WILSON BY A "LANDSLIDE," IS PREDICTION OF MANAGERS OF DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Enthusiasm for President in Rock-Ribbed Pennsylvania Cinches This Conclusion.

BACK AT SHADOW LAWN. President Addresses Gathering of Farmers of New Jersey and Nearby States.

SHADOW LAWN, LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 21.—Back at Shadow Lawn to-day after what he regards "the most successful trip" of his campaign, President Wilson prepared to launch his most vigorous efforts during the two weeks now remaining before election.

This afternoon he addresses a delegation of farmers from the veranda of the Summer White House here, Wednesday he leaves for Cincinnati, where he speaks Thursday, returning to Long Branch for another "Forch Speech" next Saturday. The following week he speaks at Buffalo, New York City and a final speech at Shadow Lawn.

The Democratic lieutenants no longer believe the President will "carry" the election. They are talking "landslide." They believe that the trip of the President through rock-ribbed Pennsylvania yesterday, when thousands of people met the train at every station in spite of the continuous downpour of rain, indicates "the way of the tide." At Lancaster last night, a community which hasn't seen Democratic since the Civil War, fully 50,000 people waited in a cold drizzle for more than an hour and gave the President a great ovation.

President Wilson was tired, but highly excited to-day. He is confident of the verdict of the voters two weeks from Tuesday. His long visit with former Secretary of State Bryan, the first meeting they had enjoyed together since Bryan's spectacular resignation, put him in fine spirits. The little luncheon party which served to bring the President and his former Cabinet Premier into intimate touch again was unique. When Bryan reached Pittsburgh the President asked him to ride in the same automobile with him.

"No, this is your day," Bryan replied. "I am just an interested on-looker like the rest." They rode in separate cars. When they returned to the train the President asked the Commoner to take luncheon with him. Again Bryan demurred, but this time the President said: "Come on, now. I have had a plate laid specially for you." This is "Farmers' Day" at Shadow Lawn. The President will speak this afternoon before a delegation of farmers from New Jersey and nearby States. The President planned to devote himself principally to telling what the Administration has done for the farmers. The President's next trip away from Long Branch will take him to Cincinnati on Thursday. He will return in time for the celebration of "Woodrow Wilson Day" next Saturday.

$5,000 IN BONDS IN TORN ENVELOPE SAFE IN MAILS

Officials Say Delivery Was a Fine Testimonial to Honesty of Postal Employees.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Five thousand dollars in bonds, good as cash and readily negotiable, poorly concealed in a much-torn envelope, which revealed their value to scores of employees, traveled safely in the ordinary letter mail from Rusk, Texas, to the Postoffice Department where they were delivered to-day to the Postal Savings director. Officials thought it a fine testimonial to the honesty of Postal employees. The bonds came as security for Postal deposits from a National bank, which was requested, however, to register such valuable mail in the future.

examination by police physicians, who declared him a mental defective. Dr. Barclay, physician to the Cullen family, declared that only on Thursday he had treated Cullen for an acute mental disorder. Cullen maintained throughout his examination yesterday by the police that he only wanted to "interview" the President on his foreign policies. "But he would have to agree to change them or suffer the consequences," Cullen is reported to have said. What the "consequences" might have been he did not say.

FIVE LINERS SAIL; 226 AMERICANS ON BOARD DEFY U-BOAT

Three of Vessels Leaving New York To-Day Are "Belligerents" and Carry Guns.

NOTABLE PASSENGERS.

Ambassador Sharp, Prince Poniatowski and H. T. P. Hollingsworth in the List.

That the fear of German submarines on this side of the Atlantic no longer exists, or that there is firm faith in the ability of British and French cruisers off-shore to insure protection beyond the danger zone, was indicated by the sailing of five liners from this port to-day.

One is American, the other four fly the flags of Holland, Great Britain, France and Italy, and the last three are armed with formidable guns astern. This is an unusual number of liners to be sailing in one day and the passenger lists are exceptionally large, totalling 1,771 passengers of whom 226 are Americans.

