New Field Cooking School, National Guard Godsend, Is Projected by a Woman

Plan Is to Teach Every Man in the Commissary Department.

A FOOD VALUE COURSE.

Balanced Diets and Science of Cutting Up Meat to Be Taught.

Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

A FIELD cooking school in Van Cortlandt Park for every man connected with the commissary department of the New York National Guard is the newest war work projected by patriotic New York women.

They are the members of the League for Training Army Cooks, organized and headed by Miss Georgina Roberts.

A well known lecturer and a club-woman.

The men would live at the school in tents or temporary barracks. The school should be under the direction of one person, paid or unpaid, who must have full authority and be held responsible for results.

At least one or two thoroughly qualified paid teachers should be engaged to stand before the eyes of the instruction and to train available men and women to teach under them.

There should be a "teachers' class," receiving daily instruction.

"I consider that a number of the enlisted men who have been studying with me at No. 130 East Fifteenth Street, and the eyes of Zeffe Tibury, attended the paid classes, are more competent to teach in the field cooking school," added Miss Roberts.

"Of course, the plan I have outlined for you is not unalterable, but will be modified to meet circumstances. But the need for a school of this general design is imperative in the crisis we are facing, and I hope the field cooking school will so prove its usefulness that it may be made a permanent thing."

IN the first six weeks of life of the Stago Women's War Relief 15,000 articles have been made, packed and shipped from the workshop at No. 356 Fifth Avenue.

These were prepared under the supervision of Minnie Dupree, who has graduated from the American Red Cross as a qualified instructor and has devoted all her time for the last two years to war relief work.

In the children's garment department of the State Women's War Relief, under the eyes of Zeffe Tibury, 119 pieces of clothing have been cut, sewn and finished.

Miss Mary Boland, knifit knitting instructor, reported that she had completed a pair of socks and eight pairs of rubber gloves, the complete output of the workshop.

The Three Arts Club is working busily in conjunction with the Stago Women's War Relief, and under the chairmanship of Miss Elizabeth Konig is knitting sweaters for the United States Navy.

Forty sweaters were knitted and sent to the workshop in a few days time.

MONTANA LEADS UNION IN DRAFT REGISTRATION

Exceeded Census Estimates by Twenty Per Cent. and Reported Fewest Exemption Claims.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Official returns at the Provost Marshal General's office revealed that Montana's draft registration exceeded the census estimates by 20 per cent.

Montana's total registration was 58,273. With New Mexico, Wyoming and Kentucky missing, registration totaled nearly 3,500,000 to-day.

Provost Marshal General Crowder declares the totals show practically a 100 per cent. registration.

Computation to-day revealed there are 126,325 men in the military establishment of the United States that were not required to register but were exempted.

Registration of this number to the actual registration will bring the total above the census estimates of 10,200,000.

CUBAN REBELS ARRIVE. PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—The immigration officials to-day admitted to Washington the question of the disposition of eight rowaways who arrived at this port yesterday.

They were taken to the Federal House of Detention, where they were held until they were given out. They are Marlin A. Morrell, James Roman, Jureta, James, and Angel.

GOLDMAN WORKER DEFIANT. Refuses to Register and is Held in $5,000 Bail.

William B. Hales, of Georgia, who looks about 25 years, but refuses to tell about himself, was assigned before Commissioner Hitchcock this afternoon, charged with refusing to register.

He was caught last night addressing envelopes in Emma Goldman's office.

"Will you register?" asked Mr. Hitchcock.

"I refuse," said Hales.

SPY TRAIL SOUGHT IN BANK BOOKS OF EMMA GOLDMAN

Experts Examine Exhibits Seized in Raid on Offices of Anarchists.

The smug satisfaction with which Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman faced United States Commissioner Hitchcock to-day may wilt as soon as the authorities find out whether any of the money in their five bank accounts came from German spy headquarters.

Their bank books, check books, stubs, vouchers, &c., besides a card-indexed list of 20,000 names found in the offices of the Anarchists, are being examined by experts.

