

$800,000,000 RISE IN REALTY TO PAY ALL SUBWAY COSTS

Rush to Build and High Land Values Along Dual Lines Swell Tax Rolls.

$10,000,000 IN A WEEK.

End of Year Will See Nearly Half Billion Added to City's Taxable Assets.

Realty is beginning to pay for the new rapid transit subways.

Builders are pouring huge sums into construction along the Lexington and Seventh Avenue lines. Nearly $10,000,000 is involved in their projects for this week alone. In addition, land values are beginning to advance sharply all over the great dual system. It means a vast increase in the city's taxable assets—practically enough to pay all interest charges on the bonds issued to meet the costs.

Plans filed for new buildings in the Grand Central Terminal district alone this week call for an outlay close to $2,000,000. Another fourteen-story apartment hotel project for Lexington Avenue at Seventy-second Street will take $1,000,000 more. It is estimated that nearly $100,000,000 will go into new buildings along the main new subway lines this year. Close to $50,000,000 was invested last year. More than $150,000,000 will be invested during 1917 and 1918 as a direct result of enhancements attending the dual system.

HOW REALTY IS PAYING FOR BIG SUBWAY SYSTEM.

This makes a total of $200,000,000 in new buildings for assessed valuations on the tax rolls. In addition, the increase of land values along the lines has begun to assume prominent proportions. The slow advance to date, work on the subways has expanded $200,000,000 in all sections and completion of the system for operation is expected to accelerate this disquieting process until the total enhancements shall reach well above $500,000,000.

Thus by the time the dual system is finished, fully $600,000,000 will be added to the city's assessed valuations as a direct result of the gigantic construction. Nearly $500,000,000 of this will materialize into a tangible asset by the end of this year.

The city's share in the cost of the $600,000,000 dual system is approximately $200,000,000. It takes less than $10,000,000 a year to pay interest on bonds covering this liability. The tax rate for the coming year promises to average 3 per cent., and the $200,000,000 already added to the tax rolls along the new lines, at the 3 per cent. rate, will yield $10,000,000 a year to the city treasury, or enough to carry the bonds. The $200,000,000 or more to be added during the coming few years at the same tax rate would yield $6,000,000 a year more, or enough to provide for speedy amortization of the bonds. In this manner the city's share in the subway construction should be liquidated entirely by the enhancement in realty along the lines within a comparatively short time.

NEW MONEY USED TO MEET ALL KINDS OF CITY CHARGES.

This will not show thus plainly in the city records, however, because the additional amounts collected from real estate taxes along the dual system are earmarked to pay the subway bills, but are thrown with all of the other tax collections into the city treasury. Instead of being used to pay for the subways, the money will be drawn on to pay all kinds of city bills.

Plans filed this week, showing how real estate is paying for the new subway system through the medium of investments along the lines, included the twenty-six-story Terminal Hotel, to cost $4,000,000, on the Grand Central Terminal site, bounded by Forty-second and Forty-third Streets, Lexington Avenue and Dupont Place; twenty-nine-story offices and show-rooms for South Terminal Company on Forty-second Street, south side, 200 feet west of Sixth Avenue, to cost $400,000, the site being at the center of the new transit hub, between the Seventh and Lexington Avenue lines on the Fortieth Street spur; any-where-story offices and store for the old Berkeley Lyceum plot on Forty-fourth Street, at Fifth Avenue, to cost $150,000. The site at Lexington Avenue and Seventy-second Street, where a $1,000,000 apartment hotel is to arise, was bought by Julius Tishman & Sons, who took it in part payment for new fourteen-story apartments close to the Lexington Avenue subway, at Nos. 154 to 164 East Seventy-ninth Street. On Seventh Avenue, the southeast corner at Thirty-sixth Street was acquired in a $1,000,000 deal by Haas Bros., silk manufacturers, who will hold it for improvement, involving an even greater expenditure.

These were only a few operations in the prominent midtown zone of the dual system. Along the outer sections of the lines the aggregate of smaller transactions is making a big total each week. In downtown Manhattan buying and building are adding fast to assessed valuations, brokers reporting the market to be more promising than at any time during the past decade.

TRUTH WILL OUT.

(From the Milwaukee Sentinel.) The advanced maidery was out rowing with a possible suitor and had taken her little sister along, who was exhibiting much fear at the waves. "Why, Martha, if you are so nervous, what will you be at my age?" "Thirty-nine, I suppose," meekly replied the little sister.

