

EX-INSPECTOR MURTHA IS BURGLAR'S VICTIM.

Home Robbed of Papers and Jewelry While Family Is Away.

Detectives of the Seventh Branch Bureau are trying to locate the burglar who ransacked the home of ex-Police Inspector Murtha, No. 624 East Thirty-second Street, Flatbush, making off with four safety deposit boxes full of documents and $500 worth of jewelry and silver.

A laundress calling at the Murtha house Monday afternoon, shortly after the Murtha family had left for Sea Gate, was unable to get an answer to her ring at the front door bell. He heard footsteps inside and went around to the rear, where he found a panel cut out of the back door and the door wide open. He reported to a patrolman and the house was guarded until the Murtha family returned.

Burglars also went through the home of Edward R. Harbart, No. 422 Glenwood Road, Vice President of the Battery Park Bank, taking $150 worth of small jewelry, including seven watches valued as heirlooms.

SAVED U-BOAT'S VICTIMS.

Officers of the steamer Crossington Court, which arrived to-day from Plymouth and Havre, reported that on Aug. 2 they picked up a ship's boat containing thirteen survivors of the German submarine, which had been torpedoed and sunk by a German sub-marine. The Coast Guard men were transferred to the Dutch tanker La Campine.

Resinol Stops Itching Instantly

It is a positive fact that the moment Resinol ointment touches any itching skin, the itching usually stops and healing begins.

With the aid of Resinol soap, it quickly clears away all traces of eczema, ringworm, pimples, blackheads, or similar tormenting, unsightly eruptions, leaving the skin clear and healthy.

And the best of it is you need never hesitate to use Resinol soap and Resinol ointment. There is nothing in them to injure the tenderest surface. Resinol is a doctor's prescription which for twenty years has been used by careful physicians for all kinds of skin affections. They prescribe Resinol freely, confident that its soothing, healing action is brought about by medication so bland and gentle as to be suited to the most delicate or irritated skin even of a tiny baby. THE NEW PLAYS

"Some Baby!" a Peculiarly Childish Farce.

BY CHARLES DARNTON.

To see "Some Baby!" at the Fulton Theatre is to recall "Baby Mine," with added congratulations to the mother of the earlier farce, Margaret Mayo.

Baby farming has evidently become a thriving theatrical industry. It began long ago, of course, but variations still seem to be in order. As much may be said for the babies in this case, since they happen to be automatic contrivances. A play that deals with babies must of necessity depend very largely upon the maker of dolls. A cry off-stage is worth volumes of plot.

"Some Baby!" owes its life to Zelah Covington and Jules Simonson, who may know even less about infants than they do about plays. At any rate, according to the programme, they called in Percival Knight to hold the bottle up to nature, as it were. The result is laughable to those who take delight in the time-tried mechanics of farce. There is nothing in this play that could not happen in any other piece of the sort.

This means, necessarily, hard work for the actors. And, believe me, the actors in "Some Baby!" do "some" work!

Frank Lalor, for one, is a marvel of industry. From blinking and winking to sitting down on his part, and then getting up to see what is left of it, he is indefatigable. Quite aside from anything else it is interesting to see an actor work so hard for his salary. Mr. Lalor never shirks. As a professor of higher eugenics he goes in for babies with a recklessness that only a playwright could realize. In his simple way he is amusing. He is made to believe in an air of youth, and by the faith you must share, if you are determined to get any fun out of the thing, he transforms two fully-grown persons into babies. What could be more simple than life as we see it in the theatre? "Some Baby!" is a peculiarly childish farce. For action it depends almost entirely upon leg-work. Mr. Lalor and John Arthur, the strangest looking "juvenile" ever let loose on a New York stage, divide the honors, so far as the activities of the performance are concerned. Whenever the babies are in danger of dropping off to sleep these energetic actors rush in and encourage insomnia. Then there is Emma Janvier, the only actress in captivity who still wears earrings. Miss Janvier has returned to the stage with a great many more pounds than she carried on her retirement five or six years ago, and except for too many touches to her back-hair she is funny enough to deserve a brand new welcome. In her village-made white satin wedding dress she is a bride that no man could ever forget.

Francine Larimore apparently imagines herself another Billie Burke, possibly because she has red hair. But she is young, so time may open her eyes to the fact that she is making a sad mistake. Beth Franklin telephones wildly and economically when she isn't doing her best as a sprinter. Ernest Stallard, as an old English soldier who is supposed to be out of the matrimonial race, again proves himself a good actor by clearing a sentimental hurdle that is particularly difficult in the light of the handicap given him by the authors. Another creditable bit of character work is done by Gilbert Clayton as the sheriff who is equally divided in his official capacity between dogs and babies.

