

ABOUT PLAYS PLAYERS

ROSE CUDDELY

According to E. H. Sothern, his wife Julia Marlowe, has an opinion of her acting team. Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe were in New York yesterday, having come up from Washington for a brief visit. They have a home at the national capital and are spending the winter there.

Miss Marlowe hasn't acted since last December, when she was in Los Angeles. The couple had and was joined later by her husband at their summer home near Lakeside, Conn. They went to Europe intending to remain indefinitely for the purpose of her husband, but the war broke out. Miss Marlowe's health is greatly improved, but she is not entirely well. Some of her friends think, despite the statement that she has retired, that she will return to the stage when all signs of danger have left her.

Julia Marlowe became an actress at the age of twelve, playing in "Pinafore" under the name of Frances Sothern. When about twenty she took the name she has since known and appeared as Fathima in "Ingomar" at New London, Conn. Her first role from that time was "The Girl from the South Seas" at South Beach, Fla. She was born at Colchester, England.

Mr. Sothern is to do some acting before the film camera, a number of his remaining years. When he ends a new play that suits him he will again be seen on the regular stage.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick.

The hair is the crown of glory and the glory of the woman. It is the first thing that strikes the eye and the last thing that remains in the memory. It is the one thing that we cannot help but notice. It is the one thing that we cannot help but admire. It is the one thing that we cannot help but love. It is the one thing that we cannot help but desire. It is the one thing that we cannot help but cherish. It is the one thing that we cannot help but treasure. It is the one thing that we cannot help but prize. It is the one thing that we cannot help but value. It is the one thing that we cannot help but respect. It is the one thing that we cannot help but honor. It is the one thing that we cannot help but glorify. It is the one thing that we cannot help but adore. It is the one thing that we cannot help but worship. It is the one thing that we cannot help but adore. It is the one thing that we cannot help but worship.

THEIR NARROW ESCAPE.

Ruth Shepley stepped out of her dressing room at the Coburn Theatre yesterday afternoon and yelled, "Ladies! Draw hurriedly to her side and she also yelled. Then they both yelled. A stage hand rescued them from a dead mouse in a trap near by.

FROM THE CHESTNUT TREE.

Girl to dear old gentleman at dinner—Do you like bananas? He (with hand on his ear)—How's that? "Do you like bananas?" "No; I can't sleep in 'em."

Arthur Edwin Krohn, who distributes the Little Theatre's news among the eager editors, has evolved a scheme which should make his fortune. He is to illustrate his press matter hereafter. More than that, he is to draw the pictures himself, for Krohn is an artist in an artist with the pencil as well as with the imagination. He has found a way to transfer his drawings to the mimeograph by using a stylus. Already he has prepared a story of an actress who lost her diamonds, which he will illustrate with a picture of a weeping woman.

If you appreciate chicken, baked apples and pie with your meal, be sure and stop at the Hotel Corwin when in Washington, Tex. A line on the stationery of that hotelery reads: "vigorously renovated rooms, new, clean beds, spring chicken, baked apples and fresh pie."

EGGS AND MORE EGGS.

The egg business is rapidly becoming an important rival of the theatrical business. Among these in the show world who are now maintaining poultry farms are Henry Miller, Gilbert Miller, A. L. Erlanger, F. St. John, Mark Lussener, George Howies, Charles Burnham and Edward Brooks. Look out for an egg syndicate.

The Effects of Opiates.

TREAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its derivatives. In fact, it is well known that the smallest dose, if continued, causes changes in the nutrition and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent. Nervous disease, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and loss of memory power are a result of doing with opiates or narcotics to bring about the attention of a physician, and it is better to have them receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day of a time, and only when it is unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Castor, Sleeping Pills and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly discouraged, and the drug should not be given to any child who has used the attention of a physician, and it is better to have them receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day of a time, and only when it is unavoidable.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