The 20,000 individuals with whom the two have been in correspondence are scattered all over the United States, but most of them are recorded as in or near New York City.

From the list of names and the bank books, to say nothing of the mass of correspondence found in the offices of Mother Earth and The Blast, where Miss Goldman and Berkman worked, the authorities expect to learn a great deal about the dealings of the professed Anarchists with the anti-conscription movement and the German money that is back of it.

Neither could afford to ride around in touring cars until they began to oppose conscription for the United States Army.

The Anarchists had been allowed to go on raving in public so long that they were taken completely by surprise when their office was raided last night.

Seemingly there had been no attempt to hide any of their correspondence; so that the marshals stopped their work at the height of its activity, and they say there will be very interesting revelations when the mass of stuff they found in the office is read in court.

United States Commissioner Hitchcock's court room was jammed when the Anarchists were arraigned, charged with conspiring to persuade persons between twenty-one and thirty-one years of age not to reenter under the Conscription Law.

Harry Weinberger, who appeared for both, entered a plea of not guilty and "moved to dismiss the indictment," although no indictment has been found yet.

He also declared the Conscription Law is unconstitutional and that it is no crime to advise people not to obey it.

"We'll not go into that," ruled Mr. Hitchcock. "The motion is denied and the accused are held for the Grand Jury."

"The hysteria of the District Attorney's office," began Weinberger, when Commissioner Hitchcock cut him off.

"Nothing like that here," he ruled. "Each of these defendants is held in $25,000 bail."

"What is the purpose? To keep them in jail?" shouted Weinberger.

"You shall not question my purpose," said Mr. Hitchcock.

"Have you any connection with the German propaganda?" Berkman was asked.

"Ask der Kaiser," he answered.

No bail appearing up to noon, Miss Goldman and Berkman were taken back to the Tombs and locked up.

Leonard Abbott, a Jersey lawyer, called to express his sympathy, but was too late.

He gathered a big crowd around him in the corridor on the second story and began a wild speech to the effect that the arrest of the anarchists was an outrage.

A large hand took hold of the back of the Abbott neck and gave the kind of hurl Martin Sheridan uses when he breaks the world's record hurling the discus.

Mr. Abbott, his heels, his elbows, &c., made sounds of tapping as he hit the hard spots on the stairs, and when he paused for breath he was in mid-Broadway.

"And," said the deputy, "if you come around here any more something'll happen to you."

Mr. Abbott went away to think seriously.

Assistant United States District Attorney Condon said today that Emma Goldman and Berkman can be deported under the new Immigration Act unless they can prove they have been naturalized as American citizens.

Just after their arrest the two admitted they were not naturalized, being simply "citizens of the world."

The rumor that Emma Goldman had begun a hunger strike in the Tombs was investigated this afternoon.

"She has not," said Deputy Warden Bromberg. "But this is what she bought and ate for dinner. A sirloin steak, a dish of fried onions, a dish of German fried potatoes, a cup of coffee and a piece of cheese cake."

"Will you register?" asked Mr. Hitchcock.

"I refuse," said Hales.

"Bail is to hold in $5,000 bail," said Mr. Hitchcock.

Lincoln said: "Teach Economy—that is one of the first and highest virtues; it begins with saving money."

Perhaps no man knew better the worth of a dollar than this great history maker. He lived it and taught it. Lincoln was thrifty.

This store is the market place for the thrifty. For 59 years we have practiced economy and preached lowest prices. We are the pioneer department store exponents of thrift as understood by those who realize the savings in BUYING AND SELLING FOR CASH.

We have walked around the wide path of credit stores and blazed a trail of TRUE ECONOMY on a cash paid, cash sold basis.

No Man or Woman Can Have Credit Here.

Every dollar's worth of the millions of dollars in merchandise that annually comes into this store enters on a cash basis and leaves on a through ticket ALL PAID.

Every customer receives the same fair and square service in this store. The cash customer does not pay the tariff of the credit customer.

