

BURGLAR ATTACKS WOMEN; FLEES BUT IS SHOT DOWN

East Side in an Uproar Over Chase of a Flying Thief.

McGEE'S FINE WORK.

Commissioner McKay Is Much Pleased at the Policeman's Good Marksmanship.

A being burglar who had assaulted four women and badly injured two was shot and probably mortally wounded by Detective Sgt. Frank McGee of the Clinton street station in crowded East Broadway shortly before noon to-day.

The burglar is Dominick Saboda, who says he is a sixteen-year-old errand boy living at No. 61 Oliver street.

The start of the chase was at No. 81 Orchard street, a tenement with stores on the ground floor.

Knowing that Mrs. Siegerman was out Mrs. Levy summoned Mrs. Henrietta Sachs, wife of a grocer with a store on the ground floor, and Mrs. Ida Ackerman, a tenant.

Mrs. Siegerman entered. It was plain that a burglar had been surprised packing up his loot.

The seeing thief struck Mrs. Ackerman over the head, knocking her senseless. He held Mrs. Levy with his fist. Mrs. Sachs, who had reached the head of the stairs, was struck with the Jimmy and fell down the steps into the lower hall.

Policeman Morshauer of the Clinton street station commanded an automobile and took up the chase.

Through Division street and Pike street into East Broadway ran the fugitive. As he sped along crowds joined in behind him, pelting him with whatever they could grab from the pushcarts lining the sidewalks.

McGee and Lieut. Steinkamp took up the chase at Pike street and East Broadway. Saboda was headed for the plaza of the Manhattan Bridge and had outdistanced his pursuers.

McGee and Steinkamp had no chance to catch him. Morshauer's automobile was blocked by the crowd and there was no policeman in sight on the plaza.

"He killed a woman," shouted a small boy to McGee and Steinkamp. McGee is a crack shot. He fired his revolver in the air. Saboda leaped like a deer and quickened his pace.

"I'd like to pin a medal on McGee for his marksmanship," said the Commissioner.

DETECTIVES NOW UNDER PROBE IN THE ELLIS CASE

Prosecutor Holds Boy Who Made "Confession" While He Conducts Inquiry.

SOME ONE WAS DUPED.

Governor May Be Asked to Investigate Methods Employed by Sleuths.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Jan. 20.—Although Paul Carl's "confession" that he shot Monroe F. Ellis, wealthy lumberman, seems disproved now beyond a doubt, Prosecutor Frederick A. Pope declared to-day that he wouldn't release the boy at once and did not know, in fact, when he would set him free.

"I am not satisfied yet," said he, "as to the truth or untruth of Carl's statements. It seems impossible that he should have shot Ellis, but if he did not, then I want to know why he said he did. I shall not set until I am entirely satisfied, and at present I am not."

But if Mr. Pope doesn't liberate Carl speedily the boy may be freed on a writ of habeas corpus, according to Banton Moore, of No. 1 Liberty street, New York, young Carl's counsel. He said to-day:

WILL ASK GOVERNOR TO INVESTIGATE DETECTIVES.

"I shall not permit Carl to remain in jail if I can prevent it. It seems to me that the methods employed to extract this so-called confession from him should be investigated. It may be that the matter will be taken up with the Governor to see whether detectives can go to such extremes. I think the law has been violated."

The unexpected disproval of Carl's "confession" has upset every one connected with the case. There will be a meeting of the Board of Freeholders this week and it is known that they will ask Mr. Pope for a report on the case. The Prosecutor wants Carl within his reach until after he has made this report. John A. Roebing, the wealthy resident of this town who financed the detective operations, is concealing whatever feelings he may have over the unexpected turn of the case.

"When we, and by that I mean myself and the Pinkertons, turned Carl over to the authorities together with such evidence as we had, our connection with the case ceased," said he to-day.

"It is up to Mr. Pope now. I have implicit confidence in him and if he sees fit to discharge Carl I shall have no criticism to make of him."

"But how about the detectives? Don't you think they deserve some criticism?" he was asked.

"There will be time enough for that after we see how the affair turns out. I have no criticism to make now of any one. I don't know how much the affair has cost me, but I regard the money as well spent. I should think it would be under $5,000. For months at a time no detectives worked on the case and then again there would be three or four. They seemed to me to do faithful work."

ELLIS SAYS ROEBLING WAS MISLED.

It was said that Carl was feeling very much better since his confession had been disproved and that he was elated at the prospect of leaving jail. Mr. Pope would allow no one to see him, however. Mrs. Grace Holly, Carl's aunt whom he accused of having inspired him to the attack on Ellis, refused to see reporters to-day.

Mr. Ellis, who has stuck by her throughout the case, was elated over the disproval of Carl's "confession." He said:

"I think now, just as I did all along—that this boy had nothing to do with the shooting. It has been despicable work all through. I think that not only was this poor boy duped but that John A. Roebing and Prosecutor Pope, who permitted these arrests, were the dupes of some one."

VOTES FOR WOMEN BILL IN SENATE IS A BIT LACKING

Provision for Watchers Not What Suffragists Wanted, but They Are Satisfied.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—The march of the suffragette hikers from New York to Albany bore fruit to-day, Senator Foley introducing a bill to provide for women watchers at election polls.

Foley's bill does not exactly meet all of the women's demands, however. They wanted women watchers effective at once, but Foley would provide them only when the woman suffrage amendment is voted on, which will be in 1915 if passed by another Legislature.

Several suffragettes were at the session to-day working for various measures. Among them were Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and her daughter, Miss Nora Blatch Forest. They explained that while Senator Foley's bill might not exactly meet the views of the hikers, the Women's Political Union and the Women's Watchers Committee were satisfied with it.

"We have the assurance of Lieut. Gov. Wagner, Speaker Sweet and other influential members that the bill will pass," Mrs. Blatch said.

FINED BECAUSE HER FEATHERS TICKLED MAN

Doctor Blew Police Whistle After Row Over a Woman's Hat.

Dr. Maxwell Braniff of No. 845 Manilla street, the Bronx, was sitting beside Mrs. Loretta Harris, a dressmaker of No. 134 West Thirty-ninth street, in a westbound One Hundred and Forty-ninth street car and while he was reading his newspaper he was several times annoyed by the bunch of feathers on the woman's hat.

When the car reached the corner of Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, the doctor sought to make his protest more effective by nudging the woman in the side. At this she sprang to her feet and began banging him over the head with a heavy folded magazine.

Dr. Braniff blew a police whistle and Policeman Hector arrested the woman.

In court the woman said that she thought the doctor was trying to "maah" her, that she had no idea he objected to her feathers. But Magistrate Herbert had no such thought and fined her $5.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

Flush the Kidneys at once when Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, constipation, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then be free. The famous salts are made from the seeds of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in uric acid so no longer causes irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and can be obtained by mail. It is a safe and reliable remedy for kidney ailments, bladder troubles, and all urinary complications.
