CLUE LEADS TO 'RAFFLES' AS SUSPECT IN THEFTS OF $277,000 IN JEWELS

Detectives Expect Arrest to Clear Mystery in Rumsey and Hanan Robberies.

SERVANTS ARE WATCHED

Believed to Be in League With Guest Who Made Way With Gems.

(Special to The Evening World.)
MARRAGANETT FIELD, July 31.—A "Raffles" possibly working in concert with servants in the homes of the rich, is suspected by some of the detectives and nearly all the local sleuthing talent working on the mystery of the missing jewels of Mrs. C. C. Rumsey and Mrs. John H. Hanan. There has entered into the case a story of a big automobile with the lights out, standing on side roads in the cottage colony at night recently. The automobile has disappeared since the robberies.

"I'd be willing to bet," said a detective to-day, "that the man or woman that took the jewels from the Rumsey house were evening clothes and passed in an out without suspicion. As to the Hanan case I don't know about the active participation inside the house of a thief in evening dress, but I believe such a person was close by and took charge of the loot."

Contradictory statements have been made about the value of the stolen gems. There is no reason to modify the estimate of $277,000 made yesterday. In fact that is a conservative estimate, as it is believed that Mrs. Hanan has not made public a complete list of the articles that were stolen from her.

ARREST IS EXPECTED IN NEW YORK TO-DAY.

An arrest in New York in connection with the theft of the jewels of Mrs. Rumsey is looked for to-day. The private detective who has been openly working alone on the Rumsey mystery hurriedly departed for New York late last night. Other sleuths are watching the servants, but it is believed that the thief who departed is on the track of the chief and the gems.

Despite the repeated assurances of Mrs. Hanan and Mrs. Rumsey of their belief in the probity of their servants the detectives have never worked on any theory other than that both big robberies were "inside jobs."

THUGS ATTACK NEAR SUBWAY

Four Set Upon Manufacturer, Who Holds One Assassin.

Louis Lyman, a manufacturer of lace dresses, with offices at No. 144 Fifth avenue, was walking from his home at No. 57 Freeman street to the nearby subway station this morning when he was attacked by four men. One struck him in the face with a weapon, breaking his nose. Mr. Lyman went down, dragging this man with him.

Police Officer Wagner heard the boys' shouts and ran up. The other three assailants ran. Mr. Lyman's captives held him by the throat and arms. He refused to explain his actions. Mr. Lyman said there had been a strike for several weeks in his Hoboken factory.

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburgh, July 31.—Manager Dahlen is peeved to-day because of his three days' suspension following his banishment from the field yesterday for protesting the decision of Umpire Orth in the eighth inning, and it looked to the average spectator as if he had a kick coming.

Manager Dahlen kept up his muttering from the bench and Klem heard him and chased him from the lot. The previous day, at Chicago, another manager, Johnny Evers, had been chased by Orth, so it seems that the arbiters are determined to take no back talk from managers.

FIRST INNING—Moran popped to Robinson. Cuthaw out. Warner to Miller. Stengel hit to Robertson, whose throw beat him to first base. No runs. Byrne hit to Smith, which was too hot to handle and was credited with a base hit. Carey was called out on strikes. Kommers flew out to Wheat. Wagner flew out to Stengel. No runs.

SECOND INNING—Wheat went down very fast on his slow bouncer to Viox, but was out by an eyelash at first. Daubert struck out. Smith walked. Smith stole second. Fisher fouled to Gibson. No runs. One left.

THIRD INNING—Miller popped to Viox. Rucker hit to right for one base. Moran forced Rucker at second. Wagner hit to Cuthaw's sky scraper was taken by Kommers. No runs. One left. Byrne popped to Daubert. Carey lined to Fisher. Kommers walked. Kommers out trying to steal. Miller to Cuthaw. No runs.

FOURTH INNING—Stengel was hit by a pitched ball. Daubert sacrificed. Byrne to Miller. On Smith's sacrifice fly to Kommers. Stengel scored. Viox fumbled Fisher's grounder, but recovered in time to get the runner at first. One run. One left.

FIFTH INNING—Miller hit into a double play. Smith to Cuthaw.

