

TROLLEY CAR KILLS WOMAN; MOTORMAN IS HELD BY POLICE

Car Did Not Stop After Striking Mrs. Frangipane Near Her Son's Door.

Mrs. Rosalie Frangipane, fifty-eight years old, of No. 58 Floyd Street, Williamsburg, died at 3 A. M. today in the Norwegian Hospital from injuries received when she was struck by a street car at Seventy-third Street and Fifth Avenue, Bay Ridge, at midnight. The car did not stop.

She had been visiting her son, Salvatore, who has a shoe store at that corner, and was crossing Seventy-third Street on her way home when the car hit her. Seeing a crowd gathering, Salvatore ran out and found his mother dying.

Witnesses gave the police the number of the trolley car they said hit the woman, and they found it at the barn at Fifty-eighth Street and Third Avenue. Michael Litschauer of No. 1307 Fifth Avenue, the motorman, was arrested at home and declared he did not know his car hit any one. He was on his way to the car barn at the time, he said, and carried no passengers. He identified a switch bar found beside the woman as one he had on his car. He will be arraigned in the Fifth Avenue Court.

THROWS SWITCH, SAVES 12 BOYS ON STOLEN HANDCAR

Towerman's Act Sends Them Down Embankment Just Ahead of Oncoming Express.

Twelve boys too riding on a stolen handcar were saved from death yesterday by a railroad towerman in Paterson, who opened a switch and sent them down an embankment just ahead of a 1 o'clock express train. Two of the boys, John Dewolf and John Donahue, were arrested and held for trial.

The boys found the handcar near the Paterson station and put it on the east-bound track. Frank M. Barr, station agent, saw them fly past the station and telegraphed to a towerman a mile away at Paterson Junction to stop them.

Five minutes later the towerman heard the rattle of the car and the whistle of an express. He opened a switch to a siding for the handcar, then closed it before the express reached it.

The two boys who were caught were thrown against a barbed wire fence and seriously cut.

75,000 to March in Washington. WASHINGTON, June 5.—At least 75,000 will march in the Independence parade here on Flag Day, June 14. It was estimated today by citizens organizing the demonstration. One unit will consist of three hundred clerical employees of the Capitol building. President Wilson has signified his intention of marching at the head of the procession.

Original Home Dressmaking Designs By The Evening World's Fashion Expert

Fancy Hosiery and Shoes Add to the Gay Effect of Trimmed Knickers and Bright Colors in This Season's Beach Costumes.

Copyrighted, 1916, Press Publishing Co. (New York Evening World).

By Mildred Lodewick.

With the skirts of street costumes so short as almost to usurp the rights of the bathing dress, the latter has likewise abbreviated its skirt to such an extent as to make necessary the more serious consideration of the knickers. These now have to be trimmed in a way to correspond with the dress, and it cannot be denied that a more elaborate looking costume is the result. Especially is the effect aided by the fancy hosiery which Dame Fashion is offering in novelty stripes, checks, etc. Footwear, too, is no longer of the plain type, but is seen in quite as distinctive styles as the fashionable footwear for other occasions. As for caps, they are as varied in style and as smart and becoming as any of the season's hats. Indeed, never was more attention given to the costumery of the beach. Tennis, golf and other sports may have their swaggar outfits, but the galaxy of colors and styles at the beach, with their parasols and beckoning streamers, cannot even be rivalled this year in the requirements by the garden party.

Bright colors are used without restraint, as, for instance, an emerald green bathing dress I saw the other day was ruffled all the way up the skirt with orange, and orange ruffles surrounded the armholes. Another dress of dull blue rajah silk was striped in white and a black square trimmed hat was worn with it, featuring an orange tassel. Boots of black, fitted at the top to show their orange lining. Satin and taffeta are the most favored fabrics, but are not guaranteed against fade on account of the critical dye situation. Not even is this true of Skinner's water-proof satin, which heretofore was guaranteed to be fast color. One can only hope that next year will find the situation remedied, and this year to buy from the most reputable houses, who we know are not taking advantage of the dye situation to offer inferior stuffs, but will give the best that can be had. I am showing tonight two designs, the one at the left is suitable for the slim girl, and the one at the right for the stout girl. The first mentioned would be pretty if dark blue taffeta combined with green. The second, a crisp and in texture, the perky taffeta ruffles at the hips, and the taffeta bloomers underneath will give to this model the modish silhouette. Stockings of Beige, with blue for the background, are effective complements to the dress, with a cap of blue and green, with fine lines of red through the band.