Among the ships of belligerent nations sailing is the Lafayette of the French line, bound for Bordeaux, with eighty Americans among her 245 passengers. She has a 75-millimetre gun on her after-deck. Her passengers include E. Alexander Powell, the war correspondent; Prince Poniatowski, a Wall Street banker; H. T. P. Hollingsworth, one of whose daughters engaged in relief work for France raised a quarter of a million dollars in this country; Commandante Antoine Martin, formerly naval attaché at the French Embassy at Washington, and Mrs. Newton Perkins of this city, who is escorting her daughter and fourteen young society women. Miss Helena Fish, daughter of Hamilton Fish, among them, to France to engage in relief work.

The other two "belligerent" liners are the Cunarder Orduna, with ninety Americans in her list of 295 passengers, and the Duca d'Anosta, of the Italian line, with twelve Americans. Her total list being 506 passengers. The St. Paul, of the American Line, with William G. Sharp, Ambassador aboard, sailed for Liverpool at noon. He was to have departed on the French steamship Espérance last Saturday, but cancelled his passage at the last moment. There were 105 Americans among the St. Paul's 530 passengers.

JUDGE WEEPS PASSING SENTENCE OF DEATH

He Always Prayed That He Never Should Have to Go Through Such an Ordeal.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Judge Joseph H. Sabbath of the Criminal Court after passing a death sentence to-day on Lloyd Bopp, twenty-three years old, covered his face and wept unreservedly for several minutes. "I always prayed that if ever I became a judge I should never be called upon to go through an ordeal like this," he said. Counsel for Bopp and others in the court room gave way to tears. Bopp murdered a motorcycle policeman four months ago.

Dead Man, Bullet in Heart, Tied by Neck to a Horse. MIDDLEBURGH, Va., Oct. 21.—County authorities are to-day unable to explain the discovery of the dead body of James Johnson, twenty-six, a farmhand of Marshall, dangling by the neck at the end of a chain attached to a frightened horse. The body had a bullet wound in the heart.

"HOW ABOUT 1907?" SAYS HECKLER TO COL. ROOSEVELT

"We've Got Eight Hours a Day—What Did You Ever Do?" Queries a Railroader.

COWARD, YELLS T. R.

"We've All Got Good Jobs, Why Should We Change?" Is Another Shot That Landed.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 21.—It remained for Gallup, N. M., where Roosevelt raised half of his rough riders, to furnish the real thrills of the Colonel's flying campaign tour. Nearly all of the town of 3,000 crowded about to see him. He had hardly started speaking when noisy heckling began.

"How's Teddy, but Wilson for me," shouted a railroader. Roosevelt attempted again and again to start speaking, but others took up the cry: "How about Wilson? I'll bet you love him." "I love no one too proud to fight," retorted Roosevelt. "We've all got good jobs, why should we change?" was shouted. "Yes, but you forget the thousands out of work until the European war put money in your pockets," said Roosevelt.

"How about the 1907 panic?" a man called. "At that we would vote for Roosevelt if you were running." "What did you ever do?" We've got eight hours a day," yelled a railroader. "You fool and coward," shouted back the Colonel. "Go home and sober up." Then as Roosevelt was declaring no American was killed by any foreigner during his term, a man at the edge of the crowd who held a baby in his arms, shouted:

"Yes, you let the Japs into the schools when I lived in California." "And I sent the battle fleet around to Japan to prevent trouble," called Roosevelt.

"How many more Japs did you have at Louisville?" yelled the railroader man. The Colonel was leaning over the end of his car, shouting in his loudest tones, obviously enjoying the verbal battle royal. The railroader was the last man to shake Roosevelt's hand as the train pulled out. "You are a grand man, Colonel," he called, running along the slowly moving train, "but not for Woodrow Wilson."

Another to meet Roosevelt at Gallup was Capt. J. W. Peters, who said he led the only company of the seventy-first New York Infantry that went up San Juan Hill. Roosevelt struck a strong Democratic center at Joliet, N. M. This is a railroad division point. William Phillips were literally left of field, his nose, but he took no offense from eleven-year-old Doris, who held up her hand before him as he was mounting the car. "You're too pretty a little girl to have such a father," he said, patting her plump arm. "Oh, I ain't, either," she answered. At this the crowd went up a shout, "Hurrah for Wilson!" and the Colonel called back, "Thank yourself, and this time for Hughes!"

