sale—the economical feature or the price of these pianos alone should appeal to every one who is interested in making their dollars go as far as possible.

$5

The balance on the piano is payable 1 dollar and 25 cents, weekly. The balance on the player-piano is payable 2 dollars weekly. WITHOUT INTEREST. This gives you 195 weeks time in which to pay for the piano or the player-piano.

One hundred player-pianos are also being sold on this same co-operative plan. The usual price of these player-pianos is five hundred and fifty dollars each. The co-operative price is three hundred and ninety-five dollars, with NO INTEREST to be added.

The player-pianos will also be delivered immediately upon the payment of five dollars. The payments are two dollars a week—giving you one hundred and ninety-five weeks' time in which to make your payments, the same as on the piano. The same unconditional guarantee that is given on the piano is given on the player-piano.

You can also get your money back at any time within thirty days. You get the same privilege of exchanging within a year as that given with the piano. All of the unpaid balances will be voluntarily cancelled in event of death. Also a player-piano bench and nine rolls of music (your own selection) are included without extra charge. An arrangement will also be made with each purchaser whereby new player rolls can be procured at a cost of only five cents a roll. These player-pianos are standard 88-note players; that is, they play every note on the piano when the music roll is in motion. These player-pianos have an automatic shifter which compels the music to play perfectly. Most player-pianos sold at from two hundred to two hundred and fifty dollars more than these will not play perfectly. These player-pianos have lead tubing. Most player-pianos have rubber tubing. The life of rubber is one year—at most. Lead lasts forever. It cannot wear out and the tubing in the player-pianos is so placed it cannot be broken.

The whole plan applies to player-pianos as well
