

St. Mary's Church Dedication.
The Memorial Buildings connected with St. Mary's Church, Brooklyn, were dedicated yesterday. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, made an address. Then the congregation inspected the Arbutus Memorial, nearing completion. A loan exhibition of contemporary American art was opened in the new gallery of the church, which unites with the Arbutus Educational Building.

HOW EUROPE'S WAR CUTS IMMIGRATION TO UNITED STATES

Average Daily Arrivals at Ellis Island 150 Instead of 5,000.

IRISH ARE IN MAJORITY.

No Russians, Austrians or Hungarians, and Few Italians Can Get Here.

When Europe was at peace an average of five thousand immigrants arrived daily at Ellis Island. Those whose desire to try their fortune in America were not prevented by their own governments from emigrating. Now each belligerent nation is closely watching her able bodied men, and the women stay by their husbands and sons. In the case of Russia and other inland countries, even if permitted to escape the call to arms, her subjects could not in safety pass through the enemies' domains to ports from which vessels set sail for the United States of America. Consequently instead of welcoming daily the wanted number of five thousand immigrants the officials at Ellis Island receive no more than one hundred and fifty.

In the absence of Commissioner Howe on official business in Washington an Evening World reporter interviewed Acting Commissioner Byron H. Uhl, who when asked to point out the notable difference between conditions at Ellis Island at present and a year ago said: "The statistics furnished by the Bureau of Immigration in the Department of Labor showing the decline of alien arrivals in consequence of the war from Aug. 1 to Nov. 8 of this year compared with the same period of 1913 speak for themselves. The table shows that aliens arriving at all ports from Aug. 1 to Nov. 30 (the period of heaviest annual immigration) in 1913 numbered 441,691. From Aug. 1 to Nov. 8 in 1914 they numbered 129,815.

"To show the difference in numbers of arrivals for a single day, Nov. 30, in 1913, 4,315 aliens arrived at all ports and on Nov. 3, 1914, there were only 1,214 arrivals. Aliens arriving at Baltimore, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic seaports of Canada from Aug. 1 to Nov. 3 in 1913 numbered 409,430. For the same period in 1914 they numbered 94,092. Arrivals at these ports on Nov. 3, 1913, amounted to 5,734. On Nov. 3, 1914, they numbered 165."

When asked what nationalities predominate in present arrivals, Mr. Uhl said: "The Irish are by far in the majority. They are emigrating from Ireland to avoid being pressed into war service. In Ireland there is no restraint at present upon emigration. Other nationalities, who complete the number of aliens arriving are Scandinavians, Greeks and Syrians. We have received a few English, a few Belgian refugees and even a few Germans. No Russians, Hungarians or Austrians arrive and practically no Italians.

"The total number of immigrants into the United States in 1913 was 1,197,892. Of these the number admitted from the Russian Empire and Finland was 231,040, from Italy 245,542 and from Austria and Hungary 244,825. To-day these nations hardly count a man among immigrants. For obvious reasons the Russians, Hungarians and Austrians cannot emigrate, and Italy is holding her men for enrollment should she become involved in the war.

The writer's recollection of Ellis Island on a previous visit was a swarming mass of immigrants everywhere—in the large dormitory room, with its seating capacity of 1,200, in the gallery, where some days as many as 5,000 immigrants underwent medical inspection; in the long corridors, where detained immigrants receive the friends who have come to call upon them; in the railroad rooms, where those who have passed inspection are proceeding to points beyond New York by rail or boat; in the information division, to which persons come in great numbers, principally from New York City, in search of information concerning detained immigrants; in the court-rooms, where cases are brought up before one of the boards of special inquiry, and at the "kissing gate," where those long separated finally meet in gladness. The enormous rooms that formerly seethed with buzzing human beings were practically empty, with only here and there throughout the vast buildings a forlorn group of foreigners.

Mr. Uhl said: "Conditions at Ellis Island are abnormally quiet. Before the war there were always from one thousand to fifteen hundred detained immigrants on the island. Now there are only about two hundred and fifty. A difficult problem is the disposal of immigrants who have been passed upon finally as unfit to land. It would not be safe to send them back even on a neutral ship, and, therefore, they must remain at Ellis Island indefinitely at the expense of the steamship companies on whose vessels they crossed.

"There are twenty-two classes under which immigrants are excluded from the United States. In some cases the question whether or not an immigrant shall be excluded may be a very difficult one. In the present crisis officials are very lenient, and in every case where it is at all possible the immigrants have been admitted rather than kept at Ellis Island in uncertainty. Every effort has been made by Commissioner Howe to help the aliens to land.

Everything has been done to make the long days of waiting less tedious for the immigrants. They have been provided with a piano and have weekly concerts. The women are given materials from which they can make clothes for their little ones and the spacious open air roof garden has been furnished with games in which both men and women participate.

No less heavily than in the immigrants does time hang upon employees. Ellis Island requires a corps of officials which at the present time number about six hundred and fifty, including a large number of interpreters. The Government must be prepared to inspect immigrants speaking any of forty foreign languages or dialects. Ordinarily this army of helpers is kept very busy, but the men pass whole afternoons in idleness and consequent boredom.

One of them remarked, "It's ought to have a bowling alley, a pool table and a few other things down here to amuse us."

VATERLAND SAILORS ARE GIVEN DISCHARGE
Men Who Rebel Over Pay Reduction Cut Off Payroll, Others Transferred.

Trouble threatened aboard the Hamburg-American line steamship Vaterland by a number of the crew rebelling at a reduction in pay was averted to-day when the men who were dissatisfied had their names stricken from the payroll and were given the privilege of seeking employment elsewhere.

About 200 others of the crew were transferred to the freighter Pennsylvania in Hoboken, where they will be provided with sleeping accommodations and food, but will receive no pay until the company can determine what other means can be found to take care of them.

The entire police force of Hoboken, including the reserves, were summoned to duty to-day by Chief Hayes in anticipation of trouble on the Vaterland.

CIGAR STORE ROBBED SECOND TIME IN YEAR

Third Avenue Safe, Block From Police Station, "Cracked" to Tune of $285.

The first safe-cracking job to be reported to the Manhattan police in six weeks was one neatly done in the rear of the United Cigar store at No. 363 Third Avenue, between Fifty-second and Fifty-third streets, some time between midnight and dawn to-day. The safe workers got $285 in cash and 2,000 cigarettes, which are as good as cash on the east side. They left no trace of their identity in the shape of finger prints.

This store was entered on Washington's Birthday and robbed of $465. Last night's return engagement was played in the same way. The robbers bridged a deep arway behind rear windows with boards, and, standing on them, bored a hole through steel protected shutters sufficient to admit a jimmy, with which was raised the wooden bar across the back of the shutters.

Entrance being thus gained, they rolled the safe from its position under the electric light to a dark corner in the rear and there pried off the door with that handy tool known as a "can opener."

The East Fifty-first street police station is a block away.
