SULZER IS GETTING READY TO QUIT "PEOPLE'S HOUSE;" GOES FIRST TO MOUNTAINS

Albany Surprised by His Statement, in Which He Assails Murphy, That He Was Prevented From Taking the Stand.

(Special From a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)
ALBANY, Oct. 18.—William Sulzer who was removed from the office of Governor yesterday, completed arrangements today for leaving the People's House, as he called the Executive Mansion. The effects of Mr. Sulzer and his wife will be shipped to New York, but they plan to spend a few days in the Adirondacks before returning to their old home in Second avenue on the east side.

Mr. Sulzer's statement, issued last night, is considered simply a rebash of what he and his followers have been saying ever since the start of the impeachment trial. One of the his assertions created astonishment here. LAWYERS SAID TO HAVE PLEADED WITH HIM TO TESTIFY.

Mr. Sulzer says he wanted to go on the witness stand but was dissuaded by his lawyers. While D-Cady Herrick and Harold Hinman, of Mr. Sulzer's counsel, have no desire to engage in any controversy with him involving veracity, it is said that under pressure they would say that they not only advised him to take the stand but pleaded with him to do so and that he refused at the last minute.

Certainly the Board of Managers was desirous that he should testify in his own defense, and John B. Stanchfield, leading counsel for the prosecution, was keenly disappointed when he did not have a chance to cross-examine the respondent.

Gov. Glynn prepared to-day to move his office equipment from the quarters on the third floor of the Capitol which he has occupied since the beginning of the impeachment proceedings to the executive suite on the second floor.

The new executive arrived at the Capitol shortly after 11 o'clock. After his routine of his office work. He met the newspapermen shortly before noon, and announced that he would make no appointments until next week. He said he still was considering the names of various candidates for his immediate official family, but would make no definite decision until after he had spent a quiet week end at his home at Cedar Hill.

PLANS APPEAL TO PEOPLE AS A CANDIDATE.
In speaking of his plans for the future, Mr. Sulzer indicates plainly they will have much to do with the Tammany boss he blames for his downfall. The man expelled from the Governorship by a vote of 43 to 12 is not going into "retirement." He has been offered inducements to take the lecture platform; to become vice-president of a great business corporation, with a salary of two and a half times that of Governor; to tell of "Murphy rule" in a newspaper narrative or in a book; and he has been tentatively offered nomination by the Progressives for Congress in the Twelfth District or the Assembly in the Sixth District. He is not inclined to

VOLTRUO STILL BURNING.

About in the Condition She Was When Abandoned Eight Days Ago.

Capt. Jamison of the American Light Infantry reported to the New York office to-day that on his way to this port he had passed the wreck of the burned steamer Voltruo on Tuesday. The steamer was abandoned three days after the ship was abandoned. She was still burning, but was no further down by the head than when she was abandoned.

The burning steamer had drifted from latitude 48.25, longitude 24.23 to latitude 48.7, longitude 35.4, or in a general northeasterly direction into the middle of the steamship lane.

The British Admiralty has sent a war vessel to destroy the hulk.

BOY GUNNER MISSING.

STRATFORD, Conn., Oct. 18.—A drift in the Housatonic River to-day, a small boat was found with the stern seat smeared with blood. W. W. Bedell, sixteen years old, had left in the boat to go duck hunting. Both barrels of a shotgun in the boat were empty. The theory is that the boy accidentally shot himself, his body falling overboard.

RICH COUPLE SEE 8-YEAR-OLD GIRL KILLED BY PONY

Daughter of Frank L. Crocker Dragged Around Field at Country Home.

TOSSED FROM MOUNT.

Mother Witnesses Tragedy From Window as Father Runs to Rescue.

(Special to The Evening World.)

EAST WILLISTON, L. I., Oct. 18.—From a window of his home on his estate here Frank L. Crocker of the law firm of Crocker & Wickes, No. 5 Nassau street, New York, and Secretary of the Piping Rock Club at Locust Valley, watched his eight-year-old daughter, Faith, exercise a pony in a field close by the house this morning. It was the custom of the child, who was a fine rider, to take a gallop around the field before breakfast.

Suddenly the father saw the pony swerve and toss its little rider from the saddle. With a cry Mr. Crocker sprang for the door and with his butler at his heels raced across the field toward the pony which, frightened now, was dragging the little girl over the field. The child caught fast to the saddle by one foot which had become entangled in the stirrup leathers.

MOTHER SAW CHILD BEING DRAGGED BY PONY.

The cry brought Mrs. Crocker rushing to the window, and she stood watching in horror as her husband and the butler sped toward the flying pony and the tiny horsewoman whose body was bumping and dragging over the rough field. As the mother watched Mr. Crocker and the man reached the pony. The butler grabbed it by the head while the father gathered his daughter into his arms.

The little girl was unconscious and as the father ran back toward the house he shouted orders to have a fast automobile brought out. Almost before he reached the veranda an automobile was at the door and Mr. Crocker sprang into it, his daughter in his arms.

Then began a race to the Nassau Hospital at Mineola, a few miles away. Mr. Crocker rushed up the steps and into the hospital crying for help. The little girl was taken from him and doctors hurried her into the operating room. The father waited in the reception room, pacing the floor and torn with anxiety.

In less than half an hour he looked up as a doctor stepped into the room. Then he sank into a chair almost in a state of collapse for the physician, as gently as possible, told him Faith had died.

LITTLE RIDER'S SKULL HAD BEEN FRACTURED.

The doctor said that the child's skull had been fractured. It is believed that the frightened pony swung her small body against a fence post as it dashed about the field and probably her head came in contact with the obstacle.

