JEROME PLAYS HIGH CARDS AND LOSES IN LEGAL GAME TO RUSH THAW TO ASYLUM

Baffled in Attempt to Obtain Interference by Quebec Premier, Is Left No Loophole for Action by Immigration Officials.

CHAUFFEUR THOMPSON GETS ANOTHER DELAY

Hearing Postponed for Week—Plan to Test Fugitive's Sanity in Canada Is Balked.

(Special from a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.) SHERBROOKE, Que., Aug. 29.—The case of Harry Thaw seemed to-day to have come to a halt, with the prospect that there would be no change in the situation until the Grand Jury meets in October. "Educated Roger" Thompson, who drove Thaw on most of his long flight from Mat-teawan, was arraigned to-day before Magistrate Mulvena and his hearing was postponed again, this time until next Wednesday.

W. T. Jerome, who came here as Special Deputy-Attorney-General of New York to take Thaw back to Mat-teawan, apparently played his last card yesterday and lost. He failed to see Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier and Attorney-General of the Province of Quebec, and to-day, on his return, he declared he would not make another effort to see Sir Lomer.

It is the opinion of lawyers here that the Premier would decline to have anything to do with the case, anyway. Mr. Jerome meant to ask him to question all proceedings up to date and set Thaw at liberty. The immigration officials would arrest him then, at once, and he would be deported within a few hours.

CHARGES AGAINST THOMPSON DO NOT AFFECT THAW.

When Thompson was arraigned to-day it developed that there had been introduced a second charge against him. He was charged originally with having assisted an insane alien to enter Canada, and also with having entered the country himself by stealth. There is little prospect that either charge will have any special bearing on Thaw's case. It was thought at first that it might be found necessary to establish Thaw's mental status in Canada, but his lawyers have found a way to avoid this by depending upon the official records of Thaw's various hearings in the United States.

There remains to the New York State lawyers the single hope that a Grand Jury will convene the King's Bench Grand Jury in extraordinary session for investigation of the Thaw case. It is admitted that there is little hope of accomplishing this.

Meaning Thaw is as safe in the county jail here as he would be had his case been heard and he been at liberty by process of law. No one can touch him and while he must remain in jail, his quarters are fully as comfortable as those he occupied in Mat-teawan. He is in no hurry to get out until all danger of deportation has passed.

SHERBROOKE EXPECTS NO STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS.

Interest in the case is flagging, with the prospect that Thaw will be here for weeks, and that no unexpected and startling developments will ensue. There were no crowds in the streets when Thompson was driven down from jail in a closed carriage, and while Massie, trustee Mulvena's courtroom was packed the doors, it was by a crowd which looked as though it never had anything to do.

There was a tedious delay in starting the hearing because the official stenog-

GREENWICH BOSS GRILLED ON STAND AS MAN HIGHER UP

Judge Fines and Sends to Prison Gamblers Police Say Walsh Protected.

WEALTH OF NO AVAIL.

Chief Says He Didn't Dare Close Place or He'd Have Lost His Job.

(Special to The Evening World.) GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 29.—James F. Walsh, who once ruled this town with a hob-nail heel and feared joyously at certain of his fellow citizens who declared that they would yet smash his firmly welded Republican-Democratic machine and take from him all the titles and profits perquisite thereto, sat on the witness stand to-day before his long time foe, Judge Tierney, and meekly answered humiliating questions in the Boies gambling trial while the sweat poured down upon his willing collar. The event was so momentous that all Greenwich walked on tiptoes and inquired in whispers as to the latest news from the courtroom.

And there was more to come. For Ambrose H. Boies, who has waxed rich from the proceeds of a brazenly open gambling house for sixteen years, was found guilty and sentenced to sixty days in jail and fined $500 altogether on two counts; one was for keeping a gambling house and the other for allowing minors to frequent a place where liquor was served.

BOIES HOPED BOSS WOULD PROTECT HIM.