This is a keen, alive, UP-TO-THE-MINUTE ORGANIZATION of merchandising experts who are ever on the alert to be the first in their respective lines to offer the best the world's markets afford and who are continually SETTING themselves a RAPID PACE.

We Have Seen Many Changes

in 59 years of progressive department store keeping. We have seen many systems tried and found wanting. But we have never been able to discover a FAIRER, MORE ECONOMICAL METHOD of purveying merchandise than our original 59 year cash buying—cash selling policy.

Long before we reached the half century mile post we knew that OUR POLICY was a true one, because our increasing business proved it.

THE VIRTUE OF ECONOMY is best demonstrated in THIS STORE because you must save on everything you buy here and because—

We Sell Dependable Merchandise at Prices Lower Than Any Other House, but for Cash Only

SERIOUS REVOLT OCCURS IN SPAIN, REPORT IN LONDON

All Communication Is Cut Off, Following Demands by Mutinous Army.

LONDON, June 15.—Rumors of a serious revolutionary movement in Spain are given prominence in a section of the press. There has been an almost complete absence of news from the peninsula since the appointment of the new Ministry.

Rumors of something abnormal in the Spanish situation have been given prominence in the last two or three days in a small section of the press, and to-day several papers print articles declaring that something important is happening. One suggestion is that a movement to bring Spain into the war is materializing, but the little information available is to the effect that the crisis is purely a domestic one and largely due to the demand for reforms by the rank and file of the army.

One of two solitary Madrid telegrams which have reached here in the last four days carries a denial by Premier Dato of a report of insubordination on the part of the Bilbao garrison. This is the only direct confirmation of newspaper statements that a grave military crisis exists in Spain. According to the Express, the army has obtained complete dominance, military "Committees of Defense" have been established and have tabulated a list of the reforms demanded by the army. The action of the committees, says the Express, is a more or less vivid reflection of what happened in Petrograd. Premier Dato is powerless, as was his predecessor, Count Romanones, to obtain a modification of the soldiers' claims. The Express asserts that constitutional government is for the moment at an end and that the army is the ultimate arbiter of the crisis.

His Concern Charges for Delivery, but "Has Nothing to Apologize For."

The Sheffield Farms Slawson-Decker Company identified itself yesterday in The Evening World's select list of high class dairy stores which are "going the limit" in charging extraordinary retail prices for butter and eggs in the face of a steadily declining market.

It is S. Horton, Vice President of the company, read the Evening World story, and, in answer, held in substance:

"We have nothing to apologize for. We claim that the goods we sell are of a superior kind to those found in the ordinary butter and egg store. The quality speaks for itself. We don't class ourselves with any special concern. As a matter of fact we are losing money selling butter at the prices you quoted. Yes, we produce all our own butter—and we produce more than we can use in our stores. We have had to put tons away in storage. What about eggs? Well, we buy from a select list of merchants and pay fancy prices for the grades on sale. If you found varying prices here and there, that also is easily explained. We charge extra for delivery at homes."

When told that a reporter for The Evening World—if he were so disposed—could go down to any store in the wholesale district and buy at the rate of 35 cents a dozen wholesale the same quality and size white Leghorn henner eggs sold in his store at 40 cents a dozen retail, he said:

"I still insist, sir, that we have nothing to apologize for. There have been reductions made to-day in our stores on both butter and eggs. This is the day for the reduction."

THOSE 50c. LEGHORNS SHOULD BE NO MORE THAN 40c.

An hour or so later the reporter viewed samples of the 45-50 cents class of eggs in one of the Sheffield stores, then hurried down to Jeffries, Wright & Co., No. 284 Washington Street. There, in the presence of a representative of Commissioner Dillon of the State Food and Markets Department, the reporter bought a carton of white Leghorn henner eggs three dozen to a carton, at 35 cents a dozen. There is no mistaking the attractiveness of the Leghorn. It's a gem. And there was nothing in the look or shape or weight of a Sheffield Leghorn and a Jeffries, Wright & Co. Leghorn to indicate that they had not been purchased at the same store.
