

NEW YORK SOLDIERS INDULGING IN BAYONET AND ARTILLERY PRACTICE AT CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG

OVER THE TOP AND GIVE 'EM H—

ARTILLERY DRILL AT FORT WADSWORTH

On the left a detachment from the Twenty-second Infantry of New York is engaged in bayonet work as a part of their training for service in France. Their motto is: "Over the Top and Give 'em H—". The other picture shows a part of Battery F, Second New York Field Artillery, working a field gun.

Goff conferred at the St. Regis last night over the primary situation. Justice Goff declined to discuss the matter to-day, but it was freely predicted that the Justice will probably have charge of the investigation of the primary frauds and he may be designated by the Governor to empanel a special Grand Jury to conduct the inquiry.

It was reported in inside Republican political circles to-day that George Glynn, Gov. Whitman's right hand man in politics, met District Attorney Swann somewhere in Manhattan last night and talked with him for two hours or more over the evidence of fraud in the primaries which has already been authorized by Assistant District Attorneys Oloott and Wallace.

After his conference with Swann, it is said, Mr. Glynn went to the St. Regis and talked over the situation with the Governor up to the time the latter left for Albany on the midnight train.

MITCHELL MEN PLAN RALLY IN CITY HALL PARK. Arrangements are being made for a public mass meeting in City Hall Park Monday to demand that Mayor Mitchell run as an independent candidate for Mayor.

Without regard to party affiliation, we call upon those who wish to see continued the clean, efficient government New York has had for the past eight years and in this crisis of the Nation's history, upon those who would entirely and without reserve place New York on the side of loyalty to the Government in time of war, to join with us in the expression of a public demand to Mayor Mitchell to be our candidate for Mayor.

The Fusion Campaign Committee will start the Mayor's campaign next Tuesday night with meetings in Cooper Union, Manhattan, and Academy of Music, Brooklyn, at which the Fusion candidates and as many regular Republican candidates on borough and county tickets as can be mustered will make speeches.

Organization Republicans are greatly divided and much at sea as to their future course. The New York County Republican Committee has been called to meet Thursday night to debate whether or not they shall stand by the results of the primary election and support Bennett or give support to Mayor Mitchell. Arrangements were pending to-day between lawyers representing the contesting candidates for appearing in court with results of the recent recount in order to have Mr. Bennett officially declared nominee of the Republican primaries. The Mitchell forces are willing to concede this without further delay.

District Attorney Swann announced this afternoon, after receiving reports from his assistants, Messrs. Oloott and Wallace, who have been investigating the Republican primary frauds, that he would submit the primary matter to the Grand Jury in Tuesday.

The investigation will be conducted under sections of the penal law which make it a misdemeanor to graze the cross on a ballot and a felony for any election official to do anything that might change the result of an election. Mr. Swann said his assistants had found enough evidence of fraud in the Eighteenth Assembly District to warrant the investigation.

TWENTY ELECTION INSPECTORS QUESTIONED BY PROSECUTOR. Twenty election inspectors from five election districts of the Eighteenth Assembly District, which is on the east side of lower Harlem, appeared at the District Attorney's office to-day in response to subpoenas. They are the Republican and Democratic inspectors of the district. Under the law which governed the primary, the boards in this city are non-partisan, consisting of two Republicans and two Democrats, and the law directs that the whole board of four members shall canvass the vote.

The inspectors who appeared to-day were Max Howe, No. 1225 Park Avenue; Julius Schweidel, No. 105 East One Hundredth Street; John Settini, No. 342 East One Hundred and Thirtieth Street; Frank A. Manzella, No. 325 East One Hundred and Thirtieth Street; Adolph Jacoby, No. 210 East One Hundred and Fifteenth Street; Charles Anferi, No. 2254 Second Avenue; Henry Bullenkamp, No. 1649 Park Avenue; Berthold Rosenthal, No. 148 East One Hundred and Fifteenth Street; Frank Larooca, No. 116 East One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, and James F. Tierney, No. 101 East One Hundred and Sixteenth Street, all Republicans.