Boies, who closed his place as soon as Judge Tierney by the threat of physical force took the bench away from Walsh's man and hoped to be let alone with his wealth, was horror-stricken. Never before had the mantle of Walsh failed to protect him. He would gladly have pleaded guilty at the start of the trial, he said openly, if he could be sure of getting off with a fine.

"I'M SAFE," WIRES GIRL WHO WROTE 'SLAVERS' HAD HER

Hoboken Miss Turns Up at Home of Aunts in Rutland, Vt.

ABDUCTED, SAY POLICE.

Detectives Start for Vermont to Investigate Girl's Strange Disappearance.

The belief that the missing girl is a runaway, lured by hidden ideas of the romantic, caused the dispatching to-day of two detectives of the Hoboken police to Rutland, Vt., from where a telegram purporting to come from Ardele Glasheen, the beautiful Hoboken school girl who disappeared from her home Wednesday, has been received. The police are sure that the girl is safe in Rutland, where she has relatives, but her mother still clings to the belief that her daughter was enticed from her home, possibly by white slavers.

Several developments to-day lend plausibility to both theories. A letter supposed to have been sent by the girl from the Grand Central Station to her home, No. 26 Twelfth street, Hoboken, has aroused suspicion. Not the least important is the fact that Mrs. Glasheen is addressed "mother." Mrs. Glasheen declared to-day that her daughter never addressed her by any other name than "mamma." In addition to this the letter, in which the girl declared she was in the hands of white slavers, was badly constructed and full of misspelled words. One statement was that the girl had knocked a man down near her home at the time she says. In the letter, that she was kidnapped, and her family and friends, all unite in declaring that this would be physically impossible.

POLICE THINK MOVING PICTURES MISLED HER.

That the girl could have penned the narrative under duress in the Grand Central Station does not seem tenable, for a man could not have accompanied the girl into the ladies' room, where the letter must have been written.

The theory of the police is that the girl, who admittedly has been an ardent devotee of moving pictures, has been affected by the romances portrayed in pictures she has seen, and upon some mysterious impulse has fled her home, but gone to a place where she would be safe. In Rutland she has two aunts.

The mother, Mrs. Margaret Glasheen, a widow, who is married in the West Twenty-third street ferry house on the Lackawanna railroad, doubts the police theory and is firm in her belief that the girl never left home of her own accord.

NEIGHBORS AND POLICE WATCHED OVER THE GIRL.

Ardele, who was to have entered high school this fall, was of a quiet, almost moody disposition, and, outside of moving pictures, found no greater pleasure than remaining close at home, doing housework while her mother was away. She seldom went further from home than the street doorway, and if she ventured further a dozen watchful eyes were upon her. The unusual beauty of the child made her well known in the neighborhood, and shopkeepers and the police of the Second Precinct, the station house of which is directly across the street from her home, kept their eyes upon her constantly when she was outside her home.

On the morning of her disappearance she left the house about 10 o'clock, telling her friends whom she met in the street that she was going downtown.

Previously she had told her younger brother, Paul, that she had fears of two men who were hanging about the corner. She did not, however, say that they had spoken or even ogled her. When she left she wore an ordinary house dress and one of her "second best" hats. The hat was Panama with a red band and she wore white middy blouse and white shoes and stockings. She wore two rings, one set with an emerald and the other with a small diamond, and a bracelet with the initials "A. N. G."

According to Mrs. Glasheen the girl had no sweetheart nor did she associate with older girls.

DE PALMA LEADS RACING AUTOISTS IN BIG EVENT AT ELGIN

Italian More Than Six Minutes Ahead at 251-Mile Post.

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 29.—Ralph De Palma had a long lead in the race today for the Chicago Automobile Club trophy. At 251 miles, about three-quarters of the distance, he led Dawson by nearly seven minutes. An enormous crowd lined the eight-mile course.

