

SPALDING'S WILL CONTESTED BY SON; WIDOW IS ACCUSED

Katherine Tingley, Theosophist, Also Named as Having Influenced Baseball Man.

MIND WEAKENED, CLAIM.

Millionaire Induced to Reside in Colony of Mystics, Is Allegation Made.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 5.—Contest of the will of the late A. G. Spalding, baseball pioneer and millionaire sportsman, was entered to-day by Spalding's son, Keith, who charges that the testament was procured through the "undue influence of his wife, Elizabeth Churchill Spalding, and Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society at Point Loma, Cal."

Spalding died at his residence in Point Loma Sept. 9 last. The contest alleges that for several years before his death Spalding was not in his right mind; that his mental and physical strength was impaired by advancing age, sickness and business worries.

About $2,000,000 was accumulated by Spalding and his first wife, who died in 1899, according to the contest. This, says Keith Spalding, was the result of the joint industry of his father and mother, and was accumulated before the second marriage, which took place in 1900.

At the time of her marriage to Spalding, says the contest, Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill was the intimate friend of Katherine Tingley in "a theosophical brotherhood at Point Loma," and was "held out" by Mrs. Tingley to the public and to Elizabeth Churchill Spalding as her successor in the command of the work and instruction.

Immediately after the marriage, the document continues, Mrs. Spalding persuaded her husband to take up his residence within the grounds of the theosophical institution. The purpose of this, it is alleged, "upon information and belief," was to alienate Spalding from his son.

Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill Spalding, the widow, who filed the will for probate and who was named as executrix, estimated the estate to be worth $600,000. Keith Spalding was under the terms of the will to receive $100,000, of which amount he had already received $65,000.

The adopted son, Albert Spalding, was also bequeathed $100,000, of which he received $1,000. The remainder of the estate was left to Mrs. Spalding.

EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS IF KIDNEYS HURT

Says a tablespoonful of Salts flushes Kidneys, stopping Backache.

Meat forms Uric Acid, which excites Kidneys and Weakens Bladder.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Advt.

"HOW CAN I KEEP MY HUSBAND'S LOVE?" Methods Differ For Every Man

To-day and to-morrow Miss Marshall gives the final instalments of replies to this query, which seems to be the chief, every wife must answer for herself. The ways of keeping a husband's love are as many and as different as the kinds of husbands themselves, as the answers of Miss Marshall's correspondents appear to indicate.

Don't Call Hubby Foolish if He Wants to Be "Spoony," and Don't Be a "Parasite," but a Good Pal, Is Part of Advice to Wives From Quartet of Men—One Urges Whipping Post for Unfaithful Husbands.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

To-day and to-morrow we must wind up our discussion of the question, "How can I keep my husband's love?" There has not been room to print all of the many interesting letters which I have received and which show that the men and women readers of The Evening World have considered seriously the problem of causing a husband's love to continue without essential change of condition. All the solutions offered to the problem have been helpful, in that at least they have shown what is the answer for certain men and certain women.

And to-day I am printing letters from four masculine writers which summarize, pretty definitely and completely, what four different types of men want in marriage. I have catalogued the men, respectively, as "romantic," "human," "ethical" and "practical." As you will perceive by reading the letters, it is a different type of wife which each man deems most capable of keeping her husband's love.

EACH TO HIS TASTE IS THE MAN'S RULE.

To "J. Y. W.," whose sense of romance is evidently strong, it appears most important that a wife should not treat her husband's affection as a matter of course; that she should joyfully give and receive the same demonstrative love as existed before marriage; that, in short, she should remain a sweetheart. "H. B. D.," who seems an intensely human soul, thinks that a wife should not trample on her husband's rights, nor show herself unduly suspicious, nor find fault; that she should be affectionate, mother him, console him in misfortune; that she should be a pal rather than a parasite. "A. A. B.," who apparently looks at life from the ethical viewpoint, thinks that wives would succeed in retaining their husbands' love if boys and girls were brought up properly, and if the whipping post threatened the deliberately unfaithful husband. The young man who has signed himself "One That Has Studied It," suggests most practically that a wife should dress with care, be charming and give her husband what he likes to eat, if she would keep his love.

The point seems to be that no preservative of a husband's affection can be sold at wholesale, that you must concoct your own variety to suit your own variety of man. And isn't that, perhaps, the truth of the matter? However, it would never do to allow mere husbands the last word, and to-morrow the expressions of a group of wives will end our consideration of the question, "How can I keep my husband's love?"

CARELESSNESS OF LOVE CAUSES MUCH TROUBLE.

"Dear Madam: Apropos of the discussion you have brought up concerning 'How can I keep my husband's love?' did it ever occur to you or to your various correspondents that the best way to keep a thing is not to throw it away? One can't have money and spend it, any more than one can have one's cake and eat it, too.