BREAKS HIS ANCESTORS' CHINA MUG ON HEAD OF AN UNLUCKY BURGLAR

Family Heirloom Is Shattered to Bits, but Is Sacrificed in Good Cause.

On the table next to the bed of William Pugh, at No. 284 West Fifty-fourth Street, has been sitting a china mug, which was a family heirloom, once the property of his great-great-grandfather. It isn't there any more. Early to-day Mr. Pugh threw it at a burglar in the dark. Bing! went the family mug into seven or eight pieces; but down went the burglar, laid out cold.

"My! My!" said Pugh. "I'm sorry I broke my great-great-grandfather's china mug, but it surely was sacrificed in a good cause. Somebody had me Piece No. 11, and somebody else it fits here."

Pugh was sound asleep when a point of light from an electric torch was reflected from the mirror into his face. He saw a dark figure bending over the dresser. He let fly the mug and the figure dropped. Then Mrs. Pugh said:

"Get up and finish him."

Pugh did. He elaborated the protrude figure and then threw it out in the street.

"I don't believe great-great-grandfather's china mug is going to be very much good any more," he said, alighting back in bed.

"No," said Mrs. Pugh. "You'd better go after that fellow some more. He may be shamming."

Pugh went out into the street. The man had vanished. After a while Pugh found a policeman.

"Have you seen a dead man around here?" he asked the officer. "I pretty near killed a burglar with my great-great-grandfather's china mug."

"Sure," said the policeman. "I just put him in Roosevelt Hospital."

The prisoner said he was John Smith of No. 151 West Eighty-fourth Street. He will be arraigned to-day if he's able to get up.

"I'm glad my dear old great-great-grandfather is dead," said Pugh. "He set an awful store by that china mug."

OLD-TIME PICKPOCKET WARMS BOY PRISONER

Elderly Thief, Sitting in Pen Beside First Offender, Says Crime Does Not Pay.

"Boy, don't become a pickpocket. It does not pay. The next time you feel like putting your hand in some one else's pocket, take a knife and cut off that hand."

"This is the twenty-first time I've been arrested, so jail hasn't a scare for me. But you're just a kid." Each was the advice given by John Murphy, alias John Dowd, alias "Duffy" Dowd, fifty-seven, to John Wiseman, nineteen, yesterday. They sat next to each other on the prisoners' bench in the Tombs Court.

Each had been caught by the detectives who spread a net for pickpockets during Saturday's parade. It was the boy's first offense.

"Take a tip from an old timer," "Duffy" Dowd continued. "The workhouse, then the penitentiary, the Sing Sing. That's the line. Live straight. Take this from me. It's the goods."

A detective saw "Duffy" locate a man on Broadway. The old pickpocket, who lives "nowhere," wisely pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was sent to the workhouse for a month.

Learning that Wiseman was a first offender, Magistrate Krotel adjourned his case until to-morrow.

She also told why her mother, Mrs. R. D. Garden, did not wait for her arrival, but hurriedly sailed for Europe on the steamship New York on Saturday. Miss Garden expects to become an aunt. Her sister is Mrs. Helen Garden Gaulton, wife of Capt. Gaulton, who is at the French front.

BURGLAR LOOTS FLAT OF DAN M'KETTRICK

Leaves Boxes' Manager Only Wrist Watch and Monocle—Mother's Wedding Ring in Booty.

Dan McKetrick, manager of prominent boxes, returned with his wife to their apartment at No. 214 West Ninety-second Street early to-day to find about everything portable missing, except Dannie's wrist watch and monocle. Every room had been ransacked, and trunks, drawers and cabinets emptied and their contents scattered over the floor.

The thief got in by a kitchen window of the first floor, rear apartment, sometime after Mr. and Mrs. McKetrick went out at 9 P. M. to spend the evening with friends. Besides $215 cash, he got dress shirt studs worth $150, and rings, bracelets and other jewelry belonging to Mrs. McKetrick valued at $750. The wrist watch and monocle were tossed aside by the burglar.

TELEGRAPHERS' PAY RAISED.

All Pennsylvania Operators East of Pittsburgh Share in Increase.

PITTSBURGH, May 15.—It became known here to-day that all telegraph operators on the Pennsylvania line east of Pittsburgh had been notified of a wage increase. Instead of the fifty men in the city who were reported last night as being affected by the new order. The advance, it was stated, was individual and made according to the merit of the men and their length of service. From three to six men are employed in each of the "company's" towers.

Many of the 500 Western Union operators, whose wages were increased from $1 to $1.5 per cent., were notified when they reported for work that the new rates were effective to-day. For others the increase was effective May 1.