Sidney Vortelmer, No. 1610 Lexington Avenue; Edward Geise, No. 114 East One Hundred and First Street; Paul Scollita, No. 322 East One Hundred and Fourteenth Street; Paul Duomo, No. 304 East Eleventh Street; James Pericone, No. 241 East One Hundred and Thirtieth Street; David Lobel, No. 224 East One Hundred and Fifteenth Street; Dennis F. Shea, No. 1615 Park Avenue; James J. Handbrooks, No. 110 East One Hundred and Fifteenth Street; C. Koether, No. 134 East One Hundred and Sixteenth Street; and George Miller, No. 182 East One Hundred and Sixteenth Street, all Democrats.

These men comprised the boards in the Seventh, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-eighth Election Districts. ADMIT EACH SIDE COUNTED OWN VOTES. When examined by Assistant District Attorney Goff, the suggestion that each side count its own ballots came from the Republican inspectors, according to Democrats. Most of the inspectors in the primary were veteran election officers and they adhered to the custom of bygone years when there were two boards for each election district and each board counted its own votes.

Mark H. Ellison, one of the three candidates for Municipal Court Judge in the Fifth District, announced to-day that an inspection of the ballots cast in the Republican boxes in that district would start at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

On the face of the returns William Young and Frederick Spieglberg were nominated. Ellison ran a few votes behind Spieglberg.

Mr. Atchison, a Republican, was formerly Oregon State Railroad Commissioner. Mr. Anderson is United States Attorney at Boston. He is a Democrat.

PRIMARY GUNMEN INDICTED.

Four Held Without Bail for Extrajudicial to Philadelphia.

Ruggieri Falcone, known as "Jimmy the Gamb"; Louis Brunelli, alias "Straight Louie"; Michael Donnelly, and William Burkhardt, the four gunmen who have been in the Bronx County jail for a week, following their participation in the primary election riot in Philadelphia, which resulted in the killing of Patrolman Empler, were remanded back to jail for thirty days to-day, without bail, to await the arrival of extradition papers.

Magistrate Harris, in the Morrisania Police Court, acted on a warrant of indictment submitted by Assistant District Attorney Goff of Philadelphia. This showed that each of the four men had been indicted by the Philadelphia Grand Jury on three counts, conspiracy, murder, and involuntary manslaughter.

SPEEDS IN GRANVILLE CAR.

Sergeant Forgiven by Actor-Soldier as He Freed.

Lieut. Bernard Granville, former war soldier, who served with the Seventy-first Regiment, appeared in the Morrisania Police Court this morning to answer a complaint of larceny against Sgt. William Wolfender of that regiment. Last evening, Wolfender was instructed to take Granville's automobile to a railroad station for shipment to Spartanburg. He was allowed an hour in which to do this, and when he had not returned in three hours, an alarm was sent out. He was arrested at Broadway and Two Hundred and Third Street and taken to the station. He was found in company with a private of the Twenty-third Regiment.

STRANGE "CLERK" SEIZED IN OFFICE OF BROKERS

Watchman Recalls That Similar Incident Preceded a Burglary and Calls the Police.

Lights were burning brightly last night in the office of William C. Sheldon & Co., No. 71 Broadway, and at the open desk of Mr. Sheldon sat an industrious young man with a green shade over his eyes. Papers were scattered about and the man seemed very busy. The night watchman saw him and remembered that on the morning of Nov. 18, 1916, in the same broker's office the safe was found open and $125 was missing. He also recalled that a young man who worked in an employe had been working late there the night before.

Policeman Arras was called and he arrested the man at the desk, who gave the name of Andrew Marshall, No. 120 West Eighty-fourth Street. Marshall was taken to Centre Street Court and bail was fixed at $7,500. Property valued at $47,000, at No. 930 Columbus Avenue was immediately offered by Theodore Kuhlken of that address. On the protest of Assistant District Attorney Murphy, this offer was temporarily refused. Kurkuk was advised to consult with the District Attorney and satisfy him in regard to the value and title. Sheldon said Marshall was not an employe of the firm.

CHINESE HELD, GIRL TRACED.

Oriental With American Wife Took Virginia Collier Across Pacific.

Through the arrest of Yang Sing, thirty-six years old, a Chinese with an American wife and three children, who lives at No. 218 East Thirty-second Street, the police announced to-day they had traced Virginia Collier, a fifteen-year-old girl who disappeared from her home at No. 214 Audubon Avenue on Oct. 24, 1916.