The Colonel was in a committee of members of the U. S. A. R., Spanish War Veterans and Confederate Veterans, headed by J. H. Board, an old friend, and John Greenway, a major in the Illinois Infantry, who was Yale's famous basketball player. "By George," exclaimed the Colonel to-day, "I'd like to be going again and out here. If it weren't for Mrs. Roosevelt, and the children I'd built myself a shack out here with a bathtub in it and just stay until I died. By George, but I would!" The Colonel rests in Phoenix, tonight, leaving early tomorrow morning for Albuquerque, where he speaks Monday.

BOROUGH PRESIDENT OF QUEENS INJURED

Connolly's Automobile Struck by Sixth Avenue Car and Knocked Across Street.

Borough President Connolly of Queens was painfully bruised about the chest to-day when his automobile was struck by a Sixth Avenue car turning into Fifty-third Street. The automobile, driven by Michael P. Murphy, was knocked across the street and Mr. Connolly was thrown against the forward partition of the car.

The jolt broke the gas line and there was an explosion and a burst of flame which flared up about Murphy and burned his hand slightly. A fire engine put out the fire. Mr. Connolly called a public automobile and with his chauffeur went to the office of his family physician. He said he was sure there would be no serious result from his injuries.

WOMAN SITS ON BURGLAR AND NURSES ILL HUSBAND

"She Handled Me Like I Was a Rag Doll," Captive Tells Policeman.

Mrs. Ida Ronenberg, fifty-five years old and athletic, was reading to her invalid husband in their apartment, at No. 2663 Briggs Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday afternoon, when they heard noises in the adjoining apartment. Mrs. Ronenberg investigated and caught two men ransacking the place. She grabbed the biggest, but the other burglar got away.

Her husband ran after the fleeing man, but his strength gave out when he reached the front stoop and he fell against the stone steps, cutting a gash in his head. Mrs. Ronenberg dragged her captive to where her husband was lying, throwing him to the ground and sitting on him, meanwhile calling for help. Scores of tenants ran to her assistance and Policeman Parkinson found the burglar more than willing to go with him.

"I don't care what happens to me so long as I get out of her grip," the burglar panted. "She handled me like I was a rag doll."

The prisoner said he was Joseph Gilmore, a driver of No. 3578 Third Avenue.

BULGARS ARE DRIVEN BACK BY THE SERBS AND FRENCH IN MACEDONIAN BATTLE

Terrific Struggles on Two Fronts in the Balkans — Teutonic Forces Gain Big Successes in Mackensen's Sweep Through Dobrudja.

DEFEAT IS ADMITTED AT CAPITALS OF ALLIES.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Two great battles are raging in the Balkans—one on Roumanian soil and the other in Macedonia.

Under terrific blows by Field Marshal Mackensen's German-Bulgarian-Turkish army, the Russians and Roumanians in Dobrudja have been driven back at several places. The German war office this afternoon announced that the enemy's lines have been forced, the main positions on important heights taken, and 3,000 Russians and several hundred Roumanian prisoners captured. The Russian War Office admitted reverses, including the loss of the village of Kobarja, to the Germans, and Petrograd despatches commented on the violence of the enemy's new offensive.

FRENCH DICTATOR RULES GREECE AS VIOLENCE GROWS

King's Bodyguard Is Reduced From 4,000 to Eighty Gendarmes.

ATHENS, Oct. 21.—Grave disorders, with possibly much bloodshed, are imminent here. Large bodies of Greek reservists, with pro-German tendencies, are roaming the streets, unmolested by the Greek troops. They are growing more violent hourly and an attack upon the allied troops is feared. An Admiral du Pourcet has practically made himself Dictator of Greece. The powers he has vested in the French officer who has been appointed Chief Inspector at the Ministry of the Interior are Czar-like. All orders to the police and gendarmes must pass through his hands. He will determine whether all internal orders conform to the laws of the country and the policy of benevolent neutrality Greece has promised.

According to the latest reports the Serbians captured from the Bulgarians seven guns and a large quantity of material during the 15th and 19th. The number of prisoners amounts at present to 250, including 24 German soldiers and one officer.