The right hand model is constructed along plainer lines, the close-fitting bodice cut to fit, the neck in front, with a strip of the same as the back, crossed at the waist. Purple taffeta or satin trimmed with black and corse stripe would be effective, or brocade satin could be trimmed with brown and tan stripe taffeta. The way the bands are applied on the skirt would lend crispness and flare to a skirt of satin if they were taffeta.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES. Dear Fashion Editor: I am twenty-two years old, have light-brown hair and gray eyes. Will you tell me what colors are most becoming to me? Also, will you sketch me a skirt with tunic which I could use for an embroidery dress from two years ago, with tight-fitting skirt and the proper proportions. I have black hair, good complexion, blue eyes. HELEN C. Use narrow button lace edging around waist line down the side of the skirt. Chemise of white chiffon or organza, tied with black velvet ribbon.

Dear Fashion Editor: I have five and three-quarter yards of floweredorgette crepe, dull blue, with yellow and rose flower, which I would like your advice on making. Am twenty-nine years old, weigh 135 pounds, 36-inch bust and 42-inch hips. Have black hair, good complexion, blue eyes.

Dear Fashion Editor: I have three and a quarter yards of colored material, forty-four inches wide. Would like to make it into a skirt and evening dress. Would like to use a black net gimp and I have an eye for a skirt and evening dress. Am also afflicted with a short waist and a large bust. Would like to know if defects hidden if possible. I like plain dresses.

CHEMICAL FIRE MENACE HERE, ADAMSON WARNS

Peril Due to Attempts to Manufacture Many Products Shut Off by War.

The city is in peril of chemical fires, due to the efforts to manufacture here many of the products that cannot be imported because of the war in Europe.

A number of these outbreaks have already occurred, and they are happening, Fire Commissioner Adamson gives warning, with increasing frequency and with constant danger to human lives. Water cannot be used in such a pond, green carbon, without spreading the flames and increasing the volume of suffocating fumes. Mr. Adamson asks landlords and renting agents to notify him whenever chemists or firms dealing in chemical products seek occupancy in buildings. The Fire Prevention Bureau will investigate all cases to find out if it is a safe location for the proposed business.

In one of these places recently, he adds, a chemist who was using white phosphorus in making a rheumatic remedy that had risen from 75 cents to $2.00 a pound, green carbon. This phosphorus burst into flames, burning the experimenter and sending out dense, dangerous fumes. An employee at the Laight Street building, The Fire Prevention Bureau, escaped the other night emptied thirteen cases of bromine into the gutter, because one bottle had been broken, and he feared a fire. RALPH HERZ WEDS NO. 3.

Miss Frances M. Logan becomes Bride of Comedian. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 5.—Ralph Herz, comedian, is here today at the Hotel Traymore with his third bride, who was Miss Frances M. Logan of Washington. They met at Chicago last winter while Mr. Herz was playing in "Giggles of Red Gaps." They were married Saturday at the Shoreham in Washington. His bride is twenty-four years old and a daughter of the late Major William R. Logan. The couple will live in New York after spending several days here. Ralph Herz's first wife was Lulu Glasser, whom he married in May, 1907, and who divorced him in January, 1912. His second wife was Mrs. Leah Harden of New York, whom he married in February, 1913.

FAME. Melrose, Mass., is split wide open over whether a little park shall be named for its native daughter, Geraldine Farrar.

Train Kills Deaf School Pupil. TRENTON, N. J., June 5.—Lewis Bauman, aged 14, a pupil in the State School for the Deaf, was killed by a Pennsylvania Railroad train near here last evening while several other pupils, all of whom had been on a hike to Bordentown, narrowly escaped being run over by the same train. The boy was struck by the front end of the train, which was moving at a fast pace. He was killed on the spot. The other pupils were scattered in all directions, but none of them were hurt. The train was carrying a large number of passengers, and the accident caused a delay of several hours.