"For instance, I know a couple. The woman is a paragon of all the virtues. The man is also O. K.; by that I mean he is a man who works steadily, stays at home nights, is not a groveller and never asks how his wife spends her income. I know they are very fond of each other, perhaps still in love; they have been married the required seven or nine years of which four correspondents write; and I think they could go on forever—if the woman did not deliberately throw away the love he offers. How? you ask. The way. Before they were married this man courted his sweet-heart in the duly approved fashion. After marriage he continued on the same plan—all their friends wondered and commented on his devotion, but he continued, nevertheless.

"During the courtship days and for a long time after marriage the man was all attention. His attentions, as is usual with women, but she tired first. It seemed to come too easily—she had to fight for nothing. First complaint was: 'Don't be silly, we're married, now.' Second complaint: 'Don't bother me, John. Of course you love me, I know. Why not? Aren't we married?' Third: 'You're a third-rate husband. Why shouldn't we be foolish; we're married.' And so a requit she has

EUGENIA KELLY WONT MAKE UP WITH MOTHER; WILL MARRY DAVIS

Mrs. Kelly Threatens to Tie Up Her Money if She Can.

Following an all night wrangle between Mrs. Edward Kelly, her daughter, Eugenia, and a lawyer who is a friend of the family, Mrs. Kelly said over the telephone to-day that she would at once take steps to have Eugenia sent to a sanatorium.

"I believe she is suffering from neurasthenia," she said. "Something is radically wrong with her. She will not listen to reason. In her present state she should be placed somewhere and receive good attention till she recovers her mental balance. It is my opinion that she is run down from too much dancing and social gaiety. A good rest would benefit her greatly."

The purpose of the conference, which began in the Kelly home at No. 114 East Sixty-third Street last evening and lasted till early this morning, was to patch up peace between mother and daughter.

Mrs. Kelly and the lawyer suggested to Eugenia that she and her mother go West, and that the girl give up all thought of marrying Al Davis.

"If you will do this," Mrs. Kelly said to her, "there will be no dispute between us. Your full monthly allowance will be restored and once more I will be your own loving mother. What is your answer?"

"My answer," Miss Kelly replied, "is an emphatic 'No.' I love Mr. Davis. I intend becoming his wife. That's the way it stands once and for all."

Eugenia then was told that Mrs. Kelly would go to Alexander & Green, the lawyers representing the estate of her father, and ask them to take some action to tie up her income. "I do not care what you try to do, mother," said the girl. "I have a good lawyer. I know my rights. I shall marry Al no matter what you do."

"My daughter will never be married to that man Davis," said Mrs. Kelly to-day. "That was fully decided long ago."

"What means will you take to prevent a marriage?" she was asked. "Wait and see," was the reply. "Eugenia ought to be saved from herself."

TEA FOR 500 WOMEN AT A COST OF ONLY $25

Commissioner Davis's "Blow-Out" for City Employees Will Include Ice Cream and Angel Cake.

The five hundred women city employees in the Municipal Building and Health Department are to have an angel cake and ice cream blow-out. Commissioner of Correction, Davis, Ida Fingerhut, secretary of City Chamberlain Huera, and Mary Brennan of the Comptroller's office want all the "girls" to march in the coming "votes for women" parade.

The "tea" will be held in the Corporation Court.

Political leaders who used to put up a keg of beer for every twenty-five prospective voters may learn a lesson from Commissioner Davis and her aides, who expect to perform a modern miracle of loaves and fishes—dimensions by feeding the five hundred for $25.

GENERAL ELECTRIC PLANT TIED UP BY BIG STRIKE

Twelve Thousand Workers in Schenectady Demand Eight-Hour Day—Mayor Offers to Mediate.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Approximately 12,000 men and women were on strike in Schenectady to-day, demanding an eight-hour day. Pattern-makers and other workers employed in the General Electric Company's plant joined the machinists and electrical workers who went out yesterday. More will go out to-day, it is thought, unless mediation is accepted. The plant is closed, with the exception of the business offices. Strikers last night manned the power department to save the city from total darkness, as the company supplies all the light. Mayor Schoolcraft to-day offered his services as mediator. The strike has been probably as peaceful as any in history.

GIRL HAS SUICIDE MANIA.

Grace Denescher Says She Has Intensions to Kill Herself.

After having made three attempts to end her life, Grace Denescher, seventeen years old, of No. 629 East Twelfth Street, told Magistrate Krotel in the Yorkville Court to-day that she could not promise not to make another attempt. She was held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury and an effort will be made to have her committed to an institution.

"I have no reason to end my life, but I can't resist the impulse," the girl said. Physicians at Bellevue decided she had developed a suicide mania.

Little Takes Pills and Dies.

