Manager Donovan Finds That Tonsillitis Extends All the Way to the Bench

The Yankee Leader Has Put Upholstered Cushions in Dug-out as a Preventive.

By Bozeman Bulger.

THAT tonsillitis, the disease that has put so many ball players hors du combat during the spring, extends all the way from the neck to the bench on which the demon athletes sit, is the theory of Wild William Donovan, and, to the utter satisfaction of his men, he has proved it. Perhaps it is a little misleading to express it that way, for Bill really means that the tonsillitis extends from the bench up. But it "goes" either way.

Western invaders, and are free to take on the Red Sox this afternoon in a double-header. This, by the way, is the first regular season attraction of the year. In it there are many possibilities, among them being the chance of the Yankees being shoved out of third place, unless they get up and dust. There will be other added attractions next week, counting Decoration Day and a succeeding double-header with the Athletics, but this affair with the Red Sox, Harry Sparrow says, is the very best he can do for the boys this week.

The concluding triumph over the Federalized Browns was a very proper mode of ending the Western invasion, and Capt. Huston says the boys can have a dozen more of those cushions if they want them. Nick Cullip pitched himself to another victory, leaving two of the best pitchers on the club to take care of the Red Sox. Though Nick was ripped into for twelve safe walkoffs, he always managed to tighten up with the appearance of Donovan's smile. Another thing of great aid was the batlers behind him making so many runs that he didn't have to care how much hitting was done by the Browns.

Members of the Giants, incidentally, declare that the strongest club in the West is Cincinnati. The Cubs are always dangerous, but the Reds have the real goods. The Giants, you know, always have thought the Cubs lucky.

As a wind-up to their Western trip the Dodgers plan against a tough bird in that fellow Miller, now pitching for the Pirates. He shut out the league leaders with disconcerting ease. Robbie's position is not nearly so safe as it was a week ago.

George Slater of the Browns, the best all-around player in the league, among other things helped himself to four hits off Nick Cullip and called it a day.

Fistic News John Pollock and Gossip

Johnny Dundee, the fast and clever Italian lightweight, who is still battling in good form, has been matched for two more important bouts by his manager, Scotty Monteith. The first will be with Phil Bloom of Brooklyn for twelve rounds at the National A. C. of Martineville, R. I., on next Tuesday night, and the second with Ever Hammer, the crack Chicago lightweight, for ten rounds at a show to be brought off in East Chicago on the afternoon of July 4. Bloom is to receive a guarantee of $750 for his end.

to-day by his manager, Danny Morgan. His opponent in this affair will be Jack Hubbard, the Philadelphia heavyweight. They will clash for ten rounds at the Cleburn A. C. of Brooklyn on Thursday evening, June 8.

The Hudson Sporting Club, in East One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street, will meet a tough battle tonight at which some fast fighting should be witnessed. In the main bout of ten rounds Phil Bloom of Brooklyn will go against Vic Moran, the New Orleans lightweight. Young Brown, the side waterweight, and Bobby Sanders will clash in the other ten rounder.

At the Rodway Sporting Club, Hamman Station, tonight there will be two ten round bouts decided. Frankie Daly, the Staten Island bantam, will go against Red Mack in the star bout, while in the semifinal Frankie Williams, a promising local bantam, will battle Young Kendall, another likely youngster.

George "Bully" Volk and Gene O'Dowd, and Willie McCarthy and Dutch Dolan will be the principals in the two ten round bouts to be held at the weekly boxing show of the New Polo A. C. of Hudson Heights. Several preliminary contests will precede the two ten rounders.