MIDDLETON DIES DESPITE FAMILY'S BLOOD SACRIFICE

Many Transfusion Operations Fail to Save Life of Stricken Young Man.

FEVER GERMS CONQUER

Young Wife's Hopeful Devotion Never Near Realization, Doctors Say.

Lighthouse Middleton, who had been lying at the point of death for two months in St. Luke's Hospital, while his relatives and friends have aided his fight for life by giving their blood for transfusion into his veins, died this afternoon. All the members of his family who have been aiding his fight were at his bedside.

All of them except his wife—with whom he was on a honeymoon trip three years ago, when he contracted the typhoid-malaria, which was the first cause of his death—have acknowledged for days that there was no chance for his recovery. From the first day blood transfusion was tried she has kept a smile on her lips and her eyes calm as she said, over and over again: "You must live, he cannot die."

YOUNG WIDOW, DAUGHTER OF ALBANY LAWYER.

Mr. Middleton was the son of A. W. Middleton, treasurer and secretary of the Bristol Construction Mining and Smelting Company of No. 90 Broadway. He was named after his grandfather, the Rev. James M. Lightbourne at one time pastor of the old Seventh Street Methodist Church here. His widow is the daughter of Martin O'Brien, a lawyer of large Albany practice.

Under the advice of Dr. Bruce of Trenton, his uncle, resort was had to treat the anaemia which developed two months ago by blood transfusion. Dr. Edward Lindeman, the family physician, agreed and Mr. Middleton was removed to St. Luke's Hospital July 18. In the opinion of the physicians the aplastic anaemia was due to the old fever which had been dormant in his blood since his first and only illness until the present.

MANY SACRIFICES BY FAMILY OF NO AVAIL.

Those who gave their blood in the fight to relieve the impoverished condition of the patient's own arteries and veins were his father, who twice submitted his veins, his cousin, Gordon Middleton; his sister, Miss Elizabeth Middleton; his wife, who gave her blood twice, and his brother, Malcolm, a mining engineer, who helped for the second time yesterday afternoon.

The attending physicians, Dr. Lindeman and Dr. Lewis I. Russell, who have been assisting him, have said for several days that Mr. Middleton had been kept alive more by sips of champagne than by the transfusions.

FINDS FIRE LAWS BROKEN IN FATAL ASCH BUILDING

Inspector Finds Doors Locked and Cigars Lit in Place Where 144 Were Killed.

Flagrant violation of the fire prevention laws in the Asch Building at No. 23 Washington Place, the scene of the tragedy of three years ago, when 144 persons met their death at the fire of the Triangle Company, were discovered this afternoon by Inspector Otto Mendel of the Bureau of Fire Prevention.

Without warning, Inspector Mendel went to the building and began a quiet inspection, so that word of his presence could not be carried from floor to floor. On the seventh floor, occupied by the clothing firm of Meyers, Crown & Wallace, the inspector says he found two doors shut and locked. Just as investigation after the Triangle shirt-walk Company fire showed that doors in that story had been locked.

Mendel gave Henry Wallace a summons to appear in Jefferson Market Court to-morrow and explain how the law happened to be violated.

On the ninth floor Louis Brill, an elevator man, was found smoking a cigar; he was summoned.

On the same floor, in the clothing factory of Levy and Rosenthal, Mendel found Louis and Albert Levy, two of the proprietors, smoking cigars in the same room where fifty workers were at their machines. They, too, were ordered to appear in court.

VANDERBILT DENIES SZECHENYI DIVORCE

Disposes of Report From Paris That Countess, His Sister, Contem- plated Court Action.

WEST END, LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 31.—Alfred Vanderbilt, who arrived at the Horse Show grounds this afternoon, says there is absolutely no truth in the rumor printed in New York papers that his sister, the Countess Szechenyi, contemplates obtaining a divorce from her husband, the Count Szechenyi.

The report which was carried from Paris stated that the Petit Parisien, a newspaper of that city, had received a dispatch from Budapest which it published, saying that the former Gladys Moore Vanderbilt, contemplated beginning action for divorce at once. The heavy losses of Count Szechenyi in business ventures, was given as the cause.

SUNDAY WORLD "WANTS" WORK MONDAY MORNINGS.

