JAPAN'S SCANDAL FORCES MINISTER TO RESIGN

Viscount Oura Charged With Taking Election Bribe—Parliament Secretary Arrested

TOKIO, July 29.—Viscount Kanetake Oura, the Japanese Minister of Justice, suddenly resigned his portfolio to-day. The Minister's action, following as it does the investigation instituted by the Ministry of Justice into the bribery charges growing out of the parliamentary elections last March, has caused a great sensation throughout Japan. The case involves several members and ex-members of the Imperial Diet.

Count Shigenobu Okuma, the Premier, reported the situation to Emperor Yoshihito, who sanctioned the resignation of Viscount Oura. The investigation into the charges of bribery growing out of the March elections also resulted in the arrest yesterday of K. Hayashida, who had been Chief Secretary of the Lower House for twenty years. The arrest of Hayashida is said to be connected with the charge against Viscount Oura, who is alleged to have received a present of $500 from a candidate for membership in the House.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW!
How to Keep Well, Keep Strong and Keep a Perfect Figure, Told in a Series of Illustrated Lessons

LESSON XXVII.
By Pauline Furlong.
The Evening World's Authority on All Questions of Woman's Physical Well Being.

There are important differences between massage treatments as taken by stout women who wish to grow thin and by thin women who wish to grow stout. Like most of the exercises which are being printed this week in The Evening World and which will be concluded next week, massage is of real value both to reducers and to developers. But unlike the exercises, which must always be done in the same manner, massage must be done in one way by the obese and in another way by the emaciated.

To begin with, a different stroke must be used by each of the two classes in this course on how to keep well, keep strong and keep a perfect figure. In kneading and pounding her abdomen and hips, in rubbing her double chin, thick neck and over-plump cheeks, the stout woman must use hard, firm strokes. These cause the parts to waste by destroying the fatty cells, of which the tissues are composed.

On the other hand, the thin woman who wants to feed and stimulate the depleted tissue of her chest, who longs to make plump and round her thin, scrawny neck, her bony arms, must avoid carefully any sort of vigorous rubbing. Her massage should consist of easy, gentle pressure, which builds up the tiny cells and causes gradual development by promoting the circulation and calling the blood supply to the wasted parts.

The exercise given to-day, and pictured in its simplest and easiest form, strengthens and puts into perfect physical condition the legs, the hips and the whole lower portion of the trunk. That means that it puts on muscle flesh in these regions when a woman is too thin and needs it, while flabby, useless tissue is taken off the woman who is too stout.

The exercise is not an easy one, and should be attempted only by women who have already acquired a certain strength and vigor through practicing the movements previously given in this course, and living according to the healthful regime outlined. Such women should be able to perform trunk raising without overstrain and fatigue.

Lie flat on your back and on the floor, in such a position that your extended toes are tucked under the edge of some heavy piece of furniture, such as a bureau or a washstand. Clasp your hands behind your head, lift yourself from the position shown in Pose No. 1, through that shown in Pose No. 2, until you have ultimately reached Pose No. 3.

Then let yourself easily back upon the floor and repeat the movement upward. As you move backward you should breathe deeply, exhaling as you raise yourself.

If at first you find this movement absolutely impossible, place your hands on the floor, palms down, at either side of your waist line, and use them as a leverage. The next step is to place them on your hips, a procedure which helps your balance, but ultimately you should be able to clasp them behind your head. Practice the exercise from four to a dozen times each day.

HOW I DARKENED MY GRAY HAIR

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe That She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair.

For years I tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the prepared dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction and they were all expensive. I finally ran onto a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows, to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 ozs. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but removes dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp.—Adv.

Even if your wardrobe is sufficient for your needs, the addition of another suit will make it that much better. It will introduce a little more variety into your color scheme, and give you the exhilaration of another "change." And the cost today will be mighty small if you take advantage of this sale. What's more to the point, you can in all probability get precisely the kind of suit you want, for the range of selection is sufficiently diversified to give you a liberal latitude of choice. But now is the time to make your selection, for the variety is thinning out with every hour that passes.

A small charge for alterations.
