

TWO HELD FOR ATTACK ON A POLICEMAN WHO WOULDN'T ARREST BOY

McCormick Advised a Summons, but That Didn't Suit Silvermans.

Major Gaynor's action in forcing to trial policemen who arrested boys for playing ball in a Brooklyn park had a funny sequel to-day in the Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, Court, when Louis Silverman and his wife, Bessie, of No. 910 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, were held in $500 bail for examination July 15 on the charge of disorderly conduct.

Patrolman McCormick of the Vernon avenue, Brooklyn, station, was at Myrtle and Throop avenues yesterday afternoon when Silverman demanded the arrest of a boy whom he said was annoying him.

McCormick refused to arrest the youth, declaring he had not seen him annoy Silverman. Silverman insisted, and McCormick said he would take the boy's name and address and furnish them to Silverman, who might then go to court and procure a summons.

Silverman, the policeman charged, seized him by the coat and began to shove him. Finally McCormick broke away from Silverman's grasp and walked around his best.

Upon his return, McCormick declares, he was again accosted by Silverman, whose wife had joined him, and both demanded that he arrest the boy, whom they charged with renewing his annoyance.

Again McCormick refused, but offered to take the child's name. This time, he says, both Silverman and Mrs. Silverman seized him, hauling and tugging at his uniform until he feared it would be torn off his back. When they refused to desert from the occupation he placed them under arrest.

TRIALS OF POLICE FOR ARRESTING BOYS END IN BROOKLYN.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dillon continued in Brooklyn Police Headquarters to-day the trials of policemen who got into trouble through their arrests of ball playing boys in Prospect Park. He reserved decision in all cases.

Seventeen-year-old David Cohen of No. 84 Wiloughby avenue, Brooklyn, said Policeman Thomas Donohue had not warned him before arresting him and had explained, when Cohen asked the reason, that he "was under orders."

Keenan, Police sergeant, years old of No. 123 Third avenue, Brooklyn, admitted that he had been warned the day before Policeman Thomas Jarvin arrested him, but he thought he should have been warned again.

Benjamin Habelthal, seventeen years old, of No. 11 Cherry street, deliberately threw his ball after Policeman Walter Sergeant had warned him.

Shel Hubcham, sixteen years old, of No. 22 Central avenue, Brooklyn, who said he had worked for two years as a lawyer, created a sensation by trying to run the whole court room.

"I want to make a charge of perjury against this man," he exclaimed when the case of Policeman Thomas Keegan was called.

"I told you yesterday," said Commissioner Dillon, "that I could try only police cases here and you would have to carry your other complaint to the District Attorney."

"You did no such thing," contradicted the boy. "You never told me where to go."

Dillon kept his temper with difficulty and young Hubcham went on to declare that he had asked Keegan for a ball belonging to him, which Nathan Kaufman had been using, and that he had been arrested immediately, though he had not been playing ball. That was the reason for the perjury charge. He said he was locked up and not allowed to communicate with his parents. Kaufman flatly contradicted him and said the police had allowed him to telephone for Hubcham's parent.

POLICEMAN ON TRIAL.

Charge Made by Ball-Playing Boy in Letter to Mayor.

Policeman Cornelius A. Curtin, formerly of the Alexander avenue station, the Bronx, was put on trial at Police Headquarters to-day on a charge arising from a letter of protest written by a boy to the Mayor, wherein Curtin was charged with having exceeded his authority in stopping the boy from playing ball in St. Mary's Park. The Mayor had forwarded the letter to Commissioner Waldo with instructions that Curtin should stand trial for the offense alleged.

When Curtin took the stand in his own defense he said he was only obeying orders when he stopped the ball playing and that special order to that effect had been issued by Capt. McOrry of his station. Park Commissioner Higgins testified that he had requested more police vigilance in the matter of enforcing the law against ball playing because of the number of complaints from residents in the vicinity.

Deputy Commissioner Newburger asked that the boy who had complained to the Mayor be produced and the trial was adjourned until he could be found.

CLAIMS HE WAS PAID TO FORFEIT HIS BOND.

Story Told by Louis Katz, Who Failed to Appear for Sentence, Being Investigated.

The District Attorney's office has commenced an investigation of a story told by Louis Katz of No. 74 Hudson street, Hoboken, N. J., who claims he was paid a large amount of money to forfeit a $5,000 bond under which he was held in the Supreme Court of this county. Katz was arrested to-day by Detectives Thomas and Lelah at the Hudson Terminal Building and taken to the Tombs.

According to the story told by Katz he was arrested in this city a year ago for obtaining $500 on false representations from Louis Kaplan of No. 677 Teasdale place, the Bronx. He pleaded guilty before Justice Seabury May 4 last and was remanded to the Tombs to await sentence. While in the Tombs he furnished information that led to the arrest and indictment in New Haven, Conn., of Maurice Suloway, a wholesale grocer, for attempting to defraud insurance companies by filing false and fraudulent proofs of loss subsequent to a fire. Justice Seabury, in the latter part of May, released Katz in $5,000 bail so that he might go to New Haven and testify in the trial of Suloway. The latter, however, pleaded guilty to the charge and the testimony of Katz was not required.

Katz scheduled to appear before Justice Seabury June 21 for sentence did not materialize and the bond was forfeited. Nothing was heard of Katz by the National Surety Company, which had furnished the bond, until yesterday when Miss Von Lohr will make her first appearance Monday in a revival of "Atlanta."

Katz & Kringer have appointed James Jay Brady, until recently manager of the Colonial Theatre, Chicago, for them, as manager of the Tombs Theatre, the management of which they recently took over from Cohen & Harris.

When George Bruns and his musical company appear at the New Brighton Theatre next week they will parade daily on their way to the theatre in a motor car.

THE EFFECTS OF OPILATES.

THAT INFANES are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiate cause changes in the temperature and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing intellectual and physical prostration, a craving for alcohol or morphia for being long removed from the use of opium. Opium and its preparations are a source of danger with opiate or morphia to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opium in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only when it is unavoidable.

The administration of Anodyne, Dover's Compound, Scudder's Syrup and other narcotics to children by any but a physician should be the clearest and the most dangerous crime, as by a party to it, children who are ill lose the stimulus of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them with opiates.

Children continue to receive it to honor the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Opium always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