Joe Dawson was the first to get away. Promptly at 11 o'clock Starter Fred Wagner gave the signal and Dawson was off in a cloud of dust and smoke. The others followed in rapid succession and the crowd at the starting line settled down to await the appearance of the speed king on the first lap of the 301 miles and 4,040 feet. Overnight the entry of the Nyberg car, driven by Harry Endicott, was accepted as the "Endicott Special" and Endicott got away with the other entrants.

TURN DOWN TAMMANY, SAYS MITCHEL, AS HE TURNS DOWN HEARST

Refuses Designation by Independence League Because Bound in Honor, He Says, to Stand by Colleagues They Rejected.

TAMMANY THE ONLY ISSUE; PRINCIPLES ABOVE MEN

McCall, "a Willing Tammany Agent;" Gaynor, "a Disgruntled Tammany Adjunct," He Says.

John Purroy Mitchel has declined the Independence League nomination for Mayor because his colleagues, McAneny and Prendergast, have been rejected by the League.

Mr. Mitchel expects his colleagues to be as loyal to Fusion as he is and to decline endorsement from the Gaynor forces.

Joseph M. Price, chairman of the Fusion Executive Committee, called upon all Fusion Board of Estimate candidates to reject nominations from other parties. Mr. McAneny is silent. Mr. Prendergast is in Europe.

The Hearst Independence League is left without a head to its ticket and does not know which way to turn.

Mayor Gaynor will have himself nominated for re-election by acclamation of a public mass meeting on the City Hall steps next Wednesday noon.

Fusion leaders hope to put an end to the confusion about candidates by starting an aggressive attack on Tammany and pointing out the danger that Murphy may capture the city through dissensions of the allies.

The hidden and subtle influence of the traction interests in politics will be revealed by Fusion Candidate Mitchel as an early sensation in the campaign.

John Purroy Mitchel, Fusion candidate for Mayor, firmly declined the Hearst Independence League nomination to-day because that organization had refused to endorse his colleagues, McAneny and Prendergast. There were three emphatic points in his letter:

- 1—Loyalty to Fusion and his colleagues.
- 2—An intimation that his colleagues must be equally loyal and refuse to go on the Gaynor ticket without him.
- 3—That the issue of the campaign is Tammany Hall which is seeking by subtle means to disrupt the Fusion cause.

Mr. Mitchel's letter was as follows: New York, Aug. 29, 1913.

Mr. William J. Taylor, Chairman Independence League City Committee.

Dear Sir: The City Designating Committee of the Independence League having now completed its ticket and having failed to designate for nomination my colleagues on the Fusion ticket, I am compelled by loyalty to them and to the cause I have been called upon to lead, to decline the designation for Mayor which you have honored me. This I hereby do.

The issue in this municipal campaign is perfectly plain and very simple. It involves unreserved and unrelenting opposition to Tammany Hall and to all the pernicious influences that flow from it, and the interests that minister to it. In meeting this issue, the Fusion candidates are confronted, first, by the open and impudent opposition of Murphy and Tammany Hall itself, and, second, by the hidden and subtle opposition of those forces behind the Gaynor candidacy that would weaken the Fusion ticket by destroying its unity and integrity through picking off candidates from it for endorsement and support. My sense of loyalty to the Fusion cause and my duty to my colleagues upon the Fusion ticket alike prevent me from accepting any offer of advantage which is dealt to them. The importance of a united stand against Murphy and Tammany Hall must outweigh every consideration of apparent personal advantage.

It is my purpose to ask the voters to support me in a fight to repudiate both a willing Tammany agent in Mr. McCall and a disgruntled and disgruntled Tammany adjunct in Mayor Gaynor. Sincerely yours, JOHN PURROY MITCHEL.

The Fusion Committee took action this morning to put an end to further defections from its ticket by directing a statement to Messrs. McAneny and Prendergast, who are supposed to be willing to take an endorsement on the Gaynor ticket, leaving Mr. Mitchel out. Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the Fusion Executive Committee, issued the following statement: "Every candidate for a Board of Estimate position on the Fusion ticket should stand for that ticket alone and decline all other nominations which are aimed at its defeat. "I do not see how any one can accept