TAXI COMPANIES SEEKING SHELTER UNDER INJUNCTION

Three More Organizations File Objections to Provisions of New Ordinance.

TO ARGUE TO-MORROW.

New Law Goes Into Effect at Midnight and Will Be Strictly Enforced.

The Mason-Seaman Transportation Company, next to the Yellow Taxicab Company the largest operator of cabs in the city, crawled to-day under the injunction blanket in order to dodge the provisions of the new taxicab ordinance. Through Corbett & Stern, counsel, they petitioned the Supreme Court to enjoin the city from enforcing the ordinance which goes into effect at midnight. The Hilliard Hotel Company, operating the Hotel Vanderbilt, also got an injunction against the city. So did the Motor Transportation Cab Company.

Information reached the Mayor's Bureau of Licenses that other small taxicab concerns, and probably several hotels would adopt the injunction plan to stave off temporarily the inevitable reduction of the streets of the city to the public. Under a ruling made by Justice Donnelly, who granted the original injunction, the ordinance will be in full force and effect to-morrow with application to all who have not enjoined the Mayor, the Chief of the Bureau of Licenses and the Commissioner of Police.

The ground upon which the Mason-Seaman Company asked for an injunction was that the ordinance is discriminatory, in that it favors horse-drawn vehicles, and confiscatory, in that it places the legal rate of fare too low. This concern operates hackstags, for which it pays heavy rentals, in the public streets in front of nearly fifty hotels, clubs and restaurants, including the Park Avenue Hotel, the Hotel Astor, the Hotel Marlborough, the Hotel Marlborough and the New York Athletic Club.

WILL HEAR ARGUMENTS ON IN- JUNCTION TO-MORROW.

Justice Gull will hear arguments on the injunctions granted last Monday to-morrow morning.

Terrence Farley and George Nicholson of the Corporation Counsel's office will appear for the city. Both have consulted with Mayor Gaynor, who believes the ordinance to be unenforceable in law. It is believed that the arguments on both sides will take up most of the day and that voluminous briefs will be filed. A decision is not looked for much within a week.

In the meantime all taxicabs protected by injunction will be virtually outside any law regulating public vehicles, except the traffic laws. The old regulations fixing fares and regulating licensees expire at midnight. The new law going into effect at midnight applies only to those who have not obtained an injunction against its enforcement.

The Bureau of Licenses is proceeding with arrangements for carrying out the provisions of the ordinance. James Drennan, in charge of the taxicab department of the Bureau of Licenses, will place the signs denoting public hackstags in the places designated by the Mayor to-night. To-morrow all taxicabs and chauffeurs and horse drawn cabs and drivers not protected by injunctions will be required to undergo examinations for licenses under the new law. Vehicles will be inspected and licensed at No. 248 West Forty-ninth street and chauffeurs and drivers will undergo examination at the Bureau of Licenses, No. 40 Centre street.

Through Edwin S. Goodnow, the Independent Taxi Owners' Association announced yesterday that it had instructed its counsel, Moses A. Warren, to assist the Corporation Counsel in fighting the injunction proceedings brought by the so-called "trust" and the hotel men. The independents favor the new law and are now charging about the rates that the new law stipulates shall be charged.

CHICAGO, July 31.—The weather man kept the Cubs and the Giants guessing as to whether they could play the second game of their series this afternoon. The sky was cloudy and light showers fell during the early part of the day, but the moisture did not come down in quantities enough to make the grounds too wet.

Larry Doyle, who hurt his foot in yesterday's game, was out for practice to-day, but he was not sure that he could get into the game. "The bruise was not as painful as it was yesterday, but he did not want to take a chance with it unless he had to."

FIRST INNING—Burns struck out. Shafer sent a high fly to Leach. Bidwell pegged out Fletcher. No runs. Leach fouled to Meyer. Herzog ran all the way to the Giant's bench and grabbed Evers's foul. Schulte singled to centre. Schulte stole second. Zimmerman.

No Hatter for These Clothes.
Thomas Mimmer of Far Rockaway, making the rounds of bathing houses here, of which he is superintendent, this morning came upon clothing which indicated a drowning. There was in one of the houses a pair of black button shoes, blue socks, trousers and a soft white shirt, size 15 1/2 collar, and a blue bathing suit container.