The charge of abduction on which Sing was arraigned in Washington tonight, is now being held in New York. He was arrested charged with violating the Federal Law in entering this country without a permit. He is locked up on Ellis Island.

The search for the Collier girl took the police across the continent, to China, Japan and back to the Philippines. Sing shipped from Hong Kong on a vessel which reached Greenport, N. Y., and was arrested a few days ago. He said the Collier girl had returned to this country by another steamer and is now in Chicago.

ENDS LIFE TO ESCAPE WAR.

Drafted Man Takes Gun After Seeing Film Battle Scenes.

Rather than take a chance of being killed by the Germans, Walter Rogers, twenty-four, a bellboy at the Hotel Me Alpin, committed suicide early to-day in his boarding house, No. 158 West Thirty-fifth street.

Rogers, who came to the city a few months ago from Cambridge, Mass., where his mother resides, received notice on Thursday that his application for exemption from the draft had been rejected and that he must report to-day. Yesterday he told his landlady, Mrs. Thomas Casey, that he would do anything to escape the call. In the evening he went to a moving picture theatre, where war views were shown, and on his return related that he would soon die than take part in such a war.

WOMAN MISSIONARY DEAD.

Mrs. Gilman, About to Return to China, Stricken With Apoplexy.

Mrs. Frank H. Gilman, one of the best known missionaries in China, is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Byron G. Ferguson, in Hackensack, 101-102 West 125th Street. She was sixty-nine years old. The Rev. Mr. Gilman and Mrs. Gilman had planned to leave next Wednesday for Hainan, China. Last Tuesday they went to Washington to have an audience with President Wilson, who was a classmate of Mr. Gilman's. Mrs. Gilman was born in Perth Amboy, N. J., and was a member of the Episcopal Church. She was married to Mr. Gilman and they went to Hainan. The funeral will be held Monday morning. Mr. Gilman will return to China.

71ST AND 23D REGTS. CHEERED BY CROWDS ON SEND-OFF PARADE

Seventy-first, with a band at their head, escorted their old regiment along the avenue. They marched down Thirty-fourth Street from the army at Park Avenue, and were in line waiting for them when the head of the column appeared in view. The escort marched with their old organization to Twenty-third Street and down to the Jersey Central ferry.

The crowds came early to the avenue for the goodby parades, and kept coming as the hours went on. Through came from Brooklyn, the home of the Twenty-third, by trolley and train and subway. They jammed the avenue before the hour of the Twenty-third's breaking camp had arrived. They wanted to shout a farewell to the Seventy-first, too. And, with the cheering and shouting and waving of flags and handkerchiefs, the marchers felt that there was in reality a march of triumph.

The morning's mess in the Twenty-third camp wasn't shared by many. The majority of the Brooklyn boys had their last New York meal at home. But every man was in camp at 7 o'clock and an hour later the ground looked like a park again, with every inch of the road in the hands of the boys for the road in the hands of the boys. Few visitors were there to see them off, but there were some.

Yesterday afternoon saw as many visitors as there were soldiers. In the Seventy-first camp there were none. Those who called made a fringe on the edge of the camp and marched away with the regiment, when it went to the front. The review of the Japanese Mission. Discipline was rigidly enforced. In the Twenty-third, Col. Frank H. Norton tempered discipline with sentiment and not only allowed visitors to review the camp, but allowed the boys to spend their last night in New York in their homes.

THE 23D'S DAUGHTER OF THE REGIMENT BIDS GOODBY.

One of the visitors this morning was Miss Giulia Morosini, the Daughter of the Regiment. Miss Morosini had been a constant visitor to the camp since it was established. Miss Morosini, that she provided entertainment for the soldiers nearly every night, through the gift of the Knights of Columbus, and provided candy and cigarettes and reading matter. Yesterday afternoon she drove out in her limousine and provided each officer of the regiment with a kit bag and a swigger stick. She has sent 600 of those kit bags to France for Christmas presents for our boys "Over There."

Also there came to say goodby to both the boys of the Seventy-first and the Twenty-third, Rev. Father Thomas McGroarty, who had been the Camp Chaplain of the Catholics, authorized by Cardinal Farley, from the first day they entered Van Cortlandt Park. Father McGroarty, who had been the chaplain of the Twenty-third, should be among the last to say goodby. And the officers, as well as the men, bade him a sincere farewell and expressed their appreciation of the good work he had done.