Faith Crocker was a famous figure at Long Island horse shows because of her youth. She won many blue ribbons with her entries of ponies, which she always rode herself and put through their paces as no groom could have done. The child was passionately fond of horses and had been on frantically mounts before. How she came to lose her seat this morning is a mystery.

Mrs. Crocker was prostrated by the death of her little daughter. Faith was the only child of the couple.

MAGNATE J. J. HILL IN FAST TRAIN CRASH; HE ESCAPES; ONE DEAD

Burlington Express Smashes Into Passenger Local—Fireman Loses Life and Others Injured.

WINONA, Minn., Oct. 18.—A bad wreck occurred to-day on the Burlington road at Nelson, Wis., when north-bound express train No. 57, with James J. Hill, the railroad magnate, in his private car at the rear, ran into a local south-bound passenger train.

Firemen Elliott of Des Moines, on the local, was instantly killed. Several others were slightly injured. Mr. Hill was not hurt.

The express train was late and running about fifty miles an hour and the engineer owing to a fog failed to note the block signal. The local train was about to take the siding when the engineer observed the express train rapidly approaching. He reversed his engine and jumped. The conductor on the local was standing on the car platform and was thrown some distance, his shoulder being dislocated. The express passengers on the fast train and a few of the passengers on the local were more or less injured but none seriously. Mr. Hill was shaken up but not much hurt. Travel on the main line was blocked for some hours.

KAISER SUMMONS BERNSTORFF FOR TALK

Ambassador to Washington May Be Quizzed on Mexican Situation and Tariff Clause.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Court Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, German Ambassador to the United States, summoned by the German Foreign Minister Gottlieb von Jaworski to a special conference at the Foreign Office, arrived here to-day from his villa in Southern Germany, where he has been spending his vacation. During his stay here the Ambassador is also to be received in audience by Emperor William.

Court von Bernstorff said to-day he did not know the reason for the despatch of the summons to him. A believe is current, however, that the explanation may be sought in the developments in Mexico where it is known that the German colony is uneasy regarding the present situation. Another theory advanced in some quarters where it is thought that the Ambassador may have been brought to Berlin to discuss the possibility of action by Germany against the clause in the new United States tariff act providing for a reduction of five per cent. in the duties on articles shipped to the United States in American vessels.

MRS. PANKHURST, HELD FOR DEPORTATION, GOES ON A "HUNGER STRIKE"

When She Learns There Is Yet Hope She Gives Up Plan to Go on Hunger Strike and Eats a Hearty Meal.

MEETING IN HER HONOR HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Stormy Petrel of Militant Suffragism Talks Out Like a Bos'n to Uncle Sam.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the foremost fighting suffragette of England, arrived here to-day on the French liner La Provence to speak at Madison Square Garden to-morrow night. The meeting has been postponed until Monday night. An Immigration Inspector ordered Mrs. Pankhurst detained for examination by a special board of inquiry of the Immigration Bureau of the Department of Commerce, to decide whether she was an undesirable alien because she had been convicted and imprisoned abroad for acts involving moral turpitude. The board ordered her exclusion. Mrs. Pankhurst appealed to Washington and declared she would "hunger-strike" as long as she was on Ellis Island.

The department at Washington had promised to admit her to this country under bond to-morrow so that she could appear at the Madison Square Garden meeting in her honor, which was to have been held to-morrow night. Mrs. Pankhurst declared the strike off and had a substantial lunch of good red roast beef and tomatoes, and potatoes. She said she wanted to feel strong when she appeared in Madison Square Garden, as she was sure she would be allowed to do. Then the Madison Square Garden meeting was postponed from to-morrow night until Monday night because of the prevailing confusion.

Herbert Reeves, the lawyer hired by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont to take care of the interests of Mrs. Pankhurst, telephoned to Washington and made an arrangement with Commissioner General of Immigration Carmichael to discuss the matter of giving bonds for Mrs. Pankhurst's good behavior in this country to-morrow morning. Mr. Reeves and Mrs. Pankhurst were joyfully sure that she would be allowed to plead the cause of the British militant suffragettes here before she was put aboard a French liner to be sent back across the Atlantic.

Mrs. Pankhurst now sits on her showing six silver bars, "honor badges," which she has six times endured hunger strikes in prison because of her devotion to the cause. The Immigration officials were annoyed by the news of her strike, but intimated that they would not resort to "forcible feeding."

STARTS IN ON A POOR FOOD FOUNDATION.

Her last food to-day, up to the time of declaring the strike, was a glass of orange juice, which she drank on the deck of La Provence before she was taken to Ellis Island. She had only a roll and coffee for early breakfast.

The news of her determination not to eat until she was released, and her quick change of mind, was brought out of the room in which she is confined by her friend and traveling companion, Mrs. Rheta Child Dorr, who has received permission from Acting Immigration Commissioner Uhl to remain with Mrs. Pankhurst on the island.

SHE IS BADLY MIXED IN HER ANALOGY.

Those who heard the statement remembered that John Redmond was never sentenced to prison. Michael Davitt served fifteen years for illegal exportation of arms to Ireland, and Charles Stewart Parnell was imprisoned for conspiracy to overturn the British Government—but that none of the three were accused of crimes of violence. Mrs. Pankhurst, however, kept right on with her argument.

"In my case, the jury even passed strong recommendations for mercy on the grounds of purity of purpose. It seems to me that the Board of Inquiry distinguishes between men and women because they held that I was guilty of a crime involving moral turpitude—a crime of exciting to violence. I attempted to show the board that a revolution is going on in England, the same as went on in this country. I hold human life sacred, and I never advocated the taking of human life."

"What was your object in coming to America?" was asked.

"I come here with no advice to give. It is not my intention to dictate to you."