You might prefer a dog to "Some Baby!" It's all a matter of taste.

TAMMANY TO SET FALL CAMPAIGN IN MOTION TO-NIGHT

Wigwam Heads Will Select the Ticket Despite Direct Primary Laws.

The Tammany Hall County Committee meets to-night to start the local political campaign. Its only duty will be to adopt perfunctory preliminaries regarding petitions required by the primary election law. The Executive Committee will meet first and prepare all the routine for the County Committee. William Harmon Black, as County Chairman, will preside.

Nothing will be said officially at the meeting about candidates for offices, but Chief Murphy and his cohorts of confidential advisors have been working for several weeks over the slate. Although the new direct primary law was intended by its proponents to do away with hand-picked candidates, the leaders of Tammany select their favorites just as surely as under the old system.

The law requires all nominating petitions for regular parties to be signed up and filed not later than Sept. 7. Primary elections will be held this year on Sept. 28. Candidates for Supreme Court Justices must have 1,500 signatures. All other county officers require 1,000 signatures.

The offices to be filled in New York County this year are six Justices of the Supreme Court, one City Court Justice, two Municipal Court Judges, District Attorney, Sheriff, State Senators, Aldermen, Assemblymen and one Congressman to fill a vacancy.

The Tammany slate as made up to noon to-day has the following certainties of organization selection. For Supreme Court Justices: Clarke, Shearn and Delehanty, all now on the bench, and Greenbaum, also now serving, as a strong possibility, but not yet certain of renomination. The two remaining judicial vacancies are open to a large number of ambitious candidates.

For City Court, Justice Lorenz Zeller is to be named. For a time he was under consideration as organization candidate for Sheriff, but the German propaganda developments put him back to the bench. Tammany leaders have figured carefully over the German situation and come to the conclusion that while they must have German representation on the ticket, there is no use putting up a target so big as to draw hostile fire of the Allies.

There are 40,000 strong pro-German votes in New York. This is figured from last year's election, when William Sohmer, for State Comptroller, despite the heavy attacks made on him, ran 40,000 ahead of Gov. Glynn in the city. Tammany credits this all to German votes.

At the same time they estimated that a German in 1910-German in 1915 is Tammany's winning ticket. As Sheriff would draw heavier anti-German fire than the Fatherland support he would receive. Therefore, Zeller is scheduled for the more inconspicuous position of City Court Justice, thus disappointing a number of ambitious candidates for the present place.

For District Attorney Judge Swann of the Court of General Sessions was the prime favorite to-day, with Thomas W. Churchil second choice. Glynn. The rich office of Sheriff, paying at least $75,000 a year, is wide open for a scramble of District leaders. So sure is Tammany of winning this year that the office is to go as a reward to a straight and reliable organization man. The Congressional vacancy is in Harlem and Bronx Twenty-third District, caused by the death of John A. Glouden. The nomination is reported assigned to Ellsworth Healy, a lawyer, who married a niece of Chief Murphy.

WOMEN PRISONED WITH 3 CHILDREN IN A BURNING TAXI

Hemmed in by a wall of flame, four women and three children had a narrow escape from being burned to death when a Mason-Seaman taxicab caught fire in front of a garage at No. 545 Howard Avenue, Brooklyn, early to-day.

Mrs. Margaret Harron, seventy-two years old, of No. 138 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, was burned about the head, face and hands, and after being treated by a surgeon from St. Mary's Hospital was taken home.

Alexander Rashkin, No. 1815 Douglas Street, Brooklyn, an employee of the garage, was taken to the hospital badly burned about the hands, arms, legs and face.

Mrs. Harron, Fannie Harron, Mrs. McKay, Mrs. Dolan and the three children, two boys about eleven and a small girl, all living at Hollis, L. I., except the Harrons, engaged the taxicab caught fire in front of a garage at Coney Island to make the trip to Hollis.

Harry Donahue, No. 301 Graham Avenue, driver of the machine, ran short of gasoline and stopped at the garage to have the tank filled. While Rashkin was pouring the gasoline into the tank, which is under the front seat, the fumes ignited from the clock lamp, and in an instant flames completely circled the car.

The screams of the imprisoned women were heard by Policeman Scheidtmuller of the Liberty Avenue Station, who, with the aid of several citizens, fought his way through the fire, opened the taxi door and rescued the seven passengers. Because of her age, Mrs. Harron could not get through the curtain of fire as quickly as the others, and was burned. None of the others had to be attended by the ambulance surgeon.

The taxicab was badly damaged before a fire company extinguished the flames.
