

OFFICIALS NAMED IN LOBBY LETTERS IN RUSH TO DENY

Senator Newlands, Whose Name Came Up Yesterday, First to Take Stand.

MAY HALT THE INQUIRY.

Chairman Overman Wants to Take a Recess Until Tariff Bill is Passed.

By Samuel M. Williams
Special Correspondent of The Evening World.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—The possibility of a committee of inquiry at this time a thorough investigation of all kinds of lobbyists, the Senate investigating committee plans to temporarily adjourn its inquiry next week. Senator Overman, chairman of the committee, said today:

"We cannot expect to go into all phases of this subject and make our report within the limited time at our disposal. Besides, there is greater urgency for the Senate to devote itself to passing through the tariff bill at the earliest possible moment. The country is demanding that we do this without unnecessary delay."

"I think the committee has established enough facts concerning lobby activities that make it advisable to go forward on the subject tomorrow. I have determined now as we may all determine ourselves to the tariff. Then later on we will resume our investigation and report to the regular session of Congress next winter."

OFFICIALS BY THOSE MENTIONED IN LOBBY LETTERS.

The Senate today opened with vigorous debate of statements made in lobby letters. Senator Newlands, who was mentioned in connection with appointment to the Philippine Commission, took the stand and emphatically repudiated insinuations in the letters and demanded both the free and protection sugar lobby. Mr. Newlands, general manager of the Associated Press, repudiated the inference in the letters that the Associated Press had in any way indulged into sending not news favorable to best sugar interests.

"My application to go on the Philippine commission was not suggested by Mr. Overman," Newlands asserted in his testimony. "I had been in the Philippines with the Taft party in 1906, and on my return expressed my views in full. I urged that we adopt a policy at an early date which would enable us to withdraw from the Philippines, and that it would be unwise to tie ourselves more closely to the islands by reciprocal or other trade relations."

LOBBIES OF BOTH SIDES PUT ON THE GRIDDLE.

The free sugar lobby working in opposition to the best sugar tariff lobby was put on the griddle today. What each lobbied as hard as it could, using similar methods and practices to influence public opinion in home districts and Congressmen and Senators in Washington. The free trade interests were as active and insidious as the protection interests. One and best sugar growers put up the money for the protection campaign and sugar refiners paid the bills for free sugar lobbying.

Claus Spreckels, President of the Federal Sugar Refining Company, whose plant is at Yonkers, appears to have put up practically all the money for the free sugar activities. The work was delegated to his sales manager, Frank C. Lowry, who operated under the cover of a self-formed organization called the "committee of wholesale grocers, F. C. Lowry, secretary."

Neither the Havemeyer nor Arbuckle interests appear to have had a hand in the operations. Lowry was the principal witness of the day. Senator Cummings conducted his cross-examination and Lowry's answers were full of revelations that not all the lobby inquiry has been in the protectionist camp. Apparently the cause of free trade, so far as an inquiry is concerned, was accelerated in quite an insidious manner.

20,000 MEN LOCKED OUT BY CHICAGO BUILDERS.

They Expected a General Strike and Took the Initiative by Stopping Work.

CHICAGO, June 18.—A lockout of 20,000 workmen, employed in the construction trades in Chicago, went into effect today, and when the men appeared at work they were told they were not needed.

The Building Construction Employers' Association voted the lockout. The employers threaten to keep the men idle until the Building Trades Council forces striking marble workers employed on the Continental and Commercial Bank Building to return to work. The trades involved are the electricians, lathers, plumbers, bricklayers, steamfitters, ornamental iron workers and marble workers.

Efforts to adjust the differences between the striking marble workers and the employers failed last week. The Building Trades Council had under consideration the calling of a general strike when the employers took the initiative.

"MRS. FITZHUGH" WINS STAY OF SENTENCE FOR CHURCH THEFTS

Lawyer Who Came North to Aid Her Says She Belongs to Noted Family.

Judge Swann, in the Court of General Sessions, had set today for the sentence of "Mrs. Randolph Fitzhugh," the beautiful and aristocratic mannered young woman who pleaded guilty Monday to two charges of snatching in churches. But on the request of Creed W. Fulton, a lawyer of Washington, D. C., who said he was a lifelong friend of the young woman's family, sentence was put over until Wednesday of next week to allow time for Mr. Fulton and Louis Spiegel, the lawyer assigned to her by the court, to prepare motions for the withdrawal of her plea of guilty.

"Mrs. Fitzhugh" was not brought into court. "My client's right name is not Fitzhugh," Mr. Fulton said today after Assistant District Attorney Press announced that the prosecutor's office had no objection to the postponement. "But she is a member of a family every bit as well known and as highly esteemed as the Fitzhughs. They are Virginia people. I have known her for years. She is a refined, estimable woman who has never before been under a criminal charge and her acts are due to a nervous condition which impelled her to do things which she herself would condemn as strictly as anybody else when she is in a normal frame of mind.

"My duty here is to protect her rights and the name of her family. I can say no more about her."

Mr. Fulton went before Judge Swann yesterday and asked if the Court would entertain a motion for the withdrawal of "Mrs. Fitzhugh's" plea of guilty to stealing the mesh bag of Miss Dorothy Fisk, daughter of Piny Fisk, the banker, in St. Bartholomew's Church Feb. 12, and the theft of the purse of Miss Irene Munsey, an actress, two weeks before. Judge Swann said he would receive the motions, but would deny them.

The young woman, before Mr. Fulton's arrival, had sent a note addressed to District Attorney Whitman saying that

OLD MAN RESCUING BOY IS HIMSELF RUN OVER.

Van Rensselaer Burr Jr. Badly Hurt by Being Caught Under a Wheel of Heavy Truck.

Van Rensselaer Burr Jr., the eleven-year-old son of Van Rensselaer Burr of No. 21 West Eighty-seventh street, was run down and seriously injured by a heavy truck in Broadway near Eighty-first street today. Young Burr was riding his bicycle south in the thoroughfare when he collided with the rear wheel of the truck of Charles Switzer of No. 42 West Fourteenth street. Young Burr was tossed from his bicycle directly in the path of the truck wheel, which passed over his body.

From the opposite side of Broadway Felix Ury, sixty-two years old, a salesman, of No. 20 West Ninety-seventh street, saw the accident. He ran to jerk the boy from under the wheel, but he was hit by a southbound street car and himself badly hurt.

While Policeman Hayden of the West sixty-eighth street station called an ambulance, the automobile of Neil McEwen of No. 206 Fulton street, Brooklyn, happened along. The injured boy was placed in it and taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where Dr. White said his condition was critical.

Dr. Pryor came from Polytechnic Hospital with the ambulance and checked the injuries of Mr. Ury, whose chest and hip were badly lacerated.