When the hour for assembly was sounded the ground was as clean and as clear of debris as that of the Seventy-first. The Twenty-third, however, had a much more solemn mood. The incinerators covered up, the latrines filled and spread with chloride of lime. The lumber which had been sent away and, as Capt. Adjt. J. A. S. Mundy expressed it, the grass given a chance to grow again.

THE RECREATION TENTS OF THE BOYS ARE RAZED.

The big tent of the Y. M. C. A., in which the boys of the Twenty-third found much solace during their month or more in camp, was removed before the Twenty-third departed, and directly after they had been razed the Knights of Columbus booth to the ground. Many a night's enjoyment the boys of the Seventy-first, Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth shared in that hospitable booth. They had a place to write in and materials to write with, and a place for smoking, with cigarettes provided in plenty of reading matter and a piano.

Every night some form of entertainment was provided and the Knights of Columbus, Fifty-two entertainers from San Salvador Council were there on Thursday night and brought with them 10,000 packs of cigarettes for the soldiers. Last night Benny Leonard and Jimmy Lott volunteered, but showed to empty benches. The men of the Seventy-first, Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth were at home. Only the squad was there, with nothing to show.

Col. Frank H. Norton is proud of his regiment's record. While in the neighborhood of 1,850 men marched behind him this morning. There were no recruits waiting to join the regiment at Forty-second Street. These were the result of the vigorous campaign of two days. The Colonel's men literally swept the recruits from the crowds on the streets. With the Colonel this morning went his twelve-year-old son, Donald H. Frank H. Norton Jr., in a private in Company B, First Battalion and Eighty-third Regiment at Forty-second Street. That's all there is of the Colonel's son eligible for the army.

It was the Colonel himself who projected the Whitford recruiting campaign, leaving Lieut. Col. M. N. Lewis in command of the camp, while he remained at the army. If the regiment had been given another week it would probably have marched away to-day in full fighting strength. While the Seventy-first faded away into other units, the Twenty-third will remain intact, although its identity will be lost in a new designation. That of the One Hundred and Eighty-third Infantry. But that has been the fate of the majority of regiments under the new formation, and knowledge of the slight dim the spirits of the boys, nor lessening the heartiness of the cheer with which they greeted the assembly bugle call that sounded the order to march.

U. S. TROOPS INSTALL PHONE LINE IN FRANCE

Build Every Bit of It, From Service Boards to Stringing Wires.

AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS, France, Sept. 28.—An All-American telephone system in France was completed and in working order to-day. American troops built every bit of it—from the switchboards to the stringing of the wires and the planting of the poles. The system makes every inch of the American headquarters completely accessible, and extends even farther.

Today was notable also in the first appearance of the Salvation Army. Their workers got actively at work. There is just one Salvation Army lassie so far.

Unexpected removal of the marines from the main camp of the original expedition for special duties will probably limit the soldiers' presence in the big competition arranged for all American troops Oct. 7. The marines are greatly disappointed.

New Record Established in Opening of Hawaiian Station.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The world's record for long distance communication by wireless was broken to-day when messages were exchanged between the United States Navy radio stations at Honolulu and Seattle, 5,000 miles apart.

The new Hawaiian station, formally opened to-day, is the most powerful in the world. Its first message went to Secretary Daniels who replied: "Express my appreciation to the Hawaiian authorities for this momentous occasion wherein the first exchange of radio messages is made possible between Honolulu and the Atlantic coast."

Walk Out to Force Demands for Higher Wages and Eight Hour Lumber.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 28.—Twelve thousand metal workers, employed in Seattle shipyards, struck to-day to force demands for higher wages and the use of eight hour lumber.

Three large steel shipyards and ninety-five smaller plants were closed as a result of the strike.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 29.—Resumption of work on one-eighth of the entire ship building contracts let by the United States Government rested to-day on the action of members of the Boilermakers' Union, who voted last Thursday night against returning to work on a temporary wage schedule which had been ratified by a majority of the member unions of the Iron Trades Council.

R. W. Burton, President of the council, ordered members of the twenty-five affiliated unions back to work to-day, and employers gave assurance that the plants would be open.