Child Elsie Grotliel, who was two and a half years old, saw her mother take some pills from a bottle to-day in her home, No. 129 Avenue F, Bayonne, N. J., and she took some too when her mother wasn't looking. In less than half an hour little Elsie was dead.

"QUEEN" OF BAYONNE POLLS 43,000 VOTES IN POPULARITY CONTEST.

MISS VALESKA WEIDIG

Miss Valeska Weidig of No. 79 West Forty-fifth Street, Bayonne, N. J., has been declared queen of the carnival which will be a feature of the celebration of the 160th anniversary of the first settlement in Bayonne, which was begun Sunday.

Miss Weidig and a score of other cousin Bayonne young women took part in the contest for queen, and Miss Weidig won with 43,000 votes. Other prize winners were Miss Anna Lynch, Miss Florence Becker and Miss Ida Fahlbusch. Miss Weidig was crowned last evening.

Sunday was observed as Religious Day. A parade of labor men last evening was reviewed by the city officials, an outdoor street cabaret show followed, and dancing on the asphalt until a late hour. An industrial exhibit will open in old St. Henry's Church this evening.

Naturday a big children's pageant and baby parade will be the feature. There was a brief interruption of the carnival last night. Mrs. Carl Joseph of No. 612 Broadway was passing Jennings & Barran's shooting gallery with her husband when a bullet flew through a target, pierced the back wall and lodged in her head. The doctors in the Bayonne hospital expect her to recover.

ENDS LIFE RATHER THAN GO TO OLD MEN'S HOME

Meyer Marcus, Aged Seventy, Takes Gas in Hotel in Queens on Eve of His Departure.

Brooding over the thought that he was to go to an old men's home to-day is believed to have caused Meyer Marcus, seventy years old, of No. 428 Atlantic Avenue, Woodhaven, Queens borough, to commit suicide by inhaling gas last night.

Marcus had a room in Emil Michaelson's hotel. Late in the evening persons in the hotel smelled gas and traced it to Marcus's room. He was found lying on the floor dead, with the gas jet in his room turned on and the windows and doors stuffed with paper.

Two years ago the old man was sent to a hospital suffering from the effects of illuminating gas poisoning, but at that time it was thought to be an accident.

Marcus was a capmaker and worked in a factory in Woodhaven. Work had been slack and on account of his age, friends induced him to consent to go to an old men's home. Since the arrangements had been made, the old man had been depressed.

SUED FOR A DIVORCE BY WIFE WHO ELOPED

Jesse R. Salmon of Newark Served by Woman Who Flew Away With Brother.

Passed in a divorce suit instituted in California by a wife who before leaving her husband with her brother, Jesse R. Salmon of Newark, N. J., was served with a writ of habeas corpus by Judge Charles H. Smith of No. 218 Garden Street, Newark, attorney for Vice Chancellor Howell of that city. The wife, Mrs. Esther Salmon, had fled with her brother to California, alleging desertion. The husband will contest the suit.

In 1905 Mrs. Salmon left home, taking her twelve-year-old son, Roger. At the same time A. H. C. Salmon, Jesse's older brother, disappeared, leaving his wife and seven children. The deserted husband pursued and brought back his son.

He afterward prosecuted his brother in the California criminal courts, with the result that A. H. C. Salmon was sentenced to State Prison. He later got free. Subsequently Jesse Salmon prosecuted his wife and brother, who were convicted and A. H. C. Salmon served two years of a five-year term in the State Prison, and was released under a suspended sentence.

Nostrils Clogged? Dropping in Throat? Noises in Head? Going Deaf?

FACTS ABOUT MY LOW FEES. When in January, last I placed my fees low and advertised the fact, it became the custom of other doctors to say all the mean things they could about my practice and warn people against being treated by me. The people, however, quickly found that my results were at least as good as the other specialists and that my fees were about one-third what the high-priced specialists charged.

My specialty is treating clogged nostrils, throat, chest, deafness, and ear troubles. I have cured thirty years in operation and stay as to the fact. I have been in the profession without leaving any of the bones in the nose, but I have been in the profession for twenty years and have cured many cases that were considered by nature to strain every nerve of the air.

LOW FEES DURING OCTOBER

My fees will be kept at the old low rate during the month of October. I have begun Nov. 1, as my busy season is then on.

Clogged Nostrils, Dropping in Throat, Deafness and Head Noises

Mr. Robert Allen, residing at No. 624 Third Avenue, New York. When he first consulted me he had clogged nostrils, throat, chest, deafness, and ear troubles. I got so I could not breathe through my nostrils at all. I could only sleep a little while at a time. For my clogged nostrils would wake me up every two or three hours. I had to get up and discharge myself in my bed, and this would keep me from sleeping. My hearing failed and I could not hear anything. I had to wear a hearing aid, but it did not help. I had to give up my business and my home. I was in a very bad state of mind. I was in a very bad state of mind. I was in a very bad state of mind.
