

GERMAN LINES RAIDED BY FRENCH AT TWO PLACES

Repeated German Attacks on French Positions in the Champagne Repulsed.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The German lines near Rheims were penetrated in two places last night by French reconnoitering forces, the War Office announced.

Repeated German attacks were made on French outposts about Comblé in the Champagne. All of the German attacks were thrown back. In Belgium artillery fighting was active.

British Holding Parties Enter the German Lines.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Our raiding parties entered the German lines last night northeast of Gouvaucourt and at two points east of Verménil, securing a few prisoners," says today's official announcement. "A number of the enemy were killed and his outposts were bombed.

"A hostile raid was successfully repulsed north of Houx. During the night the enemy's artillery was more active than usual east and northeast of Ypres and in the neighborhood of Lombaertzyde."

Canadians Creep a Little Nearer City of Lens.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 14.—Posts were pushed out on a front of about six hundred yards into ruined houses from which the enemy snipers have been annoying our men in the advanced line in the region to the north of the Lens-Livin road early last night. Little resistance was experienced and only one prisoner was captured.

The posts pushed out are only 800 yards west of the center of the city, but a belt of razed houses lies between our men and Lens. Over the open space thus secured the enemy is able to direct a heavy machine gun fire from the strongly fortified houses on the other side.

The artillery duel rages with strongly unabated violence. In the counter battery actions yesterday, Canadian gunners caused eight explosions in enemy gun positions and destroyed their gun pits entirely.

They have mistreated young girls and women, broken into homes and massacred many.

At Last, the Women Have Them: Trousers! Dame Fashion Decrees They Are Proper

For Opera, Theatre and Dance the Bifurcated Dress Is Declared Correct Habillment for the Single-Enveloped Sex and Women May Now Exercise the Right to Show the World What Heretofore (Outside the Orient) Has Been Denied Them: That They Have Two Legs.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith

WELL, we have them back at last—the newest, also the oldest, of all woman's garments—trousers!

By a delightful paradox of fashion, the new mode comes to us from the most ancient of nations—China—which, Paris declares, will rule in the world of clothes this autumn. The most neglected of all the rights of woman—the right to have two legs, never surrendered by the Oriental—is now restored to the "female foreign devil" by Imperial decree of the only absolute monarch left to civilization—She Who Must Be Obeyed—Dame Fashion herself.

At the recent style show held by the Chicago Garment Manufacturers' Association, announcement was made that evening trousers will be worn this winter at the opera and theatre and for dancing.

THEY must be asleep in Chicago. New York women are wearing trousers now. And more than one husband after reading the Chicago announcement of woman's future bifurcation looked over at the charmingly trousered young person in breakfast negligee with the remark, "Do they call that news. I got the bill for those pants you have on last month."

Vogue, arbiter of American fashions, says in its current number that the new coats are to be Chinese in style, straight from the shoulder, with kimono sleeves and waistcoats of deliberate gorgeousness. "The mandarin coat, for instance, may be black," says Vogue, "with a bit of blue embroidery at the edge, and the waistcoat may be of brilliant orange satin embroidered with black, blue, white and gold and belted with blue and black embroidery. A coat of this sort would extend about to the knees, while the waistcoat stops short at the hips."

"More and more are indoor frocks divided up to skirts," declares the voice of the mode, "and the nightgown of ancient mognory is slowly but surely giving place to the pajama, fearfully and wonderfully made of silk and embroidery chiffon and gay ribbons."

Even the colors predicted for autumn wear have the mellow sobriety of old Chinese embroideries. Taupe, beetroot, balsam, which is dull blue-green; dark and light browns and a luscious purple called hortensia (the French for hydrangea), are the new colors.

BUT, of course, the trouser restoration so long hinted and now accomplished is the important thing. The gift of New China to the New Woman marks a long step—a long free step, made possible only by bifurcation—in the march of woman's progress.

When the paragonists of a generation ago wanted to depict every harsh and undesirable quality that has been ascribed to the woman reformer, they put her in trousers, then actually worn by all women in the harems of the East. Every student of fashion knows the truth about trousers—that man stole them for his own use because he saw how practicable and comfortable they were.

Gradually the garments worn by the most sequestered females became the insignia of masculinity, and the toga virilis of Rome was changed for the trouser virilis of London, Paris and New York.

To-day trousers are so completely identified with the sex that appropriated them to its own use that many women will refuse to wear them through fear of appearing "manly." As a matter of fact no woman is so helplessly, patently feminine as a woman in a divided skirt. But trousers—the zany or bloomed kind which we have seen and maybe worn at recent dances—are amazingly becoming to stout and thin women alike.

If a husband objects to his wife's trousers she need only suggest that he trace the trouser to its source, the Oriental woman, and add that men of the East have but recently become emancipated from skirts. Tell him the last survival of this outworn masculine mode was shown by the fluffy halloo skirts of the Greek soldier of modern times, and it's still in evidence in the Highlander's kiltie.

not wholly suited for cable transmission. The best that can be said of "Sammy" is that a few soldiers may if they like at home want to call them such names. They don't care. They say they will carry on in spite of any name of any other "substance" which may be placed in their way.

PERSHING TROOPS STRONGLY RESENT NICKNAME SAMMY

Officers and Men Denounce It as Unsuitable and Discourage Its Use.

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Aug. 14.—Not until the recent arrival in camp of certain American newspapers did the soldiers of the American expeditionary force become aware that efforts were being made in certain quarters to fix upon them the name of "Sammy."

That name never is heard on this side. Within the last few days the correspondent of the Associated Press has been approached by great numbers of the officers and men asking that something be sent home telling the people there how the standard-bearers of the American army really resent what they consider an unapt, undignified and irritating name.

It can also be stated that the resentment does not rest alone with the officers and men of the army, but that it extends to all Americans resident in Paris and in other parts of France, many having written in to say that they consider "Sammy" most unsuitable for men who have come to France seriously and earnestly to fight for the liberties of the peoples of the world.

"Please hit the 'Sammy' propaganda as hard as you can," said an officer of distinguished rank to the correspondent to-day. "The men and officers would be proud to have an appropriate nickname, but there is not one among us who thinks 'Sammy' is in any way suitable and it certainly is not desired."

"The name does not in any way suit a fighting man. We recognize, of course, that it is an effort to play upon the name of Uncle Sam, but who would think of calling Uncle Sam 'Uncle Sammy'?" It is ridiculous.

"We had a discussion some time ago on the transports as to possible nicknames, and 'Sammy' was one name suggested, but it met with no favor whatever."

"Perhaps something we shall be will give us our proper name. Let that time we are willing to be known as just plain American soldiers, willing and anxious to do our duty. We have gotten along a great long way without a national nickname, and, perhaps, we can stand it a little while longer."

"Sammy" does not inspire in the least the spirit of fighting. We recognize, of course, that it is an effort to play upon the name of Uncle Sam, but who would think of calling Uncle Sam 'Uncle Sammy'?" It is ridiculous.

GEORGE W. MONROE, COMEDIAN; AGAIN SUED BY HIS WIFE

She Tells Court of How They "Got Together" After Divorce Was Granted to Her.

Supreme Court Justice Weeks today granted $75 a week alimony and $500 counsel fees to Mrs. Anna R. Monroe in her suit for a separation from George W. Monroe, the comedian.

Justice Weeks accepted as at least a subject to be decided by evidence in court. The plaintiff's claim that after she divorced her husband in 1913 the two of them "got together" and remarried each other by mutual agreement or contract.

This Monroe denied, but the plaintiff offered in evidence what purported to be copies of a letter beginning with one alleged to have been written by Monroe from the Waldorf Hotel, London on September 10, after she had begun her suit but before it had been decided.

WAITING TROOPS ARE TO BE SENT TO CAMP WHITMAN

Delay at Spartanburg Brings Change in War Department Plans.

OWING to the delay to the completion of the camp at Spartanburg, S. C., where the federalized units of the National Guard of New York are to train before starting for the firing line abroad, arrangements are under way to send all New York regiments scheduled for Spartanburg to Camp Whitman, near Peekskill, for preliminary training.

The matter was submitted to Secretary of War Baker in Washington yesterday by Adjutant General Phelan. The armories in this city and throughout the State were not designed for continuous occupation by regiments. Officers have noticed that illness, impatience and lack of discipline are associated with the quartering of troops in city armories.

As the New York National Guard is now part of the regular army orders to move regiments from this city to Camp Whitman must come from Washington. The orders may be expected within a short time. Camp Whitman, at this time of the year, is considered by officers of the army as an ideal outdoor camp, and taking the soldiers to an outdoor camp while they are awaiting departure for Spartanburg would work for the immediate beginning of training in the open.

The situation at Spartanburg appears to be bad, especially as regards water supply. Major Gen. O'Hyan, with his experience in Texas last year to guide him, has no intention of taking the New York division to

BLACK TOM INDICTMENT IS UPHeld IN COURT

TRENTON, Aug. 14.—Indictment against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company for the munitions explosion on Black Tom Island, near Jersey City, was upheld by the Supreme Court today.

The summary of the opinion by Justice Hays states: "A corporation aggregate may be held summarily for manslaughter. An indictment in the statutory form charging a corporate aggregate with manslaughter will not be quashed for failure to specify whether voluntary or involuntary manslaughter is meant."

MISSED $15,000 GEMS AFTER LEAVING TAXI

Mrs. Barker Had Carried Jewels in Bag on Arm During Shopping Trip.

A large reward is offered by Mrs. Barker of Newark, N. J., a sister of Mrs. William H. Barker, Jr., of the Black Legion, for the return of $15,000 worth of jewels.

Mrs. Barker is visiting her sister Mrs. Josephine Barker, who lives on a shopping tour late yesterday she carried the gems in a small bag fastened to her arm. The loss occurred at 45th Avenue and Forty-third Street and near the bag and jewels were recovered as she entered the apartment house in which Mrs. Barker lives. The jewels, according to Mrs. Barker, disappeared at some other setting her down.

PASSENGERS in uniform, these days, are constantly increasing in number.

Possibly it is because they appreciate the coolness of the ride as much as anyone else; but more probably it is due to the fact that almost all of the city's armories lie so conveniently near the lines of the
